Opposition Seen To Fair Mergers

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A state government efficiency group looking into consolidation of state-supported district fairs will oppose such a merger, it appeared certain today.

L. H. Halcomb Jr., executive director of the Commission on California State Government Organization and Efficiency, said this morning overwhelming public opposition to a merger plan has "pretty well convinced us that it is not feasible and may not even be desirable."

While Halcomb's remarks fell short of scuttling consolidation — which would include Marin and Sonoma fairs — there appeared little likelihood the efficiency panel, also known as the Little Hoover Commission, will support a consolidation plan.

The commission, which is conducting a series of hearings throughout the state aimed at sounding out public reaction to a merger plan, issued a memorandum this week in which Halcomb's office observed that "sufficient testimony was received by the commission at its three earlier hearings to indicate that consolidating the state's 76 fairs into half that many may not be feasible."

Halcomb said the commission has heard testimony from about 150 persons and that his office has received about 2,000 letters on consolidation, and that "only one or two thought we were doing a good thing for humanity."

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, whose office received a copy of the Little Hoover Commission's memorandum, flatly interpreted its remarks as meaning consolidation is dead.

"This decision is of great importance to the people of Marin and Sonoma counties," a statement from Behr's office said. "It means that we will be able to enjoy for many years to come the attractions and opportunities of the Marin County Fair and the Sonoma-Marin Fair."

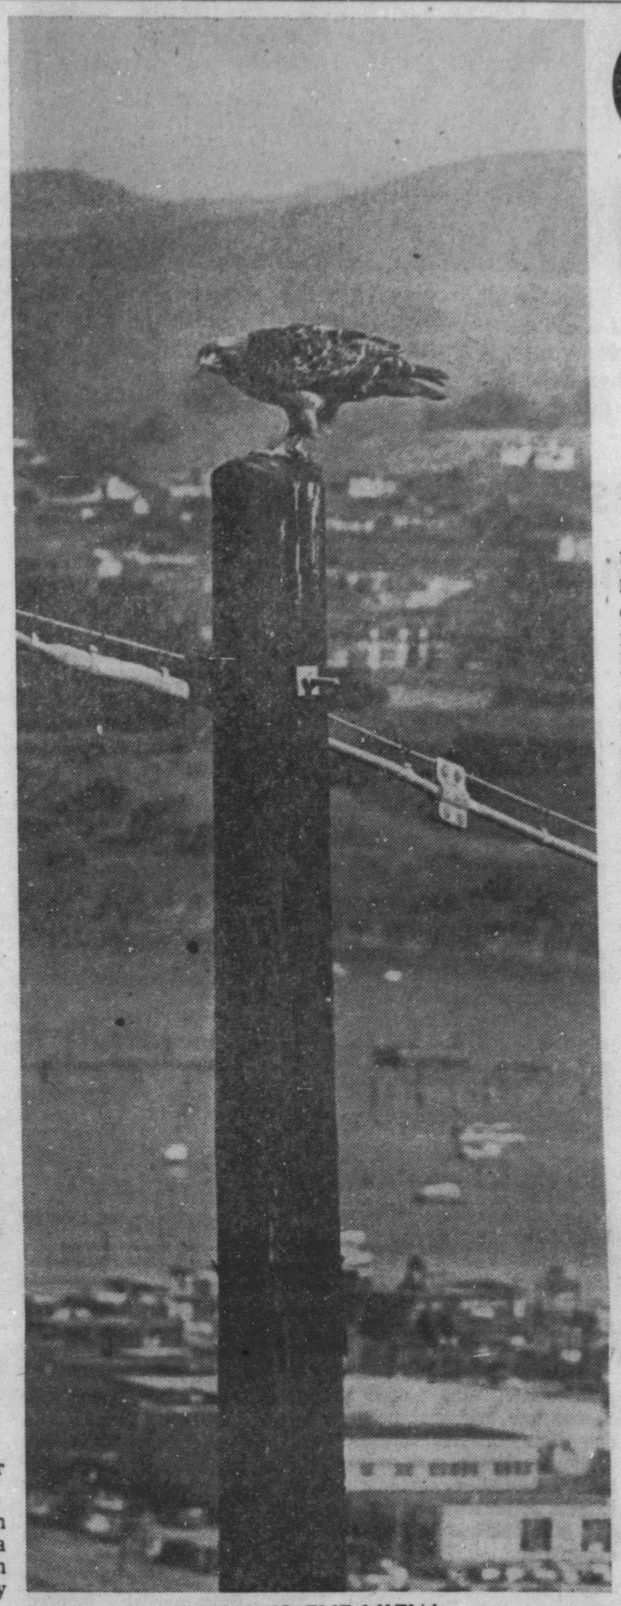
Testimony at commission hearings to date, including one last week in Santa Rosa, has indicated district fair officials and participants don't want consolidation because each considers the fair in his community unique.

District fairs are supported each year with about $8 million in horse racing revenue collected by the state.

Both Marcelle B. McCoy, director of the Marin County Fair, and Art Canavan, manager of the Sonoma-Marin Fair, held each year in Petaluma, were outspoken opponents to consolidation.

Halcomb insisted the commission's intention from the first was only to obtain local reaction to consolidation and not to devise ways to implement a merger plan.

The commission will hold its final hearing Tuesday in Red Bluff, to be followed by recommendations to the governor's office and Legislature.



HAWK'S-EYE VIEW

Perched atop a utility pole, a redtail hawk rests from his soaring travels. The bird, common to the West Coast, was spotted by Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean as he headed down steep Rodeo Avenue in Sausalito. Once Kean got his picture, the bird took graceful flight.

Counter-Attack By Reds In Laos

Three Fronts Hit; Capital May Fall

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops today launched a heavy attack on a South Vietnamese firebase 12 miles inside Laos and drove off rescue helicopters with a blaze of antiaircraft fire. A relief column was battling along heavily mined Highway 9 in an attempt to save the base.

Vientiane dispatches said the North Vietnamese had driven off Laotian forces 35 miles west of Sepone in another phase of their winter offensive apparently aimed at blocking the South Vietnamese drive on that major resupply center. Sepone is a main South Vietnamese objective.

U.S. helicopter losses soared and the U.S. Command reported two huge $2 million CH53 Sea Stallions lost in what a spokesman called the heaviest weekly toll in more than seven months. Front dispatches indicated as many as eight or nine helicopters were lost or heavily damaged Thursday and today. The 12 day toll neared the 40 mark.

UPI correspondent Kim Willenson reported from Vientiane that the Communists not only were attacking toward Sepone in southern Laos but had increased the tempo of their offensive in the north and shelled the big military headquarters of Long Cheng in daylight for the first time.

The Communists also increased their pressure on the royal capital of Lung Prabang and for the first time Laotian generals expressed fear the North Vietnamese would try to capture it. The road between Vientiane and Luang Prabang was declared unsafe.

Deputy Defense Minister Prince Sisouk Na Champassack told the National Assembly in Vientiane that Laos faced a "grave" military situation created in part by the South Vietnamese incursion in an effort to cut the Ho Chi Minh supply trial and by the increased Communist attacks 300 miles to the north.

With the Communists increasing their attacks in both Laos and Cambodia, Saigon buzzed with rumors that the government was planning some sort of attack across the border into North Vietnam despite Hanoi's warnings such action could bring Communist China into the war.

Highway 9 leads westward from the city of Quang Tri in the northern sector of South Vietnam across Laos and into Sepone, hub of the Communist supply network through Laos. It runs just below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and has come under heavy attack in South Vietnam.

The 16,000-man South Vietnamese force in Laos has moved mostly along Highway 9, slicing across three or more of the Communist supply roads, but has been bogged down in heavy resistance. Today's attack appeared to be of major proportions—the first such attack.

The highway is so vulnerable to Communist attack and so heavily mined that convoys quit using it eight days ago, letting the forward forces depend on helicopter supply missions which braved antiaircraft fire reported as intense as that over the German Ruhr in World War II.

The road is cut in two places and Vietnamese admitted that if the relief convoy was to reach the paratroops and rangers at the fire base, 12 miles from the border, it would have to fight its way.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the 16,000-man invasion force, remained optimistic. He told UPI correspondent Kenneth Braddick: "We are having heavy contact but the operation is going well and we keep moving forward."

The main South Vietnamese armored force was about 17 miles inside Laos but unconfirmed reports today said an armored column had reached a point seven miles from Sepone along Highway 9. Reconnaisance patrols reached the area earlier this week to scout out the defenses.

The war in northern Laos was causing immense refugee problems. Tens of thousands of the population of three million

Laos Action Worries Mansfield

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today that Laos incursion could result in a longer war, with more American casualties and war prisoners.

"In my opinion we may well be up against a stacked deck in Laos," Mansfield said in a Senate speech.

Mansfield took issue with President Nixon's suggestion that the Laos operation would force the North Vietnamese to fight now or give up the struggle.

"The option is theirs as it has been from the outset," Mansfield said. "The fact is if they still have many cards in Cambodia, elsewhere in Laos, in South Vietnam and in North Vietnam, what if they opt not to fight at this time in Laos?

What if they do stand and win against South Vietnamese forces in that remote area? What course is open to this nation then?"

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott contended that the Laos incursion could strengthen the Vietnamization program and speed withdrawal of U.S. troops.

Sen. W. E. (Bill) Brock, R-Tenn., charged that Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., was using U.S. prisoners of war as "political pawns" in the debate over Indochina.

McGovern, D-S.D., said "there's only one way to get American prisoners released and that's to announce a definite withdrawal date for all American forces. . ."

But Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., Republican national chairman, contended Nixon should suspend withdrawals of air and support units until North Vietnam begins freeing American prisoners.

The POW issue began emerging as a central question in the debate over Nixon's Vietnamization program. Both backers and supporters of the troop withdrawal program acknowledged it was a major dilemma for the president.

Nixon, at a news conference Wednesday, pledged that a sufficient number of American forces would be kept in Vietnam indefinitely to keep up pressure for release of the prisoners. He did not say what would constitute a sufficient number.

Dole, who often reflects the prevailing White House view, contended that 285,000 air and combat support units should remain after the last American ground combat troops are withdrawn later this year—until the POW issue is settled.

He agreed with McGovern and other Senate doves that the plight of the POWs was a "real dilemma" for the Vietnamization program and that it will become tougher and tougher for Nixon to make more withdrawals. Dole said the wives of the POWs and men missing in action were demanding that withdrawals be suspended and he agreed with them—except that he saw no harm in pulling out the 50,000 ground combat troops that will be left after the current withdrawal phase is completed May 1. He said he thought Nixon's timetable called for withdrawal of all remaining ground troops by the end of 1971.

McGovern contended the Nixon policy was responsible for keeping Americans in prison "and they have to bear the responsibility for that."

"It's my own very carefully considered judgment that there won't be any American prisoners released from North Vietnam until we get out of South Vietnam," McGovern told a news conference. "Countries engaged in war with each other seldom release prisoners."

McGovern and other Senate doves contend that if Nixon would announce a set date for withdrawal, Hanoi would quickly come to terms on the POW issue.

McGovern's charge that Nixon was "flirting with world war III" as a result of the allied drive into Laos brought quick retorts from Dole and Senate GOP Whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan. Dole contended McGovern—who has announced his candidacy for president—was "running scared 18 months ahead of time." Griffin called the statement "irresponsible."

McGovern contended the drive into Laos brought the risk of Red Chinese intervention in the Indochina War.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, agreed that there have been indications China was taking an approach toward her borders very seriously.

"That's not unnatural," he said. "I think we would take very seriously any approach to our borders."

Demo Unity Appeal But Discord Blooms

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Lawrence F. O'Brien urged his colleagues in the Democratic party leadership today to set aside prejudices and past discords, and move toward picking a man who can give President Nixon a tough race in 1972.

O'Brien, the party's chairman, told a meeting of the National Committee that self-reform in the party organization was essential "to ensure that the 1972 presidential nomination is worth the candle."

The party came out of the 1968 election with a huge cash deficit, but Robert S. Strauss, national treasurer, reported today that operations had been converted from red to black ink recently.

Strauss said the party had been operating on a pay-as-you go basis for a year but was still $9.3 million in debt from 1968. A big rally has been set for April 21 in Washington, at $500 a plate, to try to reduce the deficit.

In action this morning prior to moving toward national convention arrangements, the committee approved the selection of Mary Lou Burg of Wisconsin as vice chairman and Gov. Robert Scott of North Carolina for another vice chairmanship.

In his speech to the National Democratic Committee, O'Brien said it had assembled to chart a new course for the world's oldest political party and that the whole nation was watching.

Yet a storm was brewing over the Democratic executive committee's rejection of a recommendation from one of the party's two reform commissions over the allocation of delegates among the states for the 1972 national convention.

A commission on convention rules approved a formula Tuesday for a sharp cutback in delegate votes for lightly populated states and a substantial increase for populous northern states. The executive committee recommended a substitute which would move in the same direction but with less damage to the small states and less power to the large states.

The national committee was expected to approve the executive committee proposal —by roll call if necessary.

Adoption of language of the call for the 1972 national convention, including the apportionment of delegates, was the chief item on the agenda for the committee.

"We have come together, recognizing the discord of the recent past, in the role of healer," O'Brien said. "And what we do today will, in large measure, determine whether the Democratic National Committee has the capacity for leadership, the courage to change, the will to move forward, the right to claim national leadership."

O'Brien said —as he had declared before —that President Nixon could be denied a second term but that the Democrats must show that they are offering a true alternative to administration policies.

"We are meeting to consider the best, the most democratic means," he said, "of rebuilding the Democratic party . . . You are being asked to set aside many time-encrusted traditions, to set aside some regional loyalties and prejudices, to put behind you the all too human tendency to reward and punish, to thank and to revenge. . ."

January's Cost Of Living Hike Lowest In 4 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government announced today the cost of living rose only 0.1 per cent in January—the smallest monthly increase recorded in four years. The White House quickly cited the report as evidence "our economic policies are working."

On behalf of President Nixon, Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler commented: "We are encouraged by it. We feel that it indicates that our policies are working."

The cost of living index for last month stood at 119.2 which means the average consumer paid $11.92 in January for the same items which cost him $10 in 1967.

In a companion report, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that the actual purchasing power of the rank-and-file worker increased in January. This was credited to the fact his take home pay went up because of automatic reductions in the income tax withholding rates.

The cost of living report said higher prices for consumer services in January were largely offset by declines for used cars, clothing and some food items.

Prices of meats and fresh fruits and vegetables declined instead of rising as they usually do in the winter. However, eggs and dairy products, which normally decline this time of year, rose. Cereal and bakery goods, restaurant meals and other food consumed away from home, rose somewhat more in January than in recent months.

The BLS said the drop in used car prices followed several months of increases, and clothing costs dropped for the first time since mid-1970. It said transportation service prices jumped sharply in January, primarily because of a substantial rise in car insurance premiums.

Despite the slowed advance in consumer prices, there remained evidence that inflation had not yet been fully controlled. The government announced earlier this week that wholesale prices rose 0.7 per cent in January.

Farm products and food increased 1.7 per cent last month at wholesale, indicating that January's downturn in grocery prices might be short-lived.

Wholesale price changes tend to show up at the retail level after a lag of several weeks.

At a news conference, Joel Popkin, the assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor statistics, said there were indications that prices for groceries and services were levelling off.

"Grocery store foods have been stable since February, 1970," Popkin said, "and services have declined from the extremely high rates of last winter."

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the January consumer price increase was 0.3 per cent —less than the 0.5 per cent rise in December and the same as for November.

As a result of the January rise, the BLS said, about 67,000 workers would receive cost-of-living wage increases ranging up to 8 cents an hour.

For specific items, the index listed these figures for January:

Food, up 0.2 per cent in January; housing, up 0.1 per cent; apparel, down 1.3 per cent; transportation, up 0.5 per cent; medical care, up 0.6 per cent; recreation, up 0.9 per cent.

Demos Ask $30 Million To Expand Heroin Addict Program

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Democrats, calling drug abuse California's No. 1 crime problem, have proposed a $30 million expanded methadone treatment program for heroin addicts as a way of "making our streets safer."

The four-bill package, introduced by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, is aimed at ultimately providing every heroin user in the state with the substitute drug methadone.

Democratic Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti announced he will make the methadone proposal a "major legislative priority." He is a coauthor of the legislation.

State cash to help finance the undertaking would come from the hard-pressed general fund, including $9 million made available by the gradual shutdown of the state Department of Corrections' only drug treatment center.

Methadone is a synthetic drug that blocks an addict's craving for heroin. Although methadone is nonaddictive, addicts develop a dependency on it but are usually able to lead normal productive lives.

Vasconcellos reported there are currently 19 methadone treatment programs operating in California but only 1,000 addicts are enrolled. He estimated there are between 25,000 and 35,000 heroin addicts statewide, half of them on the street.

The San Jose lawmaker estimated the $30 million would pay half of the costs of the program's expanded first year and about one fourth of the second year costs. The balance would be provided from federal and private grants and addicts themselves.

Moretti and Vasconcellos estimated that Californians suffer a daily loss of $1.5 million to heroin users who commit crimes to finance their habit for a total direct loss of $547.5 million a year.

Direct and indirect costs of heroin use, he estimated, total $607 million a year which he estimated could be cut by $486 million if methadone was made more available and substituted for heroin.

Moretti told a news conference the state must focus on elimination of drug addiction "as the first specific step toward making our streets safer...and toward great monetary savings in our law enforcement and corrections system."

The plan proposes the gradual closure of the California Rehabilitation Center at Corona, which currently houses 1,800 addicts committed by civil courts. The treatment program basically involves total abstinence from drugs.

176 Aftershocks

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A total of 176 major aftershocks have been recorded since the massive Los Angeles earthquake Feb. 9 and scientists predict smaller shocks will persist for months.

Don Anderson, head of the seismological laboratory at the California Institute of Technology, said Thursday that the earth was in almost constant motion for 10 minutes following the devastating quake and that 34 of the major aftershocks rocked the ground during the first hour.

The most damage occurred within a 20-mile radius of the epicenter in the northeast end of populous San Fernando Valley. Sixty-four persons were killed and damage ran into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Check Rebels

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (UPI)—A column of police in jeeps and trucks today mounted a second push through the rebellious Santa Caterina district to knock down new barricades set up by residents during the night.

However, police officials pulled out about a score of M113 armored personnel carriers they had moved in Thursday in a show of force to discourage firebomb attacks.

There were no new incidents in today's operation, the second in as many days to clear the district of barricades cutting Reggio from the outside world. Residents who watched the march from balconies and doorways said they would put up new barricades as soon as the police leave.

No End Yet

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Despite significant switches among Republicans, Senate reformers remain starkly short of the votes needed to crush a southern-led filibuster in defense of extended debate.

The first attempt to end the filibuster, which both sides consigned to defeat in advance, was beaten 48 to 37 Thursday, nine votes short of the two-thirds needed.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield scheduled a second effort for Tuesday but even reform strategists conceded there will not be enough converts by that time. They are shooting for victory on the third or fourth try.

Since Jan. 25 the filibuster has blocked the Senate from considering a change in the 54-year old rule which governs limitation on debate.

The proposed revision would allow three-fifths of the senators voting to cut off debate. The present requirement is two-thirds.

Under the present rule, in effect in Thursday's vote, the reformers fell nine votes short. Ironically, they missed by three votes of achieving the three-fifths margin they are seeking.

20-Pound Rock

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The quarantined Apollo 14 crew reached in a sample bag and pulled out a surprise for lunar scientists—a 20-pound rock the size of a basketball.

Dr. Robin Brett, vice chairman of the Apollo 14 sample examining team, said scientists asked for one football-size rock and the grayish "big rock" was an unexpected bonus.

Astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Edgar D. Mitchell also unpacked two 12-pound football rocks among the samples returned to the lunar receiving laboratory aboard the mobile quarantine unit the crew used on their recovery ship. The unit was flown to the Manned Spacecraft Center Thursday.

Also on board was the faulty camera command pilot Stuart A. Roosa was to have used to photograph the rugged Descartes landing site proposed for Apollo 16. Roosa was scheduled to work today with engineers to determine what went wrong with the camera.

Praise To Reds

MOSCOW (UPI)—There on the television screen a Soviet Jew named Dimitri Novokovsky held up a blood-stained prayer book and said: "It is the Red Army that liberated the Jews from Nazis.

"So we have no need to be liberated by anybody."

Until Thursday night, the Soviet public had not seen anything like this for a year: Jewish generals, editors, poets, professors and even emigrants back from Israel, all defending the Soviet motherland against foreign Zionist "slanders" on nationwide television.

The 30-minute program was aimed specifically at arousing public indignation against the two-day World Jewish Congress being held in Brussels beginning Tuesday. It will discuss the status of Soviet Jewry and Moscow regards this as "an anti-Soviet provocation."

In general, the program recapped the official line that all but a tiny fraction of Soviet Jews are contented citizens and that Israel wants to lure them into its armies.

Next Space Boss

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Dr. James C. Fletcher, president of the University of Utah, is in line to head the U.S. space program during its transition from manned moon missions to unmanned exploration and development of orbiting laboratories.

Informed sources indicated Thursday that President Nixon is preparing to make an announcement soon of Fletcher's appointment to head the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Considered an expert in civilian and military space research, Fletcher would succeed George M. Low.

No Sales Effect

NEW YORK (UPI)—The ban on television cigarette advertising, now almost seven weeks old, has had little effect on sales, a spot check of industry sources indicated today. If anything, cigarette sales have gone up.

Retail trade sources said the rise in cigarette sales that began last year is continuing and possibly accelerating as cigarette makers shift advertising to newspapers and other printed media.

The major companies all said it was too early for them to pass judgment on the long-term effect of the Jan. 2 broadcast advertising ban.

Jim Beam Firm Admits To Favors

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The makers of Jim Beam bourbon Thursday told Congress they helped provide treats for high-ranking U.S. officials in Vietnam to keep their brand the runaway best-seller in the war zone.

The James Beam Distilling Co., protested, however, that financing such favors as a swanky Saigon villa for the men who bought liquor for post exchanges and service clubs was just good business—no worse than what the competition was up to.

Explains Position

"We hoped our products would be purchased because of this," explained Beam vice president Mel Peterson to a Senate Investigations subcommittee Thursday. "I have to get my whisky in the marketplace to create a demand for it."

Peterson, alternatively defensive and apologetic, reluctantly detailed to persistent senators how Beam used the skills of mysterious businessman William J. Crum to escalate bourbon sales in Vietnam though relationships with military purchasing agents.

Subcommittee investigators linked Beam—and specifically Peterson—to Crum when the hearings into operation of post exchanges, service clubs and similar facilities opened Wednesday.

Earlier Testimony

Earlier testimony pictured Crum—now reportedly somewhere in the South Pacific on his yacht—as a peddler of goods ranging from liquor to slot machines who made millions from military service clubs in Asia by trading bribes and kickbacks for purchase orders.

Peterson, flushed and perspiring profusely, acknowledged close contact with Crum during Crum's four-year hitch as Beam's Vietnam agent. But while he said top Beam officials were kept fully briefed on Crum's activities, he said he had "no knowledge" kickbacks were part of Crum's operations.

He first denied—then admitted as claims to the contrary were tossed at him—that he endorsed Crum's acquiring and furnishing a swank villa for the four top PX officials in Vietnam.

Backs Off

First insisting he knew about it only after the fact, Peterson was forced to back off when Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., flashed copies of Peterson's own correspondence to the contrary.

"Did you approve it?" Gurney finally demanded.

"I guess I did, yes, sir," Peterson responded in a near-whisper after pausing for nearly 30 seconds. "I don't know what Mr. Crum's reasons were . . . except perhaps to get to know them better."

Similarly, Gurney was not satisfied when Peterson contended that the Vietnam PX officials—including the lieutenant colonel in charge—reimbursed Crum for their $2,000-per-month home. He said Peterson's own letters showed Peterson knew that was not fully true.

Admits To Act

"You did know that Mr. Crum was subsidizing these U.S. employees, didn't you?" Gurney said.

"Yes, sir," Peterson said abjectly, after another long pause.

"Then I must say . . . that this is one of the most corruptible practices I've ever seen," Gurney shot back. "No wonder Jim Beam did so well."

Gurney said that through Crum's efforts, Jim Beam bourbon outsold its nearest rival—Old Grandad—in Vietnam by a third.

SOVIET TARGET — This Soviet diplomatic car was set afire early today in Silver Spring outside Washington, D.C. and shortly afterward a man called news agencies with the statement "This is an act of retaliation in the war of liberation . . . let our people go. Never again."

Arson Tries On 3 Soviet Cars Appear Linked To Jewish Group

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Arson attempts were made on three cars registered to Soviet diplomats in the Maryland suburbs early today. A man telephoned news agencies to say the incidents were "retaliation in the war of liberation."

One of the vehicles was set fire in Silver Spring, just north of the nation's capital, but damage was reported slight.

Police in Hyattsville, about four miles away, reported that abortive attempts had been made to set fire to the two other cars. Officer Arnold Christian said rags were stuffed into the gas tanks and ignited but "as soon as they reached the neck of the gas tank they went out."

tanks and ignited but "as soon as they reached the neck of the gas tank they went out."

The man who called UPI in Washington said, "We just blew up the car of a Russian diplomat on Ross Street in Silver Spring. Take this down quickly. I will say it only once. This is an act of retaliation in the war of liveration . . . let our people go. Never again."

After the Hyattsville incidents, another unidentified man called the UPI office in Baltimore and said:

"I am going to say this and say it once. So you had better get a pencil and a piece of paper. We have just firebombed two Soviet embassy staff cars on Gallatin Street in Hyattsville. Their license numbers are DPL-4526 and DPL-2167. This is another act in the Jewish war for liberation of Soviet Jewry. Let my people go. Never again."

On Jan. 8 the office of the information office of Soviet Life Magazine in Washington was bombed. A woman, who would not identify herself, reported the bombing in a telephone call at 4:47 a.m.

"The Soviet cultural building on 18th Street has been bombed," she said. "This is a sample of things to come. Let our people go. Never again."

"Never again" is the slogan of the Jewish Defense League.

Four Die In Fire At Old Rest Home

TAFT, Calif. (UPI)—Flames roared through a two-story wooden rest home early today, killing four persons. Another five were missing.

Firemen said they believed bodies of all the missing would be found in the rubble of the Desert Air Rest Home No. 2.

At least three persons were missing. One 16-year-old boy suffered critical burns and two others less serious injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Armstrong, who were on duty as attendants, were awakened by smoke. Armstrong opened a door and found the structure's entire southern wing engulfed in flames.

Armstrong's first attempts to summon firemen failed because telephone lines had been burned out. Taft policemen made the first report to the Kern County Fire Department's substation in this city of 5,000 at 1:05 a.m. PST.

Ten fire units battled the blaze.

The rest home was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Art Schertz of Taft. It is some 30 miles west of Bakersfield, and housed some 12 persons in addition to the Armstrongs.

Firemen said the cause of the blaze was not determined but that it was being investigated both by the department and the Kern County sheriff's office.

There was no immediate estimate of damage.

The building was completely destroyed although the blaze was brought under control about 45 minutes after it was reported.

Psychiatrist Says Calley's Will Paralyzed At My Lai

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—Lt. William L. Calley's will was paralyzed at My Lai and he "could not possibly have premeditated" the murder of Vietnamese civilians there, a defense psychiatrist contends.

The psychiatrist was ordered back to the Calley court-martial witness stand today to expand on his opinions on cross-exmination.

Dr. Albert A. Laverne, the witness, a New York psychiatrist in private practice who said he was senior psychiatrist at Bellevue Medical Center currently on leave, was asked Thursday whether in his opinion Calley had the mental ability "to plan, think out, or contrive taking the lives of the inhabitants."

He said Calley could not have, because of "combat stress, psychological stress, and a predisposing propensity."

"Under certain kinds of stress, Lt. Calley will not be able to control his conscious behavior," Laverne testified. "He will perform certain acts without realizing or understanding the meaning.

"He can't (under stress) understand a complex decision, was unable to choose a proper one and then act accordingly. At my Lai for three or four hours he was acting in automatic fashion, as a robot would—but in a coordinated manner."

Laverne, a slim, balding man with a pencil mustache, said he first examined Calley six months ago and found him "a normal American soldier" but that later, when the trial date was set, Calley became more anxious, restless, and irritable.

Still later, Laverne said, "He was scared to death about the court-martial. This is called 'the court-martial induced stress.' This has enabled me to decide what he is made of. So I can tell how he was on March 16, 1968."

That is the date Calley, 27, led his infantry platoon on a sweep of the Vietnamese hamlet as part of a company commanded by Capt. Ernest L. Medina. Calley is charged with premeditated murder of 102 unarmed, unresisting women, children, and old men.

"His will was paralyzed by virtue of the fact that he was not able to question an order he believed was given him by Capt. Medina," Laverne testified.

The judge ordered the part about what Calley believed Medina had ordered stricken out.

Dallas Slaying Suspects Seized

DALLAS (UPI)—Sixty law officers, guided by an errie light from a helicopter hovering overhead, raided a shabby apartment before daybreak today and arrested two men wanted for the execution-style murders of three deputy sheriffs.

The gunmen were arrested in the bathroom of the flat they had apparently rented with two female companions only hours after the murders Monday night.

No shots were exchanged in the raid, although police said one of the suspects tried to fire a revolver at Detective George Thompson only to have his gun misfire. The other suspect threw his pistol out of the bathroom before officers closed in. Police said that gun, cocked and loaded, had been taken from one of the slain deputies.

The arrests were made after police had raided a house next door thinking that was where the suspects were holed up. A man and a woman were wounded when police charged the small frame home.

Police said the two gunmen—Rene Adolfo Guzman, 33, and Leonardo Ramos Lopez, 25—were the ones who killed three helplessly tied and pleading deputy sheriffs Monday night on a levee of the Trinity River near downtown Dallas. Guzman and Lopez were jailed without bond.

Also arrested were Angie Hernandez, 38, and Mary Alice Rosales, 25. They were charged with being accessories to murder and harboring fugitives. Miss Hernandez was held in $100,000 bond and Miss Rosales in $50,000 bond.

The capture ended five days of intensive searching which stretched throughout Texas but always centered in the Dallas area. There had been open fear in the Mexican-American community of Dallas that Guzman would be shot when he was arrested.

Major UAR Offer Stirs Israeli Talks

Israeli Ambassador Yitzak Rabin rushed home from Washington today to join cabinet discussions of what the Israelis called a "far-reaching" Egyptian offer to sign a peace treaty if Israel meets certain conditions—the first peace treaty offer Egypt has made.

Rabin's sudden visit followed diplomatic reports Israel is under pressure from the White House to give a timetable for withdrawal from Arab territory it occupied in the 1967 Six Day War. It was announced Thursday that President Zalman Shazar will confer with President Nixon in Washington next month.

"I was invited to return by the Foreign Ministry and the prime minister for talks on relations between the United States and Israel," Rabin said at Lydda airport. He denied Washington was putting pressure on Israel and that this was the main reason for his visit home.

Diplomatic sources insisted the pressure was there and said Israel is not willing to give any timetable. They said it would not budge from its often repeated policy that any withdrawal must be in the context of a written peace agreement and then only to secure and defensible borders. Diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said Egypt had submitted to Israel proposals for recognition of the Jewish state in return for an Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula and reopening of the Suez Canal.

The emphasis in this approach was on Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula but Cairo dispatches have made it clear Egypt still demands Israeli withdrawal from all captured territory and settlement of the Palestinian refugee problem.

The Egyptian offer was made in response to suggestions by U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring, and diplomatic sources said they were "the most far-reaching Egyptian attempt yet to meet Israel's concept of a Middle East settlement." Despite some elements Israel considers unacceptable, it "merits careful study and considered response," the sources said.

Penthouse Like A 'Prison' For Huey Newton

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Black Panther Party has provided Huey Newton with a $700 a month, 29th story penthouse, but the party co-founder says, "It's like a prison, really."

"I stay here because it is like a security building," he continued Wednesday to a reporter. "I'd like to be back in the streets—like it was before ... but at least here if the police did storm in, they'd have a lot of explaining to do to the other tenants."

Newton, who spends time in the apartment writing a book on Panther ideology, is awaiting retrial on a manslaughter charge in the 1967 killing of an Oakland policeman.

Burglary Case To Juvenile Court

The case of Mario Alberto Garcia, 19, of San Francisco has been referred to juvenile court.

Garcia is charged with burglary stemming from his arrest Sunday when police caught him coming out of a Sausalito residence carrying a camera and stereo tuner.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

'Phony' Medi-Cal Bill Hit By GOP

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Republican leaders have denounced as "phony" and "unacceptable" Democratic-sponsored legislation rescinding Reagan administration cuts in the Medi-Cal Health Care program.

After a closed-door GOP caucus Thursday Assembly Republican leader Robert T. Monagan reported Republicans took no formal position either for or against the bill by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco. The measure is slated for a floor vote Monday.

Because the bill restoring the Medi-Cal cuts would take effect immediately on being signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, it needs the approval of two-thirds of the Assembly—or 54 votes. There are 43 Democrats and 37 Republicans.

The administration in December ordered the Medi-Cal Program cut back because of a threatened $140 million deficit.

Democrats contend that any deficit could be paid off in the 1971-72 budget and the reductions are not necessary. The Burton bill would require the administration to restore the cuts.

"I think the general feeling (among Republicans) is that it's a very unacceptable bill," said Monagan. "I can't find anybody who thinks Burton's approach has merit in solving the problem."

"It's a phony political ploy," added Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, chairman of the Welfare Committee.

"It's not that Republicans don't care about the needy," he added. "We're $100 million in the hole in the program."

"If there's no way to pay the bills in June, thousands of people will die—d-i-e—because all of the money has been spent in the first 11 months of the fiscal year," said Bagley.

"I think this bill on the surface is patently bad," agreed assembly GOP caucus chairman John Stull of Leucadia. "Some people want to vote for it but a sizable number do not want to."

QUAKE REPAIR

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A $1 million bill to provide funds for repairing earthquake-damaged houses of veterans in the Cal-Vet farm and Home Loan Program has been introduced by Assemblyman Robert Cline, R-Canoga Park.

Cline said Thursday the Department of Veterans Affairs indemnity fund was not large enough to cover property damaged in the Feb. 9 Los Angeles quake.

QUAKE RELIEF

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —An investigation of the availability of earthquake insurance for property owners will be conducted by the Assembly Finance and Insurance Committee.

Chairman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, said yesterday the hearing would be conducted March 1 in the capitol. He said many people are unaware that earthquake insurance is available to home and other property owners.

"The committee findings could lead to possible legislative action if the cost or the availability of earthquake insurance places and undue financial burden on the people of the state," said Fenton.

TRANSIT TAX

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill to apply the sales tax to gasoline to raise money for rapid transit systems has been introduced by Sen. James R. Mills, D-San Diego.

Mills said the measure introduced yesterday would raise $150 million a year, which would be primarily diverted to transit districts, with state and local agencies getting a share.

He said in areas with no transit districts, such as rural areas, local government could use its share of the money for property tax relief.

CYCLE TRAILS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to confine snowmobiles, "mini-bikes" and all-terrain vehicles to specially marked trails on state and county lands and to require them to be registered has been introduced by Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, D-Burlingame.

Riders going off the marked trails would be fined $50 according to the bill introduced yesterday.

Ryan said the measure "is aimed at stopping the potentially destructive use of off-road vehicles on state and county lands."

Motorcycles of 15 horsepower and over would not be affected.

The measure calls for registration of snowmobiles and other recreational vehicles not licensed for highway use, with the $11 fees going to the State Department of Parks and Recreation.

Probation, Fines For Riot Trio

I-J Special Report

VALLEJO — The last remaining cases arising from the riotous Feb. 14, 1970 labor demonstration at the Independent-Journal building were disposed of yesterday by Vallejo Municipal Court Judge William E. Jensen.

Renaldo R. Batz, 22, of Mill Valley; Conrad H. Pallellas, 56, of Daly City, and Sherwin M. Thomas, 29, of San Francisco were placed on probation for one year and fined $125 each.

Marin Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton M. Hyams had recommended 30-day jail sentences and $500 fines for each, and the Solano County Probation Department had recommended "substantial fines" and several weekends in jail, according to Hyams.

The men had pleaded guilty to charges of failing to disperse from a riot after being warned. Other charges were dismissed.

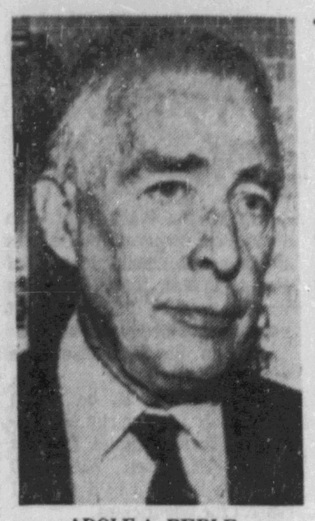
Hyams said that Judge Jensen indicated he felt obligated to follow what he considered a precedent in the sentencing last Friday of John Joseph DeMartini, 47, of Mill Valley, who was found guilty of the same charge by a Solano County Superior Court jury Jan. 8. DeMartini — vice president of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, which struck the I-J more than a year ago — drew one-year probation and a $125 fine.

After sentencing the men yesterday, Jensen said to Hyams, who had traveled to Vallejo for the court session, "It almost wasn't worth the trip."

Ambulance Service Not Free Now

The Independent-Journal erred Wednesday in implying that the Sausalito Fire Department's ambulance service has been free to city residents in the past.

A proposal by Sausalito Fire Chief Charles E. Masten, which the Sausalito City Council considered Tuesday, calls for free service to residents in the future. At present, however, residents are charged $30 per ambulance call.



ADOLF A. BERLE
Adviser to FDR

Member Of FDR 'Brain Trust' Dies

NEW YORK (UPI)–Lawyer-economist Adolf A. Berle Jr., an original member of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's "brain trust," died here Wednesday night at the age of 76 after suffering a stroke. He had been ill two years.

Berle, a Boston native, joined Roosevelt's presidential campaign in 1932 and served as counsel to the Reconstruction Finance Corp. from 1933 to 1938 when he became assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs.

He was appointed ambassador to Brazil in 1945 and served a year. Prior to that appointment, he worked with Roosevelt and Winston Churchill in drafting the first declaration of the United Nations.

Berle (pronounced Burly) served 1960-61 as coordinator of President John F. Kennedy's task force on inter-American affairs which helped set courses for U.S. participation in the Alliance for Progress.

The son of Rev. Adolf Augustus Berle, a Congregationalist minister, Berle finished high school at 12 and entered Harvard at 14. He graduated in 1913 and at 21, became the youngest person ever to graduate from Harvard Law School.

He was a first lieutenant in World War I and later served on the American commission to negotiate peace with Germany. He practiced law two years in Boston before setting up practice with his brother, Rudolf, in New York. He was a key figure in the administration of New York Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia serving as city treasurer. He founded the New York Liberal Party.

The multifaceted Berle served as law professor at Columbia University from 1927 to 1964 and was active as senior law firm of Berle & Berle until his death.

'Honey Bear' Finally Nailed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A two-foot brown kinkajou, or "honey bear," eluded three patrol cars and a pair of snarling police dogs before he was captured Thursday and returned to his owner.

Officers converged on a warehouse after the watchman reported hearing rustling sounds in the building

With guns drawn, the officers circled in and cornered the animal, but he escaped while being placed in a police car.

Finally, an officer using a dog leash captured the kinkajou and he was escorted to the humane society.

"Romeo," as the animal is called, was later claimed by his owner, a doctor, and returned home to his female companion, Juliet."

Tentative Leaders Of Prisons Picked

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Department of Corrections plans to appoint California's first Negro and Japanese superintendents of prisons.

The department made the disclosure Thursday in announcing tentative choices to replace three prison superintendents and one deputy department director, all of whom are retiring in the next year. The appointments are subject to approval by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Bertram Griggs, a Negro, will be named superintendent of the California Institute for men at Chino. A former parole division supervisor for the Los Angeles region, Griggs is currently attending a one-year seminar on criminal justice at Harvard Law School.

Jiro J. Enomoto, currently deputy superintendent at Soledad and national past president of the Japanese-American Citizens League, will be appointed superintendent at the California Correctional Institution at Tehachapi. He will replace G.P. Lloyd.

Enomoto ironically was a California political prisoner during World War II when he spent more than two years in a Tulare "relocation camp."

Both Griggs and Enomoto are career correctional officials.

The department also plans to name Walter T. Stone, acting superintendent at Chino, as superintendent at the correctional training facility at Soledad; C.J. Fitzharris, formerly of San Rafael and Soledad's present superintendent, as deputy director of the corrections department, and Daniel J. McCarthy, associate superintendent of the California men's colony at San Luis Obispo, as the superintendent of the prison.

Fitzharris will take the deputy director post now held by Merle Schneckloth. McCarthy replaces Harold V. Field.

Corrections director Raymond K. Procunier previously expressed a desire to appoint a qualified black and Japanese prison superintendent "as soon as possible because it is just the right thing at the right time."

But Procunier also had pointed out that neither Griggs nor Enomoto were promoted over more qualified men. "They are both very well qualified," he said, "and the fact that they are members of minority groups is just a big bonus, man, a big bonus."

Turkish Police Storm Dorms, Fight Students

ANKARA (UPI)—Squads of riot police cheered by crowds shouting "damn Communists" today invaded Hacettepe University dormitories which were defended by 700 male and female students using dynamite, gasoline bombs, pistols, sticks and stones.

The students opened fire when the helmeted police carrying aluminum shields tried to search the campus dormitories for hidden arms and explosives.

Calling in reserves, the police captured the women's dormitories after three hours' fighting. Then they stormed and took two of the three men's dorms.

After five hours' battling one men's dorm still held out.

Police said 15 of their number and two students were taken to hospitals with slight injuries.

A crowd of more than 1,000 civilians mustered behind the police and cursed the students in chants and cheered on the police. They caught some students trying to flee and beat them.

NOSTALGIA FOR SALE

Getting a bit of spit and polish is Tiburon Fire Department's 1941 pumper, the department's first piece of motorized equipment, finally going on the block. Readying the veteran for sale are (from left) Nob Kuwatani, Nino Geminiani and John Grbac of the department. The pumper, built by White Manufacturing Co. and outiftted by P. E. Van Pelt Equipment Co. of Oakdale, is completely equipped, in good running order and ready to pump 500 gallons a minute, except for one thing: the 300-gallon tank leaks. It's all yours — 1,500 feet of 2.5-inch hose, ladders, radio, lights, siren and all — for a minimum bid of $1,750, according to Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher.

Downtown Plan Snags Novato Fair

The Novato Planning Commission last night continued a bid for additional stores at the Novato Fair Shopping Center until after the city council acts on the proposed downtown plan.

Plans by fifty associates, owners of the center, call for a single structure along the east side of the center which would house a Walgreen Drug Store, with 18,125 square feet, and other shops, 19,000 square feet.

Architect Robert B. Liles, representing the owners, had applied for an amendment to the center master plan to permit the new building.

Staff members recommended continuing the matter until after council action because the downtown plan would have an effect on development at the center.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

REVOLVING HOUSE — Denied an application by Samuel A. Harkeroad to relocate his revolving round house on Harkle Road without processing a subdivision map covering the house and seven other houses on his 2.23 acre parcel.

ZONING — Reaffirmed its decision that a parcel on the east side of Wilson Avenue, south of Vineyard Road, across from Sinaloa Junior High School, be zoned single family planned residential with 20,000 square foot density requirement after hearing protests against permitting townhouses there.

WAR

have been displaced by the war that has now engulfed almost the entire nation. Dispatches today from Vientiane said the Communist drive has sent another 15,000 refugees into the hills southwest of Luang Prabang. Already 40,000 to 50,000 were reported homeless in that drive.

The U.S. Command reported officially that seven U.S. helicopters were shot down or damaged in connection with the Laos operation Thursday and today and that the official figures for the week were 17 destroyed—which a spokesman called the highest in seven months.

Front dispatches added two or three more to that toll with several aircraft damaged by gunfire near Khe Sanh. Unofficial totals said the number of helicopters lost or heavily damaged ran more than double the official figures which take into account only those destroyed.

U.S. spokesmen said at least 34 Americans have been killed, 85 wounded and 13 reported missing in connection with the South Vietnamese drive into Laos, now in its 12th day. The total includes 20 dead, 22 wounded and 10 missing in air support operations in Laos. It does not include a number of Americans wounded by Communist shelling in northern South Vietnam.

Answer Is Correct To Wrong Question

A certain Independent-Journal reporter would have no luck at all on the television quiz show in which contestants are given an answer and required to ask the right question.

Following the San Rafael City Council meeting Tuesday night, City Atty. Frederick C. Robbins Jr. gave the right answer to the reporter's wrong question — or maybe it was the wrong answer to the right question.

In any case, the newsman erred in reporting in Wednesday's I-J that, if voters approve a proposed charter amendment deleting a $1,000 limit on funds the city can spend for promotion, the state government code would place a ceiling of either $37,110 or $40,101 on San Rafael promotion spending.

Those figures — 37110 and 40101 — are actually the numbers of the code sections which would limit the city's promotion expenditures.

Robbins — who had originally furnished the numbers, mistaken by the reporter for amounts — said yesterday that he wasn't sure which section would apply, but one would limit spending to an amount based on a percentage of the general fund and the other to an amount based on assessed valuation.

He said he had not yet figured out what the actual monetary limits would be in either case.

City Mgr. James H. McCown said today that one possibility might be to limit promotion spending to a portion of the hotel tax revenue, which last year brought in about $30,000.

The council Tuesday approved the charter amendment for the April 20 ballot.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Preparing For Marriage

To keep many people from seeking to dissolve their marriages a new law attempts to prepare them for marriage by making them aware of the importance of their new status.

A man over 18 but under 21 can be married if he gets his parents or guardians' written approval. Such approval is also required in the case of a girl under 18.

But any person under 18 needs more than just such approval. The law requires for him and her:

1. The consent in writing of the parents or guardians of each person who is underage; or one parent, or of the guardian, and;

2. The approval of a superior court judge granting permission to such young people to marry.

The court requires counseling before marriage for people under 18. A counselor talks to them about the social, economic, and personal responsibilities of the marriage. Such counseling may not be offered from any given religious denomination unless the parties consent.

The young couple pays for the counseling. However, the court must consider their ability to pay among other things before ordering the counseling.

Any California marriages by underage persons without the required parental consent and court approval can be annuled.

If such marriage is between an "adult" and a minor under the age of legal consent, only the minor (or his parent or guardian while the minor is still under the age of legal consent) can sue for annulment. Of course, if there are other grounds for an annulment, such as fraud, incapacity, or insanity, either party may sue.

California accepts as valid marriages made in other states which are valid under the laws of the other state.

California still retains an interest in many matters affecting marriage, and thus will not recognize a polygamous or incestous marriage, even though it was valid in the state where it took place.

Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

One Collision Tanker At Sea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Arizona Standard, one of two tankers that collided and caused a San Francisco Bay oil spill, was at sea with a new bow Thursday.

Standard Oil Company of California, which owned both ships, transferred the undamaged bow of the Oregon Standard to the Arizona.

A surplus Navy tanker, which was identical to the two damaged ships, was purchased by the oil firm and the Oregon will gets its "forebody."

A Standard spokesman said the overall repair bill might reach $750,000.

Warren Jr. Asks Marriage End

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Earl Warren Jr., son of the retired U.S. chief justice, is seeking a dissolution of his 17-year marriage.

Warren, a municipal judge in Sacramento, asked in his superior court action Thursday for custody of four children ranging in age from 8 to 16. He listed "irreconcilable differences" as the reason for his divorce request.

Marin City CSD Passes New Budget

Directors of the Marin City Community Services District last night approved a $60,151 budget for 1971-72, down $4,000 from last year.

Secretary Lillian J. Lee attributed the decrease to a recreation program that will be funded elsewhere, a lower charge for telephone service and cheaper insurance rates.

Major budget items are salaries, $43,483; services; $6,650; insurance, $3,418; maintenance of Manzanita Center, grounds and equipment, $2,600, and supplies, $2,000.

The budget must be submitted to the Marin County Counsel's office by March 1 and will be given final approval by the board of supervisors, Mrs. Lee reported.

As in previous years, only a fraction of the budget will be supported by property taxes in Marin City, where about 60 per cent of the housing is publicly supported. Mrs. Lee said the 1971-72 property taxes will raise about $8,500, the same as last year.

In other business, Doretha Mitchell became chairman of the board, replacing Frank J. Phillips. Mrs. Lee said Mrs. Mitchell, as senior board member, automatically becomes chairman at the expiration of Phillips's term.

The board also hired Mrs. Lee as permanent secretary at $600 a month, agreed to hire an inspector to check and maintain burglar alarms and fire alarms at Manzanita Center, and agreed to hire Al Allen and Sons contractors of Marin City for $461 to repair and install locks on doors at the center.

Maker Of Nightgown Sued

An 8-year-old Inverness girl, injured when her nightgown caught fire last April, has sued the manufacturer of the nightgown and the San Anselmo store where it was purchased.

Julia Fries, mother of Deirdre S. Delaney of Park Avenue asked $150,000 for her daughter from Kaufman's Specialty Shop, 504 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, and from the manufacturing firm of Sally Schrank.

Deirdre suffered second and third degree burns over 35 per cent of her body in the fire at her home last April 17.

Details of the accident were not available.

Answers To Czar's Death Due

By PETER WORTHINGTON
Toronto Telegram News Service

Within the next few weeks, the British Government is expected to make what will amount to one of the most sensational disclosures of this century — that they don't believe Czar Nicholas II and his family were assassinated in Russia in 1918.

Indications are that the Foreign Office may even decide to acknowledge that Britain and the United States collaborated on a plan to rescue the Czar — with a diplomatic assist from Germany, with whom they were at war.

An increasing amount of evidence has been unearthed recently that indicates the truth about the alleged massacre has never been publicly revealed. The new material indicates that, in fact, their murder was a hoax — a cover for their escape.

The heat is being put on the British Government by an extraordinary book which has just been published in Britain — The Hunt for the Czar, by Guy Richards, an investigative journalist and former city editor of the defunct New York Journal-American.

It is known that the Sunday Express, the Daily Express, the London Observer and the Economist are among the publications that take the book seriously. Already, pressure is being applied to the Foreign Office for a statement.

At the moment, it is expected that the British Government will take a positive approach and indicate that there was an escape. Up until recently, secrecy was required out of concern for the safety of the Romanov survivors.

Although the British are unlikely to support any claims of individuals to the Romanov name, those familiar with the escape theory say that the five children are alive — two in New York, two in West Germany, and one in Poland.

Czar Nicholas is said to have died in 1952 and Czarina Alexandra in 1924.

The Toronto Telegram was the first newspaper to take the possibility of escape seriously last Oct. 6 in a full-page article. A subsequent news story on Dec. 12 revealed hitherto secret British documents that indicated a rescue attempt was being planned as early as June, 1917.

The documents disclose that Lord Balfour, then Britain's foreign secretary, and President Woodrow Wilson, agreed to share an initial $150,000 to sponsor a rescue attempt.

Those who have investigated the rescue theory feel a Canadian may have also been involved — the legendary Klondike Joe Boyle, who rescued Queen Marie of Rumania after World War I, and who was in Russia at the time of the supposed escape.

Up to now, it's been accepted that the Romanovs were shot in the basement of Ipatiev House in Ekaterinburg during the night of July 16-17. Their bodies were supposedly taken to an abandoned mine where they were burned, and then dissolved in sulphuric acid.

It now appears that it was servants and the family doctor who died — and the Romanovs were smuggled away.

The family was split up, with the Czar, Czarina, Czarevich Alexei and Grand Duchess Maria (whose hair was cropped to resemble a boy's) being secreted out of Russia through Odessa in December, 1918, when the French and Greek forces occupied the area.

OBITUARIES

Arnold E. Walters Dies At 64

Arnold E. Walters of San Francisco, owner of the Dolores Company Marinello Schools of Beauty in San Rafael and San Francisco, died unexpectedly at his home yesterday. He was 64.

Born in San Francisco, he lived there all his life.

When he was 16, he began helping his mother run a beauty salon in the Mission District of San Francisco. Within 10 years he operated several schools for beauticians.

He left the business during World War II to serve in the Air Corps. He reached the rank of lieutenant colonel before retiring.

Walters had many real estate interests and was a founder and director of the First San Francisco Bank.

He belonged to the San Francisco Press Club.

He is survived by his wife, Harriette.

Rosary for Walters will be recited at 8 p.m., Sunday at Halsted and Co., 1123 Sutter Street, San Francisco. Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Monday at Old St. Mary's Church, California Street and Grant Avenue, San Francisco.

MRS. LATTANZIO

Anella (Nell) Lattanzio of Fairfax died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness. She was 45.

Born in Yonkers, N.Y., she moved to Trumbull, Conn., in 1955 and to 19 San Miguel Court, Fairfax, in 1963.

She had worked as a nurse's aide and therapy aide at Ross General Hospital and at Marin Home Care in Corte Madera.

She was a member of the women's guild at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax and the women's club of Marin Catholic Hwgh School.

Surviving are her husband, A. Raymond Lattanzio, a programming manager for International Business Machines in San Jose; two sons, Robert of the family home and Stephen, a student at the University of California; a daughter, Nancy Perry of the family home; her mother, Margaret Bellotti of San Rafael, and a stepbrother, Mario Bellotti of New Rochelle, N.Y.

Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax, with burial at Mount Olivet Cemetery. Friends may call at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo, tomorrow and Sunday.

Rosary will be Sunday at Chapel of the Hills, but the time had not been set this morning.

ELSIE ING

Elsie V. Ing, long-time Mill Valley resident, died yesterday in a local hospital after a brief illness. She was 90.

Private funeral was held today in Mill Valley.

A native of San Francisco, she moved to Mill Valley in 1906 and lived there 64 years, residing with her nephew, Girard E. Smith, at 185 Magee Avenue. For many years she was library assistant for the U. S. Public Health Hospital, then known as Marin Hospital in San Francisco.

She is survived by a brother, Sherwood F.Ing of Pennsylvania and another nephew in Florida.

Inurnment will be private. The family prefers contributions to a favorite charity.

ROBERT FLEMING

There will be no funeral for Robert Fleming of Tiburon, who died Saturday in his home after a long illness.

A native of Nebraska, Fleming came to California as a child and spent most of his youth in Pasadena. He came to Marin about 15 years ago and worked in the building and loan offices for the State of California in San Francisco until his retirement last year.

He is survived by his wife, Janet Fleming; a sister, Mrs. Max Cowan of Ross; and a brother, John Fleming of Southern California.

MARY HALSEY

Funeral for Mary E. (Mollie) Halsey, retired Air Force staff sergeant who died Sunday in Honolulu, Hawaii of pneumonia, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Analy Funeral Chapel in Sebastopol. She was 70.

Mrs. Halsey, who retired from the Air Force in 1963 after serving 20 years, was stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base from 1945 to 1957.

She was the wife of Senior Master Sgt. Dick R. Halsey, who was born and reared in Marin County. He is still serving with the Air Force and is presently stationed in Hawaii. The couple maintained a home a Camp Meeker in Sonoma County, however.

Mrs. Halsey was a member of the Camp Meeker Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary.

She was a native of New York and in 1934 was named national women's amateur fencing champion.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two sisters, Margharita Burke of New York and Henryetta Burnside of Palm Springs, and a brother, James Burnside of Florida.

Burila will be in the Occidental Druid Cemetery.

Man Talks Thief Out Of Paranoia, Gets Loot Back

A Sausalito man, robbed by a hitchhiker, talked his assailant into giving the money back, Marin County Sheriff's office reported yesterday.

Deputies said Michael A. Wildman, 27, of 204A Cazneau Street, picked up a hitchhiker in San Francisco Wednesday and drove him to Marin City.

Near a lot at 100 Drake Avenue, the man grabbed Wildman's head and demanded his wallet.

Wildman wasn't carrying one, but gave the man $1.50 in cash.

Then, Wildman told deputies, the man started saying he thought Wildman was a policeman and he was being set up.

Boredom Held Misdeed Cause

BASINGSTOKE, England (UPI)—Boredom drove her to steal, says housewife Norma Dillon, 36.

She told a Basingstoke court Wednesday she and her sister went on a shoplifting spree to put some excitement in their life.

"The idea was just to liven things up a bit, though it seems ridiculous now," she said.

Mrs. Dillon was fined $24 after admitting stealing goods worth $8. Her sister, Mrs. June Hood, 26, was fined $12 after admitting stealing $1.99 worth.

Boredom Cited By Drop-Outs

STANFORD (UPI) —Boredom and frustration are the main reasons students temporarily drop out of Stanford University.

The opportunity to travel, financial problems, no need for credits because of previous academic acceleration and special job opportunities were the other reasons cited for abandoning classes.

Overtime Vs. More Help Aired

The Cotati City Council was advised last night that it should either expand its police department or begin to pay overtime to the four present officers.

City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen said the four-man department budget is figured on 20-hour per day coverage and suggested the council consider boosting the hours to 24.

Salfen said the department regularly provides round-the-clock protection, but that officers have been working many overtime hours. Officers do not get paid for overtime work, but are expected to take compensatory time off. Saflen said that since the time must be taken within 30 days, the officers usually don't get the time off.

He suggested that an additional officer be hired or that officers be paid for overtime work. Salfen said that while the salary of a fifth officer would be the greater expense, it would probably provide better protection since officers may become exhausted working 11 hour days.

The council said it would consider the plan and await a recommendation for Police Chief Tony Locarini.

The Cotati City Council also:

MEETING — Set a special meeting for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the fire station to review the proposed general plan with the planning commission and citizens planning advisory committee.

DOGS — Heard Salfen report that Vasser's Cotati Kennels would be willing to transport stray dogs from the crowded Cotati pound to the Petaluma pound at a cost of $1 per dog. He said it would permit police officers to better enforce the new 24-hour leash law by providing more impound space.

SEWER LINES — Accepted as complete the $100,000 project to install new sewer lines and a connection with the Rohnert Park waste water disposal plant.

FINALIST — Scott A. Bowman, 17, Tamalpais High School senior, is one of 10 outstanding engineering-oriented high school seniors chosen by the San Francisco Bay Area Engineering Council to compete for scholarships ranging from $300 to $1,200. Winners will be announced Wednesday during Bay Area Engineers Week, Feb. 21-27.

Bolinas Lagoon To Stay Natural

If boating or commercial interests have any hopes of massive harbor development in Bolinas Lagoon, they'd better forget it because Marin intends to keep the lagoon in as natural a state as possible.

That was the message delivered today by County Administrator Alan Bruce at a meeting of the State Navigation and Ocean Development Commission in the Marin Civic Center. The commission was to hear from Pierre W. Joske, county director of parks and recreation, this afternoon on the future plans for the lagoon, which the county took over from the state last year.

Bruce said he had been asked by Chairman Louis H. Baar of the Marin County Board of Supervisors to welcome the commission and express the County's opposition to any large-scale harbor development in the lagoon.

State legislation which turned the lagoon over to the county does not mention "harbor of refuge", but refers only to an emergency harbor for shelter of shallow draft vessels during storms, said Bruce.

"The lagoon is regarded by a majority of the county residents as essentially a natural asset of rare and unique nature to be preserved in a natural state," said Bruce. "No one from the boating or commercial interests should have high hopes for any major use of Bolinas Lagoon."

Bruce told the commission he has received a floor of telegrams, letters and petitions opposing the establishment of boating facilities in the lagoon.

Contract For Extra Tennis Courts Set

The Larkspur School District board agreed to a contract with Larkspur for joint use of two tennis courts to be built at Larkspur-Corte Madera School.

Supt. Milton S. Cohen said the agreement calls for exclusive use by students during school hours. During nonschool hours the courts will be open to the public, he said.

The district had previously voted to contribute to the project $500 plus the land; the city's share is $2,900.

The Larkspur School District board also:

SUMMER SCHOOL — Appointed Leo Zaro, vice principal of San Clemente School, to head the summer school session slated for June 16 to July 16 at Neil Cummins School.

SECURITY — Discussed with Warren Glass of Warren Security Company of Sausalito the possibility of providing protection of the four schools against vandals. The cost was estimated at $1,000 per school each year.

LIBARY FUNDS — Achnowledged the receipt of $1,631 for library books and audio visual materials received from the federal government under Title II, Phase I of the Elementary Secondary Education Act.

WINTON ACT — Approved changes in the Winton Act required by the state. Primary change in the procedure of negotiating with teachers on salary is that teachers must now announce their salary demands in open session.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to March 11.

Peninsula Police Panel Likes Merger

The first meeting of a joint Tiburon-Belvedere committee last night to study merger of police operations in the two communities uncovered no reason why the consolidation should not take place.

Committee co-chairman Donald W. Davis of Belvedere said no major objection was raised at the session and the committee will delve into the merger further at a second meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at Tiburon City Hall.

Chairman of that meeting, at which committee members will discuss the structure of a combined police department, will be Tiburon resident Jack P. Kampmeyer.

Davis said Belvedere Police Chief John W. Jaeger and Tiburon Sheriff's Lt. Angelo J. Mecchi described law enforcement problems peculiar to each community.

Except for Tiburon's traffic woes along Tiburon Boulevard, Davis said, "The general beat in each city is about the same."

Claims Will Be Pressed Over Boycott Last Fall

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Five food market chains, the City of San Rafael, the Independent-Journal and the National Labor Relations Board today were to press claims of more than $100,000 against three labor unions in connection with an attempted boycott last October.

Judge William T. Sweigert of U.S. District Court this afternoon was to hear attorneys for the claimants argue why they should be reimbursed for losses incurred because of the boycott.

Judge Sweigart last month fined the three union locals $25,000 each for criminal contempt in connection with secondary boycotts against I-J advertisers.

The three locals — San Francisco Typographical Union 21 and Teamster Locals 70 and 85 — were tried and found guilty by Sweigert after complaints were filed by the NLRB that the unions had violated injunctions prohibiting secondary boycott action.

The boycott in support of the typographical union's year-old strike against the I-J consisted of picketing and vandalism at Marin stores and the threatening of delivery truck drivers going to stores.

The five food chains, Lucky Stores, Arden-Mayfair, United Markets, Cala Foods and Purity Stores, want a total of $26,036 in addition to attorney fees of $2,147.

The I-J is asking $68,791 for advertising losses and other expenses, and the city of San Rafael wants $1,380 for salaries for increased police activity during the period.

The NLRB has filed a claim for $19,639 for its costs.

Souza Files For Reed Board

Reed School District trustee Leo Souza, bitter opponent of board president Gordon C. Wright, yesterday filed for reelection to the board.

Earlier, Souza had said he was not going to run again.

Souza has been at odds with Wright since the board president was elected in 1969 along with two other men who objected to increasing costs in the district. Souza is supporting the recall of Wright in the April 20 election.

Other filings for school boards reported today by the county school officers were:

Fairfax — Marilyn June Birks of 82 Wood Lane, a housewife, and C. Patrick Fitzgerald of Buena Vista Drive, an incumbent.

Lagunitas — Glen E. Twitchell, of 50 Mountain View Avenue, an incumbent.

Marin Junior College District — Charles W. Gray of 15 Palm Avenue, San Rafael, an incumbent.

Course In Stocks Will Be Offered

A course in securities and investments will be offered beginning Tuesday by the Petaluma Adult Education Department.

Eugene L. Box, a registered representative of a New York Stock Exchange member firm, will serve as instructor. The class will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. on Tuesdays at Petaluma Senior High School. Registration may be made by calling the adult education office.

Union Leaders In 15 Days

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that three union leaders were released from Marin County Jail after serving 18 days for contempt of court. They served 15 days.

Released were Leon Olson and Donald Abrams, president and vice president of San Francisco typographical Union 21, and Jack Goldberger, president of Periodical Drivers and Helpers Union, Local 921.

They had been jailed for their parts in a riot growing out of a labor rally outside the Independent-Journal Feb. 14, 1970.

Civic Center Bomb Threat

A telephoned bomb threat caused evacuation of the Marin Civic Center at 4:30 p.m. yesterday, but searchers found no explosives.

Lt. Ronald Retana, head of the security division, said that a raspy male voice told the switchboard operator that a bomb would go off "before the Civic Center closes." The call came at about 4:15 p.m., 45 minutes before closing time.

This was the third bomb threat at the Civic Center since the Oct. 8 explosion that demolished a courtroom in the Hall of Justice.

Cambodia Sends Quake Aid Money

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Cambodian government has announced it is sending $2,000 to the Los Angeles earthquake victims as a gesture of token humanitarian aid.

"The government of the Khmer Republic shares the deep grief of your community and extends its heartfelt sympathy to you on this sad occasion," the Cambodian government said. "Despite its present difficulties it will soon send you token humanitarian aid in the amount of $2,000 for the victims."

Car's Engine Is Vandalized

A vandal poured gravel in the engine oil and cut the fan belt and radiator hose of a car belonging to Susan Louise Blackletter of 510 Pinewood Drive, San Rafael police reported.

Miss Blackletter told police a former boyfriend had been hounding her and followed her yesterday until she parked at 1618 Second Street at 12:30 p.m.

NEW THREE-DOOR PINTO

The Pinto Runabout, a three-door version of Ford's subcompact, is expected to be in dealers' showrooms before the end of the month. A large, upswinging rear door and backlight, hinged at the roof, gives greater carrying capacity of the combined trunk and rear seat area. Cars will be shown in Marin at Lyons-Ryan Ford, San Rafael; Novato Ford Co., Novato; and J and B Ford Sales, Corte Madera.

NEWEST PONTIAC ADDITION - VENTURA II

This new model in the Pontiac 1971 lineup is being unveiled at the Chicago Automobile Show this month and will be available March 11 at Marin Automobile Co., San Rafael. Built on a 111-inch wheelbase, the new compact will be offered in two-door and four-door models. Three-speed transmission, self-adjusting brakes and a 250-cubic inch six-cylinder engine are standard equipment.

OPEL 1900 TO MAKE FIRST APPEARANCE

This new four-door version of the 1971 Opel 1900 series is being displayed at the Chicago Auto Show this month and will be available at Don Collins Buick, San Rafael next month. Standard equipment for this car and other 1900 models — two-door sedan, station wagon and two coupes — include power front disc brakes and four-speed synchromesh transmission.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Duquesne Light Is Good Investment

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My husband, 72, and I, 61, are semi-retired. From our present income I have $30 to $50 a month which I would like to invest. Would Duquesne Light be a suitable choice? — R. G.

A. This electric utility, providing a generous return of 6.5 per centat current levels, is an excellent investment choice for a semi-retired couple. Approximately two-thirds of the $1.66 annual dividend is exempt from income tax, a benefit which should continue through 1972. Of the $14.3 million in rate increases sought by Duquesne, $11.3 million has been granted by the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission since last February.

Although financing requirements this year are expected to be heavy, recently reduced interest rates should benefit earnings. For the year just ended, earnings were $2.10 a share up modestly from the $2.07 reported in 1969.

Q. I am interested in the AA-rated hospital bonds described in the enclosed circular sent out by an institutional investment underwriter. The bonds pay good interest — are they safe? R.E., A.Z., and I.K.

A. That fact that these bonds are rated AA by a reputable national rating service is in their favor. Nonetheless you should send for and read the offering prospectus to ascertain for yourself the financial condition of the hospital and any other pertinent facts.

Although the offering underwriters may maintain a market in these issues, buyers are not always available when needed. Thus it is quite possible that you might not be able to readily dispose of these bonds if cash was needed in an emergency prior to maturity date.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Educational Tax Deductions Fall Under Controversial Regulation

Expenses for education are deductible if you qualify.

The regulations apply to self-employed persons as well as to teachers and other employees.

Expenses for education may be deducted if primarily for:

1. Maintaining or improving skills required in your employment or other trade or business, or

2. Meeting the express requirements of your employer, or the requirements of applicable law or regulations imposed as a condition to the retention of your salary, status or employment.

Expenses incurred for obtaining a new position, or for personal purposes are not deductible.

Where or how do you deduct these expenses on form 1040?

If you are an outside salesman, all your educational expenses are deductible on line 43 of form 1040, page 2, and you should attach form 2106, and if you are not an outside salesman, your travel expenses while away from home overnight are deductible on line 43 and you should attach form 2106, while all other educational expenses are deducted as itemized deductions on Schedule A, line 16, Miscellaneous Deductions. Here again you compute the deduction on form 2106 and claim both parts of the deduction in two separate places as above.

Be sure to complete part III of form 2106.

If you are self-employed, your educational expenses are deducted on Schedule C, together with your other business expenses.

If a course leads to a degree this will not, of itself, bar a deduction for the expense.

Also, a change of position or a promotion within the same occupation will not bar the deduction.

Educational expenses is still a controversial area and there are many conflicting decisions.

You should secure a copy of "Your Federal Income Tax 1971 Edition for Individuals" from your office of the IRS (cost 75 cents). This will give you the IRS position.

California has a special form for Expenses for Education FTB 3805Y which you should use for your California return.

THE WEEK'S BUSINESS

Rudolph J. Drews To PG&E Board

Rudolph J. Drews of Ross has been elected a director of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., filling the vacancy left by the death of the late Carl F. Wente.

Drews is chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Foremost-McKesson, Inc., a director of Western Bancorporation and a director of the California State Chamber of Commerce.

PG&E directors have authorized the sale of three million shares of $25 par value redeemable first preferred stock, which is expected to be offered to the public on April 7. Proceeds will be used to finance the company's continuing program of expansion.

BOISE CASCADE has purchased the St. Helens, Ore. sawmill of Pope and Talbott, Inc., which adjoins its own pulp and paper mill there. The two companies have also been discussing the possible sale of certain timberlands to Boise Cascade, but have not reached any agreement on price and terms. Pope and Talbot income of $1,946,000 or $1.03 per share for 1970 was down considerably from the $3.4 million, or $1.81 per share for 1969.

SONOMA MINES, INC., Guerneville reported a net profit of $9,048 or approximately one cent per share for the first six months of its fiscal year, even though operating under a curtailed schedule since last July. Severe storms during December caused considerable unproductive time at the company's Altoona Mine in Trinity County and the profit was due entirely to increased production at the Mt. Jackson Mine in Sonoma County.

AMPEX CORP. sales were up slightly in the third quarter ended Jan. 30 but earnings have continued well below last year. Sales of $82 million compared with $80 million a year ago. Earnings dropped from 37 to 12 cents per share.

PACIFIC SOUTHWEST AIRLINES reported earnings of $4.8 million on total revenues of $94 million for the year ended Dec. 31, 1970, compared to $3.5 million earnings on $74.6 million revenues in 1969. Earnings per share in 1970 amounted to $1.52, compared to $1.13 for the prior year.

THE BEKINS CO. reported operating earnings and revenues for 1970 increased slightly from 1969, while earnings per share remained steady. Operating earnings for 1970 were $4 million or $1.12 per share, very little above the 1969 figures. Operating revenues for 1970 were $111.7 million; 1969 revenues were $108.8 million.

CONSOLIDATED FOODS CORP. has acquired Sirena, a leading producer of women's swimwear for an undisclosed amount of common stock. Both companies will remain in their same positions following the acquisition.

B. F. GOODRICH CO. net sales and income for the fourth quarter and full year of 1970 declined from 1969 levels. Fourth quarter sales were $286.9 million, a decrease of 8.6 per cent from the record $313.8 million in 1969. Net sales for the full year of 1970 were $1,204.7 million, compared to record sales of $1,229.1 million in 1969, a decrease of 2 per cent.

GROLIER, INC. has announced in a preliminary report that earnings for 1970, subject to further audit, would be $2.41 per share on net sales of about $231.5 million. This compares with earnings of $2.26 per share on sales of $207.2 million in 1969.

THE COLEMAN CO., INC. had record sales of $143.8 million in 1970, up 24 per cent over 1969. Earnings of $5.5 million were down 4 per cent from the $5.7 million earned in 1969.

Alaskan Well

DENVER (UPI) — Forest Oil Corp. has commenced drilling a 13,000-foot wildcat gas well on the Arctic Slope of Alaska.

The well site is 20 miles southwest of Pan American Petroleum's Kavik No. 1 well, which reportedly tested at a flow of 54 million cubic feet of gas daily from triassic sands.

Prices Fall On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices fell during the first two hours of trading on the New York Stock Exchange today. Turnover was active but well off the blistering pace of most of the month.

Shortly before noon declines outpaced advances, 900 to 258, among the 1,481 issues crossing the tape. The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips slid 4.79 to 880.27.

"The market finally seems to be entering a consolidation phase after three months of steady advance," one analyst said. He added that "a few days, even a few weeks, of such consolidation would be normal and would not change the market's basic upward direction."

Control Data Reports Losses

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Control Data Corp. announced a $2.7 million loss for 1970, compared to a $51.7 million on $3.51 a share profit in 1969.

Revenues for 1970 dropped to $540 million from $570 million in 1969, the company said. The year ago revenues included $39 million from sale of lease rights.

Control Data said its computer business last year lost $35.6 million. In addition, several affiliated companies lost a total of $5.3 million.

ROAMING RETRIEVERS PULL COSTLY CAPER

Man's best friend is no friend of Carolin Mushet of Belvedere.

Mrs. Mushet, of 16 Mallard Road, was at her weekend residence on Perth Way in Inverness the other day when she left her purse on the jamb of a basement door.

Two black dogs — retrievers, she told Marin County sheriff's deputies — entered the back yard near the door.

One dog picked up a small log. The other retrieved Mrs. Musket's purse which contained $200 in cash.

The dogs took off with Mrs. Mushet in hot pursuit, but she soon lost them, and the purse and the $200.

The canine caper occurred Feb. 8, according to a sheriff's report released yesterday. Deputies later found the dogs, but no sign of Mrs. Mushet's purse.

Shoreline Primary Pupils Read Well

Most primary students, first, second and third grades, in the Shoreline Unified School District scored above the state average in reading tests last May, the district board was told last night.

Charles Billings, district psychologist, also reported that as students progress from first through third grades the number in the lower 25 per cent of state ranking had decreased.

Asst. Supt. Anthony Matulich reported that differentiated staffing, where teachers are involved in curriculum development, instituted at Tomales High and Middle schools, is expected to be extended to elementary schools in the 1971-72 school year.

The Shoreline Unified School District Board also:

TRAINING DAY — Authorized closing of classes, kindergarten through eighth grade, March 5 for a teachers' training day.

ARCHITECT — Received a list of four architects recommended by a selection committee to plan a new Tomales elementary school, and set further screening including trips to the firms and their other projects March 10 and 12.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of Sharon Bordessa, library aide, Tomales High School, effective April 30, and hired Pat Haines, teacher aide, West Marin School, at $2.85 an hour.

COUNSELING — Approved an application for $6,425 in federal funds for counseling, which the district must match.

ABAG Assembly Adopts Budget Of $1,287,289

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The general assembly of the Association of Bay Area Governments last night overwhelmingly adopted a $1,287,289 budget for the next fiscal year, including a 6.4 per cent boost in membership fees paid by city and county members.

Three cities — none from Marin or Southern Sonoma — and Santa Clara County voted against the budget, according to Lizette Weiss, public information officer for ABAG.

The spending program will be down $104,222 from the current fiscal year, largely because ABAG studies of airports and community shelters are expected to be completed by June 30. The boost in dues is to meet increased operating expenses.

In other business, the general assembly approved a resolution asking the Legislature to establish regional planning councils throughout the state. Mrs. Weiss said one delegate objected to a recommended provision that councils would be composed primarily of elected and city and county officials, but his bid to eliminate it was defeated.

Earlier, at a meeting of ABAG's executive committee, the City of Novato won approval to conduct a study of its street system to improve safety and reduce congestion, and the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings was given permission to apply for $45,360 in federal funds toward connecting sewer systems ofthe San Rafael-Richmond Bridge to municipal facilities on both ends of the span.

Nude Sunbathing Plea Date Set

Seven persons arrested Sunday for alleged nude sunbathing at Muir Beach have been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court.

Leroy Henry Greenberg, 28, of Sausalito; Howell Stanley Cobb, 39, of no known address; Jack Anthony Sullins, 25, of Pacifica, and John Allen Fairchild, 24, Robert Glenn Long Jr., 22, Richard Sharp Williams, 49, and Patricia Louise Perdue, 21, all of San Francisco, are to plead to the charge March 3.

Tax Status Of Ranch Under Study

The 1,500-acre Horace W. Maggetti ranch east of Marshall, appraised at a market value of $411,000, will probably go off the tax rolls because it was acquired last month by Synanon Foundation.

Herschel Johnson, assistant county assessor, said he had not yet received a tax-exemption request from Synanon because the time for such application is between March 1 and 15.

"If the property is used in conjunction with the purposes of the organization, the possibility of exemption is good," said Johnson.

The Maggetti ranch is assessed this year at $94,553. Since the tax rate in the Marshall area is $8.81 per $100 assessed valuation, the tax revenue from the ranch totals $8,325. If tax exemption is granted, the county will lose the $8,325 revenue.

The Maggetti ranch is located on Marshall-Petaluma Road behind the Old Marconi station, which is the headquarters of Synanon Foundation in Marin. The 62-acre Marconi property and its buildings are assessed at $175,300, but this, too, is tax exempt. The $175,300 assessment would normally bring a revenue of $15,444.

Assessor Bert W. Broemmel said that Synanon is designated by the state as a nonprofit, charitable organization. If uses on the newly acquired property are consistent with the purpose of that organization, the property would be tax-exempt.

Till Is Tapped At Goodwill's Office

Two men stole $20 from the till at Goodwill Industries in San Rafael yesterday after diverting the attention of the cashier, San Rafael police reported today.

Police said one of the men made a 25-cent purchase then, while the cash register was open, asked to see beads behind the clerk. His companion then took the money and the pair fled, police said.

A Light Storm Brings Rain

A light storm dumped varying amounts of rain on Marin and Southern Sonoma Counties last night, with the southern portion of Marin receiving the heaviest amount.

Amounts varied from .70 at Sausalito to a trace of Novato. A half-inch fell in San Rafael.

The weatherman predicted fair weather for tonight and tomorrow with high temperatures tomorrow in the mid-60's and lows tonight in the 40's.

Planned Development Modification Asked

A Sausalito City Council recommendation that planned unit developments in residential areas can contain only separate, detached dwelling units has been modified by the Sausalito Planning Commission.

Although the commission agreed most planned developments in residential zones should be limited to detached dwellings, it recommended that exceptions be allowed in some cases, according to planning director H. Eric Borgwardt.

Borgwardt said the planners felt townhouses, duplexes and other attached units should be allowed in some planned developments, providing the plans for such developments win approval from both the planning commission and the city council.

In December the city council approved the planning commission's suggestion that planned unit housing be permitted in single-family areas of Sausalito. But the council's approval carried the stipulation that only separate homes and no attached structures be allowed in the developments.

The council will consider the planning commission's recommendations at its March 2 meeting.

The planners also refused permission to allow Scoma's Restaurant, 588 Bridgeway, to add a dining pavilion to the shore side of the building. Borgwardt said the commission did approve a variance to permit the restaurant to enclose an open work area for use as additional kitchen space.

A request by developer Joseph Duffel for a six-month extension of a condition use permit to allow construction of the 431-unit Whiskey Springs planned development was approved by the planners. Duffel's original permit expired this week, according to the planning director, and the developer does not plan to begin construction on the apartments until May 1.

Singer-Composer To Perform Tonight

Folk singer and composer Earl Robinson will perform at 8 p.m. today in Ives Hall of Music at Sonoma State College.

The event is sponsored by the Lectures and Concerts Division of the Student Activities Office. Robinson has composed many songs and cantatas that have been recorded and performed by major symphonies and choruses. His songs have also been used in movies such as "Maybe I'll Come Home in the Spring," "Hurry Sundown" and "The House I Live In."

Transit Urged For Highway

The Mill Valley School District board and city council will consider identical resolutions urging the Golden Gate Bridge District to keep a future rapid transit system along Highway 101.

School Supt. James A. Collins said the school board last night ordered a resolution prepared stating Mill Valley's opposition to any rapid transit use of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, which passes through the middle school site and Edna Maguire School.

City Councilman Jerome C. Hauke, who also attended last night's special meeting of the school board, said he would introduce the measure at the March 1 council meeting.

Passage of the measure by both bodies is assured as each has indicated in the past its opposition to rapid transit use of the railroad right-of-way.

The resolution will urge the bridge district to build a new road parallel to the freeway for mass transit.

Nurses at Beekman-Downtown Hospital, New York, have begun wearing white pants suits instead of conventional uniforms.

New Policy On Drug Treatment

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)— District Attorney Ed Miller has initiated a policy of not arresting persons who seek emergency treatment for being under the influence of illegal drugs or narcotics.

"Requests for such a policy have come from hospitals, physicians, psychiatrists and various volunteer groups," Miller said. "It is to remove the fear that persons, particularly young persons, ... would be subject to arrest if they sought help for their condition."

He said persons seeking such treatment would not be reported nor subject to arrest so long as no other laws were violated.

Focus on Today

The promises of Christ Jesus, the Prophets, and Apostles are timeless; but to make them practical now, we need to know their deeper spiritual meanings. And we need to know the timeless nature of our own being. Showing man's true nature and his relation to God is the purpose of every Christian Science Church Service. You are always welcome.

Be our guest in the White House

You will know as much as anyone about what goes on in the White House and in the Presidency by the simple act of reading the I-J. (Only the President and intimates will know more).

For the I-J, through its United Press International reporters, is virtually "in residence" as much as the President. Which makes you our welcome guest to the White House.

Our reporters are constantly alert to staff and cabinet meetings, to affairs of international import, to the diplomatic front, to the comings and goings which make the White House a world center of significant news. The job is sensitive. It requires a sixth sense to know when news of major concern is about to break. And concern in how to "break" it accurately and without bias.

Be our guest and stay as long as you like. Our columns lead right to the White House.

Mahi Mahi, Sea Bass, Snapper: Try Your Luck At The Grotto

Not all is seafood at the Grotto in San Rafael — though this is still its big attraction.

New menu also lists steaks, ground beef, chicken liver saute sec, boned chicken saute sec and boned curried chicken — should you prefer to eat what walks on the ground to what swims in ocean, lake or river.

I'll still go for Ursula Valan's filet of sole meuniere or her abalone steak. And here's something I hadn't noticed before under specials — avocado, stuffed with crab and shrimp. Another special is crab newburg and on the same list are mahi mahi, sea bass and red snapper. These may not be available everytime you go there — but ask for them anyway.

SPEAKING OF SEAFOOD MENUS, I've been looking over the carte of the Trident in Sausalito, which features Sashimi when the right fish is available. It's served raw. This is one thing I don't think Ursula Valan has tried yet at the Grotto — but give her time. She's a great one for experimenting.

JUST TO MAKE SURE I wasn't wrong — I sampled again the crepes of Eugene Lackenbach at Eugene's Country Club Restaurant in San Rafael. There is no doubt about it — I still have to rate him number one in this field, and that's against some pretty stiff competition.

Trouble is — just try to get him to fix you some. He'll try to switch you to his hamburgers every time. They're good, too — but the crepes — voila and oo-la-la!

YOU CAN START tuning up your carburetor and ignition next week — come March 1 when several of the Sonoma County restaurants, which have been hibernating through the winter, will open.

Among these is Golden Bear Lodge in Kenwood, Valley of the Moon, where Art Dieterle and Gene Boulware will continue featuring that wonderful smorgasbord table. Day of closing is Thursday.

Another is picturesque and historical Mark West Lodge between Santa Rosa and Calistoga, with its select European menu. Try the filet mignon a la king of Bohemia. Day of closing is Wednesday.

And don't forget Cazanoma Lodge in Cazadero, where Walter and Agnes Lenk serve both German and American dinners. During March and April these will be served Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays only. But in May Cazanoma will go on its full week schedule.

IF YOU FEEL LIKE going a little farther north, consider Franchini's Tee House near Kelseyville, Lake County. If I am not mistaken, the Franchinis' seasonal general liquor license came alive again for 1971 on the first of this month.

ON THE NORTH COAST, the license at Noyo River Inn, Fort Bragg, presided over by Gregory Seubert, is a year-round one — but it's the weather I'm thinking about in this case.

I understand it has been sunny and bright in that area and the trip should be a pleasant one. On weekends figure this place for Saturday — not Sunday. I believe the inn has been closing on Sunday recently.

THIS WEEKEND, the Lion's Share on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile is featuring Doc Watson (with Merle Watson) for entertainment through Sunday.

THE REFECTORY, best known to Marinites for its location in the Bon Air Shopping Center, Greenbrae, is still expanding and about to open its 10th restaurant.

This one will be at 1906 El Camino Real in Menlo Park — the first and probably the only venture on the peninsula to be opened by Dave Peterson and John Leonudakis. It is located where the Coach and Six (previously the Stone Cellar) used to be.

In the past six years these two have also established steak houses in Lafayette, Walnut Creek, Fresno and San Francisco — also at Raleigh Hills and Portland in Oregon, Snowmass-at-Aspen, Colo. and Tucson, Ariz. Still another Arizona restaurant is planned to open soon at Scottsdale. More in the planning are scheduled for Sacramento, Denver and Los Angeles.

The first Refectory was opened at Lafayette in 1965. Greenbrae followed in 1967 — on the site of the former Confucius Restaurant.

THERE IS WORD from Fred Cherry that the next big feast of Les Bon Vivants will be to celebrate the final day before Lent on Shrove Tuesday next week — the 23rd.

Food, wine and music of France, Germany, Spain, Italy and Brazil will be featured, with some additional offerings from Poland, Switzerland and Austria. There will be a discussion on each wine after it is served by Fred, on the pattern of his traditional California nights. And executive chef Dick Willette will describe preparation of the exotic dishes.

Information and reservations for this and similar future events may be obtained by telephoning or writing Tamal Food Service, 2 Kensington Road, San Anselmo. Ask for Miss Alexander.

RUBY CULLINAN, who has had Ruby's Coffe Shop in downtown Sausalito for more years than it's easy to remember, is expecting to move out to her new location at 2656 Bridgeway the first of next week (north of the Big G Market).

She will serve breakfasts, lunches and dinners — sandwiches, soup, chili and businessmen's daily specials — but for the time being breakfasts will be held to Saturdays and Sundays only, from 6 a.m. to 1 p.m.

WHEN TRAVELING BY CAR, there are a few simple checks on unknown restaurants to help in deciding whether they are likely to be satisfactory.

Is there a parking lot adjoining the restaurant? If so, it may indicate a well established, well patronized place — but more important, it may give you an opportunity to size up the number of local cars rather than out of state automobiles. If the restaurant is good, local residents will patronize it.

Automobile club recommendations and gasoline company guides help — but match their recommendations in your own home neighborhood with your personal restaurant experiences there to appraise their true value.

Service club signs are another clue. Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and other organizations look for quality restaurants for their meetings — and leave them if they don't measure up to standards. Watch for their meeting signs as you enter town.

STEVE CORLEY TRIO AT HOLIDAY INN

Beer Parlor Is Due Study

The Novato Planning Commission will consider an application to permit a beer parlor with pool tables and casino games at 1205 Grant Avenue at 8 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House.

Harry Haneman is the applicant for the permit to operate at the building, formerly occupied by a Rexall Drug Store.

Commissioners also will consider an application to zone 15.4 acres east of the College of Marin's north campus site and south of San Jose Junior High School for single-family residential development. It is now zoned limited agriculture.

Pleads Innocent To Burglary Count

James Kenneth, 52, of New Mexico, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge that he burglarized the Sausalito Salvage Shop, 19 Princess Street, last Sunday.

A preliminary hearing was set for Monday. He was arrested when police found him in the second-hand clothing store with a stolen suitcase and 12 shirts.

Door Closed To Chamber Welcome Bid

The Novato Plan Review Committee has rejected plans by the Novato Chamber of Commerce for two welcome signs at entrances to the city along Highway 101.

The committee objected to the size, character and proposed location of the signs, reported Senior Planner Gary Holloway.

The chamber planned signs, 9.5 feet high and 17 feet long, on the east side of the highway north of Lamont Avenue, and on the west side of the highway near the McGraw Hill building.

The plan review committee Wednesday night also approved plans by Standard Unvestment Co. for a 16-unit condominium on the east side of San Andreas Drive between San Marin Drive and San Andreas Court, and a triplex apartment at the northeast corner of San Andreas Drive and San Andreas Court. The condominiums were approved subject to approval of a change in the San Marin master plan and precise development plans.

College's Bond Vote Up In Air

Marin Junior College District trustees decided on cliffhanger strategy last night for the district's $16,920,000 bond election still scheduled for April 20.

The trustees decided they may postpone the election at their March 4 meeting. The action will depend on developments in "one man, one vote" cases before the United States Supreme Court, and in the California Community Colleges battle to offset the budget austerity ordered by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

John A. Grasham, district superintendent-president, said that County Elections Officer Peter Meyer can delay printing the bond issue ballot until March 5, but no later.

Last November, the bond issue received 62.49 per cent "yes" votes when a two-thirds vote was needed. The Supreme Court has been considering the one-man-one-vote arguments since Dec. 7, 1970. If it approves the argument, it will do away with the two-thirds majority in favor of a simple majority for bond passage.

Grasham pointed out that the board also might take advantage of another public election, tentatively set for June 29, to reschedule the bond election. If so, trustees would have to act no later than April 1 to meet deadlines for legal requirements.

The delay might help the district, through the liklihood that the state Legislature would have adopted the 1971-72 budget before June 29, Grasham noted in response to a question by Trustee Charles Gray.

"The actual problem is how much we'd know by April 1, if we go ahead with a June 29 bond issue," said Trustee Chairman Elizabeth Deedy.

Plead Innocent To Burglary

Arthur Charles Sidebotham, 33, and Ronald Jackson Hall, 38, both of Gate 5, Sausalito, have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglarizing Granny's Clothing Store in Sausalito.

A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

The pair was arrested Sunday when police noticed glass in the front door broken and surprised the men inside the store.

'Restrictive' Code Irks College Board

With a blast at the "restrictive" state Education Code, Marin Junior College District trustees went through the formalities of denying official sanction to the College of Marin drama department's participation in the Edinburgh festival this summer.

The five trustees present at last night's meeting then promptly displayed lapel pins and individually urged support of fund-raising efforts to send the college's troupe to Scotland to stage its Western-style "Taming of the Shrew."

The lapel pins, being sold to support the journey, resemble the Cross of St. Andrew, patron saint of Scotland, or the British Union Jack flag.

The formal disavowal on a 4 to 1 vote resulted from advice by the Marin County Counsel's Office that the state law bars board sponsorship of the journey abroad.

Trustee Harry J. Moore refused to go along with the legal advice, voting against the disavowal.

Trustees Donaid K. Felt and Robert E. Oliver were absent.

Trustee Robert E. Rogers branded the law "inappropriate" and praised drama department head James C. Dunn and his students, who were invited to Scotland after gaining worldwide attention for their play.

Chairman Elizabeth Deedy declared "maybe we'll get some changes in the law" as a result of "this sort of thing."

"This kind of adherence to the law would not be necessary if we had a permissive education code. With the code we do have, if it does not say you can do something, you cannot do it," she added.

Marin Junior College Board also:

ARCHAEOLOGY — Approved a 60-day digging project to recover Indian artifacts from the site of the future Kentfield campus library building, beginning March 15. A permit must be obtained from the county board of supervisors.

NORTH CAMPUS — Formally adopted the long-discussed proposal that the campus near Novato be constructed with a nucleus of three "inner colleges" to serve a beginning enrollment of 2,200 students. Mrs. Deedy stressed that architectural plans should make every attempt to preserve the neighborhood's traffic pattern, campus vegetation and natural topography and environment.

TRAILER — Accepted as complete, the $11,735 installation of a trailer at Marin General Hospital for use by nursing trainees.

OIL SLICK — Heard a report from John A. Grasham, district president-superintendent, that the district has applied for $34,000 in grants to study the effects of the January oil spill on shoreline ecology. Standard Oil Co., whose tankers were responsible for the spill, has completely cleaned up and returned to normal the college's Marine biology station at Bolinas, a major headquarters for the battle to save the beaches and waterfowl of West Marin, Grasham said.

MANUAL — Set 8 p.m. Feb. 23 for discussion of the district's classified personnel manual.

GIFTS — Adopted a detailed policy on acceptance of gifts to the college. The offer of a painting and motion picture equipment under the new policy will be considered at the board's March 4 regular meeting.

CHANGE ORDER — Approved $5,303.29 in change orders for the Science-Harlan Center building project, but took no action of the contractor's request for time extensions.

REMODELING — Unanimously voted to return $55,815 in state matching funds originally obtained for a partial remodeling of the Kentfield campus art building. The state has approved for the 1972-73 budget a more extensive remodeling expected to cost $138,700.

CREEK CLEANUP — Received a report on plans to remove dead or diseased trees along the Corte Madera Creek channel through the Kentfield campus.

IN-SERVICE PROGRAM — Approveds credit course for faculty members, in "College teaching — the state of the art and ways to improve it."

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of John Buxton, classified personnel officer.

Man To Appear In Grass Case

A 22-year-old Santa Venetia man was arrested today on suspicion of possessing marijuana and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

San Rafael police said they arrested Ricky Bee Deem of 814 Hacienda Way at 1:10 a.m. He was noticed drinking malt liquor with two juveniles in a car at A and B streets at 1:10 a.m., police said.

Police said they found 13 quarts of malt liquor and a pipe believed to contain marijuana in Deem's car.

He was booked into Marin County Jail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

One of his juvenile companiosn was booked into juvenile hall on suspicion of a curfew violation. The second was sent home to care for a child, police said.

Thefts Of Cars Reported

Two car thefts were reported by San Rafael police today.

A silver 1963 Corvette, license XAR-478, was taken between 4:30 and 6 p.m. yesterday from the parking lot at Fairchild Semiconductor, 4800 Redwood Highway, police said. The owner is Sandra M. Medeiros of 21 Cherry Street, Petaluma, police said.

A white 1957 Thunderbird, license DNY-305, was stolen Wednesday from 45 Duffy Place, owner Douglas L. Shaffer of 89 Gregory Drive, Fairfax, told police. He said the restored vehicle is worth $3,500.

Put Reliefers To Work? Calhoun County Does It

When Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff suggested at a Senate committee hearing last fall that New York might attack its rubbish problem by putting welfare clients to work cleaning the streets, New York Mayor John V. Lindsay responded contemptuously that the senator's suggestion was "a rather extraordinary one in view of modern thought."

When President Richard M. Nixon suggested a welfare reform program aimed at putting many relief clients into productive work, the air waves and newspaper columns were promptly filled with explanations by congressmen, bureaucrats and other experts as to why it couldn't be done.

When Gov. Ronald Reagan in January sent a directive to all state department heads calling for reports on what jobs they could provide for able-bodied welfare recipients, the response was the opposite of enthusiastic.

JUST ABOUT EVERYBODY agrees that the present welfare system doesn't work. Yet just about everybody can bring up all sorts of arguments against any change in the system that is proposed. None brings out more arguments than a proposal to have the able-bodied who are on relief do something for what they are paid.

It won't work, we are told over and over, because of union opposition. It won't work because the welfare clients would require so much supervision it would be more expensive than just paying them to do nothing. It won't work because it would be demeaning to ask those on relief to work for a living like everybody else. And so on and so on.

All the usual arguments were trotted out in Calhoun County, Mich., when officials of its social services department and board of public works proposed to put relief recipients to work on public projects. But they did it anyhow.

It works.

THE STORY IS TOLD in the January issue of the American County, a magazine circulated principally to county officials.

When an unemployed man or woman in Calhoun County applies for direct relief, he receives along with his relief check an order to report on a current project to work out the amount at $1.50 per hour.

Calhoun County owned a long-abandoned factory building. It was proposed to remodel it to house the county health department. Contractors estimated the job at $80,000.

Relief recipients were put to work on it. They did the remodeling. Cost to the county: $19,000 for materials.

The county purchased a condemned dwelling for $4,000. Relief recipients completely overhauled it, at a cost of $4,000 additional for materials. The county then offered the building for sale to a welfare family at payments within their rental allowance.

These are but two of the projects completed since Calhoun County (in which the principal city is Battle Creek, the breakfast food capital) started putting relief clients to work for their money.

It works in Calhoun County, Mich. It should work in Marin County, Calif.

Congress Not Short On Power, It Just Refuses To Use It

WASHINGTON — The new Congress is off to an uncertain and unproductive start.

This was the way it was last year and it already looks like more of the same.

No wonder Congress is the target of mounting voter dissatisfaction for three very valid reasons:

1 — Congress is often unresponsive to public opinion on major matters.

2 — Congress has such a terrible time making up its own mind that inaction becomes standard.

3 — When Congress rejects what a President is asking it to approve, it rarely advances any constructive alternatives.

SENATORS AND representatives are raising their voices to complain that Congress is losing its powers to the President.

The truth is that Congress is not short on power; it is short on the will to use its power.

This is exactly the kind of legislative vacuum the nation faces for the next two years unless President Nixon can effectively focus public pressure on a Congress controlled by Democrats who seem more intent upon attacking the President than attacking the problems.

IT IS GENERALLY conceded here in Washington that Nixon's chances of getting favorable action on anything but minor parts of his legislative program are slight. Of his three big goals — welfare reform, revenue sharing and reshaping the structure of federal departments so they can do a better job — the consensus is that noe will be enacted in the form Mr. Nixon wants, if at all.

Of course Congress has no particular duty to pass measures in the form Mr. Nixon wants them. The details of the President's requests are certainly not sacrosanct.

But few dispute the fact that what the President is trying to accomplish in these three areas urgently needs to be accomplished.

THE PRESENT welfare program is working so badly that change is crucial. It divides families. It makes it difficult for people to earn their way off the relief rolls as most wish to do. Welfare reform is a critical necessity.

A redistribution of revenue so that money can be made available to state and local authorities who are nearer to the problems than Washington bureaucrats is crucially important. Revenue sharing is one way to save state and city governments from imminent bankruptcy.

The executive branch of the federal government has not had a major overhaul since it grew up like Topsy. The best management minds in the country helped the President shape the reorganization plans he has put to Congress.

I'm not saying that these three Nixon measures have to be enacted in the shape the President has laid them out. But they do deal with imperative needs of the nation, and if Congress doesn't like them, it has the obligation to deal with these problems by passing something — ideally something better — in their place.

LAST YEAR the President asked for a modest beginning for revenue sharing. Congress wouldn't even hold hearings. Last year the President advanced his welfare program and Congress rejected it.

The polls have shown majority opinion clearly in favor of the new welfare program. Revenue sharing finds the country 77 per cent in support.

My observation is that public opinion is often ahead of political leadership opinion. For 25 years there has been decisive public support for reforming the electoral college but Congress can't make up its mind even though the American people can.

Congress ought not to be too sure the public is wrong.

Congress should not be a rubber stamp for the President. It should think for itself.

But if Congress does not like the President's solutions, it ought to produce its own, not just obstruct.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Questions Don't Seem Out Of Line

The front page story (Feb. 10) about the unwed mothers objecting to the questions asked in the district attorney's questionnaire interested me.

Do I understand that these mothers are asking for support from welfare for themselves and their babies (until these babies are 21 years old) but are not willing to answer questions in order that some of these costs can be defrayed?

The questions referred to in the article did not seem out of line since they were ascertaining actual paternity and reactions to be expected when the father was actually contacted.

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney stated that these questions were "more prurient than probative". I am wondering if it is prudent of Mr. Maloney, as another county official, to be publicly giving his opinion.

Rapid Transit System Exists

I had intended to write to remind you of the last electric train to run on the N.W.P., Feb. 28, 1941. Your excellent editorial in Saturday's (Feb. 13) paper makes this reminder no longer necessary; so, please permit me to change the thrust of my letter.

In the past weeks the bridge district has been holding public meetings to discuss a long-range solution to the transportation problem in Marin County. Some five plans were considered; I consider all five plans to be inferior to the rail transportation that we had in this county 30 years ago. If the last 30 years of more concrete, wider overpasses, more cars, and now more buses is progress, please, no more progress! We were bitter off 30 years ago than we are today. I would settle for Feb. 28, 1941. 28, 1941.

Some citizens of my community have expressed strong opposition to a major transportation artery running through the Ross Valley. I should like to remind them that this valley was even more attractive when the railroad bisected the valley than it is today. Just take a look at some of the structures, and wall to wall concrete that have replaced the railroad.

MAN BITES DOG

"The Food and Drug Administration says we're still making outrageous claims for our potions."

Marin remains a beautiful area in spite of this "progress"...

The largest group of bridge directors comes from San Francisco. They do not want more cars and more buses, and are therefore natural allies.

We do not need more studies and surveys. We have a tried and proven plan. Most of the roadbed is still intact. The logical extension to Novato and north is there. The tunnel to West Marin still goes through White's Hill, thus making Highway 17 unnecessary. Center Boulevard could be restored as a roadbed at minimal cost. Our rapid transit system is still there. Let us restore it, and let us update it with the technological developments of the last 30 years...

Wouldn't license Any Hunt Club

In tonight's (Feb. 11) paper is an article regarding the Marin Municipal Water District, and its "reconsideration of hunting clubs lease."

I very strong oppose any lease, on any public land, for any hunting clubs. Wild life is being depleted so rapidly that the idiotic policy of leasing public lands to enable a few to kill more stuns me.

Complains he-man Wilsey, "The deer hunting is horrible." This because, and I emphasize: "There are very few deer left to shoot."...

Then, to add insult to his complaint, Wilsey says, "Why do we hunt in the area? We love the land." Oof!...

Moral To Save Lives Of Misery?

This is in reply to a letter written by Mrs. Sarah Hoffman of Mill Valley and appearing in the I-J on Feb. 6.

I was a member of the discussion group which met on Jan. 26 at Kaiser Foundation Hospital. The topic was abortion, and my reactions were quite different from yours.

Your premise was that abortion was immoral in all cases, even incest and rape.

Once I saw a child in an institution where I worked. Although she was five, she was the size of a two-year-old. She had no control over bladder or bowel. She was said to have a faulty heart. She was blind, and her eyeballs were like opaque white globules a little out from her face. She dug her fingers behind them to ease the pressure or the itch or the pain — she couldn't talk to tell anybody which it was. Her mother had had German measles in the first trimester of pregnancy.

Later I worked at another place where I saw old people whose brain cells (they don't regenerate) were irreversibly killed. They were incontinent just like the little girl. For most of them, long years in bed had curled their legs up cruelly like fetuses. They were spoon fed or tube fed, but tender nursing care kept them alive.

It is possible that the parents of the little girl blessed God, as you would, for the spark of life they carefully nurtured in their daughter. The old folks may have had sons and daughters who still revered them, though they never had visitors; they wouldn't have known if visitors were there.

In your letter to the I-J you took to task a doctor in our discussion group for comparing an unborn chicken with an unborn child. You didn't quote one of his most pungent phrases: that if he were an unborn child who knew he would die before the age of four of starvation, he probably wouldn't choose to be born.

Nor would I. Nor would I choose to bring into the world a child against whom the odds were formidable. Nor would I choose to live in pain and nothing else, like the poor old folks...

Do Some Doctors Avoid Medicare?

I am concerned with the fact that the more reputable physician rarely accepts a patient whose bill must be paid by Medicare. Many aged are living on small incomes and when they become ill, must face the problem of selecting a doctor who will wait to be paid by Medicare. Often these people are faced with a large bill from the doctor plus the cost of medication. In paying these bills at once they must draw from a meager income or reduce the interest on a small bank account.

My concern is: Is the doctor who is kind enough to wait for Medicare to pay his bill less capable? Because of necessity must one choose a doctor at random because of financial inability to pay his bill at once?

It is obvious that in selecting a doctor one must feel a confidence in his ability regardless of how soon he can be reimbursed. Surely Medicare is often more reliable than many who enter a doctor's office with top references.

Pensions For Presidents

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

To complete the record, we herewith report Senate passage of S.437 as amended. Originally the measure was confined to a few thoroughly justified changes in retirement benefits of federal civil service employes. The House, responding to lobbying from the White House and nobody knows where else, added an amendment more than doubling the pensions of former presidents. The Senate has now accepted the House version, and presumably President Nixon will sign it.

Under previous legislation, ex-presidents, were entitled to a pension of $25,000 a year. S.437 makes it $60,000 a year, equivalent to the salary of a cabinet member, and requires no contribution from the president while he is working.

Former presidents, of whom there are only two living, also receive an allowance of $80,000 a year for office space and staff. If they had service in Congress before going to the White House, as Messrs. Truman, Johnson and Nixon all did, they are likewise eligible for a congressional pension of $20,000 a year. All in all, not bad, especailly when it is considered as one senator remarked, that a salary of $200,000 a year "should enable an occupant of the White House to lay a little aside for his old age.

Loan To 'Save' Lake Tahoe Merely Defers Obvious Solution

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Comes the 1971 session of the legislature and the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency immediately has its hand out for $150,000 for a "loan" from the state of California to perpetuate, so it says, its very existence.

A bill providing for the loan was introduced by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'Berg, D-Sacramento. As chairman of the natural resources and conservation committee, Z'Berg has for eight years sponsored legislation to save Lake Tahoe, and was largely responsible for the planning agency.

Apparently, not everyone is enthusiastic concerning an additional agency eating taxes to perform the "saving" duties by meddling with the functions of established government.

Placer and El Dorado counties, which are on the west side of the lake, refuse to pay what the state says is their share of support for the planning agency, on the ground that the agency is primarily a state function, therefore, their taxpayers should not be assessed to finance it.

Z'Berg would loan the agency money until the courts "order the counties to pay." Z'Berg is banking on the belief that the court suit brought in the case will be resolved in favor of the agency.

The argument of the boards of supervisors of the two counties appears to have plenty of merit. The conservationists have long maintained that Lake Tahoe "belongs to the nation" as a beauty spot without peer. But they do not hesitate to dip into the pocketbooks of a small group of taxpayers just because their taxing agency happens to be adjacent to the lake.

The problems of Lake Tahoe probably never will be solved until the lake is put where it should have been in the first place — under the federal government, which should acquire all of the private property around it and make it truly the property of the people.

Indians Of Backwater Don't Fret Over Ecology

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

KING WILLIAM, Va. — Megalopolis?

They don't use that kind of language around here, although if you lay a ruler on a map you can see the area lies right in the theoretical path of the great Boston-to-Norfolk urban corridor that is supposed to be so ecologically important in the years ahead.

Ecologically?

The only thing that's made a noticeable dent in the environment God put here is the Chesapeake pulp plant, down the road on the Pamunkey River. And that's the only industry for four or five counties around. In the spring when they go fishing, the Indians on the reservation here drink the water right out of the Mattaponi without a second thought.

Indians?

NOT THE FAR western kind, who live in hovels on the dusty plains and whose poverty and other problems are a national scandal. These are the remnants of the Mattaponi and Pamunkey tribes, still living on reservations set aside for them by the colonial legislature 313 years ago, long before the white men forced their brothers across the mountains and into the least promising corners of the country.

Their problem would seem a luxury to many of the Navajo, Apaches, Utes, Cheyennes, Hopi, Zuni and other tribes of the west — as well as to poor blacks and whites on the plantations of the Mississippi Delta or the slum streets of Washington.

In such a backwater, the Mattaponi are no richer and not much poorer than their neighbors. They live in small homes, but they keep warm. They go to the county public schools — by bus, without complaining. They are free to go to the city, to Richmond or north or even to California to seek jobs, and often they do. But most of them come back.

CHIEF CURTIS T. Custalow lives in a neat recently built cinder-block house on the single circular street of the Mattaponi reservation. He has a big color TV in the living room, and he and his wife Gertrude are articulate about life on the reservation.

Then there is Joe Custalow (there are only three family names on the reservation — Custalow, Allmond and Langston). Joe, who is in his mid-30s, went to Richmond to work. As the chief said, "Most young people get married and then want to explore the great beyond, to improve themselves by mingling with the outside world."

Joe went to work with a tobacco firm that folded. He also found out it was hard to rent a decent home or apartment in the city for a family including six children. So after three years exploring the great beyond, he asked for reinstatement on the reservation.

Once a man has gone "on the commonwealth," as they put it, coming home is not a simple matter of moving back in. He has to make a formal request of the chief, who calls a meeting of the reservation council, which votes on the matter. In Joe's case there was no complication because he had left of his own free will. The only problem was finding a home for him.

Luckily, the schoolhouse was unused because the reservation's children had recently been shifted to county schools. So Joe Custalow took over the schoolhouse for himself, his wife and six children. Now he commutes daily to a job with a freight line.

ON SUNDAYS, 15 or 20 children play basketball on the court outside the school. Weekdays, the neighborhood is nearly deserted. The river flows quiet down the bluff below the Mattaponi Indian Baptist Church, and the one room "museum" begun by another branch of the Custalows is locked up tight despite its two "open" signs.

Week ends are when the families that have gone out to the great beyond come back to visit. Each week end is a preview of the big one, the fourth Sunday in August of every year, when there is a tribal reunion and the Mattaponis converge here from all directions for an old-time Baptist revival.

Between now and revival comes spring, when the shad, rock and perch are thriving in the river, and the men and boys go out in their flat-bottom boats and drink the water of the Mattaponi and bring home strings of fish for frying. None of the Mattaponi is on welfare, and the last time one of them was thrown off the reservation for misbehavior was 30 years ago.

So you see why Gertrude Custalow looked a little amazed when she told about a bookwriter who visited not long ago and couldn't understand why the Mattaponi were not militant.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

Sausalito Of Near Future: Downtown For Tourists Only

Sausalito's downtown, once a thriving residential business community, is rapidly becoming strictly a tourist center as resident-serving shops move away.

Creative Arts, 22 El Portal, and Central Pharmacy, 695 Bridgeway, have announced they are moving operations to Caledonia Street (although Central will maintain a tourist-oriented store at its present location). And the owners of Sausalito Hardware and Plumbing, 34 Princess Street, say they will get out as soon as they can find another location.

John Minton, owner of Creative Arts, an artists' supply house and stationery store, hopes to be in his own building on property on Locust Street at Caledonia by midsummer. He purchased the land in 1966, anticipating the tourist takeover of downtown.

Harry Smith and Don Neuberger of Central plan to relocate in Minton's new building. The present Central store will continue to carry items such as cosmetics and non-prescription drugs, but Smith said it will focus on tourist merchandise.

Minton said he has had to stock items to appeal to visitors, including posters and prints, in order to survive.

MINTON AND SMITH are not bitter about the change and do not blame City Hall, although many businessmen feel the city's ban of parking on Bridgeway hastened the death knell for firms which cater to residents.

Minton and Smith question the city's plan to turn parking lot No. 1 into a park, although both admitted the idea has considerable aesthetic appeal.

"If all the parking around these stores is removed, the squeeze is going to be on," Minton said. "Some parking should be allowed downtown."

Hazel Puharich, who with her husband Harold, owns Sausalito hardware, does not hold such charitable views of the city's actions. She blames many of her store's problems on the ban and the influx of visitors.

"We are keeping our fingers crossed and hoping to find a place down on Caledonia," Mrs. Puharich said. "It's impossible to carry on business here; the customers can't get downtown because of the tourists and when they manage to make it, there's no place to park."

The hardware store has been on Princess Street for 12 years, but its lack of tourist appeal has hurt the business more each year, she said.

Mrs. Puharich said the parking situation has become so bad that not only customers, but even salesmen have been driven away from the hardware store. "Sometimes we can't even get merchandise now," she complained.

IN ADOPTING the new central waterfront plan, the city council seemed to recognize that resident businesses downtown have no future. The plan calls for a resident commercial area on Caledonia, with the rest of the downtown devote chiefly to shops and restaurants which serve visitors.

And, if the council adopts the park plaza plan — which the city planning commission approved last week — there will be few parking spaces available around businesses at the south end of the downtown area.

Tourists can come by buses and ferries. Residents must walk or come by car.

That makes the city's intentions for the downtown pretty clear.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Harking Back To December Editorial On Bureaucracy

Fusselman

Early in the year I mentioned an editorial in the I-J that had material in it which deserved serious contemplation. It appeared in the Dec. 22 issue and was headed, "Cuts In Private Sector — How About Public One?"

It went on to say that there had been much talk of late about cutbacks in higher level employment by business and industry. It had not been just talk, either, as a few formerly high-salaried men and women were facing the — for them — unusual prospect of unemployment. Walter J. Campbell, editor-in-chief of Industrial World, was quoted:

"ALL THE INDUSTRIAL enterprises we know are involved in pretty stringent cost cutting programs . . . personnel have been cut. Many men have been forced into early retirement. . . others have been furloughed. Frills in corporate America largely have disappeared. Expense accounts have come into the age of austerity . . .

"Further cost reduction campaigns are being planned and the belief grows that continuing austerity will be the price of survival in the 1970s . . . That is what is happening in the private sector . . .

"But in the public sector we find a different picture. We have yet to notice any widespread movement toward reducing costs among the public agencies."

The I-J editorial went on to say: "We were reminded of these remarks by a news item . . . reporting that bids for operating the Civic Center cafeteria were being studied by . . . the senior administrative analyst in the county and administrator's office . . . it caused us to wonder how many assistants, analysts, etc., the county administrator has. So we checked the budget.

"It shows Administrator Alan Bruce ($2,450.86 per month) is allocated two assistant administrators at $1,848 per month, two senior administrative analysts at $939 to $1,138, and two secretaries at $650 to $717."

THE EDITORIAL listed more of Bruce's firm which I will list next week. In addition to the figures in the editorial there are also the fringe benefits. So if you have been keeping track of salary amounts I have given previously and mght think there was a discrepancy, there is none. We are in agreement. I have repeated most of the editorial simply because it appeared just before Christmas and could have escaped your attention.

I have spent the afternoon going through my files and will develop, week by week, the picture, once again, out at Brasilia. This board of supervisors has within its power — indeed an obligation — to straighten things out and perform the duties they were elected to do. If they fail in this, they need not be surprised or alarmed at the public reaction which is growing. It will be their own fault.

San Marin Group Favors Police District

The San Marin Improvement Association board has called for ormation of a county police services district to provide urban police services in unincorporated areas.

Cities in Marin have been seeking formation of such a district contending that city residents shouldn't be taxed by the county to pay for urban services in the unincorporated areas.

Directors on Wednesday alsc voted to sponsor a Cub Scout pack and a Little League team and to have a game booth at the Western Weekend Country Fair, according to Mary Musante, publicity representative.

Plans were made to clean walkways along San Marin Drive and a committee was formed to work on establishing a tot lot at Novato Creek Park.

Directors announced the association's Monte Carlo Night would be at 8 p.m. March 20 at the Wild Horse Valley Clubhouse.

China Is Building Elaborate Tunnels

By Toronto Telegram News Service

HONG KONG — The Chinese are building elaborate tunnel systems in cities and near industrial plants in case of war.

Peking's leaders are not confident that genuine peace will come to Asia. Despite Washington's assurances that the United States is gradually ending its combat role in Indo-China, the men in Peking are encouraging construction of air-raid shelters across the country.

There are several reasons why Mao Tse-tung stresses preparedness for war in his current policy.

Peking is still convinced that the United States, the Soviet Union and Japan could one day gang up against China.

From the Chinese viewpoint, the United States is not disengaging its military forces either from Southeast Asia or the Far East. Peking believes the withdrawal from South Vietnam is merely a manoeuvre to deceive American public opinion.

On the one hand, Chinese policy-planners are prepared to concede that the United States in time may pull out of the Indo-China fighting altogether —restricting itself to supplying arms and ammunition.

Yet on the other hand, Peking is being extremely cautious in assessing President Nixon's intentions.

The Chinese saw the overthrow of Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk in March last year as a definite move by the United States to widen the Indo-China war.

And lately, there have been persistent reports that in another escalation, South Vietnamese forces are invading Laos.

According to the Chinese assessment of the situation, present indications are that fighting in South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos will continue indefinitely, and that this regional conflict could still spark a major war in the decades ahead.

The Chinese Communists believe that the United States intends to retain the largest of its military bases in South Vietnam, Thailand, the Philippines, South Korea and Japan for possible future use in a war against China.

Peking is even more concerned about the Soviet military presence along its north and western frontiers. The Sino-Soviet border talks in Peking, which began more than 15 months ago, have made absolutely no progress.

And ideologically, China and the Soviet Union are as far apart as ever. The bitter propaganda war between the two Communist giants continues unabated, and the political chasm now has grown so wide that a reconciliation is out of the question.

The industrious and surging Japanese nation presents another big problem for Peking.

The Japanese are many years ahead of the Chinese economically, and on top of this, Peking considers the present government of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato as extremely hostile.

Some Chinese Communist strategists say that a return to militarism in Japan is inevitable in view of the ever-accelerating industrial momentum of the country.

These fears are reflected in the stream of denunciations about Japanese militarism published in the Chinese press.

The official Chinese news agency recently warned that Japan's former Zaibatsu groups are again in control of the country's economic lifelines and of the government.

Peking said the new Zaibatsu had restored and built a highly-concentrated war industry with a great potential.

And another accusation leveled against Tokyo is that Japan is ganging up with Taiwan, South Korea and the United States to plunder China's seabed and subsoil resources.

The People's Daily of Peking told Japan to stop its criminal activities in seeking oil under the seas around Taiwan.

Large oilfields recently were discovered in the area of small islands situated between Okinawa and Taiwan.

Japan has laid claim to the Tiao-Yu Tai or Senkaku Islands, claiming that these are the southern-most islands of the Ryukuyu chain.

China argues that these islands are part of Taiwan province and therefore "China's sacred territories."

It is little wonder that the Chinese Communists, as they look about them, must consider the chances of a future confrontation.

The air-raid tunnels are being built beneath cities as well as under hills near large industrial complexes.

Other countries, of course, have taken similar precautions. And in China, the tunnels can be used in peacetime as well.

Peking, for instance, has built an underground railway which is not yet in use. Other cities are also vaguely planning subway systems, and are tunneling below the streets.

In other instances, tunnels are built through mountains as possible future road and rail links. They can also be used as storage areas.

The major tunneling jobs are being augmented by smaller air-raid shelters being built in city and suburban areas by individual families.

Many of these were erected several years ago, particularly in 1969, when China feared a Soviet attack.

In inland cities, the campaign to build shelters is not stressed by the authorities.

But people coming out of China say that in coastal provinces the government definitely is encouraging tunnel-building, and supplies much of the materials and equipment needed.

Strawberry Rec Panel Takes Study

Directors of the Strawberry Recreation District have agreed to study three pages of proposed rules and regulations for the new $256,000 community building.

The rules, discussed by directors at a special meeting Wednesday, will be revised and adopted at the regular meeting March 3, according to clerk Jeanne Heick.

Priorities and a fee schedule for use of the building also will be discussed at that time, Mrs. Heick said.

The board tentatively set the week of Aprii 19 for the yearly community cleanup. Up to three cubic yards of household rubbish placed at curbside on the regular collection day that week will be picked up by Mill Valley Refuse Service.

Mrs. Heick said the collection schedule must be approved by the refuse firm before it becomes final.

Strong Hand Leads Greek Comeback

By TORONTO TELEGRAM NEWS SERVICE

ATHENS — They tell Western visitors in Athens these days: "We are not in a totalitarian regime like the Soviet Union or Nazi Germany. We are in a Papademocracy."

The quip refers to the policy of Greece's Prime Minister George Papadopoulos, who gave up being an army colonel when he took power. He is the strong man of Greece, but not without critics inside his own government and the supporting ranks of army officers.

In his New Year message he warned: "The country will not return to a democratic regime until I consider the situation permits that."

His use of the word 'I' annoyed the colonels, one of whom (Col. Stamatolopoulos) reproached the Prime Minister in a Salonika newspaper for "sinning by pride against revolutionary and Christian precepts." The colonel also wrote: "The revolution belongs to all and not to a single person."

Prime Minister Papadopoulos promptly replied through an editorial in the semi-official daily "Elefteros Kosmos": "The Prime Minister is the only mandatary of political power, and that (resulted) by the will of the people. He is the incarnation of legality, the spirit of the armed forces, the state and of public opinion which he protects."

Papadopoulos later issued another warning to the "barons" of the present regime in addressing the Consultative Committee, a sort of small parliament composed of 50 members appointed by the government. He then said: "If those who long for an authoritarian regime (the frustrated ambitious men), and those who would like to play the recalcitrant barons, threaten to install a tyranny, I shall not hesitate to ask the Greek people to express their wishes."

Col. Stamatolopoulos is one of these barons who wants a full-dress authoritarian regime set. But the Prime Minister is less in a hurry. He considers the revolution is still in the process of gestation and far from most of its major aims. He has adopted what is called Papademocracy, leaving him personally free to intervene in one direction or the other as he sees fit.

When the colonel took power in 1967, the average per capita income in Greece was $700 a year. Today, it is $900. The first task of the regime was to free the economy from the previous suffocating forms of state control. Papadopoulos' main objective now is to make Greece richer and the Greeks less poor.

To date, the enterprise looks promising. Compared with 10 years ago, the gross national product has increased by 93 per cent. Private consumption has doubled. Salaries have increased an average of 8 per cent without any wage freeze. Prices, of course, have risen in the wake of the world inflationary movement.

To meet the persistent deficit in Greece's balance of payments ($385 million last year), Papadopoulos is activating industrialization intensively.

America and France lead the countries that have made private investments in the new Greece.

Long-term foreign investments amounted to $258 million in 1968. For 1970, they amounted to more than $400 million.

To attract foreign capital, Papadopoulos has provided tax relief for productive investments and guaranteed the freedom of movement of foreign capital. The capital has come from the West.

But for its exports abroad, Greece is forced by the keen competition of the Western countries to look to the east. The Russians are building an electric power plant in the Piraeus. The Greeks sell tobacco to the Soviet Union. Mixed trading corporations have been formed with Yugoslavia, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria.

In increasing trade with Greece, the Russians naturally are hoping to create an anti-American and neutralist climate in Greece, while also developing a military movement like that of Fidel Castro or Col. Nasser on nationalist and socialist lines.

But the Greeks are subtle. So far, they have refused to be dragged into a neutralist attitude backed by Moscow.

South Goofed In Attempting To Try A Finesse For Queen

Some bridge players believe that a missing queen is more likely to be to the left than to the right of the jack. If in the previous deal a player lost a finesse with the jack to the queen, and if the two cards were not separated by the shuffle, the queen would remain "behind" the jack. There isn't much to this theory but it does very little harm, and even a bridge player must believe in something. In today's hand, South should have found something better to rely upon.

SPADE SHIFT

West opened the king of diamonds and shifted to the ten of spades. East won with the ace of spades and returned a low spade. East should have switched back to the ten of diamonds. West would win and lead a third diamond, whereupon South would have to guess the queen of clubs to make his game.

As the play went, South took the king of spades and drew three rounds oftrumps. Then he cashed the ace of clubs and led the jack of clubs for a losing finesse. East returned a diamond, of course, and South was down one.

NO FINESSE

It's easy to see that South would make his fame if he finessed through East for the queen of clubs, but his correct play was to take no finesse at all.

After taking the king of spades, South should draw just two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy. He cashes the queen of spades, discading a diamond, and leads a diamond, forcing West to take the lead.

As the cards lie, West has only diamonds and clubs left. If West leads a club, declarer gets a free finesse. If West leads a diamond, South ruffs while dummy discards a club. South cashes the top clubs and can then cross ruff.

FOURTH SPADE

South would not be quite so well off if West had a fourth spade or a third trump since then West would be able to get out of the lead safely. In that case, however, South could still try to guess the location of the queen of clubs. It costs nothing to try first for the throw-in play on West.

Partner opens with one notrump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 10 9 7
♡ - 6 3

♣ - 7 4 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three notrump.

Your diamonds will probably be good for five tricks, and partner should have some reasonable play for four other tricks.

Webbed Feet

MIDWAY (UPI)—This tiny two-island atoll —a famous World War II landmark —has a U.S. Navy and Air Force population of 2,250 plus an estimated 600,000 web-footed Laysan albatross, also known as "gooney birds." Midway is 1,300 miles northwest of Hawaii.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Feb. 19, the 50th day of 1971.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

On this day in history:

In 1922 Ed Wynn of vaudeville and musical comedy fame became the first big name in show business to sign for a regular radio program.

In 1945 American Marines landed in Iwo Jima to start one of the bloodiest battles in the Pacific during World War II.

In 1964 Prince Constantine of Greece was named regent as the condition of his father, King Paul, worsened. Three years later Constantine was deposed in a military coup.

In 1970 pitcher Dennis McClain of the Detroit Tigers was suspended in connection with gambling. The suspension was lifted at mid-season.

A thought for today: British Statesman William Gladstone said, "Selfishness is the greatest curse of the human race."

670,000 Free Rides In 1970

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—An independent audit of the Long Island Railroad shows that an average of 670,000 passengers a month rode without paying during 1970.

A spokesman for the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, which runs the railroad, said much of the problem was use of counterfeit tickets, and overcrowded cars which prevent conductors from collecting fares.

Kent State President Is Retiring

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—Robert I. White is retiring as president of Kent State University, where four students were slain by National Guardsmen last May in antiwar disorders blamed by a grand jury on White's "permissive" leadership.

White, 62, said Thursday the events of May 4 were not the principal reason for his stepping down, but he though the university might be helped by a president not associated with the controversies of the last year.

White, president since 1963, said his retirement is effective Sept. 15, or as soon as a successor is found. He will take a six-month leave of absence and hopes to return to Kent as a professor of education.

White had condemned the grand jury report as a threat to academic freedom and all higher education. The special state grand jury indicted 25 persons, mostly students and former students, on rioting charges, and absolved National Guardsmen from lawbreaking.

"One is compelled to recognize that at least some political disfavor attaches to me out of the welter of charges and countercharges during the past year," White said. "A statement of my intentions at this time will greatly ease whatever handicap may accrue to the university because of me."

White, complaining that the presidency's "unending confiscation of all time and thought destroys home and personal life," said he had decided to retire two years ago.

He said the "tragedy of last May forced a dely in the timing," because after the shooting his "over-riding concern" became "the full operation of the university."

"We are now well along that road, having finished the majority of the academic year with gathering strength," White said in his statement over a closed circuit campus television network.

The board of trustees appointed a nine-member search committee to find a successor. Included on the committee was student body president Craig Morgan.

Morgan, one of the 25 indicted by the grand jury on rioting charges, said he "developed the highest personal regard for White), despite many strong disagreements."

But James Nichols, editor of the student newspaper, said: "I do not believe Dr. White is dynamic enough to lead the school as it is now."

"I understood he had been under a great deal of strain. A man's entitled to some rest," said Dr. John D. Millet, chancellor of the State Board of Regents.

STUDENTS TO PRESENT RECITAL

Two College of Marin students, violinist Lora Adams and pianist Joyce Conklin, will perform Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Room 72, Choral Hall, in the college's Fine Arts Building. They will perform the Sonata for Violin and Piano, Opus 18, by Boris Blacher and the Sonata for Violin and Piano, Opus 24 by Beethoven, in addition to individual numbers. Admission is free.

Mill Valley Apartments Approved

A controversial five-unit apartment planned for 10 Willow Street has been approved by members of the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee.

Zoning Administrator Howard R. McGill said the committee Wednesday approved a landscaping plan and paint colors for the apartments, claiming they were not designed to take sufficient advantage of Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio, which flows through the rear of the property.

But the city council on Feb. 1 overturned the denial and gave builder Charles Locati permission to begin construction.

In other business the committee approved a revised site plan for a retirement development proposed by the Mill Valley Community Church for the corner of Camino Alto and Miller Avenue.

The project, in two phases, ultimately will house 400 elderly residents. Planning commission and city council approval still must be obtained by the church.

Four Picked In Banks Program

Four Tamalpais High School seniors have been selected to represent the school in the 1971 Bank of America Achievements Awards Program, Principal Raymond J. Bell reported.

The trophy winners, who will be eligible to compete for cash awards of up to $1,000 in zone and area finals later this year, are: Thomas W. Vollintine, science and math; Ann W. Folker, liberal arts; Frances A. Cook, fine arts and Pamela L. Hill, vocational arts.

Eleven other students were cited for their superior performance in fields of study will receive certificates of merit. They are: Med A. Nation III, math; Kathryn L. Pudenz, laboratory science; Robin Willat, music; Jane L. Castle, art; Christopher Kuhlman, drama; Marguerite E. Bare, English; Pamela Goyan, social studies; Rebecca R. Brockway, foreign languages; Debra Beardsley, business; Karen Timmins, home economics and Leonard Winstead, trades and industrial arts.

Early Dancing

BOSTON (UPI)—The Massachusetts House of Representatives passed a bill Thursday to permit dancing early Sunday mornings in establishments authorized to sell liquor on Sundays.

Decision Soon On Lifting Travel Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The State Department says a decision is expected next month on a possible end to restrictions on allowing Americans to travel to Cuba, North Vietnam and mainland China.

If the travel ban regarding China is lifted, however, there would likely be little change since the Chinese government has refused to grant visas to U.S. citizens.

"Cromwell" — Richard Harris is Oliver Cromwell and Alec Guinness plays King Charles I in this exquisitely photographed historical spectacular about the Puritan Reformation and civil war in 17th Century England.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Airport" — Absorbing and gripping drama with outstanding all-star cast, is the behind-the-scenes action in a blizzard-paralyzed airport when an emergency arises. Buildup is intense and may prove too exciting for younger children. Very well done.

"I Never Sang For My Father" —Exceptionally well acted but heart rending emotional drama of a father-son relationship. Sensitive subject of a parent who becomes a burden to his children is well handled, but not solved, is very thought provoking.

"Last Valley" — People in a valley try to exist during the 17th Century 30-year war despite the devastating conflict. Magnificent Austrian location, musical score and photography plus international cast is good. (Motion Picture Daily)

"You Only Live Twice" — In Japan, James Bond does a workmanlike job of probing volcanic craters to discover launching pad of a missile that is swallowing up space ships. Usual quota of girls, gunfights and gadgets.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Ballad of Cable Hogue" — A miner is robbed and left to die in the desert, discovers a waterhole and sets himself up in business. A frontier tale that is a comedy but has a timeless moral about integrity and grit. Some sex and much cursing.

"There Was a Crooked Man" — Very adult, foul-mouthed western with an excellent cast played for laughs in the crudest, most tasteless level. Cynical plot in which all characters are non-heroes.

"Thunderball" — This time James Bond is underwater in the Bahamas trying to locate a NATO training plane and two atomic bombs. Sex is casual and salacious. Unpalatable cruelty is passed off as "spoof." Many amazing gadgets and much, much violence.

ADULTS ONLY

"Doctors' Wives" — Soap opera set in a plush clinic in suburbia in America. The sex lives of five doctors and their wives covers at least one reference to every human vice known to man or woman. Scenes of bloody open heart surgery not for the squeamish. (Motion Picture Daily).

"Five Easy Pieces" — Free-form portrait of an exile from a highbrow musical family who cops out of a routine lower middle class existence. Explicit sex and rank dialogue.

"Hard Contract" — A professional assassin who murders and makes love with the same heartless detachment falls in love. Nudity, explicit sex are interwoven with provocative discussions about good and evil, life and death.

"Owl and the Pussycat" — Racy adults comedy about a prostitute, with illusions of being a model and a shy unsuccessful author and their unlikely relationship. Sex is frank and abundant and Barbra's vocabulary includes as much profanity as the average stevedore and at the top of her voice.

"Trash" — The title says it all — no plot just pathetic characters mainly a heroin junky wandering around in the nude with both men and women fawning over his body but to no avail since drugs make him impotent. Incessant use of vulgar language and the ugly lives of totally messed up people is anything but funny, which is what this is supposed to be.

"What Do You Say To A Naked Lady?" — Allen Funt brings the situation to the screen of the reactions of unsuspecting passersby to a naked woman. Some moments are humorous but generally it is just smut.

"Where's Poppa" — A vulgar black comedy presents an outrageous picture of a monstrous mother and her guilt-ridden harassed son. Wild scenes of rape, nudity, heavily sprinkled with gutter talk are unstrained and brutally frank and may prove offensive to some.

Minor Films For Oscars

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences announced nominations today for documentary films competing for the Oscar.

An academy nominations committee selected films in two categories, feature length documentaries and short subjects.

Feature nominees: "Chariots Of The Gods," a Terra-Filmkunst production; "Jack Johnson," the big fights; "King: a filmed record . . . Montgomery to Memphis," a Commonwealth United Production; "Say Goodbye," a Wolper production; "Woodstock," a Wadleigh-Maurice Production.

Short subject nominations: "The Gifts," Richter-McBride productions; "Interviews With My Lai Veterans," Lasser films; "A Long Way From Nowhere," Robert Aller Productions; "Oisin," an Aengus film; "Time Is Running Out," A Gesellschaft Fur Bildende film.

Nominations for entertainment features will be announced Feb. 22.

Jawbone Puts Back Birthdate Of Man

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—A hunk of thick, heavy jawbone belonging to one of man's early ancestors has been found to be about 5.5 million years old—pushing back the birthdate of the human family still farther.

The specimen, the right half of a lower jaw with a tooth still in place, is the oldest prehuman fragment ever found, scientists at Harvard University said Thursday.

Arnold D. Lewis, of the school's Museum of Comparative Zoology, found the specimen resting on the surface of a hill on a "nice hot afternoon" in the summer of 1967 as part of an excavation on the Lake Rudolf region of northern Kenya.

Lewis said he immediately recognized it as part of a hominid—a man like creature. But it took three years of laboratory work and research to conclusively establish its date and identity. Elephant fossils in the same find helped fix the date of the jawbone at about 5.5 million years.

Dr. Bryan Patterson, head of the expedition, said the bone probably belonged to the Australopithecus group of man-apes that eventually evolved into homo sapiens, the modern human.

"The species is believed to have been about 5 feet tall and had an essentially upright posture," Patterson said. "But like apes it had a small brain and a thick heavy jawbone. It probably belonged to a woman."

The rocks where the bone was found were from an era beginning 13 million years ago and the time of the last ice ages that covered earth. Most scientists orginally believed the Australopithecus man-apes evolved much later, about 2 million years ago.

Machine Stolen

Petaluma meter maid Judith Rinehart told police yesterday that a coin collecting machine valued at $140 and containing $40 in change was stolen. She said the theft was made either at the rear of the police station or from inside the squad room.

Another 101 Lane To Open

A third northbound lane on the San Rafael viaduct of Highway 101 will be opened tomorrow afternoon, the Division of Highways said today.

Division officials cautioned motorists entering the freeway at the Mission Avenue-Irwin Street entrance that they will have to merge with traffic using the new third lane.

Construction crews plan to remove the replace lane striping Saturday morning.

TAKING DDT TO PROVE CASE

Robert Loibl, 60, of North Hollywood, head of a major pest exterminating company, yesterday started taking daily doses of what he said was DDT to prove "it is not deadly." His wife joined him in swallowing a 10-milligram capsule, and they said they would continue the test for a month to 90 days to convince the public that it "should never be banned." Loibl said he is merely an individual who is familiar with the chemical and who is concerned with attempts to ban its use. (UPI Telephoto)

Smog Board Aims Guns At Detroit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The State Air Resources Board has ordered its staff to prepare legislation which would stop the Big Three automakers from "Mickey Mousing" in their efforts to prevent smog caused by old cars.

The board unanimously approved a resolution calling for a law which would force Ford, General Motors and Chrysler to come up with a low-cost solution to air pollution from pre-1966 cars by threatening to halt new car sales in the state.

Board member Joseph Boyle, a Los Angeles physician, complained that the automakers were not trying to come up with the low-priced conversion kit to lower harmful emissions from older cars. He said the threat to cut off sales in California would "stop the 'Mickey Mousing' we've had for the past two years."

The proposed law will be submitted to the State Legislature.

The board acted Wednesday after Dr. Fred Bowditch, director of emissions programs for General Motors, said research indicated it was impossible to clean up smog from old cars for $65 per vehicle. The board set that goal two years ago and has been prodding the industry since.

"You are not interested in getting those cars fixed or you really would have moved hell to do it," the industry representatives were told by Dr. A. J. Haagen-Smit, board chairman.

The board heard testimony that American Pollution Controlled, Inc., a small Colorado firm, has developed an exhaust and carburetor conversion kit that does the job within the $65 price limit.

But an APC spokesman said the firm can't find a manufacturer because potential investors fear the State Legislature may change the requirement for anti-smog kits on pre-1966 cars. Cars built after that date were required to have smog control devices before they could be sold in California.

The air resources board, acting on the advise of the state attorney general's office, also told three conservation groups that it did not have the legal power to ban lead from gasoline.

The Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth and Environmental Defense Fund, Inc., asked the board last year to set air quality standards for lead, to set a zero lead emission standard on automobiles, and to ban its use in motor fuels after Jan. 1, 1973.

The board adopted an air quality standard last November and is still considering an auto emission limitation. But it informed Robert J. Debs, a Palo Alto city councilman representing the three groups, that it didn't have the power to ban lead from fuels.

The state agency acted on the oral advice of Jan Stevens, a deputy state attorney general.

William Wigert, an attorney for the conservationists, said Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, yesterday asked for written opinion from Stevens to back up his position. Wigert said the conservation groups were "setting the foundation for a possible lawsuit to determine the board's powers."

Brown Cites 3 Oil Firms In Lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. today named the Gulf, Mobil and Standard of California oil companies as codefendants in his $250,000 lawsuit against Proposition 18 opponents.

The original suit was filed Jan. 26 in Los Angeles Superior Court and named as defendants several individuals, 20 "John Does" and Californians Against the Street and Road Tax Trap—the chief organization against the proposition.

The proposition which would have permitted local governments to use gasoline tax money for public transportation was defeated in the November election.

Brown said Mobil in December identified itself as donor for a $30,000 anonymous contribution to the anti-18 committee.

Later, the Secretary of State said, Standard identified itself as the donor of two anonymous donations totaling $45,000. And at the same time Gulf said it had made an unidentified $20,000 contribution, he said.

State law requires contributors of more than $1,000 in a proposition campaign to file a report with the secretary of state's office.

Brown, after naming the oil firms as codefendants in the suit, told a meeting of the Junior Barristers of the Los Angeles County Bar Association:

"Some large corporations seem to feel they can ignore our state election laws and avoid prosecution.

"From this day forward these corporations will discover that they—just like ordinary citizens—will be brought to justice when they break laws."

Former Student Leader Given Probation Term

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Former College of Marin student body president, Conrad Louis Harris, 23, has been placed on probation for three years for a car theft charge.

Harris had pleaded guilty on Aug. 27 to stealing the car but Judge Robert J. Drews delayed sentencing until Wednesday to see if Harris could maintain lawful behavior over several months.

Since he apparently had, he received straight probation.

Harris, who falsely identified himself as a College of Marin student when arrested by the California Highway Patrol in San Francisco, last year, now lives in San Francisco.

Police, Firemen Nod To Arbitration Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill providing for binding arbitration in labor disputes involving police officers and firemen was introduced yesterday by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena.

Kenneth D. Larson, legislative representative of the Federated Fire Fighters of California, told a news conference that with the measure Sacramento "would not have had a 14-day strike" by firemen last year.

Larson and four other representatives of police and firemen's groups—who said they represented 50,000 of the state's 60,000 public safety officers—expressed support for the measure.

Jerry Stevenson, assistant general manager of the California State Firemen's Association, said the bill would "tend" to force local officials "into negotiations in good faith" with police and firemen.

He and Larson charged that cities in the past had not dealt with safety officers in good faith.

Torrance Police Lt. Charles Oates, vice president of the Peace Officers Research Association of California, said that in the past policemen had been content to have city councils treat them "like a father" but that policemen were now more educated and professional.

To "our new breed, these new professionals, this is not acceptable," he said.

Vote Amendment On Youth Passes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate Elections and Reapportionment Committee yesterday approved a proposed constitutional amendment to lower the voting age in California to 18.

But the panel balked at a companion measure which would place the amendment before voters. Committee members couldn't decide when the cheapest and best time would be to put it on the ballot.

The proposed amendment by Sen. George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco, would conform state law to the federal statute enabling 18-year-olds to vote in national elections.

It was sent on a split voice vote to the full Senate. Republican Sen. H. L. Richardson of Arcadia was the only audible "no" vote.

The proposed amendment would lower the voting age to 18, eliminate all literacy requirements and reduce voter residency requirements to 30 days.

However, the measure to implement the amendment ran into stiff opposition from several committee members, who couldn't agree when voters should decide the issue.

The bill as drafted by Moscone would submit the proposal to voters at the June 1972 primary election.

But Sacramento County Clerk William Durley said it would mean that double voter lists would be necessary, since 18-year-olds would be able to vote for presidential and congressional candidates but not for state candidates or issues.

Wage Floor Legislation In Hopper

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill establishing a $2.25-per-hour minimum wage and 35-hour work week for all public and private employes was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco.

"This legislation is an attempt to bring wages of working men and women not covered by union contracts into line with minimal living costs," said Brown, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

His measure also would provide double-time pay for overtime work.

Brown said based on a 40-hour work week the $2.25 minimum wage equals a $4,000 annual salary.

"That is certainly below even a poverty-level wage for a person trying to support a family," he said.

Alert Leads To Suspects; Auto Theft

A San Rafael police all-points alert for burglary suspects led to the arrest Wednesday on suspicion of car theft of two Marin City youths apprehended in Mill Valley.

The search began at 2 p.m. yesterday when San Rafael police were called to Melody TV at 1446 Fourth Street and told by owner Lionel M. Harwin that two youths were seen near a display case.

Harwin said he ran after the youths when he found a $50 portable radio missing from the case. The car the youths drove off in, police found, had been stolen in Berkeley last week.

Police stopped the car in Mill Valley and booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall, Isaac Felder, 17, of 49 Cole Drive, Apt. 3, on suspicion of auto theft, conspiracy, petty theft and reckless driving.

The other youth, John Young, 18, of 985 Drake Avenue, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of petty theft and conspiracy. He was later released on his own recognizance.

Hearing Set On Stealing Purse

A preliminary hearing has been set for Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court for Robert D. Freid, 19, of San Anselmo, who is charged with snatching the purse of an elderly woman.

He was arrested Monday shortly after stealing the purse of Marjorie M. Porter as she left a San Rafael market.

READING A newspaper report rumoring her death is singer Carmen Soriano, who mysteriously disappeared from her home in the Philippines two years ago. Miss Soriano, also an actress and television star, says she left secretly for personal reasons. She is now living and working in San Diego.

Filipino Singer, Thought Dead, Is Alive In San Diego

By DAVID LEWIS

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Carmen Soriano, the popular Filipino songstress who mysteriously disappeared from the Philippines two years ago, is alive and well and singing in the United States.

Miss Soriano, in the first interview granted since her surprise departure, said rumors she was killed in a car accident, had died during an operation and had committed suicide obviously were untrue.

"I cannot understand why these rumors came about," she said. "I don't know why anyone would do such a thing."

MISS SORIANO said she was singing in Hawaii when she learned it was believed she was dead in the Philippines, where she had a weekly television show in Manila, "Carmen on Camera," and had starred in several motion pictures.

"I thought it was just a prank. I didn't realize how serious it was until my family called all shook up."

The singer admitted she left the Philippines in March, 1969, without telling anyone where she was going. Sources there linked her departure to troubles with her estranged husband, actor Amado Cortez.

"For personal reasons I told no one I was leaving," she said. "I needed a change. I wanted to do something different."

Miss Soriano said she was living a "nice, quiet life" in San Diego where she recently finished a singing engagement at the Hilton Inn.

"I JUST want to lead an everyday life like everyone else," she said.

She plans to return to the Philippines to visit later this year for the first time since she left.

Miss Soriano said she was launching a new career in San Diego.

"I do not want to use my success in the Philippines as the basis for making it here. I must start all over again and show what I can do.

"I think if the people of San Diego accept me, I can make it anywhere here. I plan to stay and see what happens."

THE ENTERTAINER arrived here about eight months ago. On leaving the Philippines she said she made personal appearances in Bangkok and Hong Kong before heading for Hawaii where she spent about six months singing.

After that she came to the U.S. mainland and lived four months in Seattle, Wash., then spent several weeks touring the country.

She said while visiting a brother here she decided to continue her singing career in this country.

"My reception here has been very nice," she said. "I haven't really changed my style completely, but there is more of a trend now of belting out songs, so I sing songs in different ways."

Aside from her singing, Miss Soriano said she has begun training as a legal secretary.

"But that's just in case I break my leg and can't stand up and sing," she smiled.

Voice of Friendship, Someone To Talk To

Sometimes a person will dial the weather just to hear a human voice. It helps, but does not fulfill the basic human need for communication.

Recognizing this need, the 50 Plus Club, the senior adult group of the Marin Jewish Community Center, has begun a service, the Voice of Friendship.

Voice of Friendship is for any Marinite wanting a warm, friendly chat with a telephone friend, says Rayna Edwards, director of the 50 Plus Club. The first call to Voice of Friendship will go to Mrs. Edwards who will discuss the caller's interests and then give his name and number to the one of the club's 25 members she feels has the most in common with him.

"Social workers often report that lonely people say, 'I haven't spoken to a soul in three days,' or 'I was afraid I would forget how to talk,' " says Mrs. Edwards. "The call from Voice of Friendship will give the person a time to look forward to during the day."

Mrs. Edwards says she hopes anyone who wants to hear a friendly voice will call the Marin Jewish Community Center for information.

"Our members are looking forward to many calls," she says.

Kentfield Dinner For Spring Opera

By MOLLY MARIN

To mark the opening of the spring opera season Dr. and Mrs. Julio Davila are hosting a dinner at their Kentfield home this evening.

Guests will include members of Opera Action of Marin, Mrs. J. C. Alexander, Messrs. and Mmes. B. G. Falk, Ellis Stephens, Carl Windheim, Jefferson Graves Jr. and Donald Blinco.

Francesco Prestia, director of the chorus of the San Francisco Opera, and Mrs. Prestia will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Wynn; Mr. and Mrs. Edmond C. Ward's guests will be the Herbert Foedisches; and Mr. and Mrs. William Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rorick will be the guests of the Rodgers Broomheads. The Harry Orricks will be the guests of the Edward Elliotts.

Also planning to attend are Messr. and Mmes. Carlo Fowler, E.Paul Atkins, Mortimer Kohn and Gino Morena.

ELLY AMELING

ELLY AMELING, the famed Dutch soprano who is the guest artist with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra this week, will be the guest of honor at a cocktail party Monday for relatives and Dutch friends, hosted by her cousin, Rudolf F. Ameling, in his Fairfax home.

MARCIA BROWN, formerly a student at College of Marin, will be married to Thomas Graham Day tomorrow morning in the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Everett Austin Brown of New York and San Francisco, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Alling Day of Michigan Hills, Md., and West Granby, Conn.

Man Member Working For Women's (And Men's) Lib

By JAMES M. EVANS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)— Michael Adler, 27, and a bachelor, sees nothing unusual in his status as the only male member of the local chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW).

"The name, National Organization for Women, is a misnomer," said Adler. "If it were National Organization for Equality, I think more people would accept it."

Adler said he decided to take an active role in NOW with the belief that the liberation of women would lead to the liberation of men.

"The day of the boring wife is over," he explained. "If husbands and wives would each have their own circles of interest, then they would involve each other.

"There would be less restrictive divorce laws as a result because women wouldn't be so helpless. If a woman has a career, a man wouldn't be burdened with helping her.

"In the long run, the young women will have to take more aggressive roles because they have less to lose," he said. "They are the ones who will benefit by it."

Adler said he visited the first meeting of NOW here "basically as a disinterested party."

"There were two other men there and we automatically sat together," he said. "We were on one side of the room, the women on the other. I guess you could call it unconscious discrimination because we felt uncomfortable. Then I realized we were there for the same thing.

"Men, too, have to be willing to put their heads on the chopping block. Men are afraid of ridicule from other men if they work for women's liberation because women's lib supposedly takes power away from men.

"I don't see women taking over the world. I just see more of sharing equally."

Adler maintains that women should be allowed total freedom of expression.

"It's a shame that a woman has to spend her whole life and never have the opportunity to express herself," he said.

Frederick Fellows Exchanges Vows With Karen Kerl in Oakdale Rite

Frederick David Fellows, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Fellows of Mill Valley, claimed Karen Suzanne Kerl as his bride Saturday afternoon at St. Matthias Episcopal Church in Oakdale. The wedding was followed by a reception at the Riverbank Community Center.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Kerl of Oakdale, had as her matron of honor, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Mills E. Kerl of Oakdale. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Gordon T. Piner of San Rafael, Beverly A. Rydberg of Oakdale and Jana C. Kerl of Bakersfield.

Edward Fellows of Reno, Nev., was his brother's best man, and serving as ushers were Gordon T. Piner of San Rafael, Mills Kerl of Oakdale and Glen A. Peters of Sonoma.

The couple will live in Serramonte, where the bridegroom is employed with the California Highway Patrol.

A graduate of Oakdale High School, Modesto Junior College and the Valley Commercial College, the bride was employed in the Stanislaus County Assessor's Office in Modesto before her marriage.

The bridegroom was graduated from Tamalpais High School, the College of Marin and the California Highway Patrol Academy in Sacramento.

SAFARI ON THE CHAMP ELYSEES

This Saharan-styled jacket over beige linen shorts was a highlight of the 1971 summer and spring collection designed by Duren shown in Paris Wednesday. Walking along the Champs Elysees the model carries a multi-colored leather patchwork bag and wears beige gladiator shoes.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Her Position As Wife Made Her Feel Like An Inferior Person

DEAR HELEN: In answer to the fellow who wondered what to do with a wife that came on like the giant meatball gal on television:

Deride her efforts, "teach" her, tell her to use her time for more worthwhile things — t h i n g s you want —keep her busy running errands, raising the kids, slaving for you, belittle her lack of education, don't accept her suggestions because they are stupid — and in 18 years you'll have a lovely, well-run house, nice children, and a wife who, with much effort in her "spare time," got a college education, but who can't stand the ground you walk on.

I am such a wife. For 17½ years I acceptd my abject inferiority. I even thought it was the duty of wives to walk ten steps behind, take whatever was dished out, and try, always failing, to win a small pat on the back.

And then, I got a responsible job (due to my college degree). I'm filling it so well I'm already up for a big promotion. Suddenly my eyes are opened. I'm not a total zero.

And I won't be a wife much longer. Female liberation — here I come. — BREAK OUT

DEAR HELEN:

I hardly ever disagree with your advice. In fact, I believe you to be among the top columnists. But Helen, I must express my shock at your sort answer to "Disgusted Mother." Soft on that hard-hearted nurse, that is.

You said a good nurse isn't always a gentle soul, and no lasting traumas will result for the seven-year-old child if the mother doesn't make a big thing of the post-operative name-calling.

A truly professional nurse would never call a frightened child a crybaby. And many people do have lasting fear of hospitals and medical treatment because of one bad experience. The nurse should have been r e p o r t e d . — WIFE OF PSYCHOLOGIST

DEAR WIFE:

A good n u r s e makes even bad medicine go down easily: You would make a good nurse.

I was "soft" on the woman in question because I hadn't heard both sides.

Sometimes hysteria responds better to shock than sympathy.

We can be pretty sure the mother already reported the nurse and got no satisfaction from her supervisor. Otherwise, why would she have written to me? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

It appears that "Parent of a Red-Eyed Grind" and "Mad Student" have missed the whole point of homework, which, as "A Beta Club Member" states, is ". . . a continuation of the learning you can't get entirely in school."

Perhaps some teachers give busy work, but not many, for that means giving themselves more papers to collect and correct. No, it is simply that if a student wishes to receive a good education, he must work at home as well as at school because every course includes more information than a teacher can give in less than an hour a day. The quick, attentive, easy learner gets by with little homework. Perhaps the Red-Eyed Grind has never learned to concentrate.

"Mad" remarks, "If teachers want us to slave 10 hours a day they'd better put in that kind of time too." We do, we do. I have never sat under a hair dryer, or relaxed with television that I wasn't correcting papers, averaging grades or preparing l e s s o n s . And how about those extra-curricular activities, like P-TA and clubs? — L.E.N.

DEAR HELEN:

"Mad Student" says that adults d o n ' t bring their work home at night. Those who succeed in the professions usually work much longer than their eight-hour day. My wife does. She is a teacher. And a very dedicated person. — PROUD HUSBAND

DEAR HELEN:

I'm tired of hearing blasts against education and teachers. Educators must have as much college as engineers, and their starting salaries are up to $3000 less — for longer hours.

After seeing so many important and necessary school issues turned down this year, I'm wondering how the educational system will survive. By the way, I'm not a teacher. I'm an — ENGINEER

Substitute Teachers Face A Challenge With Each Class

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"Must be a flu bug going around. There are a lot of substitutes at this school today. Mind if I join you?" The fragile little man with rimless glasses looked to be in a state of shock.

"This your first time at this school?" asked the slightly amused woman seated at the lunch table.

"Yeah, and my last. They couldn't pay me to come back here again!"

"That bad, huh? What grade?"

"Sixth."

"Oh, no, not Mrs. Henry's."

"YEAH, MRS. Henry's sixth graders. You know, I had heard about them from another substitute, but I figured no class could be that hard to handle. I mean, sixth graders are just kids."

The woman laughed. "Well, I sympathize with you. I had them earlier in the year. Had to stay home the rest of the week. So I just told the substitute o f f i c e not to call me if the assignment was Mrs. Henry's sixth grade." Reminiscing, she smiled, "Is that kid, Benny, still in her class?"

"Oh brother," groaned the little man. "What is it with that kid? He's impossible!"

The woman laughed again. "Every substitute teacher in the city knows Benny. Ironically, I understand that he and Mrs. H e n r y get along just fine."

TURNING HIS head upward in mock prayer, the little man whispered, "Mrs. Henry, please come back to school."

IF EVER THERE was a profession wrought with occupational hazards, yet offering the challenge of six hours per day of survival, it is that of the substitute teacher.

From the get-go, there seems to be a certain negative aura that surrounds the substitute teacher. There must be something wrong with that person. If not, why doesn't he have a permanent teaching position? (This is an attitude held by the students as well as many of the regular teachers.) The fact of the matter is, while many subs are in the process of completing requirements for a credential or waiting for job openings, some of them could survive not more than a couple of days a week in the classroom. For some, it is a part-time job by design.

Even on a part-time basis, the sub quickly learns that certain schools are "mind blowers" and a c c e p t i n g these assignments is at the risk of loss of sanity.

All students know that the substitute is only a temporary fixture and the minute he appears the day (in many cases) is automatically declared a holiday.

LESSON PLANS, when left by the regular teacher, are usually impossible to implement. "We did that page last week" or "On Fridays we always play kick ball — all day" are typical comebacks. The wise sub brings along his own plans — something like how to say "Go jump in the lake" in eight different languages. (Believe it or not, it works.)

The sub can f o r g e t about being addressed by his proper name. It's amazing how innovative "problem" and "slow" children can be when it comes to creating humorous puns and poetry using the sub's name.

THE ONE POSSIBLE advantage to subbing is that there is no particularly nightly preparation for the next day's work. But it is just as well that he go to bed early and get his rest, for what energy he did not use in preparation will be sapped up in dealing with all the anticipated problems and those reserved especially for the sub.

Because so much special treatment is simultaneously created for the sub (especially if he really likes young people), it is sometimes very difficult to keep from laughing. I once subbed with a class of "specials" — slow learners. "See this kid here?" said one special with his arm around another special.

"This kid here is so dumb he can't count to one. That's why we're specials!"

They smiled, took their seats and were attentive the rest of the day. Indeed, they were special. I always enjoyed subbing for that class.

YES, IF you're looking for a job that offers the unusual and the unexpected — the challenge and the opportunity to make on-the-spot decisions — become a substitute teacher.

Coming this Saturday in Marin Magazine

Special features you'll enjoy:

Walter B. Sellmer was one of Marin's earliest "speed cops," chasing down the daredevils who raced their motorcars over county roads at faster than 30 miles an hour. Then he became a game warden, nemisis of the poacher. And he rose to county sheriff. It has been some years since Sellmer, now nearing 80, wore the badge and toted the gun, but he had developed other interests. I-J reporter Wat Takeshita writes about the colorful ex-lawman in tomorrow's "Profile of a Marinite."

Bob Fuller is the administrator of Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital. But he is also that institution's head physical therapist, and the proprietor of Bob Fuller's Conditioning Therapy gymnasium. Arthritics, stroke victims, post-polio patients, the lame come to him in large numbers for the help through therapy for which he has become known. How Fuller works with the handicapped is the subject of a feature written for tomorrow's magazine by its editor, Don Keown.

ON THE AGENDA

'Comedy And Romance' Benefit For Dominican Scholarship Fund

A benefit theater party will be held Feb. 26 at 8 p.m. at Angelico hall at Dominican College to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Mother Raymond Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Mary Rose McMaster and her husband, Jack Aranson, will present a series of classic and contemporary love scenes titled "Cavalcade of Comedy and Romance," followed by a champagne party of stage.

Hosts for the evening include Miss Eleanor Beales of San Anselmo, John Downes of Larkspur, John D. Murphy of San Rafael, Sister M. Patrick, O.P., president emeritus of Dominican College, and Sister M. Samuel, college president.

Dominican alumnae Mrs. Edward Grady of San Rafael is chairman. She will be assisted by Miss Beales, Mmes. Robert Langbehn of San Rafael and Thomas Guerin of Ross.

A no-host dinner will be held at La Petite Auberge restaurant in San Rafael before the performance and Mr. and Mrs. Langbehn will host a dinner for friends after the benefit.

The scholarship fund was established in 1946 in honor of the late Mother Mary Raymond, college president from 1916 to 1935.

A BENEFIT buffet supper will be held tomorrow evening for members of the Woodlands Guild of Sunny Hills and their husbands at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gibbons in Kentfield. The annual fund-raising event of the guild will benefit the Sunny Hills Home.

Committee for the supper are Mmes. James Hadfield, Gibbons, William Platz and William Glander.

Folksingers Fred and Phyllis Allen will entertain during the evening.

THE GOLDENAIRES are having a rummage sale Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the San Rafael Community Recreation Center. They will also sell bakery goods.

Committee chairmen are Doris Walter, bake table; Arthur England, household; Marjorie Alford, women's clothing; Percy Alford, men's clothing; Gene Greyer, shoes and bags; Florence Benedict, jewelry; Adele Liebert, books; Iris Monti, knicknacks and toys; and Mabel Drossel, donations.

ZERO POPULATION Growth will present the second in a series of lectures, "Spaceship Earth: Love It or Leave It," Thursday at 8:30 p.m. at Olney Hall in the College of Marin. The film "The Time Of Man," produced by the American Museum of Natural History will be shown and Rep. Paul "Pete" McCloskey (R-San Mateo) will speak on "The Government's Role in Population Planning."

THE NOVATO Garden Club members and their guests will attend a matinee performance of The Song of Norway on Wednesday. A bus will pick them up at the Community House at 9 a.m.

A stop will be made at Union Square for shopping and luncheon preceding the matinee. Reservations chairman is Mrs. H. B. Beadle.

NEW INITIATES of Alpha Delta Kappa are Miss Claire Eckley, kindergarten teacher at Coleman School in San Rafael, and Mrs. Nina Bloom, first grade teacher at Nova Albion School in San Rafael.

MARIN HOMEMAKERS may still register for the three-hour "Food for Healthy Hearts" class scheduled for Tuesday at the Pacific Gas and Electric auditorium in San Rafael.

From 9:30 a.m. to noon, the demonstration will give emphasis to low cholesterol foods to serve the family, how to select low fat foods, better meat purchases and low cholesterol menu planning.

Registrations may be made by telephone to the Marin County Heart Association in San Rafael.

THE GARDEN Society of Marin will hold its annual dinner and installation of new officers at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda tomorrow at 6 p.m.

Officers are Mrs. Robert Tuckey, president; Hugh Patterson, vice president; Calvin Rossi, treasurer; Mrs. Sidney Higgins, recording secretary and Mrs. Arthur Feidler, corresponding secretary.

A CIVIC participation meeting will be held at Cafe Ambrosia in San Anselmo Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Marin. Marin County welfare and narcotic problems will be discussed by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni.

Following a question and answer period a social hour and dinner will be held. Angela Dismuke and Elsie Mazzini are reservations chairmen.

A SESAME Street workshop designed to help parents derive maximum benefit from the KQED program will be presented to members of the Sleepy Hollow Nursery School at the club house on Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Election of new officers will also be held.

TODAY'S NEW look comes in a variety of hair styles and cuts. The fancy free look is in, with styles freer than in many years. Here is a more sophisticated look to emphasize womanly beauty. Hair generally is longer on the crown and shorter or very short at the nape of the neck. Marin cosmetologists will view the new styles at the Marin County Hair Styling Panel workshop on Sunday.

'Fancy Free' Hair Styles Latest For Spring Wear

The "Fancy-Free" look, the new look in hair styles for Spring, will be seen at the Marin County Hair Styling Panel workshop in Marin on Sunday at Ronald's Hair Design in San Anselmo.

The "Fancy-Free" hair styles foretell a carefree and happy ease in coiffures for the coming season.

The new styles will be executed by members of the local panel, sponsored by the California Cosmetologists Association. It will be the first local release of the new spring trend.

Esther Schorr of San Francisco, who just returned from the California state seminar, where this trend was officially introduced, will conduct the workshop. Local hair stylists who are participating are Ron Finch of Sausalito, Ron Vincent of San Rafael, Dianne Mehl of Corte Madera, Barbara Davis of Fairfax and Ronald de Armond of San Anselmo.

The style is freer than in many years, soft and natural looking as possible. The hair itself moves more freely and looks more free and easy going, says the styles panel chairman, Ronald de Armond.

The styling and dressing of the individual coiffures, too, is freer. The new styles underscore the return of classic good taste. Kookiness of past seasons is out. Styles for the young reflect the free spirit of youth and frequently feature curls. Coiffures for more sophisticated personalities emphasize womanly beauty, often combining softly flowing line movements with sexy waves, deep, sensuous undulations," he says.

Hair lengths are generally shorter for spring. Whenever length adjustments are desired for variations with skirt and pant lengths, hair pieces are used with such great convenience and adaptability that they have become one of the more indispensable parts of the fashion wardrobe.

Treatment of the hair at the neckline in most styles will be dressed to follow its natural growth direction and harmonize with the design of the sides and crown.

Hair length at the nape area will range from zero for a softly fitted neckline to one-and-a-half inches, or more, to allow for freedom in design. Crown hair will be relatively long, from five to nine inches. Front hair lengths vary freely in accordance with individual style requirements.

Hair coloring for spring calls for soft, warm tones of blonde. Soft shades of blended blondes and ash tones will continue in popularity, as will soft shades of brunette highlighted with golden reflections.

Mrs. Compton Leads Volunteers

A two year resident of Marin, Mrs. Richard N. Compton of San Rafael has been elected president of the Starlite Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers this year.

MRS. RICHARD COMPTON

Vera Compton was born in Guayaquil, Ecuador, and is a graduate of Abraham Lincoln High School in San Francisco and attended City College of San Francisco. She and her husband are the parents of two small daughters, Michelle Catherine, 3½, and Stacey Marie, 19 months old.

Mrs. Compton's interests include gourmet cooking, water skiing, music and gardening. She says she hopes to take up tennis next.

Formerly Mrs. Compton was scholarship chairman for the recently formed Starlite Branch, which is open to all Terra Linda areas women. The branch, she says, raises money for Marin General Hospital equipment or other projects of the hospital.

Other officers this year are Mmes. Gary Sthymmel, vice president; Donald Mailander, secretary; Robert Vasser, treasurer; and James Kennedy, publicity chairman.

Two Homemakers Of Tomorrow

Two Marin high school senior girls have been selected winners in their schools in the national Homemaker of Tomorrow contest.

Cynthia J. Taylor is the high scorer for San Rafael High School on the basis of a written test given senior girls. From Terra Linda High School Melinda Adler has been named winner.

They will compete with other California girls for the state award. National winner will receive a $5,000 educational grant, and state winners will get $1,500 each.

Watch Eggs

Only high quality, clean eggs with sound shells should be used in the preparation of eggnogs, milk shakes or any lightly cooked dish. Less than topquality eggs can be used in any form that requires them to be well-cooked.

Louise Allison Will Be Wed To Edwin E. Snyder

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allison of Fairfax have announced the engagement of their daughter Louise Elaine, to Edwin E. Snyder of Mount Hermon.

Louise, the sister of Linda Weissenburger of Brazil, was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School, Westmont College in Santa Barbara, and had one year of graduate work at Yale University in New Haven, Conn. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Berniece Roy of Castro Valley, and Mrs. Anna Olson of San Jose.

Edwin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Snyder, is the brother of Marj and Tom Snyder, all of Mount Hermon. Ed was graduated from San Lorenzo Valley High School and Gavilan College in Gilroy. He has also attended Cabrillo College in Aptos for two years.

Both Louise and Ed are attending Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, Ill. in preparation for missionary work with Jungle Aviation and Radio Service, a branch of Wycliffe Bible Translators.

Spring Naturals

Spring fabrics run the range from soft to tough. New are the "naturals", anything handloomed, homespun, rough and ready-looking. Denim is the leader, varied with brush surfaces, herringbone patterns, tie dyes and twills. Other "toughies" are canvas, calico, gingham and burlap.

Ferry Firm Threatens To Sue Sausalito Landing Issue

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The president of Harbor Carriers vowed yesterday to take the City of Sausalito to court if it again rejects his plan for a downtown ferry landing.

Albert D. Elledge — testifying before the state Public Utilities Commission on a recommendation by its staff that his company's permit to serve Sausalito be revoked — said he had instructed his attorney "to file an action if we cannot do it peaceably."

Harbor Carriers' intent to try again to serve Sausalito was disclosed in earlier testimony as reported yesterday by the Independent-Journal.

Elledge's warning of court action against the city presumably was sparked by the city council's vote Tuesday to ask that his permit to serve Sausalito be revoked.

Elledge's company has not yet filed an application for a use permit for a landing, but his San Rafael attorney, Albert Bianchi, has discussed the matter with the city's staff.

Harbor Carriers won the PUC permit in 1968, but the city council then rejected a use permit for a landing between the Trade Fair and the Sausalito Yacht Club on property leased to Herbert Madden by the city.

Elledge told the I-J yesterday that his new application for a city permit would be for a landing at the same location.

The PUC staff had recommended revocation of the PUC permit on the ground that Harbor Carriers had failed to provide the service, the Elledge protested that he had been unable to only because of the city's obstinacy.

Elledge also told the I-J that the council had turned him down because of "the yachtsmen with their politics." He said that if would be up to Bianchi to decide what sort of legal action could be filed against the city if it turned him down again. "He's the attorney," Elledge said.

The PUC staff recommendation proposed that Harbor Carriers be given 90 more days to start service to Sausalito, but Elledge asked for at least one year because of the anticipated court fight. If a year were not enough, he said, his company would come back to the PUC for another extension.

He argued that "the demand is still there" for his service despite the Golden Gate Bridge District's service to the Ferry Building in San Francisco. Tourists want to leave from Fisherman's Wharf, not the ferry Building, he said.

Elledge said the main point in his pending law suit against the bridge district is that it carries tourists in competition with his operation. The bridge district is not subject to the PUC because it is a public agency.

Yesterday's session concluded hearing on four matters involvinmg Harbor Carriers, including its applications to suspend — not revoke — its permits to serve Sausalito and Alcatraz from San Francisco, a PUC investigation of the company's operations, and the City of Tiburon's rehearing on the company's permit to serve between that city and Alcatraz. Tiburon objected that it had too little land to provide parking for such a service.

The hearing examiner, Arthur M. Mooney, told the I-J that the PUC would issue one decision on all four matters. A decision probably will be issued within 60 days, he said.

The PUC staff acknowledged in the hearing that passengers' complaints about Harbor Carriers had been corrected by the company. The complaints dealt with changes in schedules, fares and landing points in San Francisco.

The staff recommended that Harbor Carriers be ordered to cease and desist from making changes without proper notice.

Prime Rate Cut Lauded

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest and Veterans Director Frank D. Nicol say reduction of the prime interest rate charged by banks will make it easier to sell state bonds.

Nicol and Mrs. Priest agreed Wednesday that the reduction "definitely helps" the state's financial situation. Both the Veterans Department and the Treasurer's Office depend on he sale of state bonds to raise funds for various state programs.

When the major California banks announced they were cutting their prime rate from 6 per cent to 5 3-4 per cent it indicated to Mrs. Priest and Nicol that the nation's financial situation was continuing to "loosen."

Fire At Gnoss Field Leads Novato List

A $250,000 fire which destroyed a building and a plane at Gnoss Field last October was the major fire in the Novato Fire District last year, according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder.

Fire losses totaled $483,975 as compared to $192,000 in 1969, the chief reported.

There were 892 calls including 48 structural fires, in which losses totaled $297,670.

There were 210 grass fires which burned 162 acres, 30 false alarms, 71 resuscitator calls, five bomb scares, two boat fires and 156 smoke checks.

Kidder said the general alarm to call for additional help on fire calls was sounded 61 times.

Tuesday Weld Is Granted Dissolution

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actress Tuesday Weld, 27, was granted a dissolution Thursday, ending her five-year marriage to writer, Claude Harz.

Harz, 34, was ordered to pay $100-a-month support for the couple's daughter, Natasha, 4. The couple was married Oct. 27, 1965 in New York City.

White House Will Host Governors

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House will host a black tie dinner for the nation's governors and their wives Wednesday evening.

The governors will be in town starting Tuesday for the three-day National Governors Conference.

Uproar In Fee-Sharing Called GOP Conspiracy

SEATTLE (UPI) — Former Washington State Attorney General John J. O'Connell says the current uproar over a fee-sharing case involving him and San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto is an example of a Republican conspiracy to kill the political futures of certain Democrats..

Alioto, before he became mayor, was hired by O'Connell in 1962 to handle a price-fixing suit brought against electrical manufacturers by 15 Washington cities and public utility districts.

A federal grand jury is investigating Alioto's sharing of his $2.3 million fee in the case with O'Connell, and O'Connell's assistant, George Faler. Alioto won a $16 million settlement for the plaintiffs.

O'Connell told newsmen Thursday the political implications in the case apply especially to Alioto, but he himself is also a victim of political "overkill."

O'Connell, now a private attorney, charged that information about the fee-sharing was "sort of surreptitiously obtained" through "obvious collusion" between political officer holders and agencies of the federal and local governments.

Writing the whole investigation off to politics, O'Connell said:

"You've got a Republican president, a Republican governor, a Republican attorney general, a whole strip of Republican prosecuting attorneys and a Republican United States attorney.

"You are just riddled with the creatures from top to bottom," he said.

"I think they are doing this nationwide too. It is done nationwide — pursuit and prosecution of Democratic people . . . I assume they are doing it deliberately."

Both O'Connell and Alioto have voluntarily appeared before the federal panel, Alioto on Wednesday and O'Connell Thursday.

O'Connell said it appeared to him that the federal attorneys were trying to find a violation of state law that could be tied to a federal law, such as use of interstate facilities.

"I still hope that grand jury can cut through this evil and not be sold by these people the federal attorneys . . . " he said.

Alioto, back in San Francisco, said he has not decided yet whether to run again for mayor, but his decision either way won't be influenced by any turn of events in Seattle.

Conductor Pledges The Best Symphony

OAKLAND (UPI)—Oakland's new musical director and conductor of the city's sympholy orchestra was introduced Thursday to members of the City Council.

Harold Faberman said he hoped the "Oakland Symphony will be the best in California." He said the Symphony Foundation hopes to raise $1 million to match a Ford Foundation grant.

Economy Drive On Draft Boards

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Selective Service headquarters said today it would consolidate a number of smaller draft boards around the country and eliminate about 650 mostly part-time jobs as an economy measure.

A spokesman said the draft-operations budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 would be at about the current level, but that salary increases and other rising costs necessitated the move.

Survivors Of Tanker Arrive

LISBON (UPI)—The thirty-five survivors of the Norwegian tanker Ferncastle arrived here early today dishevelled but cheerful. The Ferncastle exploded and broke in half 300 miles off Cadiz, Spain, Wednesday night.

Six members of the crew were killed and another is missing and feared dead.

The 35 survivors were wearing stained and torn working clothes. They included four women and an 18-month-old girl.

PRISON FURLOUGH PROGRAM

Working Way Into A New Life

By DAVID DIETZ

Each weekday, 27 men leave a special housing unit at San Quentin Prison to begin a routine that could shape the future of penal life.

Unlike most of San Quentin's toughened population of 3,350, who don blue denim and muster for work in prison factories and offices, the special inmates dress in civilian work garb, bound for jobs on the outside.

The men — their ranks composed of convicted robbers, burglars, forgers and even murderers — step into their own autos or join car pools and drive to various parts of the Bay Area, where they toil — at regular wages — as carpenters, electricians, clerks, laborers and maintenance men.

Hours later, their workday done, they return to the prison to begin the unusual cycle all over again.

The extraordinary procedure is enabled under San Quentin's work furlough program, part of a statewide effort begun in 1966 to try to reduce parolee failure.

The project, praised by officials connected with it, takes a select number of soon-to-be-paroled and finds them jobs while they serve out the balance of their terms. Supporters say the system eases prisoners back into society, diminishing social and economic pressures felt by men released directly from prison.

"For inmates going from the slow, cold pace of the institution directly to parole, it's a hell of a shock," said Wayne Bartels, associate warden at San Quentin. "Everything is just pressure, pressure, pressure.

"Work furlough," he said, nodding toward the window of his prison office, "eases them into the 70-mile-per-hour society that we have going out there."

The program, which is administered by the state in various forms at other prisons, community correctional centers and county jails, is open to inmates at San Quentin who are within 90 days of parole. Applicants undergo a thorough screening process.

Although the state says that narcotics dealers, inmates with high violence potential and men with histories of child molesting are generally excluded from the program, an official connected with San Quentin's program says its criteria are not exclusionary.

"We like to believe we give everybody an opportunity to come out," said Richard A. Bandettini, a work furlough parole agent and a member of the program's screening committee at San Quentin. "We've had the very best and the very worst and guys who I knew were problems in the institution have done very well."

For the men who survive screening, Bandettini, with the help of prisoner and parolee welfare groups, finds jobs to match skills.

Wages — sometimes running more than $6 hourly for men with construction experience — are deposited in inmate trust accounts for the day when a prisoner is paroled. The inmate is given $21.50 weekly for expenses, such as the cost of car pools organized by some men, and $17.50 per week is deducted from his check to meet institution costs of the program.

If an inmate buys a car, those payments are deducted, too.

The reimbursement feature is unique, and state officials, in fact, are loath to expand work furlough unless it can be shown that deductions for room, board and administrative costs from inmate wages are sufficient to pay for it.

Only 27 men are permitted in the San Quentin program at present because of space limitations, although the number will double when a dormitory in which the inmates live is remodeled, tentatively by April 1.

The dormitory is located on the prison's minimum security ranch outside the prison walls. Work furlough men are segregated from the main inmate population for security reasons.

A measure of the program's achievements statewide, supporters say, is a study by the state Department of Corrections which showed that the rate of parolee failure for those who completed work furlough two years ago is less than for conventional parolees released at that time.

State correction officials say a two-year follow-up is a good barometer for judging parolee success.

Of 101 men paroled from work furlough statewide in 1967-68, the study found that 21.8 per cent had been returned to prison, compared with 31.5 per cent for those paroled without benefit of the program.

While acknowledging that the number of conventional parolees who departed prison in 1967-68 was far greater, correction officials contend the figures indicate a clear pattern of improvement in reducing recidivism.

The study, contained in a December report to the Legislature, added that the rate of escape — those who failed to return to prison after leaving for work was 5.9 per cent of the more than 2,000 men and women who have participated in the program statewide since 1966. Further, 340 were removed from the program and returned to main prison population because of disciplinary or medical reasons or because of job layoffs, the report indicated.

While the escapes tend to taint public opinion of work furlough, Bartels said, the failures are rationalized by prison officials. "The reality is that if an inmate couldn't make it on work furlough, his chances of making it on parole would have been very remote," he observed.

Bandettini, a lantern-jawed, 13-year veteran of the Department of Corrections, calls work furlough the "only meaningful" rehabilitation program to come along. "It's definitely working," he said.

He observed, "A man comes to the street with money. In many cases, he's been reunited with his family. He's made meaningful communication with members of the community."

Bandettini regards program expansion as inevitable. "In time," he said, "you will see the parole system be the work furlough system. Many men may not go to prison but directly to a work furlough system — inmates with minor offenses, of course."

Joe C. Crow, state work furlough administrator, believes most state prison inmates "eventually will be phased out to parole through this or a similar kind of program," but he worries about state budget restrictions.

In order to expand, we have to show that a program is capable of being supported with inmate reimbursements," he said. "We can't get money for new programs."

While pleased with the shape of the program now, Bandettini recalls uneasily the early days of work furlough. Employers and "old line" correction officials were apprehensive, he explained, and when the project finally began at San Quentin, three of the first five inmates escaped.

"We were getting pretty scared," he said. "They were about ready to shut the program."

One employer with whom Bandettini has established solid ties is the Winston Burnett Construction Co. of San Francisco. The company now has five San Quentin work furlough working on housing construction in San Francisco's Western Addition.

Two of the inmates — 47-year-old Ernest Taylor and Joe Wade, 33 — are returnees to prison and this is their first experience with work furlough. Both claim it will help them make a better adjustment this time.

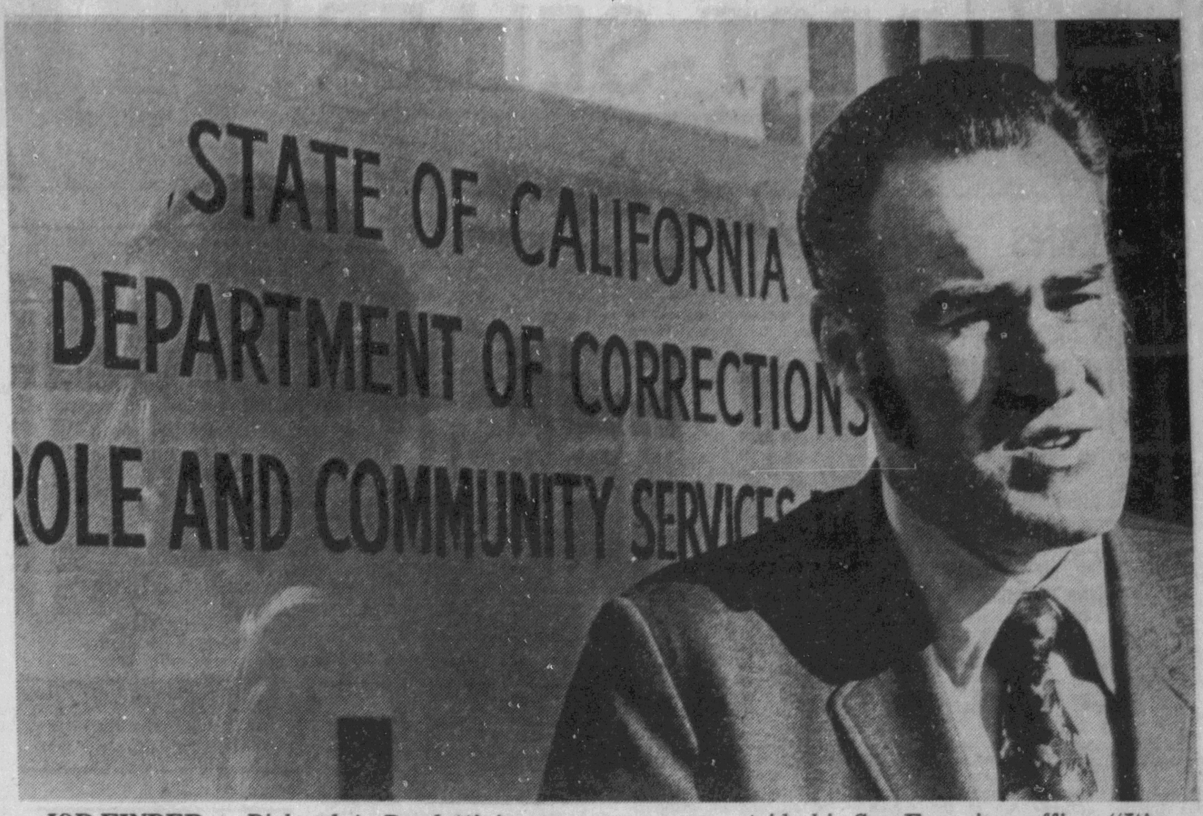
"It enables a man to build a foundation for himself; he gets a grub stake and it gives him a sense of security," said Taylor, a burly Southern Californian who broke parole after serving a term for forgery. "I think in years to come, the program's going to be a big success."

Wade, like Taylor a $5.19-an-hour laborer, summed up the program with disarming nonchalance: "I kind of dig it."

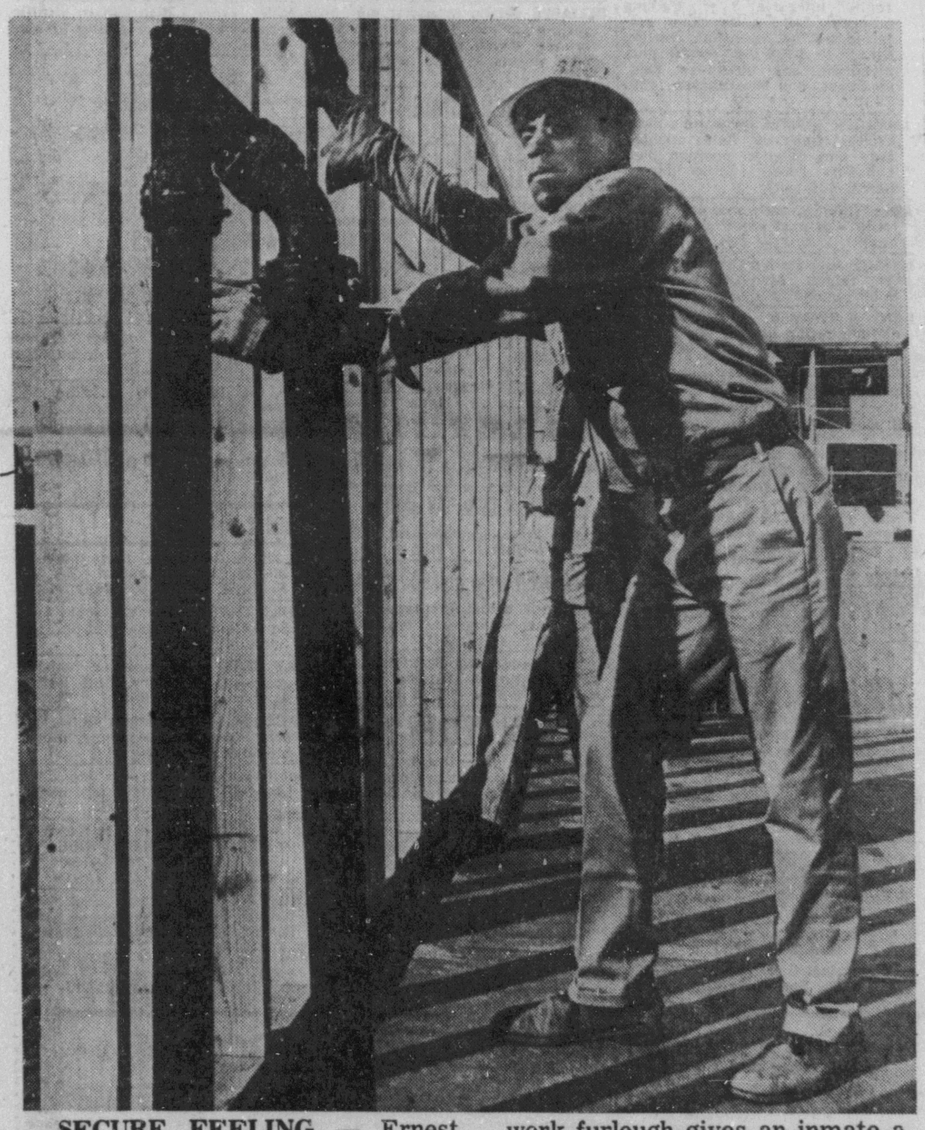
It isn't such an adjustment," he said. "You take the outside in little, short spurts."

Although many of the inmates remain in work furlough occupations once released, Wade plans to reopen an art gallery business that was derailed by his imprisonment.

WORK FURLOUGH INMATE — Joe Wade, 33, is shown on the job as a construction laborer in San Francisco. He's one of 27 San Quentin inmates in the work furlough program.



JOB-FINDER — Richard A. Bandettini, parole agent who helps find jobs for inmates in the work furlough program at San Quentin, pauses outside his San Francisco office. "It's definitely working," he says of the program.



SECURE FEELING — Ernest Taylor, 47-year-old San Quentin inmate, helps shape a wall at a Western Addition construction site in San Francisco. He feels work furlough gives an inmate a "grub stake" for the time when he departs prison.

Tax-Rate Vote Due In School Districts

Southern Sonoma voters will go to the polls Tuesday to vote on a school tax rate increase which school officials have called necessary to maintain the present educational program.

The election seeks to increase the general purpose tax rate for the Petaluma Elementary District from $1.83 to $2.50 per $100 assessed valuation and to increase the rate in high school district, which includes Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati, from $1.55 to $2.50 per $100 assessed valuation.

A total of 16,278 persons will be eligible to cast ballots. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Polling places include the United Church of Christ, Petaluma City Hall, school district warehouse near Petaluma Senior High School, Free Will Baptist Church, George Pontiac-Buick, Goodanetz Residence, 734 Pepper Road and Wagner Residence, 1516 Old Adobe Road.

Schools to be used as polling places include Grant, McNear, Valley Vista, Cherry Valley, McKinley, McDowell, Penngrove, Cinnabar, Cotati, John Reed, Waldo Rohnert, Dunham, Two Rock, Old Adobe, La Tercera, Bernard Eldredge, Wilson, Laguna, Union and Lincoln.

School district officials have reported that additional local tax money is needed because of the depletion of reserve funds and the decrease in state support, now at 38 per cent. Inflation has also driven up the cost of education, the school board has noted.

It is estimated that the tax rate increase will suffice for five years. The last tax rate increase election in the elementary district was held in 1959 and in 1964 for the high school district.

Bond elections were approved in 1959, 1961, 1968 and 1969, but funds can be used only for building projects and not for school operation.

Reserve funds for the elementary district have dwindled from $429,881 in 1969 to an anticipated $129,049 at the end of this fiscal year. Similarly, the high school district reserve funds have dropped from $520,851 in 1969 to an anticipated $200,673.

There has been no organized opposition to the increase.

Barbecue Set By Cycle Club

Road Runners of Marin, a club for motorcycle enthusiasts of all ages, will hold a barbecue and picnic at 2 p.m. Sunday at Kirby Cove off the Sausalito Lateral road, according to Fred Foss, vice president.

Prospective members are invited, Foss said; there will be an admission charge.

Foss explained the Road Runners are interested in highway travel rather than racing, and have American Motorcyclists Association and Sierra Road Riders sanctions. Ages of the 24 present members range from 9 to 54 years, he said.

The organization meets the first and last Fridays of each month at 22 Marin Street, San Rafael.

Hearing Set In Pot Charge

A preliminary hearing has been set for Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court for Jerry R. Wade, 20, of San Rafael.

Wade is charged with possessing marijuana when he was arrested Jan. 3 after a Marin City resident told San Rafael police that he had hit her.

Information Center Opens For Recycling

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The California Anti-Litter League and four of the nation's leading can producers have established in the Bay Area the first recycling information center in the United States.

The Bay Area recycling information center will provide tips on preparing items for recycling and a list of the more than 100 recycling collection centers in the Bay Area. The collection centers will begin operation March 1.

Persons interested may contact the Bay Area Recycling Information Center at Suite 2101, 100 Bush Street, San Francisco. Telephone numbers can be obtained from the Operator.

No Complaint

No complaint has been filed in Marin Municipal Court against Vicki Louise O'Dell, 18, of Burlingame, who was arrested Saturday in Sausalito's Princess Park on suspicion of possessing marijuana.

Dictaphone Equipment Is Reported Stolen

Dictaphone equipment valued at $359 has been stolen from Helen's Formulas, Inc., of 9 Vivian Way, San Rafael, police reported yesterday.

Helen F. James of 1297 Lynwood Way, San Rafael, told police the theft probably occurred Dec. 18 at the same time the Karmic Opera Clothing store next to her office had been burglarized of $728 worth of clothing. She told police she noticed the theft early this week when she returned to her offices.

No. 157 Feb. 19, 26, Mar. 5, 12, 1971

CITY OF LARKSPUR
NOTICE OF HEARING

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission of the City of Larkspur, after holding required hearings, has recommended Zoning Reclassification from unclassified to S (Study District) that property within the City of Larkspur more particularly described as:

Being parcels # 23-012-09, 23-012-18, and 23-012-19.

HEARING WILL BE HELD by the City Council of the City of Larkspur on Wednesday, March 3, 1971, at the hour of 8:00 P.M. in the Council Chambers, City Hall, Larkspur, California.

MARGARET A. HOGG
Chief Deputy City Clerk
Dated: February 15, 1971
No. 159 Feb. 19, 26, 1971

CITY OF LARKSPUR
NOTICE OF HEARING

WHEREAS, a petition was originally filed with the Planning Commission by Sommer-Ryan Enterprises to approve the reclassification from R-1 (First Residential District) to C-2 (Commercial District) of the following property:

A.P. 21-104-16 & 26 and A.P. 21-101-12, otherwise known as 234½ Magnolia Avenue and the Northwest corner of Arch Street and Magnolia Avenue; and

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission on January 12, 1971, recommended reclassification from R-1 (First Residential District) to C-1 (Restricted Commercial) of the following properties:

A.P. 21-104-16 and 26, to the centerline of the creek, 234½ Magnolia Avenue, and to recommend reclassification of A.P. 21-104-19 and 29 from C-2 to C-1 (250 and 274 Magnolia Avenue); and

WHEREAS, the Larkspur City Council held a hearing on the Planning Commission recommendations on February 3, 1971, and continued that hearing to February 8, 1971; and

WHEREAS, the City Council referred back to the Planning Commission the following recommended zoning:

A.P. 21-104-16 and 26 from R-1 to C-1 to the southerly and easterly side of the creek, and the reclassification of A.P. 21-104-19 and 29 from C-2 to C-1, 250 Magnolia Avenue; and

WHEREAS, The Planning Commission on February 9, 1971, concurred with the City Council's recommendations;

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Rheumatoid Arthritis Of Feet Affects The Metatarsal Joints

Rheumatoid arthritis of the feet is a painful disorder, especially when the metatarsal joints are still and swollen. Distress is more severe than that from arch trouble because the joints are inflamed and tender to the touch. Standing causes agony, and the victim walks as though he were stepping on spikes.

ALL JOINTS of the feet, including the ankle, may be involved. Because rheumatoid arthritis is a generalized disease, other parts of the body are affected. Remedies include aspirin, gold salts, indomethacin, phenylbutazone, and the corticosteroids.

Bed rest may be needed because walking is painful and aggravates the inflammation. To prevent deformities, a foot rest or board should be placed at the end of the bed to keep the feet at right angles to the legs. This also helps keep the disabled feet from getting weak and stiffened in a drooped position.

HEAT IS SOOTHING and gentle manipulation keeps the joints limber and improves circulation. More activity is recommended when acute inflammation subsides. Whirlpool baths and other forms of physical therapy are beneficial.

Shoes should have a firm sole and a stiff counter. Pads may be needed, especially when the metatarsal joints remain puffy or knobby. Walking may become a major problem when deformities persist and corns and calluses develop over the knobby growths.

Several surgical procedures have been devised to smooth out the uneven parts, so that the person is able to get about.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

THE SALT HABIT

L. K. writes: A 21-year-old man got the salt habit when he played football in high school. He no longer is active in sports but continues to use a lot of salt. Is this harmful to his health?

REPLY

Salt does not cause disease but it may aggravate an existing condition, such as high blood pressure. The normal body is capable of eliminating excess salt that is consumed in the diet.

IMPENDING BREAKDOWNS

A reader writes: Are extreme irritability and nervousness signs of an impending nervous breakdown?

REPLY

Not necessarily. Many cranky and jittery individuals improve overnight when the cause is eliminated. Nervous breakdown is more likely to follow a period of insomnia, physical exhaustion, stress, depression or overactivity.

LARGE COLLAR BONES

C. L. writes: What would cause large, protruding collar bones?

REPLY

Heredity is the best possibility. Weight loss is a common cause, but the condition is not rare in slender persons, especially if they are big boned. Now and then arthritis exists in the joints that connect the breastbone with the first rib or collar bone.

SLOWNESS AND RETARDATION

N. T. writes: If a baby is slow to notice things, to sit up without support, and in walking and talking, is there a chance that he is mentally retarded?

REPLY

Not if a child is slow in mastering only one of these accomplishments. But if he is slow in two or more, a mental deficiency may be responsible.

Army Wives Get Helpful 'Uncles'

LONDON (UPI)—The army has set up a special group of sergeants to act as "uncles" to lonely young Army wives whose husbands are away.

They will help the wives with problems—everything from fixing a fuse, calming a dog or dropping in for a friendly chat.

The scheme, officially called the Housing Commandant Organization, was disclosed Wednesday in the government's defense white paper.

A pilot program has already been carried out at the army's eastern command headquarters at Colchester and been judged a success, an army spokesman said.

Defeats Censure

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Edward Heath, shouting at times above the uproar, defeated a motion censuring his government in a turbulent Parliament Thursday night. Trade unions forged ahead today with wage demands his government said would increase mounting unemployment.

Uproar almost drowned out the last three minutes of Heath's speech in which he pledged no retreat by his Conservative government on a bill defining management-labor relations and defeated the opposition labor party censure motion by 309 votes to 275, a government majority of 34.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber delivered the government warning that spiraling wage demands could increase unemployment now totaling 721,143, one of the highest figures for 31 years.

Barber said some militant trade union leaders were almost forcing their members to price themselves out of work.

Driver Injured As Car Hits Pole

A 36-year-old Stinson Beach man was injured yesterday at 7:15 p.m. when his car ran off Shoreline Highway just north of Calle Del Arroyo in Stinson Beach.

Gottlied T. Danz, of 18 Calle Del Occident, was treated at Marin General Hospital for multiple scrapes and bruises.

The California Highway Patrol said his car ran off the west edge of the road and struck a power pole. Officers said he told them another car forced him off the road.

Scholar Center Is Dedicated

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon dedicated the new Woodrow Wilson Center for International Scholars Thursday with a call for peace—only one day after taking a tough stance on the Indochina War.

On Wednesday, Nixon told an impromptu news conference at the White House that he would not limit use of U.S. air power in Indochina, except to exclude nuclear weapons, and that time was running out for meaningful peace negotiations in Paris.

The center, to be housed initially in the Smithsonian Institution pending completion of its permanent quarters on Pennsylvania Avenue, was created by Congress to bridge the gap between the worlds of learning and public affairs.

Another Stay In Nurse Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal appellate court has granted another stay in the case of Capt. Susan Struck, who the Air Force wants to drum out because she became pregnant on duty.

Capt. Struck, a nurse, became pregnant while serving in Vietnam. The Air Force flew her to McChord Air Force base near Tacoma, Wash., for discharge proceedings. It was there the nurse gave birth to a 6-pound daughter. Capt. Struck is still on active duty.

Two Undersized Lots Rejected

A variance to allow the creation of two undersized lots at 2061 Centro West Street in Tiburon has been denied by the city's board of adjustments.

Development administrator Philemon V. Scott said the board on Tuesday denied the application of Alma Shapiro to create two lots, each containing 8,375 square feet.

Under the city's zoning ordinance, lots are required to contain at least 10,000 square feet. Scott said the board did not feel the request was justified and commented the variance would have allowed construction of two single family homes on the property.

Armored Car Drops A Bag

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dominic Lopez, 27, told police he was driving to work Thursday morning when an armored car in front of him made a turn and out dropped a large canvas bag.

"I stopped and started honking my horn," said Lopez, a garage mechanic. "But the truck kept on going."

He said the truck then made another turn, apparently felt the swing of an open back door and stopped.

"Then this guy came running back in a hurry. He grabbed the bag and gave me a quick look."

Lopez quoted the man as saying, "Thanks, bud" before running back to the armored vehicle and driving off.

Youth Authority Sentence Given

Ronald Walker, 18, of San Rafael has been committed to the California Youth Authority for a second degree burglary conviction.

He earlier pleaded guilty to the charge as well as to a misdemeanor count of trespassing.

Walker originally was charged with four felony counts of burglary in connection with entering two San Rafael businesses Dec. 11 and two others Dec. 26.

The commitment was ordered by Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN PURSUANT TO ORDINANCE NO. 485 of the City of San Anselmo and Section 65500 of the Government Code, that the San Anselmo Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on the application of Sibarco Stations, Inc., and Melanie Lasky, Alta May Woehrle and Eleanora and Luigi Palazzi to rezone from R-3 (Neighborhood Apartment District) to C-3 (General Commercial District) the following described property:

Lots 10, 11 and 12 of the Bella Vista Tract, as shown on Official Survey Book 1, Page 8, Assessor's Parcels 6-081-05, 06 and 07, located at 821, 825 and 831 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in the City of San Anselmo

The hearing will be held on the 1st day of March, 1971, at 8:00 p.m. in the Council Chamber of City Hall.

The foregoing is hereby designated as the time and place for the hearing of protests to the proposed rezoning of said property, as applied for, and for the hearing of all persons interested in said matter.

For more particulars concerning the application, refer to the file in the Planning Commission Office, City Hall, San Anselmo, California.

Dated: February 16, 1971

Robberies, Assaults Up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The number of robberies and cases of aggravated assault in San Francisco increased during January compared to the same month a year ago, a Police Department survey showed Wednesday.

There were 685 robberies reported last month, compared to 503 for the same month a year ago. Aggravated assaults increased from 226 to 284.

Other major categories of crime decreased. Homicide was down 11 per cent, forcible rape 33 per cent, burglary 20 per cent and auto theft 11 per cent.

Juvenile Panel Fails To Convene Quorum

Marin's Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission could not meet Wednesday because of a lack of quorum.

The Rev. James C. Upshaw, chairman, said the commission will meet next Thursday at 4 p.m. in Room 254 at the Marin Hall of Justice.

Move To Preserve Animals

The 12 Marin guilds of the Louise A. Boyd Museum of Science have adopted a resolution to support efforts to preserve endangered animal species.

Patricia Arrigoni, secretary of the museum's board of trustees, said the guild members at their annual meeting felt the need to take a stand to preserve what is left of the 861 species on the endangered list.

The guilds resolved to oppose the taking of endangered species for commercial exploitation or recreation, such as for their hides, fur, feathers, meat, horns or trophies, or the pet trade and laboratory use.

They also made a pledge not to buy fur coats or other items made from animals on the endangered species list, Mrs. Arrigoni said.

Unification Panel Draws Up Changes

After a series of mandatory meetings on unification of the Dixie and San Rafael school districts, the Marin County Committee on School District Organizalion has come up with two modifications to a unification plan rejected by voters in 1966.

According to Robert E. Spain, assistant secretary to the committee, the two modifications will be forwarded to the state for approval and inclusion in the state-approved unification plan.

That plan was rejected by voters in 1966 by a vote of 6,787 for and 7,139 against.

One change, he said, asks the state to approve reduction of the number of trustees on the proposed unfied school district board from seven to five.

The seven-member board was written into the 1966 unification plan by the committee. It had been opposed by both the Dixie and San Rafael school district boards.

The second change asks that a 25-cent increase in the consolidated tax rate be approved and written into the proposal for voter consideration.

The increase will be used to establish a single salary schedule for teachers and clerical workers in the unified district if approved.

Teachers in the Dixie School District are paid on a lower salary schedule than those in the San Rafael Elementary School District. The difference is because San Rafael elementary teachers are paid on the same schedule as high school teachers.

Spain said the two proposed changes to the plan will come before a public hearing next month before being forwarded to the state.

In related action, the committee was told 11 elementary school districts feeding into the Tamalpais High School District have voted support of the high school district's resolution asking the state to exclude Marin County from the mandatory unification election next year.

Rights Flap Fact Panel Incomplete

A fact-finding committee to delve into the squabble between the Marin Human Rights Commission and the Police-Community Relations Program is still looking for a fifth member.

Personnel Commissioners Parnel Finn and I. Wayland Bonbright and Human Rights Commissioners Richard Harding and Charles B. Weers are the first four.

On Wednesday, the four met at the Civic Center and came up with three possibilities: Retired Judge Jordan L. Martinelli, Dr. Leo L. Stanley, and retired Judge Hadden W. Roth.

Mrs. Finn and Bonbright reported to the personnel commission yesterday that Judge Martinelli and Dr. Stnaley had both declined, and Judge Roth is still traveling abroad.

Mrs. Finn and Bonbright said they intend to confer with the other two committee members and pick a fifth member before the next committee meeting set for 9 a.m. Feb. 26 at the Civic Center.

Marin County Board of Supervisors last month established the five-man fact-finding committee to investigate the squabble that led to the resignation Jan. 28 of Human Rights Director Donald C. Moody, who charged he was harassed by Mrs. Bella H. Aaron, coordinator of the Police-Community Relations Program.

Road Toll

SINGAPORE (UPI)—There were 31,108 road accidents in Singapore in the first 11 months of 1970, an increase of 5,894 over the corresponding period of 1969, police report. The mishaps killed 269 and seriously injured 2,486.

Reed Teacher Fuss Moves Ahead 1 Step

The Reed School District's Certificated Employees Council has named its representative to a three-member fact-finding panel which will suggest how the dispute over teacher contracts in the district can be resolved.

He is Dr. Donald H. Wollett, professor of law at the University of California at Davis and a consultant to the California Teachers Association (CTA) on negotiations and legal affairs.

Under the provisions of the Winton Act, the state law which sets rules for resolving disputes between school employees and boards, the Reed School District board must appoint its representative on the fact-finding committee by Wednesday.

The two men then have until March 3 to select a third member, who autovatically becomes chairman of the panel.

Irwin Karp, acting Reed superintendent, said the district board has authorized him to appoint the board's representative but he has not yet made his selection.

The Winton Act stipulates that the fact-finding panel shall hold a hearing on the contract dispute, take evidence and make a recommendation to the board and teachers, either of which may accept or reject the panel's recommendations.

The decision to appoint the fact finders came at a negotiating session between representatives of trustees and teachers Tuesday after both sides rejected proposals of the other for ending the contract dispute.

Karp said the board's proposal, to form a study committee composed of two board members, two administrators and four teachers, was rejected by the teachers.

Bert Skaggs, executive director of the CTA Council of Marin, said a counterproposal by teachers to employ a negotiator supplied by the state was likewise rejected by board representatives.

Under the circumstances, Skaggs said, the parties decided to form the fact-finding panel.

Skaggs said teachers were disappointed Tuesday that board negotiators wanted to discuss only the current contract impasse and not, as teachers desired, to discuss procedures under which the present and future disputes could be settled.

The basis of the dispute are three provisions in contracts offered by trustees: That teachers must abide by any changes in state law and district policy during the year; that teachers agree to work each day as required by the board, and that teachers who fail to work may be assessed for damages to the district.

Salaries are not at issue.

In another development, Skaggs announced the CTA Council of Marin, with 11 chapters and about 2,000 members, voted Wednesday to support sanctions against the Reed board.

He also said the Mill Valley Teachers Association has pledged its support of the Reed District Teachers Association, which represents 80 of the district's 104 teachers.

'Seed Money' Planned To Help Housing

Organizations that want to sponsor a housing project would draw on this fund to pay preconstruction cost. The borrowed amount would be repaid as soon as the housing project got far enough along to receive federal grants.

The ecumenical association welcomed the following new members into the association: Everett Jenson from Fairfax Community Church; Thomas Zeller, alternate delegate from St. Anselm's Church; Joseph Martino and alternate Robert Mason from the Wells Fargo Bank.

Martin Mackey, executive director of the association, announced that the next meeting will be at 8 p.m. March 17 at St. Isabella's Parish Center in Terra Linda.

The Marin Ecumenical Association for Housing will establish a $100,000 revolving fund to provide "seed money" for sponsors of low and moderate income housing.

The "seed money" plan was presented by Eugene Bowman, senior escrow officer of Wells Fargo Bank, at the ecumenical association meeting Wednesday night at St. Isabella's Parish Center in Terra Linda.

Bowman and Douglas P. Ferguson, counsel for the association, worked out this plan:

Citizens interested in providing more low and moderate income housing will be asked to advance the $100,000. This will be held by Wells Fargo Bank and Administered by the ecumenical association.

JIM GILMARTIN

A Fish Story About A Duck

I hate to "scoop" our fine fish and game columnist, Al Giddings, but I've got a super scooper that I, and not he, should write.

I know a fine young lad who went fishing at Paradise Park the other day and caught a duck, by quacky.

I kid you not. He is 10-year-old Garth James Gilmartin — um-hmm, my heir apparent — and he had the unusual experience while angling with his grandpa, Frank Kelly, the former San Rafael chief of police. Master Gilmartin was sitting there with his line in the water, minding his own business, when this quazy quacker dived down and fought for the bait. Mr. Duck missed the bait, but did foolishly get his wing caught on Master Gilmartin's hook which prompted my son to start reeling in like mad. Fortunately, the duck managed to fight loose and, when last seen, was flying like mad in a northerly direction, probably vowing never again to tangle with my little tiger.

The event drew cheers from other fishermen in the area, because that same duck had been bothering their bait all day.

Sorry to scoop you, Mr. Giddings, but I couldn't resist telling both of my readers that at least there is one champion in the family.

HAMILTON AIR FORCE BASE, always a top contender for team and individual titles in amateur boxing, will be capably represented in the Feb. 23-26 Golden Gloves tournament at San Francisco's Civic Auditorium.

Hamilton has a team of nine preparing for the tourney. Joe Rivera, a Puerto Rican from New York who won the Golden Gloves title there, is one of Hamilton's big guns. He was on the U.S. team that fought the Russians recently in Las Vegas.

Although Hamilton has lost the services of Jesse Valdez, the champeen 156-pounder, Coach George Cooper boasts: "We have a lot of other good fighters, so we aren't worried about winning our share of championships."

It looks like the card will be a sellout and Marin's airmen can be expected to provide their share of the fast and furious action always prevalent in Golden Gloves tournaments.

CLEM McMARTIN, my good pale who owns "The Escrow" in San Anselmo — it's an emporium that dispenses giggly liquids — sends a note reminding me and all you red hot hockey fans that he is sponsoring a bus trip to Oakland for a California Seals game on Sunday, Feb. 28.

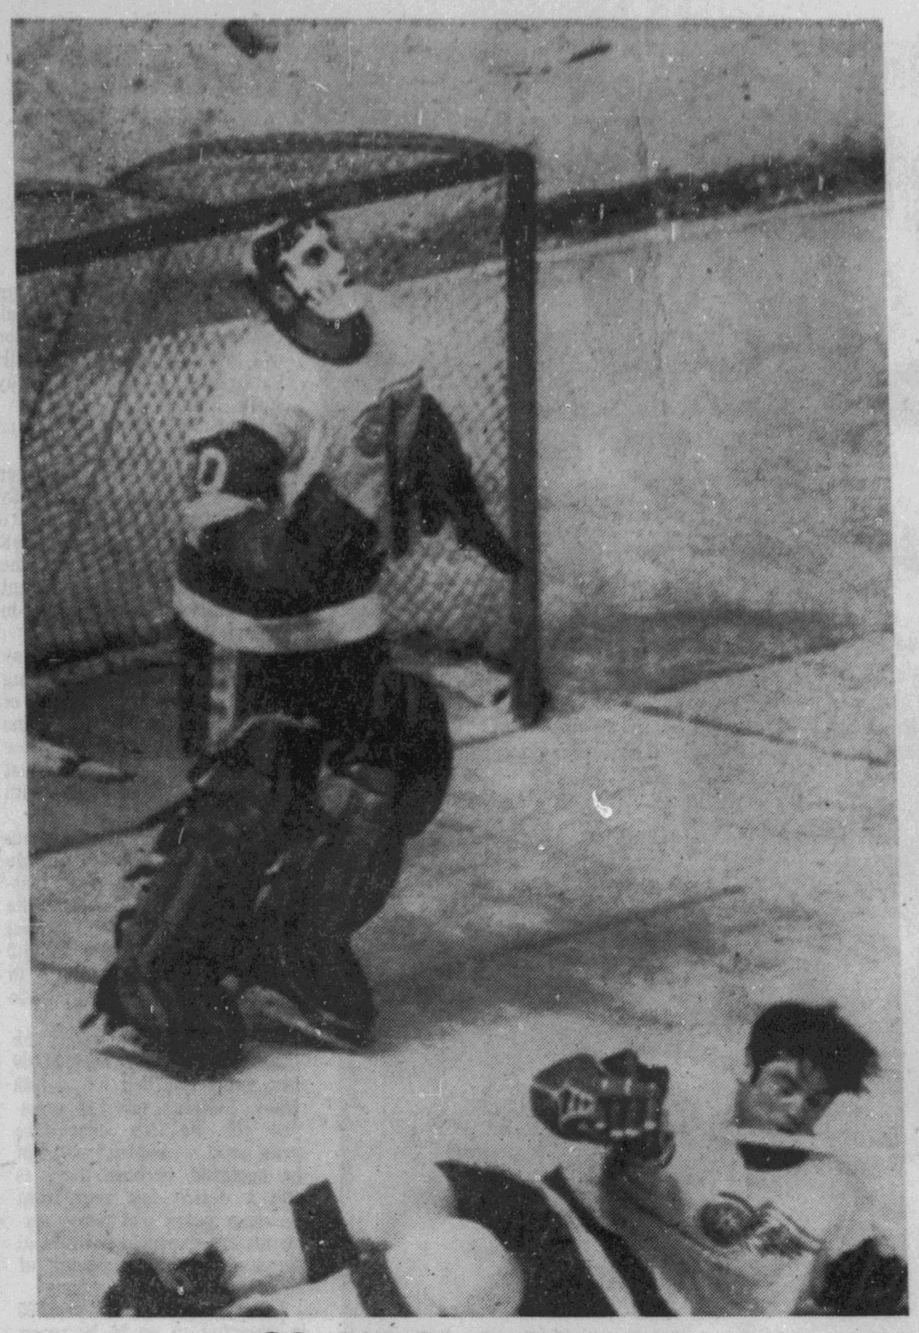
So, if you want to relax, avoid fighting the traffic, and have a blast at the ice arena, give Clem a call. Heck, I might even tag along for the fun.

WHEN THE University of California defeated an Alumni team in their annual season opening baseball game last Saturday, two Marin Countians had a hand in it — Greg Tellis and Rocky Shone.

Tellis was the starting pitcher and blanked the old grads in the first inning, a token appearance, and Shone was one of the Bear catchers.

A note from Bob Steiner at Cal says Tellis, who led the Cal team with a 7-2 won-lost record last year, is being counted on heavily in Cal's plans this year.

Also, I imagine the rugged Shone will continue to help the Bears with his heavy bat.



GOALIE OR OUTFIELDER

Detroit Red Wings goalie Roy Edwards kept his eye on a high flying puck while guarding the net against the Minnesota North Stars last night in a National Hockey League game in Detroit. Down in front of Edwards was teammate Arnie Brown. The Red Wings won, 5-3, with Gordie Howe scoring his 850th goal. Story on page 34.

Bowie Begins His Assault On Drugs

Baseball's Education Program

NEW YORK (UPI) —Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has inaugurated his war on drugs and the game's top-ranking officials will be going back to school in an effort to make the program a success.

In announcing a drug education and prevention program for baseball Thursday, Kuhn said that although he had "no specific" knowledge that any players or baseball personnel had used hard drugs like heroin, it was necessary to prevent the spread of what he called "limited use of nild drugs in baseball."

Kuhn then said that regional seminars would be held on the subject in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., March 2, Tampa, Fla., March 3 and Phoenix, Ariz., March 18. He announced that the seminars would be attended by league presidents Joe Cronin and Charles Feeney, National Association president Phil Piton, minor league presidents, team physicians, players and other personnel connected with baseball.

"There has been a limited use of drugs in baseball and I hope to stop it," Kuhn said. "While the program recommended by the physicians will emphasize education and prevention, it will also deal with disciplinary procedures felt necessary to assure its success."

Kuhn announced that 24 club physicians took a stand in Los Angeles Dec. 2 and agreed that there should be no place in baseball for pills that might stimulate a player's performance.

The physicians agreed to study a number of subjects during the year including (1) responsibilities and limitations of club trainers' activities, (2) the use and abuse of drugs, and (3) preventive medical programs for all 24 clubs according to Kuhn.

"We have young people constantly coming into baseball," said Kuhn, "and we therefore need a program to prevent drug abuses. It is necessary that we take the stand that there is no place for stimulants as barbiturates and amphetamines in baseball."

GALS GOLF

Shirley Votes For Womanhood

PORT ST. LUCIE, Fla. (UPI)—Golfer Shirley Englehorn said Thursday she hopes the women's liberation movement stays away from professional golf.

"There's no way I would ever want to play on a mixed tour—women competing against men in golf," said Miss Englehorn, the only four-time winner last year on the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) tour.

Miss Englehorn is one of the favorites to win the $60,000 Sears women's world classic of St. Lucie, the richest event in ladies golf history.

The 54-hole tournament begins today over the par 73 Port St. Lucie Country Club sinners course. A total of 74 golfers will be vying for the $10,000 first prize.

Miss Englehorn shocked the golf world last year when she sought admittance to the Los Angeles Open, strictly a men's event.

"That was a public relations man for the tournament speaking," said Miss Englehorn. "The sponsor said he would give me an exempt berth and I went along with it."

The men's Professional Golf Association refused to allow her to play, touching off a furor in which Miss Englehorn was pictured as an unyielding woman golfer who thought she could beat the men.

Miss Englehorn laughed at the idea.

"Men's golf is a different game, and that's the way we women want it," she said. "I personally like to play golf with men because it's fun—but not for a living."

Washout In Tucson Pro Golf

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—The Tucson National Golf Club course sank in a rainstorm Thursday—or at least it seemed that way—and the first round of the 72-hole $110,000 Tucson Open was washed out literally.

The field of 144 gets a fresh start today, weather permitting, in the first 18-hole round, will play 18 more holes on Saturday and 36 on Sunday to make up the standard 72.

About one-third of the field finished 18 holes Thursday but all scores were cancelled as is the rule with the Professional Golfers Association.

Low score among the Thursday finishers was a two-under-par 70 by Cesar Sanudo, 26-year-old San Diego, Calif., pro, who understandably thought the course was okay.

"The fairways were pretty dry and the greens putted well. I thought," said Sanudo. He had an up-and-down round with six birds and four bogeys for 36-34.

Defending champion Lee Trevino matched par 36-36—72 and laughingly recited how he lost his ball on the fifth green when it sank under water.

Trevino almost had a hole-in-one on the fourth, a par-three 165-yard hole when his tee shot hit the cup.

"My ball hit the cup on the fly," he said. "I used a five iron and I'm telling you it hit the cup on the fly and tore out the left side of it. The ball rattled around and wound up 15 feet away But I sank it for a bird."

This is the seventh event of the year on the PGA tour and drew most of the big money-winners to date except Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper.

Tom Shaw, winner of the Crosby Clambake and the Hawaiian Open and tops in money with $70,000, was a late scratch. He had to withdraw because of the illness of his 5-year-old son.

STOCKTON TOURNEY

Young San Anselmo Netter In Semis

Jerry Suyderhoud of San Anselmo, who knocked the Bay Area tennis world on its ear last weekend with three startling upsets in the San Joaquin Challenge Cup Championships at Stockton, rates as one of the favorites to capture the boys' 18-and-under title when the tourney concludes this weekend.

Suyderhoud, 16, ranked No. 12 among Northern California players in his age group, rose to defeat Tom Muench, Jack Tesch and Willie Oropez with astonishing ease in the opening rounds of the men's competition, before former Ivy League champion Charles Hoever finally eliminated him. He had beaten Muench, 6-1, 6-2 and Tesch, 6-2, 6-1. Hoever, who subsequently was also eliminated, won 6-3, 6-1 over the Drake High School star.

Not one to let his disappointment show, Suyderhoud recovered from his loss to come back with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Doug Balbalab Monday in the boys 18 quarterfinals. The win earned him a spot in the semi-finals tomorrow; he will meet Bill Maze of Orinda when the competition starts at 9 a.m.

'I See No Problems,' Says Reggie Jackson

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland A's have signed their 34th player, catcher Frank Fernandez. The 26-year-old receiver hit .214 and hit 15 homers in 94 games last season.

The only unsigned A's now are pitcher Diego Segui, shortstop Campy Campaneris and outfielder Reggie Jackson.

Jackson said Thursday "I don't anticipate any problems" about signing a contract.

The outfield sensation of 1969, who flopped in 1970, said that manager Dick Williams had told him he would play regularly in 1971.

Jackson, who hit 20 homers in 60 Puerto Rican winter league games, said he felt he was ready to return to his 1969 form.

"I feel I got rid of my bad habits," he said, "but we'll find out when the regular season starts. I'm very anxious to get going."

Jackson praised Baltimore outfielder Frank Robinson, who managed Jackson's team in the winter league.

"He told me I'd hit bottom and there was only one way to go—up. After that, every time I got down, I talked to him and he brought me out of it.

"I have more respect for him as a person than anyone I've ever known. I never saw him make any mistake handling people. He's a man's man."

JOE DECKER SIGNS CUBS CONTRACT

Former Petaluma High School pitching star Joe Decker of San Rafael has signed his 1971 contract with the Chicago Cubs.

Decker was one of three more pitchers signed by manager Leo Durocher last week, bringing the total number of Chicago players under contract to 33. Jim Colborn, 24, of Santa Paula, Calif., and Larry Gura, 23, of Joliet, Ill., were the other pitchers signed.

Decker, a 23-year-old righthander, was 2-7 with the National League team last year, with a 4.62 earned run average.

Only three Cubs players, pitchers Ferguson Jenkins and Ken Holtzman and outfielder Billy Williams, remain unsigned.

NBA Votes To Delay Realignment

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Basketball Association's Board of Governors decided Thursday to delay any realignment of the 17-team setup until the 1972-73 season.

In a one-day session, the board appointed a four-man committee to study the situation and report back at the league's annual meeting in June.

One division that has been spotlighted as having the bulk of the power in the NBA is the Midwest, where Milwaukee, Detroit, Chicago and Phoenix all have better than .500 records.

In another matter, the league elected to have the first place finishers in all four divisions gain the home court advantage in the best-of-seven playoffs. This year's playoffs call for thek first place team to play the second place club in the conference's other division.

In the division finals and the playoff championships, the team with the best won-lost record will get the home court advantage.

It's A Seals' Sellout In Game With Bruins

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Sals actually beat mighty Boston on the Bruins' ice last November, but it may be hard to believe after tonight's rematch at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

Boston has only lost 9 all season and the Seals have won only 16.

But one of the three Seals' road victories was a 2-1 at Boston.

Coach Fred Glover recalled that "they kept Boston off balance for 2 1-2 periods and then Smitty (goalie Gary Smith) came up strong in the final 10 minutes."

Owner Charles Finley was so happy over that one, he bought a $200 suit for each of his players.

The Seals are sure to be winners tonight in one respect. Their first unquestioned sellout of the season is a certainty. The last ticket disappeared early Thursday.

Smith may not be in the goal tonight. Glover says Chris Worthy played well in a heartbreaking 3-2 loss at Minnesota Wednesday.

Steelers Sign Arizona St. QB

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI)—Joe Spagnola, quarterback for the unbeaten Arizona State University football team, has signed a three-year contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The 190-pound Spagnola was mysteriously ignored in the draft but said he was contacted by the Steeler organization a few hours later.

Spagnola was born in Italy and did not starting playing football until junior high school at Paterson, N.J. He clicked on 144 of 265 passes for 2,146 yards and 19 touchdowns last season.

UOP Quint Appears To Be WCAC King

University of Pacific still looks like the king of the West Coast Athletic Conference, but Loyola and Santa Clara refuse to give up.

The three contenders all won tough tests Thursday night to turn things from a six-team race to just a three-team joust.

UOP performed the near-impossible task of winning on the Nevada Las Vegas court, and the Tigers did it with ease in a 98-77 romp. John Gianelli and Bob Thomason hit 28 apiece while Booker Washington had 22 for the losers, who absorbed their first defeat at home in two seasons.

UOP is now 8-2 in the conference and its 17-5 mark is the league's classiest.

Loyola and Santa Clara are both 7-3 after their big wins.

The Lions got 30 points from big Jim Haderlein on the way to a 63-54 win at USF while Pepperdine took Santa Clara into overtime, but the Broncs still took the 82-75 verdict. Santa Clara hit 10 of 10 overtime free throws to turn the tide.

St. Mary's took Nevada Reno 93-87 in a battle of cellar-dwellers.

Oregon calls on Southern California and Oregon State goes at UCLA in Pacific Eight action tonight. The Oregon teams came close, but could not defeat the powerhouses from Southern California at home last weekend, so they don't figure to do it on the road this weekend.

In other Thursday action, Weber State rolled on toward the Big Sky title with a 65-41 win at Idaho, which tried to stall and flopped.

LAST SECOND SHOT WINS FOR WEST

Art Wilmore, former USF star, made a circus shot from halfcourt with one second left to play last night to give the West a 99-98 victory over the East in an All-Army intersquad basketball game at San Rafael Military Academy.

The victory gave the West a 2-1 win in the three-game series played this month in Marin County by the service team, which embarks next week for Phoenix, Ariz., and the start of a nationwide tour. The series' purpose was to help coach Hal Fischer decide who will make the Army's 1971 AAU team, which begins competition next month.

Dickson Joins Oilers' Staff

HOUSTON (UPI) — George Dickson, a paratrooper during World War II and a member of Vince Lombardi's coaching staff at Washington, was named today as an assistant coach of the Houston Oilers.

Dickson, 47, a former quarterback and halfback at Notre Dame, will be inicharge of special teams and will assist in coaching linebackers. His appointment brings to five the number of assistants on coach Ed Hughes' new staff and leaves only one spot open.

Knicks Theory Really Works

By United Press International

The New York Knicks operated on the theory that five good big men can stop one good little man and it won them a ball game.

San Diego's Calvin Murphy had been giving the Knicks fits as he rallied the Rockets in the last quarter of their National Basketball Association game Thursday night. But in the end it was Murphy, the league's smallest player at 5-foot-9, who had fits as the Knicks held on for a 116-115 victory.

The Knicks led 116-11 with two minutes left when Murphy, who finished with 28 points, hit four consecutive free throws to cut the lead to 116-115 with 26 seconds left. The Knicks froze the ball for 21 seconds until Bill Bradley was fouled with five seconds remaining.

Bradley, New York's best foul shooter, missed both shots, however, giving San Diego the ball. After a time out, New York Coach Red Holzman inserted five of his tallest players, anticpating that the ball would go to Murphy.

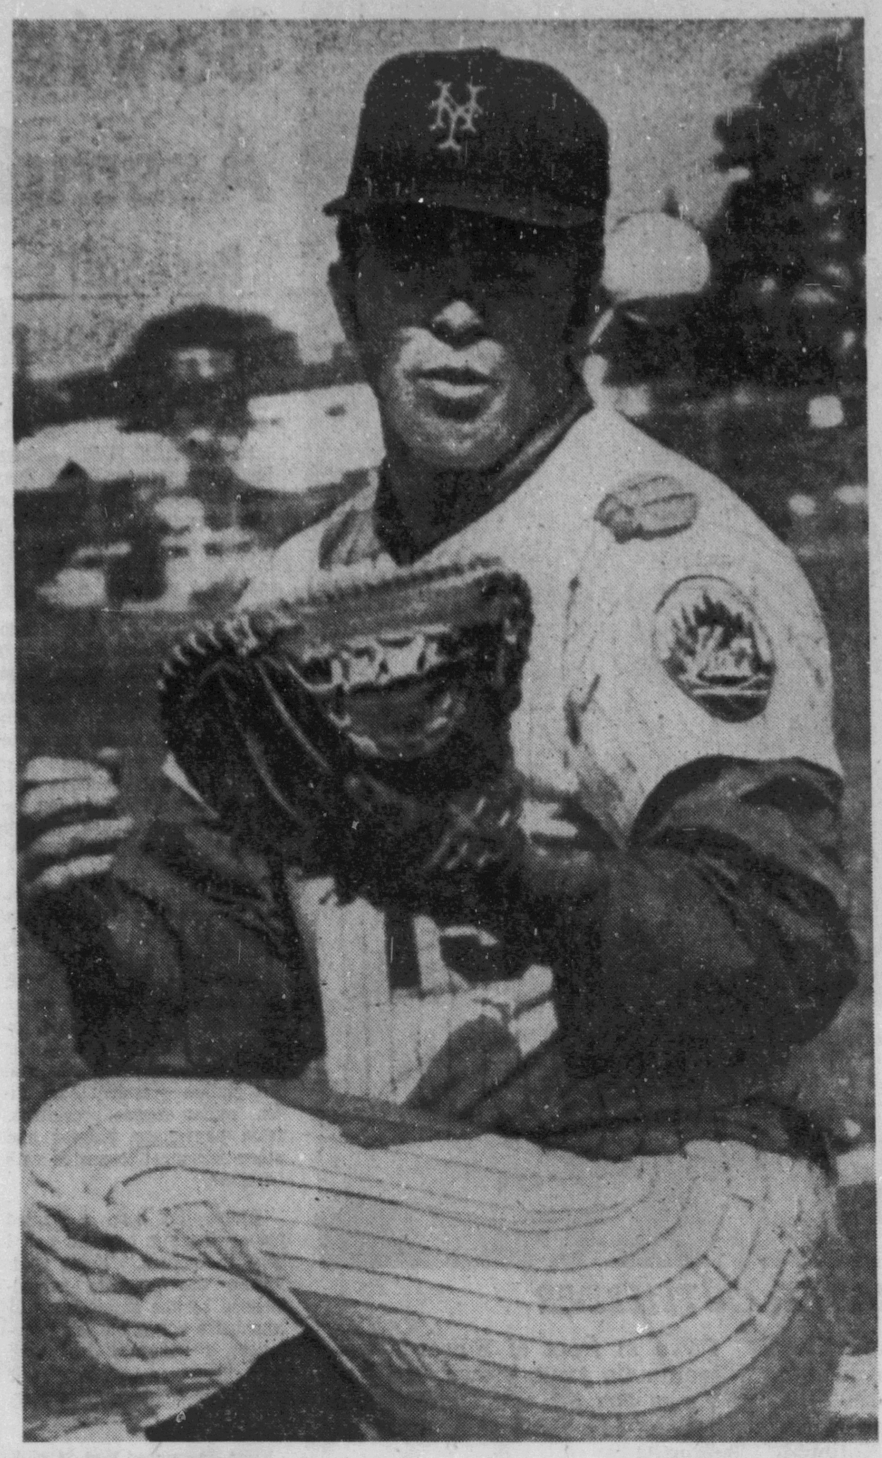
The former Niagara All America took the inbounds pass at midcourt but was unable to get a shot off as the clock ticked off the final five seconds.

Walt Frazier had 36 points and Dick Barnett added 27 to highlight the New York attack while Elvin Hayes led San Diego with 33.

In the only other NBA action, Los Angeles romped past Portland 136-114.

The Lakers hit 17 of their first 20 shots in the second quarter to break open a close game. Gail Goodrich, one of the deadliest of the Lakers with 12-for-18, led Los Angeles with 28 points while Happy Hairston and Keith Erickson added 22 each.

Rookie Geoff Petrie of the Blazers was high man in the game with 36 points.



'NEW GLOVE' BLUES — Jerry Grote, New York Mets catcher, had a hard time holding on to pitchers yesterday as spring training camp opened for the team in St. Petersburg, Fla. Grote explained that the reason for his problems was a new glove he was breaking in.

Patriots In Name Change

BOSTON (UPI)—The teams in the American Football Conference's Eastern Division will look like this in the fall: Baltimore, New York, Bay State, Buffalo and Miami.

Bay State? That's the Boston Patriots' new name.

"Because the club no longer operates in Boston and is really representative of the entire area, the board of directors felt it should be named after the entire state," jclub President Billy Sullivan said Thursday in announcing the change.

"Most of us felt that Bay State Patriots had a nice ring to it and it would have more of an identification with fans throughout the state and New England than it would be just having it associated with Boston," he said.

Patriots' officials said thousands of residents of Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts had helped buy the record 33,000 season tickets already sold for games in $6.2 million Schaefer Stadium in Foxboro, next to Bay State Raceway.

The team's directors said the club made a profit of $500,000 last year, not bad for a 2-12 team. Sullivan, elected president for the 10th consecutive year, said a dividend will not be declared because there is still a deficit left over from previous years and heavy expenses are expected because of the stadium and, "signing of new talent."

A hefty chunk of that $500,000 is expected to go to Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett of Stanford, the team's No. 1 draft pick, who is expected to ask for a sizeable contract.

Gordie Howe Scores Goal Number 850

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

It was typical Gordie Howe — taking two pucks for a friend.

The all-time National Hockey League star scored his 850th goal in combined regular season and playoff action Thursday night in a 5-3 Detroit Red Wings victory over the Minnesota North Stars.

But just before he slipped out the clubhouse door Howe filched a couple of pucks — because a friend had asked him to.

"Don't let Lefty (Wilson, the Red Wings' trainer) see me," Howe laughed in his impish manner. Later he explained: "They're for a football friend."

Buffalo tied Pittsburgh 6-6 in the only other NHL game played.

Howe's power play goal, the 783rd of his career in regular season games, put him at 20 goals for the season —a figure he has hit 22 of his 25 years in the league. It finished a rally that saw Detroit come from a 2-1 deficit to a 4-2 lead in a 4:03 span of the second period.

"I'm glad I got it because it was a game winner," the 43-year-old right wing said.

Red Berenson collected his 17th goal of the season and first as a Red Wing since coming to Detroit from St. Louis five games ago while Alex Delvecchio began the Detroit scoring in the first period with his 14th, a power play score which was only his second goal in the last 30 games.

Don Marshall's 15-foot slap shot with 9:47 left in the game, his second score and 16th of the season, capped a Buffalo comeback which erased a 4-1 lead the Penguins had built up early in the second period.

Turnover Prone Warriors Host San Diego

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors have turned the ball over 88 times in losing their last four games.

They hope to settle down tonight when they host San Diego at the Cow Palace.

The Warriors started their woeful week when they lost to the same San Diego club 119-111. That game produced 21 Warriors turnovers and a 26-point burst by tiny Calvin Murphy.

Prior to that disaster, the Warriors beat San Diego four times in a row.

The Warriors still have a hefty lead over Seattle and San Diego in the battle for the second Pacific Division playoff spot. But if they continue to produce turnovers by the dozen, they might wind up by turning over second place to someone else.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Antonio Cervantes, 137, Colombia, stopped Ernque Jana, 137, Argentina (8).

Academies Charged With Wrong Doings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — West Point and Annapolis, military academies renowned for their honor systems, are illegally recruiting athletes, a U.S. Congressman charged yesterday.

According to Rep. Otis Pike (Dem.-N.Y.) more than 50 per cent of the members of the football squad at one service academy are not constituents of the Congressman who nominated them.

Such a practice is in violation of a Federal law which states that "each candidate (for enrollment) must be domiciled in the State or territory or in the congressional district from which he is nominated."

Nevertheless, Army and Navy spokesman denied that the law had not been violated.

"I can assure you there's nothing wrong with establishing a residence in another district," said Navy Captain William S. Busik, a Pentagon public affairs officer who from 1962 to 1965 was the Athletic Director of the Naval Academy.

Louisville Coach Remains Sidelined

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—John Dromo, stricken with a heart attack on Jan. 2, said Thursday he would remain away from his job as head basektball coach at the University of Louisville for the balance of the season.

Dromo, restricted to three or four hours of office work a day, plans to resume active coaching next season.

Spring's First Phenom

By United Press International

"That kid has major leaguer written all over him."

The speaker was Ted Williams and the subject was Bill Fahey, the first spring phenom of baseball's Grapefruit League season.

Fahey, a 20-year old catcher who signed a $40,000 bonus with the Washington Senators last February, caught Williams' eye Thursday with his slugging during practice.

"He can catch in the big leagues right now," Williams said. "But he'll need more hitting experience in the minors."

Then Williams went out on a limb. "Fahey will be the American League All Star catcher in 1975."

"Of course, I won't be here then," added Williams. "I'll be out in the Atlantic catching salmon."

Elsewhere around the Grapefruit circuit, the list of unsigned players continued to dwindle. Cleveland signed catcher Ray Fosse and pitcher Alan Foster while outfielder Ollie Brown signed with San Diego and outfielders Leron Lee and Bob Burda agreed to terms with the St. Louis Cardinals.

However, Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar, the ace lefthanders of the world champion Baltimore Orioles' pitching staff, remained among the missing Thursday. McNally has placed his contract negotiations in the hands of an agency, but Cuellar is reported to be close to signing.

The Chicago Cubs also are experiencing some difficulty signing their ace pitchers. Ken Hotlzman and Ferguson Jenkins and outfielder Billy Williams remained unsigned, but backup pitchers Jim Colborn, Joe Decker and Larry Gura signed Cub pacts Thursday.

The Kansas City Royals got their first look at outfielder Joe Keough since last June 28. Keough, who was batting .322 at the time, fractured his right leg in a slide. After taking practice Keough reported that he experienced no after effects or difficulty as a result of the injury.

Austrian Teen-Ager Takes Early Lead In Ski Event

KINGFIELD, Maine (UPI)—Austrian teen-ager Anne Marie Proell, shooting for a unique double downhill victory in two days, grabbed the early lead today in the Tall Timber Classic downhill test of World Cup competition at Sugarloaf Mountain.

The 17-year-old resident of Kleinarl, Salzburg, already the runaway leader in the world cup series, whipped down the 6850 foot narrow gauge trail in 1:23.04. On Thursday, she won the postponed Arlberg Kandahar downhill on the same course in 1:20.27.

Miss Proell, seventh in the final World Cup standings a year ago, held a narrow edge on Jacqueline Rouvier of France who was timed in 1:23.24.

Other leaders, with less than half the 46-woman field in, included French stars Annie Famose in 1:23.44, Isabelle Mir in :23.73 and Francoise Macchi in 1:23.24

Karen Budge of Jackson Hole, Wyo. was the leading U.S. finisher among the seeded early starters in 1:24.29 Other front runners were 1970 Ladies cup winner Michele Jacot of France in 1:24.56, Marilyn Cochran of Richmond, Vt. in 1:24.61; Margarete Hafen of Germany in 1:24.76 Judy Crawford of Canada in 1:25.43 and Barbara Cochran of Richmond, Vt., in 1:25.99.

The opening event of the Tall Timber Classic was being run over a clear, fast 27-gate course with a 1,347 foot vertical drop. The course received only a light dusting of snow during the night after a predicted fall of up to four inches failed to materialize.

FISH AND GAME

The Sad Disappearance Of A Popular Fishery

By AL GIDDINGS

I passed by the tidewaters of Papermill Creek (known as the White House Pool area) near Pt. Reyes Station Tuesday and there wasn't a steelhead fisherman in sight!

The good old days of this area being a top steelhead and silver salmon fishing hot spot seem to be gone. It's a shame!

I remember the years not long ago when all of the good fishermen averaged close to 30 salmon or steelhead each season. The waters were quick to clear after a rain, access was good, and all of us lived close by, considering it takes only 30 to 40 minutes to get there even from San Rafael.

It was a place where one could use bait, lures or wet flies. You were a cinch to see a fish roll or jump, or, better still, a fish hooked by someone nearby. The building of the two dams, Nicasio and Kent, had caused the loss of much of the spawning beds above the dams. There are still runs of both salmon and steelhead, but the runs are now small ones. Fishing may be "hot" for a week or so while the small run goes through, but it's over just too quickly!

It will take plants of both silvers and steelhead even though it might be on a "put and take" basis to bring back these runs in the quantities needed to keep fishing good throughout the season. By "put and take", I mean plants of year-old fish ready for sea, these to be taken the following year as grilse, or two years later as mature fish.

It is somewhat estimated by fingerling counts of Papermill and its tributaries that the summer flows now support approximately 150,000 fingerlings. Five percent of these, or only 7,500, reach yearling size and go to sea! Perhaps 3 pct. return which might be 250 fish. This then is approximately our run of today! A plant of 30,000 yearling then should give a return of 900 adults! This might cost about $7,000. Money is the crux of the fishery! What shall we do? Let's hope the new hatcheries planned help do the job!

In looking for steelhead this past week, I tried Tomales Bay off Inverness with Marty Medin. He used flies, I used a daredevil lure. We figured some fish to be in the bay because of this dry month. Without enough water in Papermill Creek from the rains, the steelhead standby in the bay for the rains to freshen the streams. Don Zunino and a friend were also there trolling by rewing (a motor in the shallow water simply scares the fish too much). Marty hooked two steelheads and one large striper, but lost all three! He caught about ten perch; I also caught about ten. I caught one fifteen inch bass which I released. Zunino lost two steelheads — one was a monster, and he, too, had to settle for about ten perch, mostly all silver perch. We caught an occasional red-tail, and a few of the large, 3 pound pogies. Don's friend hooked and landed a twelve-pound striper trolling a wet fly.

Anyway, we all had lots of action. You can get a boat at the Golden Hinde Boatel at Inverness, with or without a motor, or bring your own as they also have a launching ramp there. It's possible to row to the fishing areas as they are close by. It should stay good at least through March, though a rain will move the steelheads up Papermill.

THE OCEAN salmon fishery out of Sausalito has gotten off to a fine start. If the weather holds it's worth going!

STRIPED BASS fishing is due right now to pick up in San Pablo Bay. It has been slow. Jeff Gaberall and Leo Lowery of Tamalpais Valley this past week landed a 100 pound sturgeon with Jeff doing the hooking and Leo the gaffing. It took 55 minutes to subdue the critter. It was taken on a bullhead near the Richmond Bridge.

THIS WEEKEND there are some good minus tides in the afternoons. Cockles in Tomales Bay are prime, and a family outing at Dillon's Beach for gaper clams, along with an occasional Washington clam or even a giant geoduck clam, may be just your bag. This is the time of year when shellfish are all safe for eating!

CASE OF THE FIRED COACH

Allen's Jury Still Out

By JIM MURRAY

I guess I'm old-fashioned, but I keep wishing the bill of particulars against George Allen included something like throwing games, stealing towels, betting on the other team, bribing enemy tackles or buying off the waterboy.

Couldn't they at least catch him selling secrets to Russia, eating with a knife, teaching kids to smoke or drawing moustaches on statues?

Shucks, couldn't they at least catch him LOSING?!

I don't always stick up for the owner in management disputes but I did stick up for Dan Reeves the FIRST time he fired George Allen. After all, Dan had put up $7 million for the Rams, a team he already owned but had to buy back from guys he gave two-thirds of the club to for $1, and a promise to share in losses.

There were only two years of losses after that or a little more than $400,000, which meant that Dan gave away 66 percent of a $7 million ball club for $266,000.

Dan resolved never to give up his ball club so cheaply again without a fight, and when he thought George Allen was trying to take the team away from him without even putting up the $1, in fact, while being PAID by the Rams, I thought Dan was entitled to fire, sue or otherwide publicly chastise his employe.

But, when Dan took him back, I thought, "Well, thank heavens, we're out of THAT!" and he could get on with the Super Bowl or whatever.

But then, dark hints kept popping up. I began to suspect George Allen of starting the Johnstown flood, or of keeping secret the whereabouts of Judge Crater, or perhaps he held up armored cars in his off-hours or kidnapped heiresses for ransom.

It puzzled me, because, while I wouldn't want to be on a desert island with him as I can get my fill of "Xs" and "Os" and football film run backward pretty quickly, I always found George to be a kind of over intense, tortured individual (on TV, he always looked as if he was being interrogated under spotlights, "All right, George, tell us what you did with the body") but, as near as I could tell, his main fault was, he was abstemious.

Now, Lord knows, this is serious enough, and we all called George "The Green Arrow." A few of us felt we should get him an ax and let him bus up saloons once because he tried to get a radioman fired because he caught him having a beer for breakfast or some such misdemeanor — which is pretty high-handed behavior for a football coach, in fact, even for a bishop.

But, none of us could say George Allen's puritanism was hypocrisy. Novody ever caught him Dick Smith-ing it (Dick Smith was a guy who used to sneak drinks in the pantry whenever the vicar called) and George's idea of a dirty movie was a game played in the mud.

Still, I thought, when all the figures are in, and the white paper issued, we would find that George did it, whatever it was. His fingerprints would be on the safe, the bullet would be traced to his gun, the canary feathers would be hanging out of his mouth sort of thing.

You can imagine the let-down when my colleague, Mal Florence, finally got the deposition from Dan Reeves.

Why, I could think of a dozen better reasons for firing George Allen than the ones given. His haircut, for example. The fact he likes pistachio ice cream. As an indictment, it makes Jim Garrison look like he had an airtight case.

No, as an old hanging judge by nature, I'm disappointed. Dan should just have kept a knowing smile. Or, at least, refuse to testify — on the grounds of what he might say would tend to incriminate no one.

Cal Meets Proved Tough On Russians

By CONNIE RYAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nine Russian track athletes, who took four firsts, four seconds and two thirds in their first two indoor meets in the U.S. last week, said Thursday they will do better Friday night in the U.S. Olympic Invitational at Madison Square Garden.

"Those meets in California were very difficult for us, because we had to start competition very soon after a 24-hour flight to America," said coach Yuri Kolesov, Russia's national decathlon coach who is in charge of the seven men and two women from the USSR who are competing in a series of U.S. indoor meets.

"I think we will do better in New York, because we have had time to prepare a bit."

The Russian team includes world and Olympic triple-jump champion Viktor Saneyev, high-jumper Kestutis Sapka, 800-meter man Yevgeny Arzhanov, sprinter Aleksandr Kornelyuk, 1500-meter runner Mikhail Zhelobovsky, distanceman Rashid Sharedtinov and the two tall, slim girls, Ludmila Bragina and Hazezhda Kolesnokova, both of whom will run in the 800 meters.

The ninth athlete is Vladimir Skibyenko, who won't see action tonight because the longjump has been relegated to Columbia University Saturday morning, although it is part of the track meet, which is sponsored by the U.S. Olympic Committee.

"The weather here is better for us, too," said Zhelobovsky, who will run against Marty Liquori and Keith Colburn in the featured 1500 meters. "It is just right."

It was sunny and the temperature was in the high 40's.

"I'll try for 56 feet in the triple jump," said Saneyev. "I want to be the first to do that distance indoors."

The triple jump is not a regular events in U.S. track meets, and Saneyev admitted it was only a little better at home.

"It isn't the most popular event," he said. "They know me in my home town, but that's about all." He has lost only two competitions in the past three years, and is clearly No. 1 in the world in his specialty.

Sapka, who will draw much attention because he uses the backward-jumping style made famous by Dick Fosbury in the 1968 Olympics (the "Fosbury Flop"), said the style has made him a world-class jumper.

Lassiter Is Leader In Straight Pool

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Veteran Luther Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N.C., jumped into the straight pool lead in the $400,000 world 3-in-1 pocket billiard championships Thursday night..

The former three-time world champion scored his fifth victory in six round robin matches over Jimmy Moore, another veteran from Albuquerque, N.M., 150-69.

Early Polls Favor Dodgers For Pennant

Consensus pick to win the 1971 National league baseball pennant probably will be the Dodgers. Informal polls of the nation's baseball writers already have indicated this. And spring training hasn't started yet.

CINCINNATI'S "Big Red Machine" is running behind the Dodgers in virtually all of the early sample ballots except, of course, in the home precinct of the Reds who were powered to the 1970 pennant by the home run punch of Johnny Bench, Tony Perez and Lee May, plus consistent .300 hitting by Pete Rose and Bobby Tolan.

The fact that Tolan, who led the National League in stolen bases (57) last season, ripped a right ankle tendon Jan. 6 during a Reds' basketball game in Frankfort, Ky., has influenced the early opinion polls. Tolan will not be streaking along the basepaths until June 1 at the earliest.

THE FACT that the Dodgers during the winter picked up a couple of potent home run bats also has had its influence on the balloting. The Dodgers expect big things this year from Rich Allen and Duke Sims. Together they hit 57 homers last year, Allen 34 for St. Louis, Sims 23 for Cleveland. The team total of homers for the Dodgers last season was 87.

Although the Dodgers finished last in 1970 major league home run production, they were first in hits (1515). Yes, they actually finished with 17 more than Cincinnati's total — and in one less game. But Cincinnati won the team batting championship of the National League by .0001 percentage point over the Dodgers, .2703 to .2702. The Reds' league leading team total of 191 homers, however, was more than double the Dodger total.

NOT SINCE 1962 have the Dodgers had a home run hitter to belt more than 30 in a season. Frank Howard hit 31 in 1962. It has been 14 years since the Dodgers had a player to surpass 34 homers, Allen's total last year for the Cardinals. Duke Snider hit 40 in 1957 while the Dodgers still were in Brooklyn.

"We think we have solved our home run problems with the acquisition of Allen and Sims," said Al Campanis, Dodger vice president.

THE DODGERS never have had speed handicaps to go with their hits. Their team total of 138 stolen bases last year led the majors. Wes Parker's 47 doubles led the National League. Willie Davis' 16 triples were tops, too.

The Dodger pitching staff, despite loss of its ace Bill Singer for more than half of the season, compiled 17 shutouts, also a 1970 National League high. Don Sutton led the staff with four shutouts.

CLAUDE OSTEEN won 16 games last season, Sutton 15. Singer, a 20-game winner in 1969, won only eight last year because of a long bout with hepatitis early in the season and a fractured right index finger in August. Still, Singer managed a no-hitter against the Phillies in July.

Singer, Osteen and Sutton give the Dodgers three solid starters this year with a couple of promising young pitchers coming on. Sandy Vance was 7-7 last year and Mike Strahler, called up from Spokane late in the season, was 1-1 in six games with a smart 1.48 ERA.

Quarter-Final Showdowns In Men's Indoor Tennis

SALISBURY, Md. (UPI) — Rumanian Champion Ilie Nastase and Clark Graebner of the United States will be grying tonight to set up a semi-finals showdown match for the second weekend in a row, as the $50,000 U.S. Men's Indoor Open Tennis Tournament completes its quarter finals.

Last Saturday, Graebner, who has never lost to Nastase in five matches, edged the defending champion of the Salisbury tourney in the clean air open in New York.

In tonight's play, Nastase goes against Tom Gorman of Seattle, the third seeded American, and Graebner faces Jaime Fillol of Chile.

One of Saturday's semi-final pairings was set last night. The top seeded American, Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Texas, polished off Thomas Koch of Brazil, the fourth foreign seed, 6-2, 6-2, to gain a semi-final spot. Big Vladimir Zednik, an auto-mechanic from Czechslovakia, won the other berth with a 7-6, 6-2 win over Peter Curtis of England.

Second Mile Of Ryun's Comeback

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—It's hard to know whether the mile or the two-mile will cause more excitement in tonight's San Diego games.

The mile will feature world record holder Jim Ryun in his second comeback race. The lean Kansan returned to the boards in San Francisco last month and breezed to a 4:04.4 victory.

But the two mile field is led by Kerry Pearce of Australia, who set the world indoor two-mile mark of 8:27.2 in 1968, and George Young, who tied it here in 1969.

Other top competition should come in the 1,000 meter race, where Olympic gold medalist Ralph Doubell of Australia and U.S. record holder Juris Luzins match strides, and the shot put, where indoor record holder Al Feuerbach and outdoor holder Randy Matson will continue their rivalry.

Opposition Seen To Fair Mergers

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A state government efficiency group looking into consolidation of state-supported district fairs will oppose such a merger, it appeared certain today.

L. H. Halcomb Jr., executive director of the Commission on California State Government Organization and Efficiency, said this morning overwhelming public opposition to a merger plan has "pretty well convinced us that it is not feasible and may not even be desirable."

While Halcomb's remarks fell short of scuttling consolidation — which would include Marin and Sonoma fairs — there appeared little likelihood the efficiency panel, also known as the Little Hoover Commission, will support a consolidation plan.

The commission, which is conducting a series of hearings throughout the state aimed at sounding out public reaction to a merger plan, issued a memorandum this week in which Halcomb's office observed that "sufficient testimony was received by the commission at its three earlier hearings to indicate that consolidating the state's 76 fairs into half that many may not be feasible."

Halcomb said the commission has heard testimony from about 150 persons and that his office has received about 2,000 letters on consolidation, and that "only one or two thought we were doing a good thing for humanity."

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, whose office received a copy of the Little Hoover Commission's memorandum, flatly interpreted its remarks as meaning consolidation is dead.

"This decision is of great importance to the people of Marin and Sonoma counties," a statement from Behr's office said. "It means that we will be able to enjoy for many years to come the attractions and opportunities of the Marin County Fair and the Sonoma-Marin Fair."

Testimony at commission hearings to date, including one last week in Santa Rosa, has indicated district fair officials and participants don't want consolidation because each considers the fair in his community unique.

District fairs are supported each year with about $8 million in horse racing revenue collected by the state.

Both Marcelle B. McCoy, director of the Marin County Fair, and Art Canavan, manager of the Sonoma-Marin Fair, held each year in Petaluma, were outspoken opponents to consolidation.

Halcomb insisted the commission's intention from the first was only to obtain local reaction to consolidation and not to devise ways to implement a merger plan.

The commission will hold its final hearing Tuesday in Red Bluff, to be followed by recommendations to the governor's office and Legislature.

Counter-Attack By Reds In Laos

Three Fronts Hit; Capital May Fall

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese troops today launched a heavy attack on a South Vietnamese firebase 12 miles inside Laos and drove off rescue helicopters with a blaze of antiaircraft fire. A relief column was battling along heavily mined Highway 9 in an attempt to save the base.

Vientiane dispatches said the North Vietnamese had driven off Laotian forces 35 miles west of Sepone in another phase of their winter offensive apparently aimed at blocking the South Vietnamese drive on that major resupply center. Sepone is a main South Vietnamese objective.

U.S. helicopter losses soared and the U.S. Command reported two huge $2 million CH53 Sea Stallions lost in what a spokesman called the heaviest weekly toll in more than seven months. Front dispatches indicated as many as eight or nine helicopters were lost or heavily damaged Thursday and today. The 12 day toll neared the 40 mark.

UPI correspondent Kim Willenson reported from Vientiane that the Communists not only were attacking toward Sepone in southern Laos but had increased the tempo of their offensive in the north and shelled the big military headquarters of Long Cheng in daylight for the first time.

The Communists also increased their pressure on the royal capital of Lung Prabang and for the first time Laotian generals expressed fear the North Vietnamese would try to capture it. The road between Vientiane and Luang Prabang was declared unsafe.

Deputy Defense Minister Prince Sisouk Na Champassack told the National Assembly in Vientiane that Laos faced a "grave" military situation created in part by the South Vietnamese incursion in an effort to cut the Ho Chi Minh supply trial and by the increased Communist attacks 300 miles to the north.

With the Communists increasing their attacks in both Laos and Cambodia, Saigon buzzed with rumors that the government was planning some sort of attack across the border into North Vietnam despite Hanoi's warnings such action could bring Communist China into the war.

Highway 9 leads westward from the city of Quang Tri in the northern sector of South Vietnam across Laos and into Sepone, hub of the Communist supply network through Laos. It runs just below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and has come under heavy attack in South Vietnam.

The 16,000-man South Vietnamese force in Laos has moved mostly along Highway 9, slicing across three or more of the Communist supply roads, but has been bogged down in heavy resistance. Today's attack appeared to be of major proportions—the first such attack.

The highway is so vulnerable to Communist attack and so heavily mined that convoys quit using it eight days ago, letting the forward forces depend on helicopter supply missions which braved antiaircraft fire reported as intense as that over the German Ruhr in World War II.

The road is cut in two places and Vietnamese admitted that if the relief convoy was to reach the paratroops and rangers at the fire base, 12 miles from the border, it would have to fight its way.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the 16,000-man invasion force, remained optimistic. He told UPI correspondent Kenneth Braddick: "We are having heavy contact but the operation is going well and we keep moving forward."

The main South Vietnamese armored force was about 17 miles inside Laos but unconfirmed reports today said an armored column had reached a point seven miles from Sepone along Highway 9. Reconnaisance patrols reached the area earlier this week to scout out the defenses.

The war in northern Laos was causing immense refugee problems. Tens of thousands of the population of three million

Demo Unity Appeal But Discord Blooms

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Lawrence F. O'Brien urged his colleagues in the Democratic party leadership today to set aside prejudices and past discords, and move toward picking a man who can give President Nixon a tough race in 1972.

O'Brien, the party's chairman, told a meeting of the National Committee that self-reform in the party organization was essential "to ensure that the 1972 presidential nomination is worth the candle."

The party came out of the 1968 election with a huge cash deficit, but Robert S. Strauss, national treasurer, reported today that operations had been converted from red to black ink recently.

Strauss said the party had been operating on a pay-as-you go basis for a year but was still $9.3 million in debt from 1968. A big rally has been set for April 21 in Washington, at $500 a plate, to try to reduce the deficit.

In action this morning prior to moving toward national convention arrangements, the committee approved the selection of Mary Lou Burg of Wisconsin as vice chairman and Gov. Robert Scott of North Carolina for another vice chairmanship.

In his speech to the National Democratic Committee, O'Brien said it had assembled to chart a new course for the world's oldest political party and that the whole nation was watching.

Yet a storm was brewing over the Democratic executive committee's rejection of a recommendation from one of the party's two reform commissions over the allocation of delegates among the states for the 1972 national convention.

A commission on convention rules approved a formula Tuesday for a sharp cutback in delegate votes for lightly populated states and a substantial increase for populous northern states. The executive committee recommended a substitute which would move in the same direction but with less damage to the small states and less power to the large states.

The national committee was expected to approve the executive committee proposal —by roll call if necessary.

Adoption of language of the call for the 1972 national convention, including the apportionment of delegates, was the chief item on the agenda for the committee.

"We have come together, recognizing the discord of the recent past, in the role of healer," O'Brien said. "And what we do today will, in large measure, determine whether the Democratic National Committee has the capacity for leadership, the courage to change, the will to move forward, the right to claim national leadership."

O'Brien said —as he had declared before —that President Nixon could be denied a second term but that the Democrats must show that they are offering a true alternative to administration policies.

"We are meeting to consider the best, the most democratic means," he said, "of rebuilding the Democratic party . . . You are being asked to set aside many time-encrusted traditions, to set aside some regional loyalties and prejudices, to put behind you the all too human tendency to reward and punish, to thank and to revenge. . ."

January's Cost Of Living Hike Lowest In 4 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government announced today the cost of living rose only 0.1 per cent in January—the smallest monthly increase recorded in four years. The White House quickly cited the report as evidence "our economic policies are working."

On behalf of President Nixon, Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler commented: "We are encouraged by it. We feel that it indicates that our policies are working."

The cost of living index for last month stood at 119.2 which means the average consumer paid $11.92 in January for the same items which cost him $10 in 1967.

In a companion report, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics announced that the actual purchasing power of the rank-and-file worker increased in January. This was credited to the fact his take home pay went up because of automatic reductions in the income tax withholding rates.

The cost of living report said higher prices for consumer services in January were largely offset by declines for used cars, clothing and some food items.

Prices of meats and fresh fruits and vegetables declined instead of rising as they usually do in the winter. However, eggs and dairy products, which normally decline this time of year, rose. Cereal and bakery goods, restaurant meals and other food consumed away from home, rose somewhat more in January than in recent months.

The BLS said the drop in used car prices followed several months of increases, and clothing costs dropped for the first time since mid-1970. It said transportation service prices jumped sharply in January, primarily because of a substantial rise in car insurance premiums.

Despite the slowed advance in consumer prices, there remained evidence that inflation had not yet been fully controlled. The government announced earlier this week that wholesale prices rose 0.7 per cent in January.

Farm products and food increased 1.7 per cent last month at wholesale, indicating that January's downturn in grocery prices might be short-lived.

Wholesale price changes tend to show up at the retail level after a lag of several weeks.

At a news conference, Joel Popkin, the assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor statistics, said there were indications that prices for groceries and services were levelling off.

"Grocery store foods have been stable since February, 1970," Popkin said, "and services have declined from the extremely high rates of last winter."

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the January consumer price increase was 0.3 per cent —less than the 0.5 per cent rise in December and the same as for November.

As a result of the January rise, the BLS said, about 67,000 workers would receive cost-of-living wage increases ranging up to 8 cents an hour.

For specific items, the index listed these figures for January:

Food, up 0.2 per cent in January; housing, up 0.1 per cent; apparel, down 1.3 per cent; transportation, up 0.5 per cent; medical care, up 0.6 per cent; recreation, up 0.9 per cent.

Laos Action Worries Mansfield

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said today that Laos incursion could result in a longer war, with more American casualties and war prisoners.

"In my opinion we may well be up against a stacked deck in Laos," Mansfield said in a Senate speech.

Mansfield took issue with President Nixon's suggestion that the Laos operation would force the North Vietnamese to fight now or give up the struggle.

"The option is theirs as it has been from the outset," Mansfield said. "The fact is if they still have many cards in Cambodia, elsewhere in Laos, in South Vietnam and in North Vietnam, what if they opt not to fight at this time in Laos?

What if they do stand and win against South Vietnamese forces in that remote area? What course is open to this nation then?"

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott contended that the Laos incursion could strengthen the Vietnamization program and speed withdrawal of U.S. troops.

Sen. W. E. (Bill) Brock, R-Tenn., charged that Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., was using U.S. prisoners of war as "political pawns" in the debate over Indochina.

McGovern, D-S.D., said "there's only one way to get American prisoners released and that's to announce a definite withdrawal date for all American forces. . ."

But Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., Republican national chairman, contended Nixon should suspend withdrawals of air and support units until North Vietnam begins freeing American prisoners.

The POW issue began emerging as a central question in the debate over Nixon's Vietnamization program. Both backers and supporters of the troop withdrawal program acknowledged it was a major dilemma for the president.

Nixon, at a news conference Wednesday, pledged that a sufficient number of American forces would be kept in Vietnam indefinitely to keep up pressure for release of the prisoners. He did not say what would constitute a sufficient number.

Dole, who often reflects the prevailing White House view, contended that 285,000 air and combat support units should remain after the last American ground combat troops are withdrawn later this year—until the POW issue is settled.

He agreed with McGovern and other Senate doves that the plight of the POWs was a "real dilemma" for the Vietnamization program and that it will become tougher and tougher for Nixon to make more withdrawals. Dole said the wives of the POWs and men missing in action were demanding that withdrawals be suspended and he agreed with them—except that he saw no harm in pulling out the 50,000 ground combat troops that will be left after the current withdrawal phase is completed May 1. He said he thought Nixon's timetable called for withdrawal of all remaining ground troops by the end of 1971.

McGovern contended the Nixon policy was responsible for keeping Americans in prison "and they have to bear the responsibility for that."

"It's my own very carefully considered judgment that there won't be any American prisoners released from North Vietnam until we get out of South Vietnam," McGovern told a news conference. "Countries engaged in war with each other seldom release prisoners."

McGovern and other Senate doves contend that if Nixon would announce a set date for withdrawal, Hanoi would quickly come to terms on the POW issue.

McGovern's charge that Nixon was "flirting with world war III" as a result of the allied drive into Laos brought quick retorts from Dole and Senate GOP Whip Robert P. Griffin of Michigan. Dole contended McGovern—who has announced his candidacy for president—was "running scared 18 months ahead of time." Griffin called the statement "irresponsible."

McGovern contended the drive into Laos brought the risk of Red Chinese intervention in the Indochina War.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, agreed that there have been indications China was taking an approach toward her borders very seriously.

"That's not unnatural," he said. "I think we would take very seriously any approach to our borders."

Demos Ask $30 Million To Expand Heroin Addict Program

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Democrats, calling drug abuse California's No. 1 crime problem, have proposed a $30 million expanded methadone treatment program for heroin addicts as a way of "making our streets safer."

The four-bill package, introduced by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, is aimed at ultimately providing every heroin user in the state with the substitute drug methadone.

Democratic Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti announced he will make the methadone proposal a "major legislative priority." He is a coauthor of the legislation.

State cash to help finance the undertaking would come from the hard-pressed general fund, including $9 million made available by the gradual shutdown of the state Department of Corrections' only drug treatment center.

Methadone is a synthetic drug that blocks an addict's craving for heroin. Although methadone is nonaddictive, addicts develop a dependency on it but are usually able to lead normal productive lives.

Vasconcellos reported there are currently 19 methadone treatment programs operating in California but only 1,000 addicts are enrolled. He estimated there are between 25,000 and 35,000 heroin addicts statewide, half of them on the street.

The San Jose lawmaker estimated the $30 million would pay half of the costs of the program's expanded first year and about one fourth of the second year costs. The balance would be provided from federal and private grants and addicts themselves.

Moretti and Vasconcellos estimated that Californians suffer a daily loss of $1.5 million to heroin users who commit crimes to finance their habit for a total direct loss of $547.5 million a year.

Direct and indirect costs of heroin use, he estimated, total $607 million a year which he estimated could be cut by $486 million if methadone was made more available and substituted for heroin.

Moretti told a news conference the state must focus on elimination of drug addiction "as the first specific step toward making our streets safer...and toward great monetary savings in our law enforcement and corrections system."

The plan proposes the gradual closure of the California Rehabilitation Center at Corona, which currently houses 1,800 addicts committed by civil courts. The treatment program basically involves total abstinence from drugs.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

176 Aftershocks

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A total of 176 major aftershocks have been recorded since the massive Los Angeles earthquake Feb. 9 and scientists predict smaller shocks will persist for months.

Don Anderson, head of the seismological laboratory at the California Institute of Technology, said Thursday that the earth was in almost constant motion for 10 minutes following the devastating quake and that 34 of the major aftershocks rocked the ground during the first hour.

The most damage occurred within a 20-mile radius of the epicenter in the northeast end of populous San Fernando Valley. Sixty-four persons were killed and damage ran into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Check Rebels

REGGIO CALABRIA, Italy (UPI)—A column of police in jeeps and trucks today mounted a second push through the rebellious Santa Caterina district to knock down new barricades set up by residents during the night.

However, police officials pulled out about a score of M113 armored personnel carriers they had moved in Thursday in a show of force to discourage firebomb attacks.

There were no new incidents in today's operation, the second in as many days to clear the district of barricades cutting Reggio from the outside world. Residents who watched the march from balconies and doorways said they would put up new barricades as soon as the police leave.

No End Yet

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Despite significant switches among Republicans, Senate reformers remain starkly short of the votes needed to crush a southern-led filibuster in defense of extended debate.

The first attempt to end the filibuster, which both sides consigned to defeat in advance, was beaten 48 to 37 Thursday, nine votes short of the two-thirds needed.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield scheduled a second effort for Tuesday but even reform strategists conceded there will not be enough converts by that time. They are shooting for victory on the third or fourth try.

Since Jan. 25 the filibuster has blocked the Senate from considering a change in the 54-year old rule which governs limitation on debate.

The proposed revision would allow three-fifths of the senators voting to cut off debate. The present requirement is two-thirds.

Under the present rule, in effect in Thursday's vote, the reformers fell nine votes short. Ironically, they missed by three votes of achieving the three-fifths margin they are seeking.

20-Pound Rock

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The quarantined Apollo 14 crew reached in a sample bag and pulled out a surprise for lunar scientists—a 20-pound rock the size of a basketball.

Dr. Robin Brett, vice chairman of the Apollo 14 sample examining team, said scientists asked for one football-size rock and the grayish "big rock" was an unexpected bonus.

Astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Edgar D. Mitchell also unpacked two 12-pound football rocks among the samples returned to the lunar receiving laboratory aboard the mobile quarantine unit the crew used on their recovery ship. The unit was flown to the Manned Spacecraft Center Thursday.

Also on board was the faulty camera command pilot Stuart A. Roosa was to have used to photograph the rugged Descartes landing site proposed for Apollo 16. Roosa was scheduled to work today with engineers to determine what went wrong with the camera.

Praise To Reds

MOSCOW (UPI)—There on the television screen a Soviet Jew named Dimitri Novokovsky held up a blood-stained prayer book and said: "It is the Red Army that liberated the Jews from Nazis.

"So we have no need to be liberated by anybody."

Until Thursday night, the Soviet public had not seen anything like this for a year: Jewish generals, editors, poets, professors and even emigrants back from Israel, all defending the Soviet motherland against foreign Zionist "slanders" on nationwide television.

The 30-minute program was aimed specifically at arousing public indignation against the two-day World Jewish Congress being held in Brussels beginning Tuesday. It will discuss the status of Soviet Jewry and Moscow regards this as "an anti-Soviet provocation."

In general, the program recapped the official line that all but a tiny fraction of Soviet Jews are contented citizens and that Israel wants to lure them into its armies.

Next Space Boss

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Dr. James C. Fletcher, president of the University of Utah, is in line to head the U.S. space program during its transition from manned moon missions to unmanned exploration and development of orbiting laboratories.

Informed sources indicated Thursday that President Nixon is preparing to make an announcement soon of Fletcher's appointment to head the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Considered an expert in civilian and military space research, Fletcher would succeed George M. Low.

No Sales Effect

NEW YORK (UPI)—The ban on television cigarette advertising, now almost seven weeks old, has had little effect on sales, a spot check of industry sources indicated today. If anything, cigarette sales have gone up.

Retail trade sources said the rise in cigarette sales that began last year is continuing and possibly accelerating as cigarette makers shift advertising to newspapers and other printed media.

The major companies all said it was too early for them to pass judgment on the long-term effect of the Jan. 2 broadcast advertising ban.

Jim Beam Firm Admits To Favors

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The makers of Jim Beam bourbon Thursday told Congress they helped provide treats for high-ranking U.S. officials in Vietnam to keep their brand the runaway best-seller in the war zone.

The James Beam Distilling Co., protested, however, that financing such favors as a swanky Saigon villa for the men who bought liquor for post exchanges and service clubs was just good business—no worse than what the competition was up to.

Explains Position

"We hoped our products would be purchased because of this," explained Beam vice president Mel Peterson to a Senate Investigations subcommittee Thursday. "I have to get my whisky in the marketplace to create a demand for it."

Peterson, alternatively defensive and apologetic, reluctantly detailed to persistent senators how Beam used the skills of mysterious businessman William J. Crum to escalate bourbon sales in Vietnam though relationships with military purchasing agents.

Subcommittee investigators linked Beam—and specifically Peterson—to Crum when the hearings into operation of post exchanges, service clubs and similar facilities opened Wednesday.

Earlier Testimony

Earlier testimony pictured Crum—now reportedly somewhere in the South Pacific on his yacht—as a peddler of goods ranging from liquor to slot machines who made millions from military service clubs in Asia by trading bribes and kickbacks for purchase orders.

Peterson, flushed and perspiring profusely, acknowledged close contact with Crum during Crum's four-year hitch as Beam's Vietnam agent. But while he said top Beam officials were kept fully briefed on Crum's activities, he said he had "no knowledge" kickbacks were part of Crum's operations.

He first denied—then admitted as claims to the contrary were tossed at him—that he endorsed Crum's acquiring and furnishing a swank villa for the four top PX officials in Vietnam.

Backs Off

First insisting he knew about it only after the fact, Peterson was forced to back off when Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., flashed copies of Peterson's own correspondence to the contrary.

"Did you approve it?" Gurney finally demanded.

"I guess I did, yes, sir," Peterson responded in a near-whisper after pausing for nearly 30 seconds. "I don't know what Mr. Crum's reasons were . . . except perhaps to get to know them better."

Similarly, Gurney was not satisfied when Peterson contended that the Vietnam PX officials—including the lieutenant colonel in charge—reimbursed Crum for their $2,000-per-month home. He said Peterson's own letters showed Peterson knew that was not fully true.

Admits To Act

"You did know that Mr. Crum was subsidizing these U.S. employees, didn't you?" Gurney said.

"Yes, sir," Peterson said abjectly, after another long pause.

"Then I must say . . . that this is one of the most corruptible practices I've ever seen," Gurney shot back. "No wonder Jim Beam did so well."

Gurney said that through Crum's efforts, Jim Beam bourbon outsold its nearest rival—Old Grandad—in Vietnam by a third.

SOVIET TARGET — This Soviet diplomatic car was set afire early today in Silver Spring outside Washington, D.C. and shortly afterward a man called news agencies with the statement "This is an act of retaliation in the war of liberation . . . let our people go. Never again."

Arson Tries On 3 Soviet Cars Appear Linked To Jewish Group

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Arson attempts were made on three cars registered to Soviet diplomats in the Maryland suburbs early today. A man telephoned news agencies to say the incidents were "retaliation in the war of liberation."

One of the vehicles was set fire in Silver Spring, just north of the nation's capital, but damage was reported slight.

Police in Hyattsville, about four miles away, reported that abortive attempts had been made to set fire to the two other cars. Officer Arnold Christian said rags were stuffed into the gas tanks and ignited but "as soon as they reached the neck of the gas tank they went out."

The man who called UPI in Washington said, "We just blew up the car of a Russian diplomat on Ross Street in Silver Spring. Take this down quickly. I will say it only once. This is an act of retaliation in the war of liveration . . . let our people go. Never again."

After the Hyattsville incidents, another unidentified man called the UPI office in Baltimore and said:

"I am going to say this and say it once. So you had better get a pencil and a piece of paper. We have just firebombed two Soviet embassy staff cars on Gallatin Street in Hyattsville. Their license numbers are DPL-4526 and DPL-2167. This is another act in the Jewish war for liberation of Soviet Jewry. Let my people go. Never again."

On Jan. 8 the office of the information office of Soviet Life Magazine in Washington was bombed. A woman, who would not identify herself, reported the bombing in a telephone call at 4:47 a.m.

"The Soviet cultural building on 18th Street has been bombed," she said. "This is a sample of things to come. Let our people go. Never again."

"Never again" is the slogan of the Jewish Defense League.

Four Die In Fire At Old Rest Home

TAFT, Calif. (UPI)—Flames roared through a two-story wooden rest home early today, killing four persons. Another five were missing.

Firemen said they believed bodies of all the missing would be found in the rubble of the Desert Air Rest Home No. 2.

At least three persons were missing. One 16-year-old boy suffered critical burns and two others less serious injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Armstrong, who were on duty as attendants, were awakened by smoke. Armstrong opened a door and found the structure's entire southern wing engulfed in flames.

Armstrong's first attempts to summon firemen failed because telephone lines had been burned out. Taft policemen made the first report to the Kern County Fire Department's substation in this city of 5,000 at 1:05 a.m. PST.

Ten fire units battled the blaze.

The rest home was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Art Schertz of Taft. It is some 30 miles west of Bakersfield, and housed some 12 persons in addition to the Armstrongs.

Firemen said the cause of the blaze was not determined but that it was being investigated both by the department and the Kern County sheriff's office.

There was no immediate estimate of damage.

The building was completely destroyed although the blaze was brought under control about 45 minutes after it was reported.

Psychiatrist Says Calley's Will Paralyzed At My Lai

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—Lt. William L. Calley's will was paralyzed at My Lai and he "could not possibly have premeditated" the murder of Vietnamese civilians there, a defense psychiatrist contends.

The psychiatrist was ordered back to the Calley court-martial witness stand today to expand on his opinions on cross-exmination.

Dr. Albert A. Laverne, the witness, a New York psychiatrist in private practice who said he was senior psychiatrist at Bellevue Medical Center currently on leave, was asked Thursday whether in his opinion Calley had the mental ability "to plan, think out, or contrive taking the lives of the inhabitants."

He said Calley could not have, because of "combat stress, psychological stress, and a predisposing propensity."

"Under certain kinds of stress, Lt. Calley will not be able to control his conscious behavior," Laverne testified. "He will perform certain acts without realizing or understanding the meaning.

"He can't (under stress) understand a complex decision, was unable to choose a proper one and then act accordingly. At my Lai for three or four hours he was acting in automatic fashion, as a robot would—but in a coordinated manner."

Laverne, a slim, balding man with a pencil mustache, said he first examined Calley six months ago and found him "a normal American soldier" but that later, when the trial date was set, Calley became more anxious, restless, and irritable.

Still later, Laverne said, "He was scared to death about the court-martial. This is called 'the court-martial induced stress.' This has enabled me to decide what he is made of. So I can tell how he was on March 16, 1968."

That is the date Calley, 27, led his infantry platoon on a sweep of the Vietnamese hamlet as part of a company commanded by Capt. Ernest L. Medina. Calley is charged with premeditated murder of 102 unarmed, unresisting women, children, and old men.

"His will was paralyzed by virtue of the fact that he was not able to question an order he believed was given him by Capt. Medina," Laverne testified.

The judge ordered the part about what Calley believed Medina had ordered stricken out.

The neck tie industry says 80 per cent of all men's ties are bought by women.

Dallas Slaying Suspects Seized

DALLAS (UPI)—Sixty law officers, guided by an eerie light from a helicopter hovering overhead, raided a shabby apartment before daybreak today and arrested two men wanted for the execution-style murders of three deputy sheriffs.

The gunmen were arrested in the bathroom of the flat they had apparently rented with two female companions only hours after the murders Monday night.

No shots were exchanged in the raid, although police said one of the suspects tried to fire a revolver at Detective George Thompson only to have his gun misfire. The other suspect threw his pistol out of the bathroom before officers closed in. Police said that gun, cocked and loaded, had been taken from one of the slain deputies.

The arrests were made after police had raided a house next door thinking that was where the suspects were holed up. A man and a woman were wounded when police charged the small frame home.

Police said the two gunmen—Rene Adolfo Guzman, 33, and Leonardo Ramos Lopez, 25—were the ones who killed three helplessly tied and pleading deputy sheriffs Monday night on a levee of the Trinity River near downtown Dallas. Guzman and Lopez were jailed without bond.

Also arrested were Angie Hernandez, 38, and Mary Alice Rosales, 25. They were charged with being accessories to murder and harboring fugitives. Miss Hernandez was held in $100,000 bond and Miss Rosales in $50,000 bond.

The capture ended five days of intensive searching which stretched throughout Texas but always centered in the Dallas area. There had been open fear in the Mexican-American community of Dallas that Guzman would be shot when he was arrested.

Major UAR Offer Stirs Israeli Talks

Israeli Ambassador Yitzak Rabin rushed home from Washington today to join cabinet discussions of what the Israelis called a "far-reaching" Egyptian offer to sign a peace treaty if Israel meets certain conditions—the first peace treaty offer Egypt has made.

Rabin's sudden visit followed diplomatic reports Israel is under pressure from the White House to give a timetable for withdrawal from Arab territory it occupied in the 1967 Six Day War. It was announced Thursday that President Zalman Shazar will confer with President Nixon in Washington next month.

"I was invited to return by the Foreign Ministry and the prime minister for talks on relations between the United States and Israel," Rabin said at Lydda airport. He denied Washington was putting pressure on Israel and that this was the main reason for his visit home.

Diplomatic sources insisted the pressure was there and said Israel is not willing to give any timetable. They said it would not budge from its often repeated policy that any withdrawal must be in the context of a written peace agreement and then only to secure and defensible borders. Diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said Egypt had submitted to Israel proposals for recognition of the Jewish state in return for an Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula and reopening of the Suez Canal.

The emphasis in this approach was on Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula but Cairo dispatches have made it clear Egypt still demands Israeli withdrawal from all captured territory and settlement of the Palestinian refugee problem.

The Egyptian offer was made in response to suggestions by U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring, and diplomatic sources said they were "the most far-reaching Egyptian attempt yet to meet Israel's concept of a Middle East settlement." Despite some elements Israel considers unacceptable, it "merits careful study and considered response," the sources said.

Penthouse Like A 'Prison' For Huey Newton

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Black Panther Party has provided Huey Newton with a $700 a month, 29th story penthouse, but the party co-founder says, "It's like a prison, really."

"I stay here because it is like a security building," he continued Wednesday to a reporter. "I'd like to be back in the streets—like it was before ... but at least here if the police did storm in, they'd have a lot of explaining to do to the other tenants."

Newton, who spends time in the apartment writing a book on Panther ideology, is awaiting retrial on a manslaughter charge in the 1967 killing of an Oakland policeman.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

'Phony' Medi-Cal Bill Hit By GOP

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Republican leaders have denounced as "phony" and "unacceptable" Democratic-sponsored legislation rescinding Reagan administration cuts in the Medi-Cal Health Care program.

After a closed-door GOP caucus Thursday Assembly Republican leader Robert T. Monagan reported Republicans took no formal position either for or against the bill by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco. The measure is slated for a floor vote Monday.

Because the bill restoring the Medi-Cal cuts would take effect immediately on being signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, it needs the approval of two-thirds of the Assembly—or 54 votes. There are 43 Democrats and 37 Republicans.

The administration in December ordered the Medi-Cal Program cut back because of a threatened $140 million deficit.

Democrats contend that any deficit could be paid off in the 1971-72 budget and the reductions are not necessary. The Burton bill would require the administration to restore the cuts.

"I think the general feeling (among Republicans) is that it's a very unacceptable bill," said Monagan. "I can't find anybody who thinks Burton's approach has merit in solving the problem."

"It's a phony political ploy," added Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, chairman of the Welfare Committee.

"It's not that Republicans don't care about the needy," he added. "We're $100 million in the hole in the program."

"If there's no way to pay the bills in June, thousands of people will die—d-i-e—because all of the money has been spent in the first 11 months of the fiscal year," said Bagley.

"I think this bill on the surface is patently bad," agreed assembly GOP caucus chairman John Stull of Leucadia. "Some people want to vote for it but a sizable number do not want to."

QUAKE REPAIR

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A $1 million bill to provide funds for repairing earthquake-damaged houses of veterans in the Cal-Vet farm and Home Loan Program has been introduced by Assemblyman Robert Cline, R-Canoga Park.

Cline said Thursday the Department of Veterans Affairs indemnity fund was not large enough to cover property damaged in the Feb. 9 Los Angeles quake.

QUAKE RELIEF

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —An investigation of the availability of earthquake insurance for property owners will be conducted by the Assembly Finance and Insurance Committee.

Chairman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montebello, said yesterday the hearing would be conducted March 1 in the capitol. He said many people are unaware that earthquake insurance is available to home and other property owners.

"The committee findings could lead to possible legislative action if the cost or the availability of earthquake insurance places and undue financial burden on the people of the state," said Fenton.

TRANSIT TAX

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill to apply the sales tax to gasoline to raise money for rapid transit systems has been introduced by Sen. James R. Mills, D-San Diego.

Mills said the measure introduced yesterday would raise $150 million a year, which would be primarily diverted to transit districts, with state and local agencies getting a share.

He said in areas with no transit districts, such as rural areas, local government could use its share of the money for property tax relief.

CYCLE TRAILS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to confine snowmobiles, "mini-bikes" and all-terrain vehicles to specially marked trails on state and county lands and to require them to be registered has been introduced by Assemblyman Leo J. Ryan, D-Burlingame.

Riders going off the marked trails would be fined $50 according to the bill introduced yesterday.

Ryan said the measure "is aimed at stopping the potentially destructive use of off-road vehicles on state and county lands."

Motorcycles of 15 horsepower and over would not be affected.

The measure calls for registration of snowmobiles and other recreational vehicles not licensed for highway use, with the $11 fees going to the State Department of Parks and Recreation.

Probation, Fines For Riot Trio

I-J Special Report

VALLEJO — The last remaining cases arising from the riotous Feb. 14, 1970 labor demonstration at the Independent-Journal building were disposed of yesterday by Vallejo Municipal Court Judge William E. Jensen.

Renaldo R. Batz, 22, of Mill Valley; Conrad H. Pallellas, 56, of Daly City, and Sherwin M. Thomas, 29, of San Francisco were placed on probation for one year and fined $125 each.

Marin Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton M. Hyams had recommended 30-day jail sentences and $500 fines for each, and the Solano County Probation Department had recommended "substantial fines" and several weekends in jail, according to Hyams.

The men had pleaded guilty to charges of failing to disperse from a riot after being warned. Other charges were dismissed.

Hyams said that Judge Jensen indicated he felt obligated to follow what he considered a precedent in the sentencing last Friday of John Joseph DeMartini, 47, of Mill Valley, who was found guilty of the same charge by a Solano County Superior Court jury Jan. 8. DeMartini — vice president of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, which struck the I-J more than a year ago — drew one-year probation and a $125 fine.

After sentencing the men yesterday, Jensen said to Hyams, who had traveled to Vallejo for the court session, "It almost wasn't worth the trip."

Ambulance Service Not Free Now

The Independent-Journal erred Wednesday in implying that the Sausalito Fire Department's ambulance service has been free to city residents in the past.

A proposal by Sausalito Fire Chief Charles E. Masten, which the Sausalito City Council considered Tuesday, calls for free service to residents in the future. At present, however, residents are charged $30 per ambulance call.

ADOLF A. BERLE
Adviser to FDR

Member Of FDR 'Brain Trust' Dies

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lawyer-economist Adolf A. Berle Jr., an original member of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's "brain trust," died here Wednesday night at the age of 76 after suffering a stroke. He had been ill two years.

Berle, a Boston native, joined Roosevelt's presidential campaign in 1932 and served as counsel to the Reconstruction Finance Corp. from 1933 to 1938 when he became assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs.

He was appointed ambassador to Brazil in 1945 and served a year. Prior to that appointment, he worked with Roosevelt and Winston Churchill in drafting the first declaration of the United Nations.

Berle (pronounced Burly) served 1960-61 as coordinator of President John F. Kennedy's task force on inter-American affairs which helped set courses for U.S. participation in the Alliance for Progress.

The son of Rev. Adolf Augustus Berle, a Congregationalist minister, Berle finished high school at 12 and entered Harvard at 14. He graduated in 1913 and at 21, became the youngest person ever to graduate from Harvard Law School.

He was a first lieutenant in World War I and later served on the American commission to negotiate peace with Germany. He practiced law two years in Boston before setting up practice with his brother, Rudolf, in New York. He was a key figure in the administration of New York Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia serving as city treasurer. He founded the New York Liberal Party.

The multifaceted Berle served as law professor at Columbia University from 1927 to 1964 and was active as senior law firm of Berle & Berle until his death.

'Honey Bear' Finally Nailed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A two-foot brown kinkajou, or "honey bear," eluded three patrol cars and a pair of snarling police dogs before he was captured Thursday and returned to his owner.

Officers converged on a warehouse after the watchman reported hearing rustling sounds in the building.

With guns drawn, the officers circled in and cornered the animal, but he escaped while being placed in a police car.

Finally, an officer using a dog leash captured the kinkajou and he was escorted to the humane society.

"Romeo," as the animal is called, was later claimed by his owner, a doctor, and returned home to his female companion, Juliet."

Tentative Leaders Of Prisons Picked

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Department of Corrections plans to appoint California's first Negro and Japanese superintendents of prisons.

The department made the disclosure Thursday in announcing tentative choices to replace three prison superintendents and one deputy department director, all of whom are retiring in the next year. The appointments are subject to approval by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Bertram Griggs, a Negro, will be named superintendent of the California Institute for men at Chino. A former parole division supervisor for the Los Angeles region, Griggs is currently attending a one-year seminar on criminal justice at Harvard Law School.

Jiro J. Enomoto, currently deputy superintendent at Soledad and national past president of the Japanese-American Citizens League, will be appointed superintendent at the California Correctional Institution at Tehachapi. He will replace G.P. Lloyd.

Enomoto ironically was a California political prisoner during World War II when he spent more than two years in a Tulare "relocation camp."

Both Griggs and Enomoto are career correctional officials.

The department also plans to name Walter T. Stone, acting superintendent at Chino, as superintendent at the correctional training facility at Soledad; C.J. Fitzharris, formerly of San Rafael and Soledad's present superintendent, as deputy director of the corrections department, and Daniel J. McCarthy, associate superintendent of the California men's colony at San Luis Obispo, as the superintendent of the prison.

Fitzharris will take the deputy director post now held by Merle Schneckloth. McCarthy replaces Harold V. Field.

Corrections director Raymond K. Procunier previously expressed a desire to appoint a qualified black and Japanese prison superintendent "as soon as possible because it is just the right thing at the right time."

But Procunier also had pointed out that neither Griggs nor Enomoto were promoted over more qualified men. "They are both very well qualified," he said, "and the fact that they are members of minority groups is just a big bonus, man, a big bonus."

Turkish Police Storm Dorms, Fight Students

ANKARA (UPI)—Squads of riot police cheered by crowds shouting "damn Communists" today invaded Hacettepe University dormitories which were defended by 700 male and female students using dynamite, gasoline bombs, pistols, sticks and stones.

The students opened fire when the helmeted police carrying aluminum shields tried to search the campus dormitories for hidden arms and explosives.

Calling in reserves, the police captured the women's dormitories after three hours' fighting. Then they stormed and took two of the three men's dorms.

After five hours' battling one men's dorm still held out.

Police said 15 of their number and two students were taken to hospitals with slight injuries.

A crowd of more than 1,000 civilians mustered behind the police and cursed the students in chants and cheered on the police. They caught some students trying to flee and beat them.

NOSTALGIA FOR SALE

Getting a bit of spit and polish is Tiburon Fire Department's 1941 pumper, the department's first piece of motorized equipment, finally going on the block. Readying the veteran for sale are (from left) Nob Kuwatani, Nino Geminiani and John Grbac of the department. The pumper, built by White Manufacturing Co. and outiftted by P. E. Van Pelt Equipment Co. of Oakdale, is completely equipped, in good running order and ready to pump 500 gallons a minute, except for one thing: the 300-gallon tank leaks. It's all yours — 1,500 feet of 2.5-inch hose, ladders, radio, lights, siren and all — for a minimum bid of $1,750, according to Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher.

Downtown Plan Snags Novato Fair

The Novato Planning Commission last night continued a bid for additional stores at the Novato Fair Shopping Center until after the city council acts on the proposed downtown plan.

Plans by fifty associates, owners of the center, call for a single structure along the east side of the center which would house a Walgreen Drug Store, with 18,125 square feet, and other shops, 19,000 square feet.

Architect Robert B. Liles, representing the owners, had applied for an amendment to the center master plan to permit the new building.

Staff members recommended continuing the matter until after council action because the downtown plan would have an effect on development at the center.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

REVOLVING HOUSE — Denied an application by Samuel A. Harkeroad to relocate his revolving round house on Harkle Road without processing a subdivision map covering the house and seven other houses on his 2.23 acre parcel.

ZONING — Reaffirmed its decision that a parcel on the east side of Wilson Avenue, south of Vineyard Road, across from Sinaloa Junior High School, be zoned single family planned residential with 20,000 square foot density requirement after hearing protests against permitting townhouses there.

have been displaced by the war that has now engulfed almost the entire nation. Dispatches today from Vientiane said the Communist drive has sent another 15,000 refugees into the hills southwest of Luang Prabang. Already 40,000 to 50,000 were reported homeless in that drive.

The U.S. Command reported officially that seven U.S. helicopters were shot down or damaged in connection with the Laos operation Thursday and today and that the official figures for the week were 17 destroyed—which a spokesman called the highest in seven months.

Front dispatches added two or three more to that toll with several aircraft damaged by gunfire near Khe Sanh. Unofficial totals said the number of helicopters lost or heavily damaged ran more than double the official figures which take into account only those destroyed.

U.S. spokesmen said at least 34 Americans have been killed, 85 wounded and 13 reported missing in connection with the South Vietnamese drive into Laos, now in its 12th day. The total includes 20 dead, 22 wounded and 10 missing in air support operations in Laos. It does not include a number of Americans wounded by Communist shelling in northern South Vietnam.

Answer Is Correct To Wrong Question

A certain Independent-Journal reporter would have no luck at all on the television quiz show in which contestants are given an answer and required to ask the right question.

Following the San Rafael City Council meeting Tuesday night, City Atty. Frederick C. Robbins Jr. gave the right answer to the reporter's wrong question — or maybe it was the wrong answer to the right question.

In any case, the newsman erred in reporting in Wednesday's I-J that, if voters approve a proposed charter amendment deleting a $1,000 limit on funds the city can spend for promotion, the state government code would place a ceiling of either $37,110 or $40,101 on San Rafael promotion spending.

Those figures — 37110 and 40101 — are actually the numbers of the code sections which would limit the city's promotion expenditures.

Robbins — who had originally furnished the numbers, mistaken by the reporter for amounts — said yesterday that he wasn't sure which section would apply, but one would limit spending to an amount based on a percentage of the general fund and the other to an amount based on assessed valuation.

He said he had not yet figured out what the actual monetary limits would be in either case.

City Mgr. James H. McCown said today that one possibility might be to limit promotion spending to a portion of the hotel tax revenue, which last year brought in about $30,000.

The council Tuesday approved the charter amendment for the April 20 ballot.

Preparing For Marriage

To keep many people from seeking to dissolve their marriages a new law attempts to prepare them for marriage by making them aware of the importance of their new status.

A man over 18 but under 21 can be married if he gets his parents or guardians' written approval. Such approval is also required in the case of a girl under 18.

But any person under 18 needs more than just such approval. The law requires for him and her:

1. The consent in writing of the parents or guardians of each person who is underage; or one parent, or of the guardian, and;

2. The approval of a superior court judge granting permission to such young people to marry.

The court requires counseling before marriage for people under 18. A counselor talks to them about the social, economic, and personal responsibilities of the marriage. Such counseling may not be offered from any given religious denomination unless the parties consent.

The young couple pays for the counseling. However, the court must consider their ability to pay among other things before ordering the counseling.

Any California marriages by underage persons without the required parental consent and court approval can be annuled.

If such marriage is between an "adult" and a minor under the age of legal consent, only the minor (or his parent or guardian while the minor is still under the age of legal consent) can sue for annulment. Of course, if there are other grounds for an annulment, such as fraud, incapacity, or insanity, either party may sue.

California accepts as valid marriages made in other states which are valid under the laws of the other state.

California still retains an interest in many matters affecting marriage, and thus will not recognize a polygamous or incestous marriage, even though it was valid in the state where it took place.

Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

One Collision Tanker At Sea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Arizona Standard, one of two tankers that collided and caused a San Francisco Bay oil spill, was at sea with a new bow Thursday.

Standard Oil Company of California, which owned both ships, transferred the undamaged bow of the Oregon Standard to the Arizona.

A surplus Navy tanker, which was identical to the two damaged ships, was purchased by the oil firm and the Oregon will gets its "forebody."

A Standard spokesman said the overall repair bill might reach $750,000.

Warren Jr. Asks Marriage End

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Earl Warren Jr., son of the retired U.S. chief justice, is seeking a dissolution of his 17-year marriage.

Warren, a municipal judge in Sacramento, asked in his superior court action Thursday for custody of four children ranging in age from 8 to 16. He listed "irreconcilable differences" as the reason for his divorce request.

Marin City CSD Passes New Budget

Directors of the Marin City Community Services District last night approved a $60,151 budget for 1971-72, down $4,000 from last year.

Secretary Lillian J. Lee attributed the decrease to a recreation program that will be funded elsewhere, a lower charge for telephone service and cheaper insurance rates.

Major budget items are salaries, $43,483; services; $6,650; insurance, $3,418; maintenance of Manzanita Center, grounds and equipment, $2,600, and supplies, $2,000.

The budget must be submitted to the Marin County Counsel's office by March 1 and will be given final approval by the board of supervisors, Mrs. Lee reported.

As in previous years, only a fraction of the budget will be supported by property taxes in Marin City, where about 60 per cent of the housing is publicly supported. Mrs. Lee said the 1971-72 property taxes will raise about $8,500, the same as last year.

In other business, Doretha Mitchell became chairman of the board, replacing Frank J. Phillips. Mrs. Lee said Mrs. Mitchell, as senior board member, automatically becomes chairman at the expiration of Phillips's term.

The board also hired Mrs. Lee as permanent secretary at $600 a month, agreed to hire an inspector to check and maintain burglar alarms and fire alarms at Manzanita Center, and agreed to hire Al Allen and Sons contractors of Marin City for $461 to repair and install locks on doors at the center.

Maker Of Nightgown Sued

An 8-year-old Inverness girl, injured when her nightgown caught fire last April, has sued the manufacturer of the nightgown and the San Anselmo store where it was purchased.

Julia Fries, mother of Deirdre S. Delaney of Park Avenue asked $150,000 for her daughter from Kaufman's Specialty Shop, 504 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, and from the manufacturing firm of Sally Schrank.

Deirdre suffered second and third degree burns over 35 per cent of her body in the fire at her home last April 17.

Details of the accident were not available.

Answers To Czar's Death Due

By PETER WORTHINGTON
Toronto Telegram News Service

Within the next few weeks, the British Government is expected to make what will amount to one of the most sensational disclosures of this century — that they don't believe Czar Nicholas II and his family were assassinated in Russia in 1918.

Indications are that the Foreign Office may even decide to acknowledge that Britain and the United States collaborated on a plan to rescue the Czar — with a diplomatic assist from Germany, with whom they were at war.

An increasing amount of evidence has been unearthed recently that indicates the truth about the alleged massacre has never been publicly revealed. The new material indicates that, in fact, their murder was a hoax — a cover for their escape.

The heat is being put on the British Government by an extraordinary book which has just been published in Britain — The Hunt for the Czar, by Guy Richards, an investigative journalist and former city editor of the defunct New York Journal-American.

It is known that the Sunday Express, the Daily Express, the London Observer and the Economist are among the publications that take the book seriously. Already, pressure is being applied to the Foreign Office for a statement.

At the moment, it is expected that the British Government will take a positive approach and indicate that there was an escape. Up until recently, secrecy was required out of concern for the safety of the Romanov survivors.

Although the British are unlikely to support any claims of individuals to the Romanov name, those familiar with the escape theory say that the five children are alive — two in New York, two in West Germany, and one in Poland.

Czar Nicholas is said to have died in 1952 and Czarina Alexandra in 1924.

The Toronto Telegram was the first newspaper to take the possibility of escape seriously last Oct. 6 in a full-page article. A subsequent news story on Dec. 12 revealed hitherto secret British documents that indicated a rescue attempt was being planned as early as June, 1917.

The documents disclose that Lord Balfour, then Britain's foreign secretary, and President Woodrow Wilson, agreed to share an initial $150,000 to sponsor a rescue attempt.

Those who have investigated the rescue theory feel a Canadian may have also been involved — the legendary Klondike Joe Boyle, who rescued Queen Marie of Rumania after World War I, and who was in Russia at the time of the supposed escape.

Up to now, it's been accepted that the Romanovs were shot in the basement of Ipatiev House in Ekaterinburg during the night of July 16-17. Their bodies were supposedly taken to an abandoned mine where they were burned, and then dissolved in sulphuric acid.

It now appears that it was servants and the family doctor who died — and the Romanovs were smuggled away.

The family was split up, with the Czar, Czarina, Czarevich Alexei and Grand Duchess Maria (whose hair was cropped to resemble a boy's) being secreted out of Russia through Odessa in December, 1918, when the French and Greek forces occupied the area.

OBITUARIES

Arnold E. Walters Dies At 64

Arnold E. Walters of San Francisco, owner of the Dolores Company Marinello Schools of Beauty in San Rafael and San Francisco, died unexpectedly at his home yesterday. He was 64.

Born in San Francisco, he lived there all his life.

When he was 16, he began helping his mother run a beauty salon in the Mission District of San Francisco. Within 10 years he operated several schools for beauticians.

He left the business during World War II to serve in the Air Corps. He reached the rank of lieutenant colonel before retiring.

Walters had many real estate interests and was a founder and director of the First San Francisco Bank.

He belonged to the San Francisco Press Club.

He is survived by his wife, Harriette.

Rosary for Walters will be recited at 8 p.m., Sunday at Halsted and Co., 1123 Sutter Street, San Francisco. Requiem Mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Monday at Old St. Mary's Church, California Street and Grant Avenue, San Francisco.

MRS. LATTANZIO

Anella (Nell) Lattanzio of Fairfax died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness. She was 45.

Born in Yonkers, N.Y., she moved to Trumbull, Conn., in 1955 and to 19 San Miguel Court, Fairfax, in 1963.

She had worked as a nurse's aide and therapy aide at Ross General Hospital and at Marin Home Care in Corte Madera.

She was a member of the women's guild at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax and the women's club of Marin Catholic Hwgh School.

Surviving are her husband, A. Raymond Lattanzio, a programming manager for International Business Machines in San Jose; two sons, Robert of the family home and Stephen, a student at the University of California; a daughter, Nancy Perry of the family home; her mother, Margaret Bellotti of San Rafael, and a stepbrother, Mario Bellotti of New Rochelle, N.Y.

Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax, with burial at Mount Olivet Cemetery. Friends may call at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo, tomorrow and Sunday.

Rosary will be Sunday at Chapel of the Hills, but the time had not been set this morning.

ELSIE ING

Elsie V. Ing, long-time Mill Valley resident, died yesterday in a local hospital after a brief illness. She was 90.

Private funeral was held today in Mill Valley.

A native of San Francisco, she moved to Mill Valley in 1906 and lived there 64 years, residing with her nephew, Girard E. Smith, at 185 Magee Avenue. For many years she was library assistant for the U. S. Public Health Hospital, then known as Marin Hospital in San Francisco.

She is survived by a brother, Sherwood F.Ing of Pennsylvania and another nephew in Florida.

Inurnment will be private. The family prefers contributions to a favorite charity.

ROBERT FLEMING

There will be no funeral for Robert Fleming of Tiburon, who died Saturday in his home after a long illness.

A native of Nebraska, Fleming came to California as a child and spent most of his youth in Pasadena. He came to Marin about 15 years ago and worked in the building and loan offices for the State of California in San Francisco until his retirement last year.

He is survived by his wife, Janet Fleming; a sister, Mrs. Max Cowan of Ross; and a brother, John Fleming of Southern California.

MARY HALSEY

Funeral for Mary E. (Mollie) Halsey, retired Air Force staff sergeant who died Sunday in Honolulu, Hawaii of pneumonia, will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Analy Funeral Chapel in Sebastopol. She was 70.

Mrs. Halsey, who retired from the Air Force in 1963 after serving 20 years, was stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base from 1945 to 1957.

She was the wife of Senior Master Sgt. Dick R. Halsey, who was born and reared in Marin County. He is still serving with the Air Force and is presently stationed in Hawaii. The couple maintained a home a Camp Meeker in Sonoma County, however.

Mrs. Halsey was a member of the Camp Meeker Volunteer Fire Department Auxiliary.

She was a native of New York and in 1934 was named national women's amateur fencing champion.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two sisters, Margharita Burke of New York and Henryetta Burnside of Palm Springs, and a brother, James Burnside of Florida.

Burila will be in the Occidental Druid Cemetery.

Man Talks Thief Out Of Paranoia, Gets Loot Back

A Sausalito man, robbed by a hitchhiker, talked his assailant into giving the money back, Marin County Sheriff's office reported yesterday.

Deputies said Michael A. Wildman, 27, of 204A Cazneau Street, picked up a hitchhiker in San Francisco Wednesday and drove him to Marin City.

Near a lot at 100 Drake Avenue, the man grabbed Wildman's head and demanded his wallet.

Wildman wasn't carrying one, but gave the man $1.50 in cash.

Then, Wildman told deputies, the man started saying he thought Wildman was a policeman and he was being set up.

Boredom Held Misdeed Cause

BASINGSTOKE, England (UPI)—Boredom drove her to steal, says housewife Norma Dillon, 36.

She told a Basingstoke court Wednesday she and her sister went on a shoplifting spree to put some excitement in their life.

"The idea was just to liven things up a bit, though it seems ridiculous now," she said.

Mrs. Dillon was fined $24 after admitting stealing goods worth $8. Her sister, Mrs. June Hood, 26, was fined $12 after admitting stealing $1.99 worth.

Boredom Cited By Drop-Outs

STANFORD (UPI) —Boredom and frustration are the main reasons students temporarily drop out of Stanford University.

The opportunity to travel, financial problems, no need for credits because of previous academic acceleration and special job opportunities were the other reasons cited for abandoning classes.

Overtime Vs. More Help Aired

The Cotati City Council was advised last night that it should either expand its police department or begin to pay overtime to the four present officers.

City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen said the four-man department budget is figured on 20-hour per day coverage and suggested the council consider boosting the hours to 24.

Salfen said the department regularly provides round-the-clock protection, but that officers have been working many overtime hours. Officers do not get paid for overtime work, but are expected to take compensatory time off. Saflen said that since the time must be taken within 30 days, the officers usually don't get the time off.

He suggested that an additional officer be hired or that officers be paid for overtime work. Salfen said that while the salary of a fifth officer would be the greater expense, it would probably provide better protection since officers may become exhausted working 11 hour days.

The council said it would consider the plan and await a recommendation for Police Chief Tony Locarini.

The Cotati City Council also:

MEETING — Set a special meeting for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the fire station to review the proposed general plan with the planning commission and citizens planning advisory committee.

DOGS — Heard Salfen report that Vasser's Cotati Kennels would be willing to transport stray dogs from the crowded Cotati pound to the Petaluma pound at a cost of $1 per dog. He said it would permit police officers to better enforce the new 24-hour leash law by providing more impound space.

SEWER LINES — Accepted as complete the $100,000 project to install new sewer lines and a connection with the Rohnert Park waste water disposal plant.

Souza Files For Reed Board

Reed School District trustee Leo Souza, bitter opponent of board president Gordon C. Wright, yesterday filed for reelection to the board.

Earlier, Souza had said he was not going to run again.

Souza has been at odds with Wright since the board president was elected in 1969 along with two other men who objected to increasing costs in the district. Souza is supporting the recall of Wright in the April 20 election.

Other filings for school boards reported today by the county school officers were:

Fairfax — Marilyn June Birks of 82 Wood Lane, a housewife, and C. Patrick Fitzgerald of Buena Vista Drive, an incumbent.

Lagunitas — Glen E. Twitchell, of 50 Mountain View Avenue, an incumbent.

Marin Junior College District — Charles W. Gray of 15 Palm Avenue, San Rafael, an incumbent.

Course In Stocks Will Be Offered

A course in securities and investments will be offered beginning Tuesday by the Petaluma Adult Education Department.

Eugene L. Box, a registered representative of a New York Stock Exchange member firm, will serve as instructor. The class will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. on Tuesdays at Petaluma Senior High School. Registration may be made by calling the adult education office.

FINALIST — Scott A. Bowman, 17, Tamalpais High School senior, is one of 10 outstanding engineering-oriented high school seniors chosen by the San Francisco Bay Area Engineering Council to compete for scholarships ranging from $300 to $1,200. Winners will be announced Wednesday during Bay Area Engineers Week, Feb. 21-27.

Peninsula Police Panel Likes Merger

The first meeting of a joint Tiburon-Belvedere committee last night to study merger of police operations in the two communities uncovered no reason why the consolidation should not take place.

Committee co-chairman Donald W. Davis of Belvedere said no major objection was raised at the session and the committee will delve into the merger further at a second meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at Tiburon City Hall.

Chairman of that meeting, at which committee members will discuss the structure of a combined police department, will be Tiburon resident Jack P. Kampmeyer.

Davis said Belvedere Police Chief John W. Jaeger and Tiburon Sheriff's Lt. Angelo J. Mecchi described law enforcement problems peculiar to each community.

Except for Tiburon's traffic woes along Tiburon Boulevard, Davis said, "The general beat in each city is about the same."

Union Leaders In 15 Days

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that three union leaders were released from Marin County Jail after serving 18 days for contempt of court. They served 15 days.

Released were Leon Olson and Donald Abrams, president and vice president of San Francisco typographical Union 21, and Jack Goldberger, president of Periodical Drivers and Helpers Union, Local 921.

They had been jailed for their parts in a riot growing out of a labor rally outside the Independent-Journal Feb. 14, 1970.

Civic Center Bomb Threat

A telephoned bomb threat caused evacuation of the Marin Civic Center at 4:30 p.m. yesterday, but searchers found no explosives.

Lt. Ronald Retana, head of the security division, said that a raspy male voice told the switchboard operator that a bomb would go off "before the Civic Center closes." The call came at about 4:15 p.m., 45 minutes before closing time.

This was the third bomb threat at the Civic Center since the Oct. 8 explosion that demolished a courtroom in the Hall of Justice.

Bolinas Lagoon To Stay Natural

If boating or commercial interests have any hopes of massive harbor development in Bolinas Lagoon, they'd better forget it because Marin intends to keep the lagoon in as natural a state as possible.

That was the message delivered today by County Administrator Alan Bruce at a meeting of the State Navigation and Ocean Development Commission in the Marin Civic Center. The commission was to hear from Pierre W. Joske, county director of parks and recreation, this afternoon on the future plans for the lagoon, which the county took over from the state last year.

Bruce said he had been asked by Chairman Louis H. Baar of the Marin County Board of Supervisors to welcome the commission and express the County's opposition to any large-scale harbor development in the lagoon.

State legislation which turned the lagoon over to the county does not mention "harbor of refuge", but refers only to an emergency harbor for shelter of shallow draft vessels during storms, said Bruce.

"The lagoon is regarded by a majority of the county residents as essentially a natural asset of rare and unique nature to be preserved in a natural state," said Bruce. "No one from the boating or commercial interests should have high hopes for any major use of Bolinas Lagoon."

Bruce told the commission he has received a floor of telegrams, letters and petitions opposing the establishment of boating facilities in the lagoon.

Contract For Extra Tennis Courts Set

The Larkspur School District board agreed to a contract with Larkspur for joint use of two tennis courts to be built at Larkspur-Corte Madera School.

Supt. Milton S. Cohen said the agreement calls for exclusive use by students during school hours. During nonschool hours the courts will be open to the public, he said.

The district had previously voted to contribute to the project $500 plus the land; the city's share is $2,900.

The Larkspur School District board also:

SUMMER SCHOOL — Appointed Leo Zaro, vice principal of San Clemente School, to head the summer school session slated for June 16 to July 16 at Neil Cummins School.

SECURITY — Discussed with Warren Glass of Warren Security Company of Sausalito the possibility of providing protection of the four schools against vandals. The cost was estimated at $1,000 per school each year.

LIBARY FUNDS — Achnowledged the receipt of $1,631 for library books and audio visual materials received from the federal government under Title II, Phase I of the Elementary Secondary Education Act.

WINTON ACT — Approved changes in the Winton Act required by the state. Primary change in the procedure of negotiating with teachers on salary is that teachers must now announce their salary demands in open session.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to March 11.

Claims Will Be Pressed Over Boycott Last Fall

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Five food market chains, the City of San Rafael, the Independent-Journal and the National Labor Relations Board today were to press claims of more than $100,000 against three labor unions in connection with an attempted boycott last October.

Judge William T. Sweigert of U.S. District Court this afternoon was to hear attorneys for the claimants argue why they should be reimbursed for losses incurred because of the boycott.

Judge Sweigart last month fined the three union locals $25,000 each for criminal contempt in connection with secondary boycotts against I-J advertisers.

The three locals — San Francisco Typographical Union 21 and Teamster Locals 70 and 85 — were tried and found guilty by Sweigert after complaints were filed by the NLRB that the unions had violated injunctions prohibiting secondary boycott action.

The boycott in support of the typographical union's year-old strike against the I-J consisted of picketing and vandalism at Marin stores and the threatening of delivery truck drivers going to stores.

The five food chains, Lucky Stores, Arden-Mayfair, United Markets, Cala Foods and Purity Stores, want a total of $26,036 in addition to attorney fees of $2,147.

The I-J is asking $68,791 for advertising losses and other expenses, and the city of San Rafael wants $1,380 for salaries for increased police activity during the period.

The NLRB has filed a claim for $19,639 for its costs.

Cambodia Sends Quake Aid Money

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Cambodian government has announced it is sending $2,000 to the Los Angeles earthquake victims as a gesture of token humanitarian aid.

"The government of the Khmer Republic shares the deep grief of your community and extends its heartfelt sympathy to you on this sad occasion," the Cambodian government said. "Despite its present difficulties it will soon send you token humanitarian aid in the amount of $2,000 for the victims."

Car's Engine Is Vandalized

A vandal poured gravel in the engine oil and cut the fan belt and radiator hose of a car belonging to Susan Louise Blackletter of 510 Pinewood Drive, San Rafael police reported.

Miss Blackletter told police a former boyfriend had been hounding her and followed her yesterday until she parked at 1618 Second Street at 12:30 p.m.

NEW THREE-DOOR PINTO

The Pinto Runabout, a three-door version of Ford's subcompact, is expected to be in dealers' showrooms before the end of the month. A large, upswinging rear door and backlight, hinged at the roof, gives greater carrying capacity of the combined trunk and rear seat area. Cars will be shown in Marin at Lyons-Ryan Ford, San Rafael; Novato Ford Co., Novato; and J and B Ford Sales, Corte Madera.

NEWEST PONTIAC ADDITION - VENTURA II

This new model in the Pontiac 1971 lineup is being unveiled at the Chicago Automobile Show this month and will be available March 11 at Marin Automobile Co., San Rafael. Built on a 111-inch wheelbase, the new compact will be offered in two-door and four-door models. Three-speed transmission, self-adjusting brakes and a 250-cubic inch six-cylinder engine are standard equipment.

OPEL 1900 TO MAKE FIRST APPEARANCE

This new four-door version of the 1971 Opel 1900 series is being displayed at the Chicago Auto Show this month and will be available at Don Collins Buick, San Rafael next month. Standard equipment for this car and other 1900 models — two-door sedan, station wagon and two coupes — include power front disc brakes and four-speed synchromesh transmission.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Duquesne Light Is Good Investment

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. My husband, 72, and I, 61, are semi-retired. From our present income I have $30 to $50 a month which I would like to invest. Would Duquesne Light be a suitable choice? — R. G.

A. This electric utility, providing a generous return of 6.5 per centat current levels, is an excellent investment choice for a semi-retired couple. Approximately two-thirds of the $1.66 annual dividend is exempt from income tax, a benefit which should continue through 1972. Of the $14.3 million in rate increases sought by Duquesne, $11.3 million has been granted by the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission since last February.

Although financing requirements this year are expected to be heavy, recently reduced interest rates should benefit earnings. For the year just ended, earnings were $2.10 a share up modestly from the $2.07 reported in 1969.

Q. I am interested in the AA-rated hospital bonds described in the enclosed circular sent out by an institutional investment underwriter. The bonds pay good interest — are they safe? R.E., A.Z., and I.K.

A. That fact that these bonds are rated AA by a reputable national rating service is in their favor. Nonetheless you should send for and read the offering prospectus to ascertain for yourself the financial condition of the hospital and any other pertinent facts.

Although the offering underwriters may maintain a market in these issues, buyers are not always available when needed. Thus it is quite possible that you might not be able to readily dispose of these bonds if cash was needed in an emergency prior to maturity date.

Educational Tax Deductions Fall Under Controversial Regulation

Expenses for education are deductible if you qualify.

The regulations apply to self-employed persons as well as to teachers and other employees.

Expenses for education may be deducted if primarily for:

1. Maintaining or improving skills required in your employment or other trade or business, or

2. Meeting the express requirements of your employer, or the requirements of applicable law or regulations imposed as a condition to the retention of your salary, status or employment.

Expenses incurred for obtaining a new position, or for personal purposes are not deductible.

Where or how do you deduct these expenses on form 1040?

If you are an outside salesman, all your educational expenses are deductible on line 43 of form 1040, page 2, and you should attach form 2106, and if you are not an outside salesman, your travel expenses while away from home overnight are deductible on line 43 and you should attach form 2106, while all other educational expenses are deducted as itemized deductions on Schedule A, line 16, Miscellaneous Deductions. Here again you compute the deduction on form 2106 and claim both parts of the deduction in two separate places as above.

Be sure to complete part III of form 2106.

If you are self-employed, your educational expenses are deducted on Schedule C, together with your other business expenses.

If a course leads to a degree this will not, of itself, bar a deduction for the expense.

Also, a change of position or a promotion within the same occupation will not bar the deduction.

Educational expenses is still a controversial area and there are many conflicting decisions.

You should secure a copy of "Your Federal Income Tax 1971 Edition for Individuals" from your office of the IRS (cost 75 cents). This will give you the IRS position.

California has a special form for Expenses for Education FTB 3805Y which you should use for your California return.

THE WEEK'S BUSINESS

Rudolph J. Drews To PG&E Board

Rudolph J. Drews of Ross has been elected a director of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., filling the vacancy left by the death of the late Carl F. Wente.

Drews is chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Foremost-McKesson, Inc., a director of Western Bancorporation and a director of the California State Chamber of Commerce.

PG&E directors have authorized the sale of three million shares of $25 par value redeemable first preferred stock, which is expected to be offered to the public on April 7. Proceeds will be used to finance the company's continuing program of expansion.

BOISE CASCADE has purchased the St. Helens, Ore. sawmill of Pope and Talbott, Inc., which adjoins its own pulp and paper mill there. The two companies have also been discussing the possible sale of certain timberlands to Boise Cascade, but have not reached any agreement on price and terms. Pope and Talbot income of $1,946,000 or $1.03 per share for 1970 was down considerably from the $3.4 million, or $1.81 per share for 1969.

SONOMA MINES, INC., Guerneville reported a net profit of $9,048 or approximately one cent per share for the first six months of its fiscal year, even though operating under a curtailed schedule since last July. Severe storms during December caused considerable unproductive time at the company's Altoona Mine in Trinity County and the profit was due entirely to increased production at the Mt. Jackson Mine in Sonoma County.

AMPEX CORP. sales were up slightly in the third quarter ended Jan. 30 but earnings have continued well below last year. Sales of $82 million compared with $80 million a year ago. Earnings dropped from 37 to 12 cents per share.

PACIFIC SOUTHWEST AIRLINES reported earnings of $4.8 million on total revenues of $94 million for the year ended Dec. 31, 1970, compared to $3.5 million earnings on $74.6 million revenues in 1969. Earnings per share in 1970 amounted to $1.52, compared to $1.13 for the prior year.

THE BEKINS CO. reported operating earnings and revenues for 1970 increased slightly from 1969, while earnings per share remained steady. Operating earnings for 1970 were $4 million or $1.12 per share, very little above the 1969 figures. Operating revenues for 1970 were $111.7 million; 1969 revenues were $108.8 million.

CONSOLIDATED FOODS CORP. has acquired Sirena, a leading producer of women's swimwear for an undisclosed amount of common stock. Both companies will remain in their same positions following the acquisition.

B. F. GOODRICH CO. net sales and income for the fourth quarter and full year of 1970 declined from 1969 levels. Fourth quarter sales were $286.9 million, a decrease of 8.6 per cent from the record $313.8 million in 1969. Net sales for the full year of 1970 were $1,204.7 million, compared to record sales of $1,229.1 million in 1969, a decrease of 2 per cent.

GROLIER, INC. has announced in a preliminary report that earnings for 1970, subject to further audit, would be $2.41 per share on net sales of about $231.5 million. This compares with earnings of $2.26 per share on sales of $207.2 million in 1969.

THE COLEMAN CO., INC. had record sales of $143.8 million in 1970, up 24 per cent over 1969. Earnings of $5.5 million were down 4 per cent from the $5.7 million earned in 1969.

Control Data Reports Losses

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Control Data Corp. announced a $2.7 million loss for 1970, compared to a $51.7 million on $3.51 a share profit in 1969.

Revenues for 1970 dropped to $540 million from $570 million in 1969, the company said. The year ago revenues included $39 million from sale of lease rights.

Control Data said its computer business last year lost $35.6 million. In addition, several affiliated companies lost a total of $5.3 million.

ROAMING RETRIEVERS PULL COSTLY CAPER

Man's best friend is no friend of Carolin Mushet of Belvedere.

Mrs. Mushet, of 16 Mallard Road, was at her weekend residence on Perth Way in Inverness the other day when she left her purse on the jamb of a basement door.

Two black dogs — retrievers, she told Marin County sheriff's deputies — entered the back yard near the door.

One dog picked up a small log. The other retrieved Mrs. Musket's purse which contained $200 in cash.

The dogs took off with Mrs. Mushet in hot pursuit, but she soon lost them, and the purse and the $200.

The canine caper occurred Feb. 8, according to a sheriff's report released yesterday. Deputies later found the dogs, but no sign of Mrs. Mushet's purse.

Shoreline Primary Pupils Read Well

Most primary students, first, second and third grades, in the Shoreline Unified School District scored above the state average in reading tests last May, the district board was told last night.

Charles Billings, district psychologist, also reported that as students progress from first through third grades the number in the lower 25 per cent of state ranking had decreased.

Asst. Supt. Anthony Matulich reported that differentiated staffing, where teachers are involved in curriculum development, instituted at Tomales High and Middle schools, is expected to be extended to elementary schools in the 1971-72 school year.

The Shoreline Unified School District Board also:

TRAINING DAY — Authorized closing of classes, kindergarten through eighth grade, March 5 for a teachers' training day.

ARCHITECT — Received a list of four architects recommended by a selection committee to plan a new Tomales elementary school, and set further screening including trips to the firms and their other projects March 10 and 12.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of Sharon Bordessa, library aide, Tomales High School, effective April 30, and hired Pat Haines, teacher aide, West Marin School, at $2.85 an hour.

COUNSELING — Approved an application for $6,425 in federal funds for counseling, which the district must match.

ABAG Assembly Adopts Budget Of $1,287,289

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The general assembly of the Association of Bay Area Governments last night overwhelmingly adopted a $1,287,289 budget for the next fiscal year, including a 6.4 per cent boost in membership fees paid by city and county members.

Three cities — none from Marin or Southern Sonoma — and Santa Clara County voted against the budget, according to Lizette Weiss, public information officer for ABAG.

The spending program will be down $104,222 from the current fiscal year, largely because ABAG studies of airports and community shelters are expected to be completed by June 30. The boost in dues is to meet increased operating expenses.

In other business, the general assembly approved a resolution asking the Legislature to establish regional planning councils throughout the state. Mrs. Weiss said one delegate objected to a recommended provision that councils would be composed primarily of elected and city and county officials, but his bid to eliminate it was defeated.

Earlier, at a meeting of ABAG's executive committee, the City of Novato won approval to conduct a study of its street system to improve safety and reduce congestion, and the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings was given permission to apply for $45,360 in federal funds toward connecting sewer systems ofthe San Rafael-Richmond Bridge to municipal facilities on both ends of the span.

Nude Sunbathing Plea Date Set

Seven persons arrested Sunday for alleged nude sunbathing at Muir Beach have been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court.

Leroy Henry Greenberg, 28, of Sausalito; Howell Stanley Cobb, 39, of no known address; Jack Anthony Sullins, 25, of Pacifica, and John Allen Fairchild, 24, Robert Glenn Long Jr., 22, Richard Sharp Williams, 49, and Patricia Louise Perdue, 21, all of San Francisco, are to plead to the charge March 3.

Tax Status Of Ranch Under Study

The 1,500-acre Horace W. Maggetti ranch east of Marshall, appraised at a market value of $411,000, will probably go off the tax rolls because it was acquired last month by Synanon Foundation.

Herschel Johnson, assistant county assessor, said he had not yet received a tax-exemption request from Synanon because the time for such application is between March 1 and 15.

"If the property is used in conjunction with the purposes of the organization, the possibility of exemption is good," said Johnson.

The Maggetti ranch is assessed this year at $94,553. Since the tax rate in the Marshall area is $8.81 per $100 assessed valuation, the tax revenue from the ranch totals $8,325. If tax exemption is granted, the county will lose the $8,325 revenue.

The Maggetti ranch is located on Marshall-Petaluma Road behind the Old Marconi station, which is the headquarters of Synanon Foundation in Marin. The 62-acre Marconi property and its buildings are assessed at $175,300, but this, too, is tax exempt. The $175,300 assessment would normally bring a revenue of $15,444.

Assessor Bert W. Broemmel said that Synanon is designated by the state as a nonprofit, charitable organization. If uses on the newly acquired property are consistent with the purpose of that organization, the property would be tax-exempt.

Till Is Tapped At Goodwill's Office

Two men stole $20 from the till at Goodwill Industries in San Rafael yesterday after diverting the attention of the cashier, San Rafael police reported today.

Police said one of the men made a 25-cent purchase then, while the cash register was open, asked to see beads behind the clerk. His companion then took the money and the pair fled, police said.

A Light Storm Brings Rain

A light storm dumped varying amounts of rain on Marin and Southern Sonoma Counties last night, with the southern portion of Marin receiving the heaviest amount.

Amounts varied from .70 at Sausalito to a trace of Novato. A half-inch fell in San Rafael.

The weatherman predicted fair weather for tonight and tomorrow with high temperatures tomorrow in the mid-60's and lows tonight in the 40's.

Planned Development Modification Asked

A Sausalito City Council recommendation that planned unit developments in residential areas can contain only separate, detached dwelling units has been modified by the Sausalito Planning Commission.

Although the commission agreed most planned developments in residential zones should be limited to detached dwellings, it recommended that exceptions be allowed in some cases, according to planning director H. Eric Borgwardt.

Borgwardt said the planners felt townhouses, duplexes and other attached units should be allowed in some planned developments, providing the plans for such developments win approval from both the planning commission and the city council.

In December the city council approved the planning commission's suggestion that planned unit housing be permitted in single-family areas of Sausalito. But the council's approval carried the stipulation that only separate homes and no attached structures be allowed in the developments.

The council will consider the planning commission's recommendations at its March 2 meeting.

The planners also refused permission to allow Scoma's Restaurant, 588 Bridgeway, to add a dining pavilion to the shore side of the building. Borgwardt said the commission did approve a variance to permit the restaurant to enclose an open work area for use as additional kitchen space.

A request by developer Joseph Duffel for a six-month extension of a condition use permit to allow construction of the 431-unit Whiskey Springs planned development was approved by the planners. Duffel's original permit expired this week, according to the planning director, and the developer does not plan to begin construction on the apartments until May 1.

Singer-Composer To Perform Tonight

Folk singer and composer Earl Robinson will perform at 8 p.m. today in Ives Hall of Music at Sonoma State College.

The event is sponsored by the Lectures and Concerts Division of the Student Activities Office. Robinson has composed many songs and cantatas that have been recorded and performed by major symphonies and choruses. His songs have also been used in movies such as "Maybe I'll Come Home in the Spring," "Hurry Sundown" and "The House I Live In."

Transit Urged For Highway

The Mill Valley School District board and city council will consider identical resolutions urging the Golden Gate Bridge District to keep a future rapid transit system along Highway 101.

School Supt. James A. Collins said the school board last night ordered a resolution prepared stating Mill Valley's opposition to any rapid transit use of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, which passes through the middle school site and Edna Maguire School.

City Councilman Jerome C. Hauke, who also attended last night's special meeting of the school board, said he would introduce the measure at the March 1 council meeting.

Passage of the measure by both bodies is assured as each has indicated in the past its opposition to rapid transit use of the railroad right-of-way.

The resolution will urge the bridge district to build a new road parallel to the freeway for mass transit.

Nurses at Beekman-Downtown Hospital, New York, have begun wearing white pants suits instead of conventional uniforms.

New Policy On Drug Treatment

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)— District Attorney Ed Miller has initiated a policy of not arresting persons who seek emergency treatment for being under the influence of illegal drugs or narcotics.

"Requests for such a policy have come from hospitals, physicians, psychiatrists and various volunteer groups," Miller said. "It is to remove the fear that persons, particularly young persons, ... would be subject to arrest if they sought help for their condition."

He said persons seeking such treatment would not be reported nor subject to arrest so long as no other laws were violated.

Focus on Today

The promises of Christ Jesus, the Prophets, and Apostles are timeless; but to make them practical now, we need to know their deeper spiritual meanings. And we need to know the timeless nature of our own being. Showing man's true nature and his relation to God is the purpose of every Christian Science Church Service. You are always welcome.

Be our guest in the White House

You will know as much as anyone about what goes on in the White House and in the Presidency by the simple act of reading the I-J. (Only the President and intimates will know more).

For the I-J, through its United Press International reporters, is virtually "in residence" as much as the President. Which makes you our welcome guest to the White House.

Our reporters are constantly alert to staff and cabinet meetings, to affairs of international import, to the diplomatic front, to the comings and goings which make the White House a world center of significant news. The job is sensitive. It requires a sixth sense to know when news of major concern is about to break. And concern in how to "break" it accurately and without bias.

Be our guest and stay as long as you like. Our columns lead right to the White House.

Mahi Mahi, Sea Bass, Snapper: Try Your Luck At The Grotto

Not all is seafood at the Grotto in San Rafael — though this is still its big attraction.

New menu also lists steaks, ground beef, chicken liver saute sec, boned chicken saute sec and boned curried chicken — should you prefer to eat what walks on the ground to what swims in ocean, lake or river.

I'll still go for Ursula Valan's filet of sole meuniere or her abalone steak. And here's something I hadn't noticed before under specials — avocado, stuffed with crab and shrimp. Another special is crab newburg and on the same list are mahi mahi, sea bass and red snapper. These may not be available everytime you go there — but ask for them anyway.

SPEAKING OF SEAFOOD MENUS, I've been looking over the carte of the Trident in Sausalito, which features Sashimi when the right fish is available. It's served raw. This is one thing I don't think Ursula Valan has tried yet at the Grotto — but give her time. She's a great one for experimenting.

JUST TO MAKE SURE I wasn't wrong — I sampled again the crepes of Eugene Lackenbach at Eugene's Country Club Restaurant in San Rafael. There is no doubt about it — I still have to rate him number one in this field, and that's against some pretty stiff competition.

Trouble is — just try to get him to fix you some. He'll try to switch you to his hamburgers every time. They're good, too — but the crepes — voila and oo-la-la!

YOU CAN START tuning up your carburetor and ignition next week — come March 1 when several of the Sonoma County restaurants, which have been hibernating through the winter, will open.

Among these is Golden Bear Lodge in Kenwood, Valley of the Moon, where Art Dieterle and Gene Boulware will continue featuring that wonderful smorgasbord table. Day of closing is Thursday.

Another is picturesque and historical Mark West Lodge between Santa Rosa and Calistoga, with its select European menu. Try the filet mignon a la king of Bohemia. Day of closing is Wednesday.

And don't forget Cazanoma Lodge in Cazadero, where Walter and Agnes Lenk serve both German and American dinners. During March and April these will be served Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays only. But in May Cazanoma will go on its full week schedule.

IF YOU FEEL LIKE going a little farther north, consider Franchini's Tee House near Kelseyville, Lake County. If I am not mistaken, the Franchinis' seasonal general liquor license came alive again for 1971 on the first of this month.

ON THE NORTH COAST, the license at Noyo River Inn, Fort Bragg, presided over by Gregory Seubert, is a year-round one — but it's the weather I'm thinking about in this case.

I understand it has been sunny and bright in that area and the trip should be a pleasant one. On weekends figure this place for Saturday — not Sunday. I believe the inn has been closing on Sunday recently.

THIS WEEKEND, the Lion's Share on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile is featuring Doc Watson (with Merle Watson) for entertainment through Sunday.

THE REFECTORY, best known to Marinites for its location in the Bon Air Shopping Center, Greenbrae, is still expanding and about to open its 10th restaurant.

This one will be at 1906 El Camino Real in Menlo Park — the first and probably the only venture on the peninsula to be opened by Dave Peterson and John Leonudakis. It is located where the Coach and Six (previously the Stone Cellar) used to be.

In the past six years these two have also established steak houses in Lafayette, Walnut Creek, Fresno and San Francisco — also at Raleigh Hills and Portland in Oregon, Snowmass-at-Aspen, Colo. and Tucson, Ariz. Still another Arizona restaurant is planned to open soon at Scottsdale. More in the planning are scheduled for Sacramento, Denver and Los Angeles.

The first Refectory was opened at Lafayette in 1965. Greenbrae followed in 1967 — on the site of the former Confucius Restaurant.

THERE IS WORD from Fred Cherry that the next big feast of Les Bon Vivants will be to celebrate the final day before Lent on Shrove Tuesday next week — the 23rd.

Food, wine and music of France, Germany, Spain, Italy and Brazil will be featured, with some additional offerings from Poland, Switzerland and Austria. There will be a discussion on each wine after it is served by Fred, on the pattern of his traditional California nights. And executive chef Dick Willette will describe preparation of the exotic dishes.

Information and reservations for this and similar future events may be obtained by telephoning or writing Tamal Food Service, 2 Kensington Road, San Anselmo. Ask for Miss Alexander.

RUBY CULLINAN, who has had Ruby's Coffe Shop in downtown Sausalito for more years than it's easy to remember, is expecting to move out to her new location at 2656 Bridgeway the first of next week (north of the Big G Market).

STEVE CORLEY TRIO AT HOLIDAY INN

Beer Parlor Is Due Study

The Novato Planning Commission will consider an application to permit a beer parlor with pool tables and casino games at 1205 Grant Avenue at 8 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House.

Harry Haneman is the applicant for the permit to operate at the building, formerly occupied by a Rexall Drug Store.

Commissioners also will consider an application to zone 15.4 acres east of the College of Marin's north campus site and south of San Jose Junior High School for single-family residential development. It is now zoned limited agriculture.

Pleads Innocent To Burglary Count

James Kenneth, 52, of New Mexico, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge that he burglarized the Sausalito Salvage Shop, 19 Princess Street, last Sunday.

A preliminary hearing was set for Monday. He was arrested when police found him in the second-hand clothing store with a stolen suitcase and 12 shirts.

She will serve breakfasts, lunches and dinners — sandwiches, soup, chili and businessmen's daily specials — but for the time being breakfasts will be held to Saturdays and Sundays only, from 6 a.m. to 1 p.m.

WHEN TRAVELING BY CAR, there are a few simple checks on unknown restaurants to help in deciding whether they are likely to be satisfactory.

Is there a parking lot adjoining the restaurant? If so, it may indicate a well established, well patronized place — but more important, it may give you an opportunity to size up the number of local cars rather than out of state automobiles. If the restaurant is good, local residents will patronize it.

Automobile club recommendations and gasoline company guides help — but match their recommendations in your own home neighborhood with your personal restaurant experiences there to appraise their true value.

Service club signs are another clue. Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and other organizations look for quality restaurants for their meetings — and leave them if they don't measure up to standards. Watch for their meeting signs as you enter town.

Door Closed To Chamber Welcome Bid

The Novato Plan Review Committee has rejected plans by the Novato Chamber of Commerce for two welcome signs at entrances to the city along Highway 101.

The committee objected to the size, character and proposed location of the signs, reported Senior Planner Gary Holloway.

The chamber planned signs, 9.5 feet high and 17 feet long, on the east side of the highway north of Lamont Avenue, and on the west side of the highway near the McGraw Hill building.

The plan review committee Wednesday night also approved plans by Standard Unvestment Co. for a 16-unit condominium on the east side of San Andreas Drive between San Marin Drive and San Andreas Court, and a triplex apartment at the northeast corner of San Andreas Drive and San Andreas Court. The condominiums were approved subject to approval of a change in the San Marin master plan and precise development plans.

Freeway Bid

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Peter Kiewit Sons Co., Concord, has submitted the low bid of $4.18 million to grade a mile of the eight-lane Junipero Serra Freeway near Belmont, the state Division of Highways reported today.

College's Bond Vote Up In Air

Marin Junior College District trustees decided on cliffhanger strategy last night for the district's $16,920,000 bond election still scheduled for April 20.

The trustees decided they may postpone the election at their March 4 meeting. The action will depend on developments in "one man, one vote" cases before the United States Supreme Court, and in the California Community Colleges battle to offset the budget austerity ordered by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

John A. Grasham, district superintendent-president, said that County Elections Officer Peter Meyer can delay printing the bond issue ballot until March 5, but no later.

Last November, the bond issue received 62.49 per cent "yes" votes when a two-thirds vote was needed. The Supreme Court has been considering the one-man-one-vote arguments since Dec. 7, 1970. If it approves the argument, it will do away with the two-thirds majority in favor of a simple majority for bond passage.

Grasham pointed out that the board also might take advantage of another public election, tentatively set for June 29, to reschedule the bond election. If so, trustees would have to act no later than April 1 to meet deadlines for legal requirements.

The delay might help the district, through the liklihood that the state Legislature would have adopted the 1971-72 budget before June 29, Grasham noted in response to a question by Trustee Charles Gray.

"The actual problem is how much we'd know by April 1, if we go ahead with a June 29 bond issue," said Trustee Chairman Elizabeth Deedy.

Plead Innocent To Burglary

Arthur Charles Sidebotham, 33, and Ronald Jackson Hall, 38, both of Gate 5, Sausalito, have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglarizing Granny's Clothing Store in Sausalito.

A preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

The pair was arrested Sunday when police noticed glass in the front door broken and surprised the men inside the store.

'Restrictive' Code Irks College Board

With a blast at the "restrictive" state Education Code, Marin Junior College District trustees went through the formalities of denying official sanction to the College of Marin drama department's participation in the Edinburgh festival this summer.

The five trustees present at last night's meeting then promptly displayed lapel pins and individually urged support of fund-raising efforts to send the college's troupe to Scotland to stage its Western-style "Taming of the Shrew."

The lapel pins, being sold to support the journey, resemble the Cross of St. Andrew, patron saint of Scotland, or the British Union Jack flag.

The formal disavowal on a 4 to 1 vote resulted from advice by the Marin County Counsel's Office that the state law bars board sponsorship of the journey abroad.

Trustee Harry J. Moore refused to go along with the legal advice, voting against the disavowal.

Trustees Donald K. Fult and Robert E. Oliver were absent.

Trustee Robert E. Rogers branded the law "inappropriate" and praised drama department head James C. Dunn and his students, who were invited to Scotland after gaining worldwide attention for their play.

Chairman Elizabeth Deedy declared "maybe we'll get some changes in the law" as a result of "this sort of thing."

"This kind of adherence to the law would not be necessary if we had a permissive education code. With the code we do have, if it does not say you can do something, you cannot do it," she added.

Marin Junior College Board also:

ARCHAEOLOGY — Approved a 60-day digging project to recover Indian artifacts from the site of the future Kentfield campus library building, beginning March 15. A permit must be obtained from the county board of supervisors.

NORTH CAMPUS — Formally adopted the long-discussed proposal that the campus near Novato be constructed with a nucleus of three "inner colleges" to serve a beginning enrollment of 2,200 students. Mrs. Deedy stressed that architectural plans should make every attempt to preserve the neighborhood's traffic pattern, campus vegetation and natural topography and environment.

TRAILER — Accepted as complete, the $11,735 installation of a trailer at Marin General Hospital for use by nursing trainees.

OIL SLICK — Heard a report from John A. Grasham, district president-superintendent, that the district has applied for $34,000 in grants to study the effects of the January oil spill on shoreline ecology. Standard Oil Co., whose tankers were responsible for the spill, has completely cleaned up and returned to normal the college's Marine biology station at Bolinas, a major headquarters for the battle to save the beaches and waterfowl of West Marin, Grasham said.

MANUAL — Set 8 p.m. Feb. 23 for discussion of the district's classified personnel manual.

GIFTS — Adopted a detailed policy on acceptance of gifts to the college. The offer of a painting and motion picture equipment under the new policy will be considered at the board's March 4 regular meeting.

CHANGE ORDER — Approved $5,303.29 in change orders for the Science-Harlan Center building project, but took no action of the contractor's request for time extensions.

REMODELING — Unanimously voted to return $55,815 in state matching funds originally obtained for a partial remodeling of the Kentfield campus art building. The state has approved for the 1972-73 budget a more extensive remodeling expected to cost $438,700.

CREEK CLEANUP — Received a report on plans to remove dead or diseased trees along the Corte Madera Creek channel through the Kentfield campus.

IN-SERVICE PROGRAM — Approved a credit course for faculty members, in "College teaching — the state of the art and ways to improve it."

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of John Buxton, classified personnel officer.

Man To Appear In Grass Case

A 22-year-old Santa Venetia man was arrested today on suspicion of possessing marijuana and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

San Rafael police said they arrested Ricky Bee Deem of 814 Hacienda Way at 1:10 a.m. He was noticed drinking malt liquor with two juveniles in a car at A and B streets at 1:10 a.m., police said.

Police said they found 13 quarts of malt liquor and a pipe believed to contain marijuana in Deem's car.

He was booked into Marin County Jail to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

One of his juvenile companiosn was booked into juvenile hall on suspicion of a curfew violation. The second was sent home to care for a child, police said.

Thefts Of Cars Reported

Two car thefts were reported by San Rafael police today.

A silver 1963 Corvette, license XAR-478, was taken between 4:30 and 6 p.m. yesterday from the parking lot at Fairchild Semiconductor, 4800 Redwood Highway, police said. The owner is Sandra M. Medeiros of 21 Cherry Street, Petaluma, police said.

A white 1957 Thunderbird, license DNY-305, was stolen Wednesday from 45 Duffy Place, owner Douglas L. Shaffer of 89 Gregory Drive, Fairfax, told police. He said the restored vehicle is worth $3,500.

Put Reliefers To Work? Calhoun County Does It

When Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff suggested at a Senate committee hearing last fall that New York might attack its rubbish problem by putting welfare clients to work cleaning the streets, New York Mayor John V. Lindsay responded contemptuously that the senator's suggestion was "a rather extraordinary one in view of modern thought."

When President Richard M. Nixon suggested a welfare reform program aimed at putting many relief clients into productive work, the air waves and newspaper columns were promptly filled with explanations by congressmen, bureaucrats and other experts as to why it couldn't be done.

When Gov. Ronald Reagan in January sent a directive to all state department heads calling for reports on what jobs they could provide for able-bodied welfare recipients, the response was the opposite of enthusiastic.

JUST ABOUT EVERYBODY agrees that the present welfare system doesn't work. Yet just about everybody can bring up all sorts of arguments against any change in the system that is proposed. None brings out more arguments than a proposal to have the able-bodied who are on relief do something for what they are paid.

It won't work, we are told over and over, because of union opposition. It won't work because the welfare clients would require so much supervision it would be more expensive than just paying them to do nothing. It won't work because it would be demeaning to ask those on relief to work for a living like everybody else. And so on and so on.

All the usual arguments were trotted out in Calhoun County, Mich., when officials of its social services department and board of public works proposed to put relief recipients to work on public projects. But they did it anyhow.

It works.

THE STORY IS TOLD in the January issue of the American County, a magazine circulated principally to county officials.

When an unemployed man or woman in Calhoun County applies for direct relief, he receives along with his relief check an order to report on a current project to work out the amount at $1.50 per hour.

Calhoun County owned a long-abandoned factory building. It was proposed to remodel it to house the county health department. Contractors estimated the job at $80,000.

Relief recipients were put to work on it. They did the remodeling. Cost to the county: $19,000 for materials.

The county purchased a condemned dwelling for $4,000. Relief recipients completely overhauled it, at a cost of $4,000 additional for materials. The county then offered the building for sale to a welfare family at payments within their rental allowance.

These are but two of the projects completed since Calhoun County (in which the principal city is Battle Creek, the breakfast food capital) started putting relief clients to work for their money.

It works in Calhoun County, Mich. It should work in Marin County, Calif.

Congress Not Short On Power, It Just Refuses To Use It

WASHINGTON — The new Congress is off to an uncertain and unproductive start.

This was the way it was last year and it already looks like more of the same.

No wonder Congress is the target of mounting voter dissatisfaction for three very valid reasons:

1 — Congress is often unresponsive to public opinion on major matters.

2 — Congress has such a terrible time making up its own mind that inaction becomes standard.

3 — When Congress rejects what a President is asking it to approve, it rarely advances any constructive alternatives.

SENATORS AND representatives are raising their voices to complain that Congress is losing its powers to the President.

The truth is that Congress is not short on power; it is short on the will to use its power.

This is exactly the kind of legislative vacuum the nation faces for the next two years unless President Nixon can effectively focus public pressure on a Congress controlled by Democrats who seem more intent upon attacking the President than attacking the problems.

IT IS GENERALLY conceded here in Washington that Nixon's chances of getting favorable action on anything but minor parts of his legislative program are slight. Of his three big goals — welfare reform, revenue sharing and reshaping the structure of federal departments so they can do a better job — the consensus is that noe will be enacted in the form Mr. Nixon wants, if at all.

Of course Congress has no particular duty to pass measures in the form Mr. Nixon wants them. The details of the President's requests are certainly not sacrosanct.

But few dispute the fact that what the President is trying to accomplish in these three areas urgently needs to be accomplished.

THE PRESENT welfare program is working so badly that change is crucial. It divides families. It makes it difficult for people to earn their way off the relief rolls as most wish to do. Welfare reform is a critical necessity.

A redistribution of revenue so that money can be made available to state and local authorities who are nearer to the problems than Washington bureaucrats is crucially important. Revenue sharing is one way to save state and city governments from imminent bankruptcy.

The executive branch of the federal government has not had a major overhaul since it grew up like Topsy. The best management minds in the country helped the President shape the reorganization plans he has put to Congress.

I'm not saying that these three Nixon measures have to be enacted in the shape the President has laid them out. But they do deal with imperative needs of the nation, and if Congress doesn't like them, it has the obligation to deal with these problems by passing something — ideally something better — in their place.

LAST YEAR the President asked for a modest beginning for revenue sharing. Congress wouldn't even hold hearings. Last year the President advanced his welfare program and Congress rejected it.

The polls have shown majority opinion clearly in favor of the new welfare program. Revenue sharing finds the country 77 per cent in support.

My observation is that public opinion is often ahead of political leadership opinion. For 25 years there has been decisive public support for reforming the electoral college but Congress can't make up its mind even though the American people can.

Congress ought not to be too sure the public is wrong.

Congress should not be a rubber stamp for the President. It should think for itself.

But if Congress does not like the President's solutions, it ought to produce its own, not just obstruct.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Questions Don't Seem Out Of Line

The front page story (Feb. 10) about the unwed mothers objecting to the questions asked in the district attorney's questionnaire interested me.

Do I understand that these mothers are asking for support from welfare for themselves and their babies (until these babies are 21 years old) but are not willing to answer questions in order that some of these costs can be defrayed?

The questions referred to in the article did not seem out of line since they were ascertaining actual paternity and reactions to be expected when the father was actually contacted.

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney stated that these questions were "more prurient than probative". I am wondering if it is prudent of Mr. Maloney, as another county official, to be publicly giving his opinion.

Rapid Transit System Exists

I had intended to write to remind you of the last electric train to run on the N.W.P., Feb. 28, 1941. Your excellent editorial in Saturday's (Feb. 13) paper makes this reminder no longer necessary; so, please permit me to change the thrust of my letter.

In the past weeks the bridge district has been holding public meetings to discuss a long-range solution to the transportation problem in Marin County. Some five plans were considered; I consider all five plans to be inferior to the rail transportation that we had in this county 30 years ago. If the last 30 years of more concrete, wider overpasses, more cars, and now more buses is progress, please, no more progress! We were bitter off 30 years ago than we are today. I would settle for Feb. 28, 1941.

Some citizens of my community have expressed strong opposition to a major transportation artery running through the Ross Valley. I should like to remind them that this valley was even more attractive when the railroad bisected the valley than it is today. Just take a look at some of the structures, and wall to wall concrete that have replaced the railroad.

Marin remains a beautiful area in spite of this "progress". . .

The largest group of bridge directors comes from San Francisco. They do not want more cars and more buses, and are therefore natural allies.

We do not need more studies and surveys. We have a tried and proven plan. Most of the roadbed is still intact. The logical extension to Novato and north is there. The tunnel to West Marin still goes through White's Hill, thus making Highway 17 unnecessary. Center Boulevard could be restored as a roadbed at minimal cost. Our rapid transit system is still there. Let us restore it, and let us update it with the technological developments of the last 30 years. . .

Wouldn't license Any Hunt Club

In tonight's (Feb. 11) paper is an article regarding the Marin Municipal Water District, and its "reconsideration of hunting clubs lease."

I very strong oppose any lease, on any public land, for any hunting clubs. Wild life is being depleted so rapidly that the idiotic policy of leasing public lands to enable a few to kill more stuns me.

Complains he-man Wilsey, "The deer hunting is horrible." This because, and I emphasize: "There are very few deer left to shoot.". . .

Then, to add insult to his complaint, Wilsey says, "Why do we hunt in the area? We love the land." Oof!. . .

Moral To Save Lives Of Misery?

This is in reply to a letter written by Mrs. Sarah Hoffman of Mill Valley and appearing in the I-J on Feb. 6.

I was a member of the discussion group which met on Jan. 26 at Kaiser Foundation Hospital. The topic was abortion, and my reactions were quite different from yours.

Your premise was that abortion was immoral in all cases, even incest and rape.

Once I saw a child in an institution where I worked. Although she was five, she was the size of a two-year-old. She had no control over bladder or bowel. She was said to have a faulty heart. She was blind, and her eyeballs were like opaque white globules a little out from her face. She dug her fingers behind them to ease the pressure or the itch or the pain — she couldn't talk to tell anybody which it was. Her mother had had German measles in the first trimester of pregnancy.

Later I worked at another place where I saw old people whose brain cells (they don't regenerate) were irreversibly killed. They were incontinent just like the little girl. For most of them, long years in bed had curled their legs up cruelly like fetuses. They were spoon fed or tube fed, but tender nursing care kept them alive.

It is possible that the parents of the little girl blessed God, as you would, for the spark of life they carefully nurtured in their daughter. The old folks may have had sons and daughters who still revered them, though they never had visitors; they wouldn't have known if visitors were there.

In your letter to the I-J you took to task a doctor in our discussion group for comparing an unborn chicken with an unborn child. You didn't quote one of his most pungent phrases: that if he were an unborn child who knew he would die before the age of four of starvation, he probably wouldn't choose to be born.

Nor would I. Nor would I choose to bring into the world a child against whom the odds were formidable. Nor would I choose to live in pain and nothing else, like the poor old folks . . .

JOAN HOPPER

Do Some Doctors Avoid Medicare?

I am concerned with the fact that the more reputable physician rarely accepts a patient whose bill must be paid by Medicare. Many aged are living on small incomes and when they become ill, must face the problem of selecting a doctor who will wait to be paid by Medicare. Often these people are faced with a large bill from the doctor plus the cost of medication. In paying these bills at once they must draw from a meager income or reduce the interest on a small bank account.

My concern is: Is the doctor who is kind enough to wait for Medicare to pay his bill less capable? Because of necessity must one choose a doctor at random because of financial inability to pay his bill at once?

It is obvious that in selecting a doctor one must feel a confidence in his ability regardless of how soon he can be reimbursed. Surely Medicare is often more reliable than many who enter a doctor's office with top references.

Pensions For Presidents

(Reprinted from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

To complete the record, we herewith report Senate passage of S.437 as amended. Originally the measure was confined to a few thoroughly justified changes in retirement benefits of federal civil service employes. The House, responding to lobbying from the White House and nobody knows where else, added an amendment more than doubling the pensions of former presidents. The Senate has now accepted the House version, and presumably President Nixon will sign it.

Under previous legislation, ex-presidents, were entitled to a pension of $25,000 a year. S.437 makes it $60,000 a year, equivalent to the salary of a cabinet member, and requires no contribution from the president while he is working.

Former presidents, of whom there are only two living, also receive an allowance of $80,000 a year for office space and staff. If they had service in Congress before going to the White House, as Messrs. Truman, Johnson and Nixon all did, they are likewise eligible for a congressional pension of $20,000 a year. All in all, not bad, especailly when it is considered as one senator remarked, that a salary of $200,000 a year "should enable an occupant of the White House to lay a little aside for his old age.

Loan To 'Save' Lake Tahoe Merely Defers Obvious Solution

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Comes the 1971 session of the legislature and the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency immediately has its hand out for $150,000 for a "loan" from the state of California to perpetuate, so it says, its very existence.

A bill providing for the loan was introduced by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'Berg, D-Sacramento. As chairman of the natural resources and conservation committee, Z'Berg has for eight years sponsored legislation to save Lake Tahoe, and was largely responsible for the planning agency.

Apparently, not everyone is enthusiastic concerning an additional agency eating taxes to perform the "saving" duties by meddling with the functions of established government.

Placer and El Dorado counties, which are on the west side of the lake, refuse to pay what the state says is their share of support for the planning agency, on the ground that the agency is primarily a state function, therefore, their taxpayers should not be assessed to finance it.

Z'Berg would loan the agency money until the courts "order the counties to pay." Z'Berg is banking on the belief that the court suit brought in the case will be resolved in favor of the agency.

The argument of the boards of supervisors of the two counties appears to have plenty of merit. The conservationists have long maintained that Lake Tahoe "belongs to the nation" as a beauty spot without peer. But they do not hesitate to dip into the pocketbooks of a small group of taxpayers just because their taxing agency happens to be adjacent to the lake.

The problems of Lake Tahoe probably never will be solved until the lake is put where it should have been in the first place — under the federal government, which should acquire all of the private property around it and make it truly the property of the people.

Indians Of Backwater Don't Fret Over Ecology

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

KING WILLIAM, Va. — Megalopolis?

They don't use that kind of language around here, although if you lay a ruler on a map you can see the area lies right in the theoretical path of the great Boston-to-Norfolk urban corridor that is supposed to be so ecologically important in the years ahead.

Ecologically?

The only thing that's made a noticeable dent in the environment God put here is the Chesapeake pulp plant, down the road on the Pamunkey River. And that's the only industry for four or five counties around. In the spring when they go fishing, the Indians on the reservation here drink the water right out of the Mattaponi without a second thought.

Indians?

NOT THE FAR western kind, who live in hovels on the dusty plains and whose poverty and other problems are a national scandal. These are the remnants of the Mattaponi and Pamunkey tribes, still living on reservations set aside for them by the colonial legislature 313 years ago, long before the white men forced their brothers across the mountains and into the least promising corners of the country.

Their problem would seem a luxury to many of the Navajo, Apaches, Utes, Cheyennes, Hopi, Zuni and other tribes of the west — as well as to poor blacks and whites on the plantations of the Mississippi Delta or the slum streets of Washington.

In such a backwater, the Mattaponi are no richer and not much poorer than their neighbors. They live in small homes, but they keep warm. They go to the county public schools — by bus, without complaining. They are free to go to the city, to Richmond or north or even to California to seek jobs, and often they do. But most of them come back.

CHIEF CURTIS T. Custalow lives in a neat recently built cinder-block house on the single circular street of the Mattaponi reservation. He has a big color TV in the living room, and he and his wife Gertrude are articulate about life on the reservation.

Then there is Joe Custalow (there are only three family names on the reservation — Custalow, Allmond and Langston). Joe, who is in his mid-30s, went to Richmond to work. As the chief said, "Most young people get married and then want to explore the great beyond, to improve themselves by mingling with the outside world."

Joe went to work with a tobacco firm that folded. He also found out it was hard to rent a decent home or apartment in the city for a family including six children. So after three years exploring the great beyond, he asked for reinstatement on the reservation.

Once a man has gone "on the commonwealth," as they put it, coming home is not a simple matter of moving back in. He has to make a formal request of the chief, who calls a meeting of the reservation council, which votes on the matter. In Joe's case there was no complication because he had left of his own free will. The only problem was finding a home for him.

Luckily, the schoolhouse was unused because the reservation's children had recently been shifted to county schools. So Joe Custalow took over the schoolhouse for himself, his wife and six children. Now he commutes daily to a job with a freight line.

ON SUNDAYS, 15 or 20 children play basketball on the court outside the school. Weekdays, the neighborhood is nearly deserted. The river flows quiet down the bluff below the Mattaponi Indian Baptist Church, and the one room "museum" begun by another branch of the Custalows is locked up tight despite its two "open" signs.

Week ends are when the families that have gone out to the great beyond come back to visit. Each week end is a preview of the big one, the fourth Sunday in August of every year, when there is a tribal reunion and the Mattaponis converge here from all directions for an old-time Baptist revival.

Between now and revival comes spring, when the shad, rock and perch are thriving in the river, and the men and boys go out in their flat-bottom boats and drink the water of the Mattaponi and bring home strings of fish for frying. None of the Mattaponi is on welfare, and the last time one of them was thrown off the reservation for misbehavior was 30 years ago.

So you see why Gertrude Custalow looked a little amazed when she told about a bookwriter who visited not long ago and couldn't understand why the Mattaponi were not militant.

Sausalito Of Near Future: Downtown For Tourists Only

Sausalito's downtown, once a thriving residential business community, is rapidly becoming strictly a tourist center as resident-serving shops move away.

Creative Arts, 22 El Portal, and Central Pharmacy, 695 Bridgeway, have announced they are moving operations to Caledonia Street (although Central will maintain a tourist-oriented store at its present location). And the owners of Sausalito Hardware and Plumbing, 34 Princess Street, say they will get out as soon as they can find another location.

John Minton, owner of Creative Arts, an artists' supply house and stationery store, hopes to be in his own building on property on Locust Street at Caledonia by midsummer. He purchased the land in 1966, anticipating the tourist takeover of downtown.

Harry Smith and Don Neuberger of Central plan to relocate in Minton's new building. The present Central store will continue to carry items such as cosmetics and non-prescription drugs, but Smith said it will focus on tourist merchandise.

Minton said he has had to stock items to appeal to visitors, including posters and prints, in order to survive.

MINTON AND SMITH are not bitter about the change and do not blame City Hall, although many businessmen feel the city's ban of parking on Bridgeway hastened the death knell for firms which cater to residents.

Minton and Smith question the city's plan to turn parking lot No. 1 into a park, although both admitted the idea has considerable aesthetic appeal.

"If all the parking around these stores is removed, the squeeze is going to be on," Minton said. "Some parking should be allowed downtown."

Hazel Puharich, who with her husband Harold, owns Sausalito hardware, does not hold such charitable views of the city's actions. She blames many of her store's problems on the ban and the influx of visitors.

"We are keeping our fingers crossed and hoping to find a place down on Caledonia," Mrs. Puharich said. "It's impossible to carry on business here; the customers can't get downtown because of the tourists and when they manage to make it, there's no place to park."

The hardware store has been on Princess Street for 12 years, but its lack of tourist appeal has hurt the business more each year, she said.

Mrs. Puharich said the parking situation has become so bad that not only customers, but even salesmen have been driven away from the hardware store. "Sometimes we can't even get merchandise now," she complained.

IN ADOPTING the new central waterfront plan, the city council seemed to recognize that resident businesses downtown have no future. The plan calls for a resident commercial area on Caledonia, with the rest of the downtown devote chiefly to shops and restaurants which serve visitors.

And, if the council adopts the park plaza plan — which the city planning commission approved last week — there will be few parking spaces available around businesses at the south end of the downtown area.

Tourists can come by buses and ferries. Residents must walk or come by car.

That makes the city's intentions for the downtown pretty clear.

China Is Building Elaborate Tunnels

By Toronto Telegram News Service

HONG KONG — The Chinese are building elaborate tunnel systems in cities and near industrial plants in case of war.

Peking's leaders are not confident that genuine peace will come to Asia. Despite Washington's assurances that the United States is gradually ending its combat role in Indo-China, the men in Peking are encouraging construction of air-raid shelters across the country.

There are several reasons why Mao Tse-tung stresses preparedness for war in his current policy.

Peking is still convinced that the United States, the Soviet Union and Japan could one day gang up against China.

From the Chinese viewpoint, the United States is not disengaging its military forces either from Southeast Asia or the Far East. Peking believes the withdrawal from South Vietnam is merely a manoeuvre to deceive American public opinion.

On the one hand, Chinese policy-planners are prepared to concede that the United States in time may pull out of the Indo-China fighting altogether —restricting itself to supplying arms and ammunition.

Yet on the other hand, Peking is being extremely cautious in assessing President Nixon's intentions.

The Chinese saw the overthrow of Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk in March last year as a definite move by the United States to widen the Indo-China war.

And lately, there have been persistent reports that in another escalation, South Vietnamese forces are invading Laos.

According to the Chinese assessment of the situation, present indications are that fighting in South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos will continue indefinitely, and that this regional conflict could still spark a major war in the decades ahead.

The Chinese Communists believe that the United States intends to retain the largest of its military bases in South Vietnam, Thailand, the Philippines, South Korea and Japan for possible future use in a war against China.

Peking is even more concerned about the Soviet military presence along its north and western frontiers. The Sino-Soviet border talks in Peking, which began more than 15 months ago, have made absolutely no progress.

And ideologically, China and the Soviet Union are as far apart as ever. The bitter propaganda war between the two Communist giants continues unabated, and the political chasm now has grown so wide that a reconciliation is out of the question.

The industrious and surging Japanese nation presents another big problem for Peking.

The Japanese are many years ahead of the Chinese economically, and on top of this, Peking considers the present government of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato as extremely hostile.

Some Chinese Communist strategists say that a return to militarism in Japan is inevitable in view of the ever-accelerating industrial momentum of the country.

These fears are reflected in the stream of denunciations about Japanese militarism published in the Chinese press.

The official Chinese news agency recently warned that Japan's former Zaibatsu groups are again in control of the country's economic lifelines and of the government.

Peking said the new Zaibatsu had restored and built a highly-concentrated war industry with a great potential.

And another accusation leveled against Tokyo is that Japan is ganging up with Taiwan, South Korea and the United States to plunder China's seabed and subsoil resources.

The People's Daily of Peking told Japan to stop its criminal activities in seeking oil under the seas around Taiwan.

Large oilfields recently were discovered in the area of small islands situated between Okinawa and Taiwan.

Japan has laid claim to the Tiao-Yu Tai or Senkaku Islands, claiming that these are the southern-most islands of the Ryukuyu chain.

China argues that these islands are part of Taiwan province and therefore "China's sacred territories."

It is little wonder that the Chinese Communists, as they look about them, must consider the chances of a future confrontation.

The air-raid tunnels are being built beneath cities as well as under hills near large industrial complexes.

Other countries, of course, have taken similar precautions. And in China, the tunnels can be used in peacetime as well.

Peking, for instance, has built an underground railway which is not yet in use. Other cities are also vaguely planning subway systems, and are tunneling below the streets.

In other instances, tunnels are built through mountains as possible future road and rail links. They can also be used as storage areas.

The major tunneling jobs are being augmented by smaller air-raid shelters being built in city and suburban areas by individual families.

Many of these were erected several years ago, particularly in 1969, when China feared a Soviet attack.

In inland cities, the campaign to build shelters is not stressed by the authorities.

But people coming out of China say that in coastal provinces the government definitely is encouraging tunnel-building, and supplies much of the materials and equipment needed.

Strong Hand Leads Greek Comeback

By TORONTO TELEGRAM NEWS SERVICE

ATHENS — They tell Western visitors in Athens these days: "We are not in a totalitarian regime like the Soviet Union or Nazi Germany. We are in a Papademocracy."

The quip refers to the policy of Greece's Prime Minister George Papadopoulos, who gave up being an army colonel when he took power. He is the strong man of Greece, but not without critics inside his own government and the supporting ranks of army officers.

In his New Year message he warned: "The country will not return to a democratic regime until I consider the situation permits that."

His use of the word 'I' annoyed the colonels, one of whom (Col. Stamatolopoulos) reproached the Prime Minister in a Salonika newspaper for "sinning by pride against revolutionary and Christian precepts." The colonel also wrote: "The revolution belongs to all and not to a single person."

Prime Minister Papadopoulos promptly replied through an editorial in the semi-official daily "Elefteros Kosmos": "The Prime Minister is the only mandatary of political power, and that (resulted) by the will of the people. He is the incarnation of legality, the spirit of the armed forces, the state and of public opinion which he protects."

Papadopoulos later issued another warning to the "barons" of the present regime in addressing the Consultative Committee, a sort of small parliament composed of 50 members appointed by the government. He then said: "If those who long for an authoritarian regime (the frustrated ambitious men), and those who would like to play the recalcitrant barons, threaten to install a tyranny, I shall not hesitate to ask the Greek people to express their wishes."

Col. Stamatolopoulos is one of these barons who wants a full-dress authoritarian regime set. But the Prime Minister is less in a hurry. He considers the revolution is still in the process of gestation and far from most of its major aims. He has adopted what is called Papademocracy, leaving him personally free to intervene in one direction or the other as he sees fit.

When the colonel took power in 1967, the average per capita income in Greece was $700 a year. Today, it is $900. The first task of the regime was to free the economy from the previous suffocating forms of state control. Papadopoulos' main objective now is to make Greece richer and the Greeks less poor.

To date, the enterprise looks promising. Compared with 10 years ago, the gross national product has increased by 93 per cent. Private consumption has doubled. Salaries have increased an average of 8 per cent without any wage freeze. Prices, of course, have risen in the wake of the world inflationary movement.

To meet the persistent deficit in Greece's balance of payments ($385 million last year), Papadopoulos is activating industrialization intensively.

America and France lead the countries that have made private investments in the new Greece.

Long-term foreign investments amounted to $258 million in 1968. For 1970, they amounted to more than $400 million.

To attract foreign capital, Papadopoulos has provided tax relief for productive investments and guaranteed the freedom of movement of foreign capital. The capital has come from the West.

But for its exports abroad, Greece is forced by the keen competition of the Western countries to look to the east. The Russians are building an electric power plant in the Piraeus. The Greeks sell tobacco to the Soviet Union. Mixed trading corporations have been formed with Yugoslavia, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria.

In increasing trade with Greece, the Russians naturally are hoping to create an anti-American and neutralist climate in Greece, while also developing a military movement like that of Fidel Castro or Col. Nasser on nationalist and socialist lines.

But the Greeks are subtle. So far, they have refused to be dragged into a neutralist attitude backed by Moscow.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Harking Back To December Editorial On Bureaucracy

Fusselman

Early in the year I mentioned an editorial in the I-J that had material in it which deserved serious contemplation. It appeared in the Dec. 22 issue and was headed, "Cuts In Private Sector — How About Public One?"

It went on to say that there had been much talk of late about cutbacks in higher level employment by business and industry. It had not been just talk, either, as a few formerly high-salaried men and women were facing the — for them — unusual prospect of unemployment. Walter J. Campbell, editor-in-chief of Industrial World, was quoted:

"ALL THE INDUSTRIAL enterprises we know are involved in pretty stringent cost cutting programs . . . personnel have been cut. Many men have been forced into early retirement. . . others have been furloughed. Frills in corporate America largely have disappeared. Expense accounts have come into the age of austerity . . .

"Further cost reduction campaigns are being planned and the belief grows that continuing austerity will be the price of survival in the 1970s . . . That is what is happening in the private sector . . .

"But in the public sector we find a different picture. We have yet to notice any widespread movement toward reducing costs among the public agencies."

The I-J editorial went on to say: "We were reminded of these remarks by a news item . . . reporting that bids for operating the Civic Center cafeteria were being studied by . . . the senior administrative analyst in the county and administrator's office . . . it caused us to wonder how many assistants, analysts, etc., the county administrator has. So we checked the budget.

"It shows Administrator Alan Bruce ($2,450.86 per month) is allocated two assistant administrators at $1,848 per month, two senior administrative analysts at $939 to $1,138, and two secretaries at $650 to $717."

THE EDITORIAL listed more of Bruce's firm which I will list next week. In addition to the figures in the editorial there are also the fringe benefits. So if you have been keeping track of salary amounts I have given previously and mght think there was a discrepancy, there is none. We are in agreement. I have repeated most of the editorial simply because it appeared just before Christmas and could have escaped your attention.

I have spent the afternoon going through my files and will develop, week by week, the picture, once again, out at Brasilia. This board of supervisors has within its power — indeed an obligation — to straighten things out and perform the duties they were elected to do. If they fail in this, they need not be surprised or alarmed at the public reaction which is growing. It will be their own fault.

San Marin Group Favors Police District

The San Marin Improvement Association board has called for ormation of a county police services district to provide urban police services in unincorporated areas.

Cities in Marin have been seeking formation of such a district contending that city residents shouldn't be taxed by the county to pay for urban services in the unincorporated areas.

Directors on Wednesday alsc voted to sponsor a Cub Scout pack and a Little League team and to have a game booth at the Western Weekend Country Fair, according to Mary Musante, publicity representative.

Plans were made to clean walkways along San Marin Drive and a committee was formed to work on establishing a tot lot at Novato Creek Park.

Directors announced the association's Monte Carlo Night would be at 8 p.m. March 20 at the Wild Horse Valley Clubhouse.

Strawberry Rec Panel Takes Study

Directors of the Strawberry Recreation District have agreed to study three pages of proposed rules and regulations for the new $256,000 community building.

The rules, discussed by directors at a special meeting Wednesday, will be revised and adopted at the regular meeting March 3, according to clerk Jeanne Heick.

Priorities and a fee schedule for use of the building also will be discussed at that time, Mrs. Heick said.

The board tentatively set the week of April 19 for the yearly community cleanup. Up to three cubic yards of household rubbish placed at curbside on the regular collection day that week will be picked up by Mill Valley Refuse Service.

Mrs. Heick said the collection schedule must be approved by the refuse firm before it becomes final.

South Goofed In Attempting To Try A Finesse For Queen

Some bridge players believe that a missing queen is more likely to be to the left than to the right of the jack. If in the previous deal a player lost a finesse with the jack to the queen, and if the two cards were not separated by the shuffle, the queen would remain "behind" the jack. There isn't much to this theory but it does very little harm, and even a bridge player must believe in something. In today's hand, South should have found something better to rely upon.

SPADE SHIFT

West opened the king of diamonds and shifted to the ten of spades. East won with the ace of spades and returned a low spade. East should have switched back to the ten of diamonds. West would win and lead a third diamond, whereupon South would have to guess the queen of clubs to make his game.

As the play went, South took the king of spades and drew three rounds oftrumps. Then he cashed the ace of clubs and led the jack of clubs for a losing finesse. East returned a diamond, of course, and South was down one.

NO FINESSE

It's easy to see that South would make his fame if he finessed through East for the queen of clubs, but his correct play was to take no finesse at all.

After taking the king of spades, South should draw just two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy. He cashes the queen of spades, discading a diamond, and leads a diamond, forcing West to take the lead.

As the cards lie, West has only diamonds and clubs left. If West leads a club, declarer gets a free finesse. If West leads a diamond, South ruffs while dummy discards a club. South cashes the top clubs and can then cross ruff.

FOURTH SPADE

South would not be quite so well off if West had a fourth spade or a third trump since then West would be able to get out of the lead safely. In that case, however, South could still try to guess the location of the queen of clubs. It costs nothing to try first for the throw-in play on West.

ANSWER: Bid three no-trump.

Your diamonds will probably be good for five tricks, and partner should have some reasonable play for four other tricks.

Webbed Feet

MIDWAY (UPI)—This tiny two-island atoll —a famous World War II landmark —has a U.S. Navy and Air Force population of 2,250 plus an estimated 600,000 web-footed Laysan albatross, also known as "gooney birds." Midway is 1,300 miles northwest of Hawaii.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Feb. 19, the 50th day of 1971.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

On this day in history:

In 1922 Ed Wynn of vaudeville and musical comedy fame became the first big name in show business to sign for a regular radio program.

In 1945 American Marines landed in Iwo Jima to start one of the bloodiest battles in the Pacific during World War II.

In 1964 Prince Constantine of Greece was named regent as the condition of his father, King Paul, worsened. Three years later Constantine was deposed in a military coup.

In 1970 pitcher Dennis McClain of the Detroit Tigers was suspended in connection with gambling. The suspension was lifted at mid-season.

A thought for today: British Statesman William Gladstone said, "Selfishness is the greatest curse of the human race."

670,000 Free Rides In 1970

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—An independent audit of the Long Island Railroad shows that an average of 670,000 passengers a month rode without paying during 1970.

A spokesman for the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, which runs the railroad, said much of the problem was use of counterfeit tickets, and overcrowded cars which prevent conductors from collecting fares.

Kent State President Is Retiring

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—Robert I. White is retiring as president of Kent State University, where four students were slain by National Guardsmen last May in antiwar disorders blamed by a grand jury on White's "permissive" leadership.

White, 62, said Thursday the events of May 4 were not the principal reason for his stepping down, but he though the university might be helped by a president not associated with the controversies of the last year.

White, president since 1963, said his retirement is effective Sept. 15, or as soon as a successor is found. He will take a six-month leave of absence and hopes to return to Kent as a professor of education.

White had condemned the grand jury report as a threat to academic freedom and all higher education. The special state grand jury indicted 25 persons, mostly students and former students, on rioting charges, and absolved National Guardsmen from lawbreaking.

"One is compelled to recognize that at least some political disfavor attaches to me out of the welter of charges and countercharges during the past year," White said. "A statement of my intentions at this time will greatly ease whatever handicap may accrue to the university because of me."

White, complaining that the presidency's "unending confiscation of all time and thought destroys home and personal life," said he had decided to retire two years ago.

He said the "tragedy of last May forced a dely in the timing," because after the shooting his "over-riding concern" became "the full operation of the university."

"We are now well along that road, having finished the majority of the academic year with gathering strength," White said in his statement over a closed circuit campus television network.

The board of trustees appointed a nine-member search committee to find a successor. Included on the committee was student body president Craig Morgan.

Morgan, one of the 25 indicted by the grand jury on rioting charges, said he "developed the highest personal regard for White), despite many strong disagreements."

But James Nichols, editor of the student newspaper, said: "I do not believe Dr. White is dynamic enough to lead the school as it is now."

"I understood he had been under a great deal of strain. A man's entitled to some rest," said Dr. John D. Millet, chancellor of the State Board of Regents.

STUDENTS TO PRESENT RECITAL

Two College of Marin students, violinist Lora Adams and pianist Joyce Conklin, will perform Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in Room 72, Choral Hall, in the college's Fine Arts Building. They will perform the Sonata for Violin and Piano, Opus 18, by Boris Blacher and the Sonata for Violin and Piano, Opus 24 by Beethoven, in addition to individual numbers. Admission is free.

Mill Valley Apartments Approved

A controversial five-unit apartment planned for 10 Willow Street has been approved by members of the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee.

Zoning Administrator Howard R. McGill said the committee Wednesday approved a landscaping plan and paint colors for the apartments, claiming they were not designed to take sufficient advantage of Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio, which flows through the rear of the property.

But the city council on Feb. 1 overturned the denial and gave builder Charles Locati permission to begin construction.

In other business the committee approved a revised site plan for a retirement development proposed by the Mill Valley Community Church for the corner of Camino Alto and Miller Avenue.

The project, in two phases, ultimately will house 400 elderly residents. Planning commission and city council approval still must be obtained by the church.

Four Picked In Banks Program

Four Tamalpais High School seniors have been selected to represent the school in the 1971 Bank of America Achievements Awards Program, Principal Raymond J. Bell reported.

The trophy winners, who will be eligible to compete for cash awards of up to $1,000 in zone and area finals later this year, are: Thomas W. Vollintine, science and math; Ann W. Folker, liberal arts; Frances A. Cook, fine arts and Pamela L. Hill, vocational arts.

Eleven other students were cited for their superior performance in fields of study will receive certificates of merit. They are: Med A. Nation III, math; Kathryn L. Pudenz, laboratory science; Robin Willat, music; Jane L. Castle, art; Christopher Kuhlman, drama; Marguerite E. Bare, English; Pamela Goyan, social studies; Rebecca R. Brockway, foreign languages; Debra Beardsley, business; Karen Timmins, home economics and Leonard Winstead, trades and industrial arts.

FAMILY

"Cromwell" — Richard Harris is Oliver Cromwell and Alec Guinness plays King Charles I in this exquisitely photographed historical spectacular about the Puritan Reformation and civil war in 17th Century England.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Airport" — Absorbing and gripping drama with outstanding all-star cast, is the behind-the-scenes action in a blizzard-paralyzed airport when an emergency arises. Buildup is intense and may prove too exciting for younger children. Very well done.

"I Never Sang For My Father" —Exceptionally well acted but heart rending emotional drama of a father-son relationship. Sensitive subject of a parent who becomes a burden to his children is well handled, but not solved, is very thought provoking.

"Last Valley" — People in a valley try to exist during the 17th Century 30-year war despite the devastating conflict. Magnificent Austrian location, musical score and photography plus international cast is good. (Motion Picture Daily)

"You Only Live Twice" — In Japan, James Bond does a workmanlike job of probing volcanic craters to discover launching pad of a missile that is swallowing up space ships. Usual quota of girls, gunfights and gadgets.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Ballad of Cable Hogue" — A miner is robbed and left to die in the desert, discovers a waterhole and sets himself up in business. A frontier tale that is a comedy but has a timeless moral about integrity and grit. Some sex and much cursing.

"There Was a Crooked Man" — Very adult, foul-mouthed western with an excellent cast played for laughs in the crudest, most tasteless level. Cynical plot in which all characters are non-heroes.

"Thunderball" — This time James Bond is underwater in the Bahamas trying to locate a NATO training plane and two atomic bombs. Sex is casual and salacious. Unpalatable cruelty is passed off as "spoof." Many amazing gadgets and much, much violence.

ADULTS ONLY

"Doctors' Wives" — Soap opera set in a plush clinic in suburbia in America. The sex lives of five doctors and their wives covers at least one reference to every human vice known to man or woman. Scenes of bloody open hear surgery not for the squeamish. (Motion Picture Daily).

"Five Easy Pieces" — Free-form portrait of an exile from a highbrow musical family who cops out of a routine lower middle class existence. Explicit sex and rank dialogue.

"Hard Contract" — A professional assassin who murders and makes love with the same heartless detachment falls in love. Nudity, explicit sex are interwoven with provocative discussions about good and evil, life and death.

"Owl and the Pussycat" — Racy adults comedy about a prostitute, with illusions of being a model and a shy unsuccessful author and their unlikely relationship. Sex is frank and abundant and Barbra's vocabulary includes as much profanity as the average stevedore and at the top of her voice.

"Trash" — The title says it all — no plot just pathetic characters mainly a heroin junky wandering around in the nude with both men and women fawning over his body but to no avail since drugs make him impotent. Incessant use of vulgar language and the ugly lives of totally messed up people is anything but funny, which is what this is supposed to be.

"What Do You Say To A Naked Lady?" — Allen Funt brings the situation to the screen of the reactions of unsuspecting passersby to a naked woman. Some moments are humorous but generally it is just smut.

"Where's Poppa" — A vulgar black comedy presents an outrageous picture of a monstrous mother and her guilt-ridden harassed son. Wild scenes of rape, nudity, heavily sprinkled with gutter talk are unstrained and brutally frank and may prove offensive to some.

Decision Soon On Lifting Travel Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The State Department says a decision is expected next month on a possible end to restrictions on allowing Americans to travel to Cuba, North Vietnam and mainland China.

If the travel ban regarding China is lifted, however, there would likely be little change since the Chinese government has refused to grant visas to U.S. citizens.

Minor Films For Oscars

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences announced nominations today for documentary films competing for the Oscar.

An academy nominations committee selected films in two categories, feature length documentaries and short subjects.

Feature nominees: "Chariots Of The Gods," a Terra-Filmkunst production; "Jack Johnson," the big fights; "King: a filmed record . . . Montgomery to Memphis," a Commonwealth United Production; "Say Goodbye," a Wolper production; "Woodstock," a Wadleigh-Maurice Production.

Short subject nominations: "The Gifts," Richter-McBride productions; "Interviews With My Lai Veterans," Lasser films; "A Long Way From Nowhere," Robert Aller Productions; "Oisin," an Aengus film; "Time Is Running Out," A Gesellschaft Fur Bildende film.

Nominations for entertainment features will be announced Feb. 22.

Jawbone Puts Back Birthdate Of Man

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—A hunk of thick, heavy jawbone belonging to one of man's early ancestors has been found to be about 5.5 million years old—pushing back the birthdate of the human family still farther.

The specimen, the right half of a lower jaw with a tooth still in place, is the oldest prehuman fragment ever found, scientists at Harvard University said Thursday.

Arnold D. Lewis, of the school's Museum of Comparative Zoology, found the specimen resting on the surface of a hill on a "nice hot afternoon" in the summer of 1967 as part of an excavation on the Lake Rudolf region of northern Kenya.

Lewis said he immediately recognized it as part of a hominid—a man like creature. But it took three years of laboratory work and research to conclusively establish its date and identity. Elephant fossils in the same find helped fix the date of the jawbone at about 5.5 million years.

Dr. Bryan Patterson, head of the expedition, said the bone probably belonged to the Australopithecus group of man-apes that eventually evolved into homo sapiens, the modern human.

"The species is believed to have been about 5 feet tall and had an essentially upright posture," Patterson said. "But like apes it had a small brain and a thick heavy jawbone. It probably belonged to a woman."

The rocks where the bone was found were from an era beginning 13 million years ago and the time of the last ice ages that covered earth. Most scientists orginally believed the Australopithecus man-apes evolved much later, about 2 million years ago.

Machine Stolen

Petaluma meter maid Judith Rinehart told police yesterday that a coin collecting machine valued at $140 and containing $40 in change was stolen. She said the theft was made either at the rear of the police station or from inside the squad room.

Another 101 Lane To Open

A third northbound lane on the San Rafael viaduct of Highway 101 will be opened tomorrow afternoon, the Division of Highways said today.

Division officials cautioned motorists entering the freeway at the Mission Avenue-Irwin Street entrance that they will have to merge with traffic using the new third lane.

Construction crews plan to remove the replace lane striping Saturday morning.

TAKING DDT TO PROVE CASE

Robert Loibl, 60, of North Hollywood, head of a major pest exterminating company, yesterday started taking daily doses of what he said was DDT to prove "it is not deadly." His wife joined him in swallowing a 10-milligram capsule, and they said they would continue the test for a month to 90 days to convince the public that it "should never be banned." Loibl said he is merely an individual who is familiar with the chemical and who is concerned with attempts to ban its use. (UPI Telephoto)

Vote Amendment On Youth Passes

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate Elections and Reapportionment Committee yesterday approved a proposed constitutional amendment to lower the voting age in California to 18.

But the panel balked at a companion measure which would place the amendment before voters. Committee members couldn't decide when the cheapest and best time would be to put it on the ballot.

The proposed amendment by Sen. George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco, would conform state law to the federal statute enabling 18-year-olds to vote in national elections.

It was sent on a split voice vote to the full Senate. Republican Sen. H. L. Richardson of Arcadia was the only audible "no" vote.

The proposed amendment would lower the voting age to 18, eliminate all literacy requirements and reduce voter residency requirements to 30 days.

However, the measure to implement the amendment ran into stiff opposition from several committee members, who couldn't agree when voters should decide the issue.

The bill as drafted by Moscone would submit the proposal to voters at the June 1972 primary election.

But Sacramento County Clerk William Durley said it would mean that double voter lists would be necessary, since 18-year-olds would be able to vote for presidential and congressional candidates but not for state candidates or issues.

Wage Floor Legislation In Hopper

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill establishing a $2.25-per-hour minimum wage and 35-hour work week for all public and private employes was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco.

"This legislation is an attempt to bring wages of working men and women not covered by union contracts into line with minimal living costs," said Brown, chairman of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

His measure also would provide double-time pay for overtime work.

Brown said based on a 40-hour work week the $2.25 minimum wage equals a $4,000 annual salary.

"That is certainly below even a poverty-level wage for a person trying to support a family," he said.

Smog Board Aims Guns At Detroit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The State Air Resources Board has ordered its staff to prepare legislation which would stop the Big Three automakers from "Mickey Mousing" in their efforts to prevent smog caused by old cars.

The board unanimously approved a resolution calling for a law which would force Ford, General Motors and Chrysler to come up with a low-cost solution to air pollution from pre-1966 cars by threatening to halt new car sales in the state.

Board member Joseph Boyle, a Los Angeles physician, complained that the automakers were not trying to come up with the low-priced conversion kit to lower harmful emissions from older cars. He said the threat to cut off sales in California would "stop the 'Mickey Mousing' we've had for the past two years."

The proposed law will be submitted to the State Legislature.

The board acted Wednesday after Dr. Fred Bowditch, director of emissions programs for General Motors, said research indicated it was impossible to clean up smog from old cars for $65 per vehicle. The board set that goal two years ago and has been prodding the industry since.

"You are not interested in getting those cars fixed or you really would have moved hell to do it," the industry representatives were told by Dr. A. J. Haagen-Smit, board chairman.

The board heard testimony that American Pollution Controlled, Inc., a small Colorado firm, has developed an exhaust and carburetor conversion kit that does the job within the $65 price limit.

But an APC spokesman said the firm can't find a manufacturer because potential investors fear the State Legislature may change the requirement for anti-smog kits on pre-1966 cars. Cars built after that date were required to have smog control devices before they could be sold in California.

The air resources board, acting on the advise of the state attorney general's office, also told three conservation groups that it did not have the legal power to ban lead from gasoline.

The Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth and Environmental Defense Fund, Inc., asked the board last year to set air quality standards for lead, to set a zero lead emission standard on automobiles, and to ban its use in motor fuels after Jan. 1, 1973.

The board adopted an air quality standard last November and is still considering an auto emission limitation. But it informed Robert J. Debs, a Palo Alto city councilman representing the three groups, that it didn't have the power to ban lead from fuels.

The state agency acted on the oral advice of Jan Stevens, a deputy state attorney general.

William Wigert, an attorney for the conservationists, said Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, yesterday asked for written opinion from Stevens to back up his position. Wigert said the conservation groups were "setting the foundation for a possible lawsuit to determine the board's powers."

Alert Leads To Suspects; Auto Theft

A San Rafael police all-points alert for burglary suspects led to the arrest Wednesday on suspicion of car theft of two Marin City youths apprehended in Mill Valley.

The search began at 2 p.m. yesterday when San Rafael police were called to Melody TV at 1446 Fourth Street and told by owner Lionel M. Harwin that two youths were seen near a display case.

Harwin said he ran after the youths when he found a $50 portable radio missing from the case. The car the youths drove off in, police found, had been stolen in Berkeley last week.

Police stopped the car in Mill Valley and booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall, Isaac Felder, 17, of 49 Cole Drive, Apt. 3, on suspicion of auto theft, conspiracy, petty theft and reckless driving.

The other youth, John Young, 18, of 985 Drake Avenue, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of petty theft and conspiracy. He was later released on his own recognizance.

Brown Cites 3 Oil Firms In Lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. today named the Gulf, Mobil and Standard of California oil companies as codefendants in his $250,000 lawsuit against Proposition 18 opponents.

The original suit was filed Jan. 26 in Los Angeles Superior Court and named as defendants several individuals, 20 "John Does" and Californians Against the Street and Road Tax Trap—the chief organization against the proposition.

The proposition which would have permitted local governments to use gasoline tax money for public transportation was defeated in the November election.

Brown said Mobil in December identified itself as donor for a $30,000 anonymous contribution to the anti-18 committee.

Later, the Secretary of State said, Standard identified itself as the donor of two anonymous donations totaling $45,000. And at the same time Gulf said it had made an unidentified $20,000 contribution, he said.

State law requires contributors of more than $1,000 in a proposition campaign to file a report with the secretary of state's office.

Brown, after naming the oil firms as codefendants in the suit, told a meeting of the Junior Barristers of the Los Angeles County Bar Association:

"Some large corporations seem to feel they can ignore our state election laws and avoid prosecution.

"From this day forward these corporations will discover that they—just like ordinary citizens—will be brought to justice when they break laws."

Hearing Set On Stealing Purse

A preliminary hearing has been set for Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court for Robert D. Freid, 19, of San Anselmo, who is charged with snatching the purse of an elderly woman.

He was arrested Monday shortly after stealing the purse of Marjorie M. Porter as she left a San Rafael market.

Former Student Leader Given Probation Term

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Former College of Marin student body president, Conrad Louis Harris, 23, has been placed on probation for three years for a car theft charge.

Harris had pleaded guilty on Aug. 27 to stealing the car but Judge Robert J. Drews delayed sentencing until Wednesday to see if Harris could maintain lawful behavior over several months.

Since he apparently had, he received straight probation.

Harris, who falsely identified himself as a College of Marin student when arrested by the California Highway Patrol in San Francisco, last year, now lives in San Francisco.

Police, Firemen Nod To Arbitration Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill providing for binding arbitration in labor disputes involving police officers and firemen was introduced yesterday by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena.

Kenneth D. Larson, legislative representative of the Federated Fire Fighters of California, told a news conference that with the measure Sacramento "would not have had a 14-day strike" by firemen last year.

Larson and four other representatives of police and firemen's groups—who said they represented 50,000 of the state's 60,000 public safety officers—expressed support for the measure.

Jerry Stevenson, assistant general manager of the California State Firemen's Association, said the bill would "tend" to force local officials "into negotiations in good faith" with police and firemen.

He and Larson charged that cities in the past had not dealt with safety officers in good faith.

Torrance Police Lt. Charles Oates, vice president of the Peace Officers Research Association of California, said that in the past policemen had been content to have city councils treat them "like a father" but that policemen were now more educated and professional.

To "our new breed, these new professionals, this is not acceptable," he said.

READING A newspaper report rumoring her death is singer Carmen Soriano, who mysteriously disappeared from her home in the Philippines two years ago. Miss Soriano, also an actress and television star, says she left secretly for personal reasons. She is now living and working in San Diego.

Filipino Singer, Thought Dead, Is Alive In San Diego

By DAVID LEWIS

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Carmen Soriano, the popular Filipino songstress who mysteriously disappeared from the Philippines two years ago, is alive and well and singing in the United States.

Miss Soriano, in the first interview granted since her surprise departure, said rumors she was killed in a car accident, had died during an operation and had committed suicide obviously were untrue.

"I cannot understand why these rumors came about," she said. "I don't know why anyone would do such a thing."

MISS SORIANO said she was singing in Hawaii when she learned it was believed she was dead in the Philippines, where she had a weekly television show in Manila, "Carmen on Camera," and had starred in several motion pictures.

"I thought it was just a prank. I didn't realize how serious it was until my family called all shook up."

The singer admitted she left the Philippines in March, 1969, without telling anyone where she was going. Sources there linked her departure to troubles with her estranged husband, actor Amado Cortez.

"For personal reasons I told no one I was leaving," she said. "I needed a change. I wanted to do something different."

Miss Soriano said she was living a "nice, quiet life" in San Diego where she recently finished a singing engagement at the Hilton Inn.

"I JUST want to lead an everyday life like everyone else," she said.

She plans to return to the Philippines to visit later this year for the first time since she left.

Miss Soriano said she was launching a new career in San Diego.

"I do not want to use my success in the Philippines as the basis for making it here. I must start all over again and show what I can do.

"I think if the people of San Diego accept me, I can make it anywhere here. I plan to stay and see what happens."

THE ENTERTAINER arrived here about eight months ago. On leaving the Philippines she said she made personal appearances in Bangkok and Hong Kong before heading for Hawaii where she spent about six months singing.

After that she came to the U.S. mainland and lived four months in Seattle, Wash., then spent several weeks touring the country.

She said while visiting a brother here she decided to continue her singing career in this country.

"My reception here has been very nice," she said. "I haven't really changed my style completely, but there is more of a trend now of belting out songs, so I sing songs in different ways."

Aside from her singing, Miss Soriano said she has begun training as a legal secretary.

"But that's just in case I break my leg and can't stand up and sing," she smiled.

FOR THE BEACH

French fashion designer Louis Feraud plays with contrasting inlays for this beach outfit in black and white pure worsted wool jersey. The bolero top with pointed collar and top stitching has a round cut-out in back. The hip hugging skirt, buttoning from the waist to just below the hips, opens into an airy slit.

Voice of Friendship, Someone To Talk To

Sometimes a person will dial the weather just to hear a human voice. It helps, but does not fulfill the basic human need for communication.

Recognizing this need, the 50 Plus Club, the senior adult group of the Marin Jewish Community Center, has begun a service, the Voice of Friendship.

Voice of Friendship is for any Marinite wanting a warm, friendly chat with a telephone friend, says Rayna Edwards, director of the 50 Plus Club. The first call to Voice of Friendship will go to Mrs. Edwards who will discuss the caller's interests and then give his name and number to the one of the club's 25 members she feels has the most in common with him.

"Social workers often report that lonely people say, 'I haven't spoken to a soul in three days,' or 'I was afraid I would forget how to talk,' " says Mrs. Edwards. "The call from Voice of Friendship will give the person a time to look forward to during the day."

Mrs. Edwards says she hopes anyone who wants to hear a friendly voice will call the Marin Jewish Community Center for information.

"Our members are looking forward to many calls," she says.

Kentfield Dinner For Spring Opera

By MOLLY MARIN

To mark the opening of the spring opera season Dr. and Mrs. Julio Davila are hosting a dinner at their Kentfield home this evening.

Guests will include members of Opera Action of Marin, Mrs. J. C. Alexander, Messrs. and Mmes. B. G. Falk, Ellis Stephens, Carl Windheim, Jefferson Graves Jr. and Donald Blinco.

Francesco Prestia, director of the chorus of the San Francisco Opera, and Mrs. Prestia will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Wynn; Mr. and Mrs. Edmond C. Ward's guests will be the Herbert Foedisches; and Mr. and Mrs. William Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rorick will be the guests of the Rodgers Broomheads. The Harry Orricks will be the guests of the Edward Elliotts.

Also planning to attend are Messr. and Mmes. Carlo Fowler, E.Paul Atkins, Mortimer Kohn and Gino Morena.

ELLY AMELING

ELLY AMELING, the famed Dutch soprano who is the guest artist with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra this week, will be the guest of honor at a cocktail party Monday for relatives and Dutch friends, hosted by her cousin, Rudolf F. Ameling, in his Fairfax home.

MARCIA BROWN, formerly a student at College of Marin, will be married to Thomas Graham Day tomorrow morning in the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Everett Austin Brown of New York and San Francisco, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Alling Day of Michigan Hills, Md., and West Granby, Conn.

Man Member Working For Women's (And Men's) Lib

By JAMES M. EVANS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)— Michael Adler, 27, and a bachelor, sees nothing unusual in his status as the only male member of the local chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW).

"The name, National Organization for Women, is a misnomer," said Adler. "If it were National Organization for Equality, I think more people would accept it."

Adler said he decided to take an active role in NOW with the belief that the liberation of women would lead to the liberation of men.

"The day of the boring wife is over," he explained. "If husbands and wives would each have their own circles of interest, then they would involve each other.

"There would be less restrictive divorce laws as a result because women wouldn't be so helpless. If a woman has a career, a man wouldn't be burdened with helping her.

"In the long run, the young women will have to take more aggressive roles because they have less to lose," he said. "They are the ones who will benefit by it."

Adler said he visited the first meeting of NOW here "basically as a disinterested party."

"There were two other men there and we automatically sat together," he said. "We were on one side of the room, the women on the other. I guess you could call it unconscious discrimination because we felt uncomfortable. Then I realized we were there for the same thing.

"Men, too, have to be willing to put their heads on the chopping block. Men are afraid of ridicule from other men if they work for women's liberation because women's lib supposedly takes power away from men.

"I don't see women taking over the world. I just see more of sharing equally."

Adler maintains that women should be allowed total freedom of expression.

"It's a shame that a woman has to spend her whole life and never have the opportunity to express herself," he said.

Frederick Fellows Exchanges Vows With Karen Kerl in Oakdale Rite

Frederick David Fellows, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Fellows of Mill Valley, claimed Karen Suzanne Kerl as his bride Saturday afternoon at St. Matthias Episcopal Church in Oakdale. The wedding was followed by a reception at the Riverbank Community Center.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Kerl of Oakdale, had as her matron of honor, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Mills E. Kerl of Oakdale. Bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Gordon T. Piner of San Rafael, Beverly A. Rydberg of Oakdale and Jana C. Kerl of Bakersfield.

Edward Fellows of Reno, Nev., was his brother's best man, and serving as ushers were Gordon T. Piner of San Rafael, Mills Kerl of Oakdale and Glen A. Peters of Sonoma.

The couple will live in Serramonte, where the bridegroom is employed with the California Highway Patrol.

A graduate of Oakdale High School, Modesto Junior College and the Valley Commercial College, the bride was employed in the Stanislaus County Assessor's Office in Modesto before her marriage.

The bridegroom was graduated from Tamalpais High School, the College of Marin and the California Highway Patrol Academy in Sacramento.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Her Position As Wife Made Her Feel Like An Inferior Person

DEAR HELEN: In answer to the fellow who wondered what to do with a wife that came on like the giant meatball gal on television:

Deride her efforts, "teach" her, tell her to use her time for more worthwhile things — things you want —keep her busy running errands, raising the kids, slaving for you, belittle her lack of education, don't accept her suggestions because they are stupid — and in 18 years you'll have a lovely, well-run house, nice children, and a wife who, with much effort in her "spare time," got a college education, but who can't stand the ground you walk on.

I am such a wife. For 17½ years I acceptd my abject inferiority. I even thought it was the duty of wives to walk ten steps behind, take whatever was dished out, and try, always failing, to win a small pat on the back.

And then, I got a responsible job (due to my college degree). I'm filling it so well I'm already up for a big promotion. Suddenly my eyes are opened. I'm not a total zero.

And I won't be a wife much longer. Female liberation — here I come. — BREAK OUT

DEAR HELEN:

I hardly ever disagree with your advice. In fact, I believe you to be among the top columnists. But Helen, I must express my shock at your sort answer to "Disgusted Mother." Soft on that hard-hearted nurse, that is.

You said a good nurse isn't always a gentle soul, and no lasting traumas will result for the seven-year-old child if the mother doesn't make a big thing of the post-operative name-calling.

A truly professional nurse would never call a frightened child a crybaby. And many people do have lasting fear of hospitals and medical treatment because of one bad experience. The nurse should have been reported. — WIFE OF PSYCHOLOGIST

DEAR WIFE:

A good nurse makes even bad medicine go down easily. You would make a good nurse.

I was "soft" on the woman in question because I hadn't heard both sides.

Sometimes hysteria responds better to shock than sympathy.

We can be pretty sure the mother already reported the nurse and got no satisfaction from her supervisor. Otherwise, why would she have written to me? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

It appears that "Parent of a Red-Eyed Grind" and "Mad Student" have missed the whole point of homework, which, as "A Beta Club Member" states, is ". . . a continuation of the learning you can't get entirely in school."

Perhaps some teachers give busy work, but not many, for that means giving themselves more papers to collect and correct. No, it is simply that if a student wishes to receive a good education, he must work at home as well as at school because every course includes more information than a teacher can give in less than an hour a day. The quick, attentive, easy learner gets by with little homework. Perhaps the Red-Eyed Grind has never learned to concentrate.

"Mad" remarks, "If teachers want us to slave 10 hours a day they'd better put in that kind of time too." We do, we do. I have never sat under a hair dryer, or relaxed with television that I wasn't correcting papers, averaging grades or preparing lessons. And how about those extra-curricular activities, like P-TA and clubs? — L.E.N.

DEAR HELEN:

"Mad Student" says that adults don't bring their work home at night. Those who succeed in the professions usually work much longer than their eight-hour day. My wife does. She is a teacher. And a very dedicated person. — PROUD HUSBAND

DEAR HELEN:

I'm tired of hearing blasts against education and teachers. Educators must have as much college as engineers, and their starting salaries are up to $3000 less — for longer hours.

After seeing so many important and necessary school issues turned down this year, I'm wondering how the educational system will survive. By the way, I'm not a teacher. I'm an — ENGINEER

Substitute Teachers Face A Challenge With Each Class

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"Must be a flu bug going around. There are a lot of substitutes at this school today. Mind if I join you?" The fragile little man with rimless glasses looked to be in a state of shock.

"This your first time at this school?" asked the slightly amused woman seated at the lunch table.

"Yeah, and my last. They couldn't pay me to come back here again!"

"That bad, huh? What grade?"

"Sixth."

"Oh, no, not Mrs. Henry's."

"YEAH, MRS. Henry's sixth graders. You know, I had heard about them from another substitute, but I figured no class could be that hard to handle. I mean, sixth graders are just kids."

The woman laughed. "Well, I sympathize with you. I had them earlier in the year. Had to stay home the rest of the week. So I just told the substitute office not to call me if the assignment was Mrs. Henry's sixth grade." Reminiscing, she smiled, "Is that kid, Benny, still in her class?"

"Oh brother," groaned the little man. "What is it with that kid? He's impossible!"

The woman laughed again. "Every substitute teacher in the city knows Benny. Ironically, I understand that he and Mrs. Henry get along just fine."

TURNING HIS head upward in mock prayer, the little man whispered, "Mrs. Henry, please come back to school."

IF EVER THERE was a profession wrought with occupational hazards, yet offering the challenge of six hours per day of survival, it is that of the substitute teacher.

From the get-go, there seems to be a certain negative aura that surrounds the substitute teacher. There must be something wrong with that person. If not, why doesn't he have a permanent teaching position? (This is an attitude held by the students as well as many of the regular teachers.) The fact of the matter is, while many subs are in the process of completing requirements for a credential or waiting for job openings, some of them could survive not more than a couple of days a week in the classroom. For some, it is a part-time job by design.

Even on a part-time basis, the sub quickly learns that certain schools are "mind blowers" and accepting these assignments is at the risk of loss of sanity.

All students know that the substitute is only a temporary fixture and the minute he appears the day (in many cases) is automatically declared a holiday.

LESSON PLANS, when left by the regular teacher, are usually impossible to implement. "We did that page last week" or "On Fridays we always play kick ball — all day" are typical comebacks. The wise sub brings along his own plans — something like how to say "Go jump in the lake" in eight different languages. (Believe it or not, it works.)

The sub can forget about being addressed by his proper name. It's amazing how innovative "problem" and "slow" children can be when it comes to creating humorous puns and poetry using the sub's name.

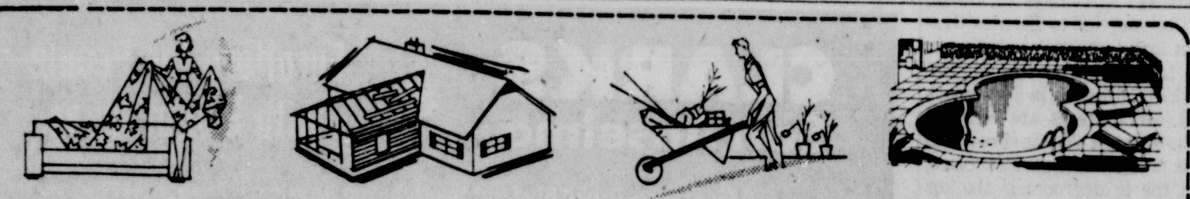
THE ONE POSSIBLE advantage to subbing is that there is no particularly nightly preparation for the next day's work. But it is just as well that he go to bed early and get his rest, for what energy he did not use in preparation will be sapped up in dealing with all the anticipated problems and those reserved especially for the sub.

Because so much special treatment is simultaneously created for the sub (especially if he really likes young people), it is sometimes very difficult to keep from laughing. I once subbed with a class of "specials" — slow learners. "See this kid here?" said one special with his arm around another special.

"This kid here is so dumb he can't count to one. That's why we're specials!"

They smiled, took their seats and were attentive the rest of the day. Indeed, they were special. I always enjoyed subbing for that class.

YES, IF you're looking for a job that offers the unusual and the unexpected — the challenge and the opportunity to make on-the-spot decisions — become a substitute teacher.



Coming this Saturday in Marin Magazine

Special features you'll enjoy:

Walter B. Sellmer was one of Marin's earliest "speed cops," chasing down the daredevils who raced their motorcars over county roads at faster than 30 miles an hour. Then he became a game warden, nemisis of the poacher. And he rose to county sheriff. It has been some years since Sellmer, now nearing 80, wore the badge and toted the gun, but he had developed other interests. I-J reporter Wat Takeshita writes about the colorful ex-lawman in tomorrow's "Profile of a Marinite."

Bob Fuller is the administrator of Center Medical and Rehabilitation Hospital. But he is also that institution's head physical therapist, and the proprietor of Bob Fuller's Conditioning Therapy gymnasium. Arthritics, stroke victims, post-polio patients, the lame come to him in large numbers for the help through therapy for which he has become known. How Fuller works with the handicapped is the subject of a feature written for tomorrow's magazine by its editor, Don Keown.

ON THE AGENDA

'Comedy And Romance' Benefit For Dominican Scholarship Fund

A benefit theater party will be held Feb. 26 at 8 p.m. at Angelico hall at Dominican College to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Mother Raymond Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Mary Rose McMaster and her husband, Jack Aranson, will present a series of classic and contemporary love scenes titled "Cavalcade of Comedy and Romance," followed by a champagne party of stage.

Hosts for the evening include Miss Eleanor Beales of San Anselmo, John Downes of Larkspur, John D. Murphy of San Rafael, Sister M. Patrick, O.P., president emeritus of Dominican College, and Sister M. Samuel, college president.

Dominican alumnae Mrs. Edward Grady of San Rafael is chairman. She will be assisted by Miss Beales, Mmes. Robert Langbehn of San Rafael and Thomas Guerin of Ross.

A no-host dinner will be held at La Petite Auberge restaurant in San Rafael before the performance and Mr. and Mrs. Langbehn will host a dinner for friends after the benefit.

The scholarship fund was established in 1946 in honor of the late Mother Mary Raymond, college president from 1916 to 1935.

A BENEFIT buffet supper will be held tomorrow evening for members of the Woodlands Guild of Sunny Hills and their husbands at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gibbons in Kentfield. The annual fund-raising event of the guild will benefit the Sunny Hills Home.

Committee for the supper are Mmes. James Hadfield, Gibbons, William Platz and William Glander.

Folksingers Fred and Phyllis Allen will entertain during the evening.

THE GOLDENAIRES are having a rummage sale Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the San Rafael Community Recreation Center. They will also sell bakery goods.

Committee chairmen are Doris Walter, bake table; Arthur England, household; Marjorie Alford, women's clothing; Percy Alford, men's clothing; Gene Greyer, shoes and bags; Florence Benedict, jewelry; Adele Liebert, books; Iris Monti, knicknacks and toys; and Mabel Drossel, donations.

ZERO POPULATION Growth will present the second in a series of lectures, "Spaceship Earth: Love It or Leave It," Thursday at 8:30 p.m. at Olney Hall in the College of Marin. The film "The Time Of Man," produced by the American Museum of Natural History will be shown and Rep. Paul "Pete" McCloskey (R-San Mateo) will speak on "The Government's Role in Population Planning."

THE NOVATO Garden Club members and their guests will attend a matinee performance of The Song of Norway on Wednesday. A bus will pick them up at the Community House at 9 a.m.

A stop will be made at Union Square for shopping and luncheon preceding the matinee. Reservations chairman is Mrs. H. B. Beadle.

NEW INITIATES of Alpha Delta Kappa are Miss Claire Eckley, kindergarten teacher at Coleman School in San Rafael, and Mrs. Nina Bloom, first grade teacher at Nova Albion School in San Rafael.

MARIN HOMEMAKERS may still register for the three-hour "Food for Healthy Hearts" class scheduled for Tuesday at the Pacific Gas and Electric auditorium in San Rafael.

From 9:30 a.m. to noon, the demonstration will give emphasis to low cholesterol foods to serve the family, how to select low fat foods, better meat purchases and low cholesterol menu planning.

Registrations may be made by telephone to the Marin County Heart Association in San Rafael.

THE GARDEN Society of Marin will hold its annual dinner and installation of new officers at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda tomorrow at 6 p.m.

Officers are Mrs. Robert Tuckey, president; Hugh Patterson, vice president; Calvin Rossi, treasurer; Mrs. Sidney Higgins, recording secretary and Mrs. Arthur Feidler, corresponding secretary.

A CIVIC participation meeting will be held at Cafe Ambrosia in San Anselmo Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Marin. Marin County welfare and narcotic problems will be discussed by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni.

Following a question and answer period a social hour and dinner will be held. Angela Dismuke and Elsie Mazzini are reservations chairmen.

A SESAME Street workshop designed to help parents derive maximum benefit from the KQED program will be presented to members of the Sleepy Hollow Nursery School at the club house on Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Election of new officers will also be held.

TODAY'S NEW look comes in a variety of hair styles and cuts. The fancy free look is in, with styles freer than in many years. Here is a more sophisticated look to emphasize womanly beauty. Hair generally is longer on the crown and shorter or very short at the nape of the neck. Marin cosmetologists will view the new styles at the Marin County Hair Styling Panel workshop on Sunday.

'Fancy Free' Hair Styles Latest For Spring Wear

The "Fancy-Free" look, the new look in hair styles for Spring, will be seen at the Marin County Hair Styling Panel workshop in Marin on Sunday at Ronald's Hair Design in San Anselmo.

The "Fancy-Free" hair styles foretell a carefree and happy ease in coiffures for the coming season.

The new styles will be executed by members of the local panel, sponsored by the California Cosmetologists Association. It will be the first local release of the new spring trend.

Esther Schorr of San Francisco, who just returned from the California state seminar, where this trend was officially introduced, will conduct the workshop. Local hair stylists who are participating are Ron Finch of Sausalito, Ron Vincent of San Rafael, Dianne Mehl of Corte Madera, Barbara Davis of Fairfax and Ronald de Armond of San Anselmo.

The style is freer than in many years, soft and natural looking as possible. The hair itself moves more freely and looks more free and easy going, says the styles panel chairman, Ronald de Armond.

The styling and dressing of the individual coiffures, too, is freer. The new styles underscore the return of classic good taste. Kookiness of past seasons is out. Styles for the young reflect the free spirit of youth and frequently feature curls. Coiffures for more sophisticated personalities emphasize womanly beauty, often combining softly flowing line movements with sexy waves, deep, sensuous undulations," he says.

Hair lengths are generally shorter for spring. Whenever length adjustments are desired for variations with skirt and pant lengths, hair pieces are used with such great convenience and adaptability that they have become one of the more indispensable parts of the fashion wardrobe.

Treatment of the hair at the neckline in most styles will be dressed to follow its natural growth direction and harmonize with the design of the sides and crown.

Hair length at the nape area will range from zero for a softly fitted neckline to one-and-a-half inches, or more, to allow for freedom in design. Crown hair will be relatively long, from five to nine inches. Front hair lengths vary freely in accordance with individual style requirements.

Hair coloring for spring calls for soft, warm tones of blonde. Soft shades of blended blondes and ash tones will continue in popularity, as will soft shades of brunette highlighted with golden reflections.

Mrs. Compton Leads Volunteers

A two year resident of Marin, Mrs. Richard N. Compton of San Rafael has been elected president of the Starlite Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers this year.

MRS. RICHARD COMPTON

Vera Compton was born in Guayaquil, Ecuador, and is a graduate of Abraham Lincoln High School in San Francisco and attended City College of San Francisco. She and her husband are the parents of two small daughters, Michelle Catherine, 3½, and Stacey Marie, 19 months old.

Mrs. Compton's interests include gourmet cooking, water skiing, music and gardening. She says she hopes to take up tennis next.

Formerly Mrs. Compton was scholarship chairman for the recently formed Starlite Branch, which is open to all Terra Linda areas women. The branch, she says, raises money for Marin General Hospital equipment or other projects of the hospital.

Other officers this year are Mmes. Gary Sthymmel, vice president; Donald Mailander, secretary; Robert Vasser, treasurer; and James Kennedy, publicity chairman.

Two Homemakers Of Tomorrow

Two Marin high school senior girls have been selected winners in their schools in the national Homemaker of Tomorrow contest.

Cynthia J. Taylor is the high scorer for San Rafael High School on the basis of a written test given senior girls. From Terra Linda High School Melinda Adler has been named winner.

They will compete with other California girls for the state award. National winner will receive a $5,000 educational grant, and state winners will get $1,500 each.

Watch Eggs

Only high quality, clean eggs with sound shells should be used in the preparation of eggnogs, milk shakes or any lightly cooked dish. Less than topquality eggs can be used in any form that requires them to be well-cooked.

Louise Allison Will Be Wed To Edwin E. Snyder

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allison of Fairfax have announced the engagement of their daughter Louise Elaine, to Edwin E. Snyder of Mount Hermon.

Louise, the sister of Linda Weissenburger of Brazil, was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School, Westmont College in Santa Barbara, and had one year of graduate work at Yale University in New Haven, Conn. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Berniece Roy of Castro Valley, and Mrs. Anna Olson of San Jose.

Edwin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Snyder, is the brother of Marj and Tom Snyder, all of Mount Hermon. Ed was graduated from San Lorenzo Valley High School and Gavilan College in Gilroy. He has also attended Cabrillo College in Aptos for two years.

Both Louise and Ed are attending Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, Ill. in preparation for missionary work with Jungle Aviation and Radio Service, a branch of Wycliffe Bible Translators.

Spring Naturals

Spring fabrics run the range from soft to tough. New are the "naturals", anything handloomed, homespun, rough and ready-looking. Denim is the leader, varied with brush surfaces, herringbone patterns, tie dyes and twills. Other "toughies" are canvas, calico, gingham and burlap.

Ferry Firm Threatens To Sue Sausalito Landing Issue

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The president of Harbor Carriers vowed yesterday to take the City of Sausalito to court if it again rejects his plan for a downtown ferry landing.

Albert D. Elledge — testifying before the state Public Utilities Commission on a recommendation by its staff that his company's permit to serve Sausalito be revoked — said he had instructed his attorney "to file an action if we cannot do it peaceably."

Harbor Carriers' intent to try again to serve Sausalito was disclosed in earlier testimony as reported yesterday by the Independent-Journal.

Elledge's warning of court action against the city presumably was sparked by the city council's vote Tuesday to ask that his permit to serve Sausalito be revoked.

Elledge's company has not yet filed an application for a use permit for a landing, but his San Rafael attorney, Albert Bianchi, has discussed the matter with the city's staff.

Harbor Carriers won the PUC permit in 1968, but the city council then rejected a use permit for a landing between the Trade Fair and the Sausalito Yacht Club on property leased to Herbert Madden by the city.

Elledge told the I-J yesterday that his new application for a city permit would be for a landing at the same location.

The PUC staff had recommended revocation of the PUC permit on the ground that Harbor Carriers had failed to provide the service, the Elledge protested that he had been unable to only because of the city's obstinacy.

Elledge also told the I-J that the council had turned him down because of "the yachtsmen with their politics." He said that if would be up to Bianchi to decide what sort of legal action could be filed against the city if it turned him down again. "He's the attorney," Elledge said.

The PUC staff recommendation proposed that Harbor Carriers be given 90 more days to start service to Sausalito, but Elledge asked for at least one year because of the anticipated court fight. If a year were not enough, he said, his company would come back to the PUC for another extension.

He argued that "the demand is still there" for his service despite the Golden Gate Bridge District's service to the Ferry Building in San Francisco. Tourists want to leave from Fisherman's Wharf, not the ferry Building, he said.

Elledge said the main point in his pending law suit against the bridge district is that it carries tourists in competition with his operation. The bridge district is not subject to the PUC because it is a public agency.

Yesterday's session concluded hearing on four matters involvinmg Harbor Carriers, including its applications to suspend — not revoke — its permits to serve Sausalito and Alcatraz from San Francisco, a PUC investigation of the company's operations, and the City of Tiburon's rehearing on the company's permit to serve between that city and Alcatraz. Tiburon objected that it had too little land to provide parking for such a service.

The hearing examiner, Arthur M. Mooney, told the I-J that the PUC would issue one decision on all four matters. A decision probably will be issued within 60 days, he said.

The PUC staff acknowledged in the hearing that passengers' complaints about Harbor Carriers had been corrected by the company. The complaints dealt with changes in schedules, fares and landing points in San Francisco.

The staff recommended that Harbor Carriers be ordered to cease and desist from making changes without proper notice.

Prime Rate Cut Lauded

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest and Veterans Director Frank D. Nicol say reduction of the prime interest rate charged by banks will make it easier to sell state bonds.

Nicol and Mrs. Priest agreed Wednesday that the reduction "definitely helps" the state's financial situation. Both the Veterans Department and the Treasurer's Office depend on he sale of state bonds to raise funds for various state programs.

When the major California banks announced they were cutting their prime rate from 6 per cent to 5 3-4 per cent it indicated to Mrs. Priest and Nicol that the nation's financial situation was continuing to "loosen."

Fire At Gnoss Field Leads Novato List

A $250,000 fire which destroyed a building and a plane at Gnoss Field last October was the major fire in the Novato Fire District last year, according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder.

Fire losses totaled $483,975 as compared to $192,000 in 1969, the chief reported.

There were 892 calls including 48 structural fires, in which losses totaled $297,670.

There were 210 grass fires which burned 162 acres, 30 false alarms, 71 resuscitator calls, five bomb scares, two boat fires and 156 smoke checks.

Kidder said the general alarm to call for additional help on fire calls was sounded 61 times.

Tuesday Weld Is Granted Dissolution

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actress Tuesday Weld, 27, was granted a dissolution Thursday, ending her five-year marriage to writer, Claude Harz.

Harz, 34, was ordered to pay $100-a-month support for the couple's daughter, Natasha, 4. The couple was married Oct. 27, 1965 in New York City.

White House Will Host Governors

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House will host a black tie dinner for the nation's governors and their wives Wednesday evening.

The governors will be in town starting Tuesday for the three-day National Governors Conference.

Uproar In Fee-Sharing Called GOP Conspiracy

SEATTLE (UPI) — Former Washington State Attorney General John J. O'Connell says the current uproar over a fee-sharing case involving him and San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto is an example of a Republican conspiracy to kill the political futures of certain Democrats.

Alioto, before he became mayor, was hired by O'Connell in 1962 to handle a price-fixing suit brought against electrical manufacturers by 15 Washington cities and public utility districts.

A federal grand jury is investigating Alioto's sharing of his $2.3 million fee in the case with O'Connell, and O'Connell's assistant, George Faler. Alioto won a $16 million settlement for the plaintiffs.

O'Connell told newsmen Thursday the political implications in the case apply especially to Alioto, but he himself is also a victim of political "overkill."

Conductor Pledges The Best Symphony

OAKLAND (UPI)—Oakland's new musical director and conductor of the city's sympholy orchestra was introduced Thursday to members of the City Council.

Harold Faberman said he hoped the "Oakland Symphony will be the best in California." He said the Symphony Foundation hopes to raise $1 million to match a Ford Foundation grant.

O'Connell, now a private attorney, charged that information about the fee-sharing was "sort of surreptitiously obtained" through "obvious collusion" between political officer holders and agencies of the federal and local governments.

Writing the whole investigation off to politics, O'Connell said:

"You've got a Republican president, a Republican governor, a Republican attorney general, a whole strip of Republican prosecuting attorneys and a Republican United States attorney.

"You are just riddled with the creatures from top to bottom," he said.

"I think they are doing this nationwide too. It is done nationwide — pursuit and prosecution of Democratic people . . . I assume they are doing it deliberately."

Both O'Connell and Alioto have voluntarily appeared before the federal panel, Alioto on Wednesday and O'Connell Thursday.

O'Connell said it appeared to him that the federal attorneys were trying to find a violation of state law that could be tied to a federal law, such as use of interstate facilities.

"I still hope that grand jury can cut through this evil and not be sold by these people the federal attorneys . . . " he said.

Alioto, back in San Francisco, said he has not decided yet whether to run again for mayor, but his decision either way won't be influenced by any turn of events in Seattle.

Economy Drive On Draft Boards

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Selective Service headquarters said today it would consolidate a number of smaller draft boards around the country and eliminate about 650 mostly part-time jobs as an economy measure.

A spokesman said the draft-operations budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 would be at about the current level, but that salary increases and other rising costs necessitated the move.

Survivors Of Tanker Arrive

LISBON (UPI)—The thirty-five survivors of the Norwegian tanker Ferncastle arrived here early today dishevelled but cheerful. The Ferncastle exploded and broke in half 300 miles off Cadiz, Spain, Wednesday night.

Six members of the crew were killed and another is missing and feared dead.

The 35 survivors were wearing stained and torn working clothes. They included four women and an 18-month-old girl.

CITY OF LARKSPUR
NOTICE OF HEARING

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission of the City of Larkspur, after holding required hearings, has recommended Zoning Reclassification from unclassified to S (Study District) that property within the City of Larkspur more particularly described as:

Being parcels # 23-012-09, 23-012-18, and 23-012-19.

HEARING WILL BE HELD by the City Council of the City of Larkspur on Wednesday, March 3, 1971, at the hour of 8:00 P.M. in the Council Chambers, City Hall, Larkspur, California.

MARGARET A. HOGG
Chief Deputy City Clerk
Dated: February 15, 1971
No. 159 Feb. 19, 26, 1971

CITY OF LARKSPUR
NOTICE OF HEARING

WHEREAS, a petition was originally filed with the Planning Commission by Sommer-Ryan Enterprises to approve the reclassification from R-1 (First Residential District) to C-2 (Commercial District) of the following property:

A.P. 21-104-16 & 26 and A.P. 21-101-12, otherwise known as 234½ Magnolia Avenue and the Northwest corner of Arch Street and Magnolia Avenue; and

WHEREAS, the Planning Commission on January 12, 1971, recommended reclassification from R-1 (First Residential District) to C-1 (Restricted Commercial) of the following properties:

A.P. 21-104-16 and 26, to the centerline of the creek, 234½ Magnolia Avenue, and to recommend reclassification of A.P. 21-104-19 and 29 from C-2 to C-1 (250 and 274 Magnolia Avenue); and

WHEREAS, the Larkspur City Council held a hearing on the Planning Commission recommendations on February 3, 1971, and continued that hearing to February 8, 1971; and

WHEREAS, the City Council referred back to the Planning Commission the following recommended zoning:

A.P. 21-104-16 and 26 from R-1 to C-1 to the southerly and easterly side of the creek, and the reclassification of A.P. 21-104-19 and 29 from C-2 to C-1, 250 Magnolia Avenue; and

WHEREAS, The Planning Commission on February 9, 1971, concurred with the City Council's recommendations;

NOW, THEREFORE, hearing will be held before the City Council of the City of Larkspur on Wednesday, March 3, 1971, to consider the applicant's original proposal, as described, and the Planning Commission's recommendation of February 9, 1971.

Refer to application on file for further particulars.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Rheumatoid Arthritis Of Feet Affects The Metatarsal Joints

Rheumatoid arthritis of the feet is a painful disorder, especially when the metatarsal joints are still and swollen. Distress is more severe than that from arch trouble because the joints are inflamed and tender to the touch. Standing causes agony, and the victim walks as though he were stepping on spikes.

ALL JOINTS of the feet, including the ankle, may be involved. Because rheumatoid arthritis is a generalized disease, other parts of the body are affected. Remedies include aspirin, gold salts, indomethacin, phenylbutazone, and the corticosteroids.

Bed rest may be needed because walking is painful and aggravates the inflammation. To prevent deformities, a foot rest or board should be placed at the end of the bed to keep the feet at right angles to the legs. This also helps keep the disabled feet from getting weak and stiffened in a drooped position.

HEAT IS SOOTHING and gentle manipulation keeps the joints limber and improves circulation. More activity is recommended when acute inflammation subsides. Whirlpool baths and other forms of physical therapy are beneficial.

Shoes should have a firm sole and a stiff counter. Pads may be needed, especially when the metatarsal joints remain puffy or knobby. Walking may become a major problem when deformities persist and corns and calluses develop over the knobby growths.

Several surgical procedures have been devised to smooth out the uneven parts, so that the person is able to get about.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

THE SALT HABIT

L. K. writes: A 21-year-old man got the salt habit when he played football in high school. He no longer is active in sports but continues to use a lot of salt. Is this harmful to his health?

REPLY

Salt does not cause disease but it may aggravate an existing condition, such as high blood pressure. The normal body is capable of eliminating excess salt that is consumed in the diet.

IMPENDING BREAKDOWNS

A reader writes: Are extreme irritability and nervousness signs of an impending nervous breakdown?

REPLY

Not necessarily. Many cranky and jittery individuals improve overnight when the cause is eliminated. Nervous breakdown is more likely to follow a period of insomnia, physical exhaustion, stress, depression or overactivity.

LARGE COLLAR BONES

C. L. writes: What would cause large, protruding collar bones?

REPLY

Heredity is the best possibility. Weight loss is a common cause, but the condition is not rare in slender persons, especially if they are big boned. Now and then arthritis exists in the joints that connect the breastbone with the first rib or collar bone.

SLOWNESS AND RETARDATION

N. T. writes: If a baby is slow to notice things, to sit up without support, and in walking and talking, is there a chance that he is mentally retarded?

REPLY

Not if a child is slow in mastering only one of these accomplishments. But if he is slow in two or more, a mental deficiency may be responsible.

Army Wives Get Helpful 'Uncles'

LONDON (UPI)—The army has set up a special group of sergeants to act as "uncles" to lonely young Army wives whose husbands are away.

They will help the wives with problems—everything from fixing a fuse, calming a dog or dropping in for a friendly chat.

The scheme, officially called the Housing Commandant Organization, was disclosed Wednesday in the government's defense white paper.

A pilot program has already been carried out at the army's eastern command headquarters at Colchester and been judged a success, an army spokesman said.

Defeats Censure

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Edward Heath, shouting at times above the uproar, defeated a motion censuring his government in a turbulent Parliament Thursday night. Trade unions forged ahead today with wage demands his government said would increase mounting unemployment.

Uproar almost drowned out the last three minutes of Heath's speech in which he pledged no retreat by his Conservative government on a bill defining management-labor relations and defeated the opposition labor party censure motion by 309 votes to 275, a government majority of 34.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber delivered the government warning that spiraling wage demands could increase unemployment now totaling 721,143, one of the highest figures for 31 years.

Barber said some militant trade union leaders were almost forcing their members to price themselves out of work.

Driver Injured As Car Hits Pole

A 36-year-old Stinson Beach man was injured yesterday at 7:15 p.m. when his car ran off Shoreline Highway just north of Calle Del Arroyo in Stinson Beach.

Gottlied T. Danz, of 18 Calle Del Occident, was treated at Marin General Hospital for multiple scrapes and bruises.

The California Highway Patrol said his car ran off the west edge of the road and struck a power pole. Officers said he told them another car forced him off the road.

Scholar Center Is Dedicated

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon dedicated the new Woodrow Wilson Center for International Scholars Thursday with a call for peace—only one day after taking a tough stance on the Indochina War.

On Wednesday, Nixon told an impromptu news conference at the White House that he would not limit use of U.S. air power in Indochina, except to exclude nuclear weapons, and that time was running out for meaningful peace negotiations in Paris.

The center, to be housed initially in the Smithsonian Institution pending completion of its permanent quarters on Pennsylvania Avenue, was created by Congress to bridge the gap between the worlds of learning and public affairs.

Another Stay In Nurse Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal appellate court has granted another stay in the case of Capt. Susan Struck, who the Air Force wants to drum out because she became pregnant on duty.

Capt. Struck, a nurse, became pregnant while serving in Vietnam. The Air Force flew her to McChord Air Force base near Tacoma, Wash., for discharge proceedings. It was there the nurse gave birth to a 6-pound daughter. Capt. Struck is still on active duty.

Two Undersized Lots Rejected

A variance to allow the creation of two undersized lots at 2061 Centro West Street in Tiburon has been denied by the city's board of adjustments.

Development administrator Philemon V. Scott said the board on Tuesday denied the application of Alma Shapiro to create two lots, each containing 8,375 square feet.

Under the city's zoning ordinance, lots are required to contain at least 10,000 square feet. Scott said the board did not feel the request was justified and commented the variance would have allowed construction of two single family homes on the property.

Armored Car Drops A Bag

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dominic Lopez, 27, told police he was driving to work Thursday morning when an armored car in front of him made a turn and out dropped a large canvas bag.

"I stopped and started honking my horn," said Lopez, a garage mechanic. "But the truck kept on going."

He said the truck then made another turn, apparently felt the swing of an open back door and stopped.

"Then this guy came running back in a hurry. He grabbed the bag and gave me a quick look."

Lopez quoted the man as saying, "Thanks, bud" before running back to the armored vehicle and driving off.

Youth Authority Sentence Given

Ronald Walker, 18, of San Rafael has been commited to the California Youth Authority for a second degree burglary conviction.

He earlier pleaded guilty to the charge as well as to a misdemeanor count of trespassing.

Walker originally was charged with four felony counts of burglary in connection with entering two San Rafael businesses Dec. 11 and two others Dec. 26.

The commitment was ordered by Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court.

Unification Panel Draws Up Changes

After a series of mandatory meetings on unification of the Dixie and San Rafael school districts, the Marin County Committee on School District Organizalion has come up with two modifications to a unification plan rejected by voters in 1966.

According to Robert E. Spain, assistant secretary to the committee, the two modifications will be forwarded to the state for approval and inclusion in the state-approved unification plan.

That plan was rejected by voters in 1966 by a vote of 6,787 for and 7,139 against.

One change, he said, asks the state to approve reduction of the number of trustees on the proposed unfied school district board from seven to five.

The seven-member board was written into the 1966 unification plan by the committee. It had been opposed by both the Dixie and San Rafael school district boards.

The second change asks that a 25-cent increase in the consolidated tax rate be approved and written into the proposal for voter consideration.

The increase will be used to establish a single salary schedule for teachers and clerical workers in the unified district if approved.

Teachers in the Dixie School District are paid on a lower salary schedule than those in the San Rafael Elementary School District. The difference is because San Rafael elementary teachers are paid on the same schedule as high school teachers.

Spain said the two proposed changes to the plan will come before a public hearing next month before being forwarded to the state.

In related action, the committee was told 11 elementary school districts feeding into the Tamalpais High School District have voted support of the high school district's resolution asking the state to exclude Marin County from the mandatory unification election next year.

Reed Teacher Fuss Moves Ahead 1 Step

The Reed School District's Certificated Employees Council has named its representative to a three-member fact-finding panel which will suggest how the dispute over teacher contracts in the district can be resolved.

He is Dr. Donald H. Wollett, professor of law at the University of California at Davis and a consultant to the California Teachers Association (CTA) on negotiations and legal affairs.

Under the provisions of the Winton Act, the state law which sets rules for resolving disputes between school employees and boards, the Reed School District board must appoint its representative on the fact-finding committee by Wednesday.

The two men then have until March 3 to select a third member, who autovatically becomes chairman of the panel.

Irwin Karp, acting Reed superintendent, said the district board has authorized him to appoint the board's representative but he has not yet made his selection.

The Winton Act stipulates that the fact-finding panel shall hold a hearing on the contract dispute, take evidence and make a recommendation to the board and teachers, either of which may accept or reject the panel's recommendations.

The decision to appoint the fact finders came at a negotiating session between representatives of trustees and teachers Tuesday after both sides rejected proposals of the other for ending the contract dispute.

Karp said the board's proposal, to form a study committee composed of two board members, two administrators and four teachers, was rejected by the teachers.

Bert Skaggs, executive director of the CTA Council of Marin, said a counterproposal by teachers to employ a negotiator supplied by the state was likewise rejected by board representatives.

Under the circumstances, Skaggs said, the parties decided to form the fact-finding panel.

Skaggs said teachers were disappointed Tuesday that board negotiators wanted to discuss only the current contract impasse and not, as teachers desired, to discuss procedures under which the present and future disputes could be settled.

The basis of the dispute are three provisions in contracts offered by trustees: That teachers must abide by any changes in state law and district policy during the year; that teachers agree to work each day as required by the board, and that teachers who fail to work may be assessed for damages to the district.

Salaries are not at issue.

In another development, Skaggs announced the CTA Council of Marin, with 11 chapters and about 2,000 members, voted Wednesday to support sanctions against the Reed board.

He also said the Mill Valley Teachers Association has pledged its support of the Reed District Teachers Association, which represents 80 of the district's 104 teachers.

Rights Flap Fact Panel Incomplete

A fact-finding committee to delve into the squabble between the Marin Human Rights Commission and the Police-Community Relations Program is still looking for a fifth member.

Personnel Commissioners Parnel Finn and I. Wayland Bonbright and Human Rights Commissioners Richard Harding and Charles B. Weers are the first four.

On Wednesday, the four met at the Civic Center and came up with three possibilities: Retired Judge Jordan L. Martinelli, Dr. Leo L. Stanley, and retired Judge Hadden W. Roth.

Mrs. Finn and Bonbright reported to the personnel commission yesterday that Judge Martinelli and Dr. Stnaley had both declined, and Judge Roth is still traveling abroad.

Mrs. Finn and Bonbright said they intend to confer with the other two committee members and pick a fifth member before the next committee meeting set for 9 a.m. Feb. 26 at the Civic Center.

Marin County Board of Supervisors last month established the five-man fact-finding committee to investigate the squabble that led to the resignation Jan. 28 of Human Rights Director Donald C. Moody, who charged he was harassed by Mrs. Bella H. Aaron, coordinator of the Police-Community Relations Program.

'Seed Money' Planned To Help Housing

Organizations that want to sponsor a housing project would draw on this fund to pay preconstruction cost. The borrowed amount would be repaid as soon as the housing project got far enough along to receive federal grants.

The ecumenical association welcomed the following new members into the association: Everett Jenson from Fairfax Community Church; Thomas Zeller, alternate delegate from St. Anselm's Church; Joseph Martino and alternate Robert Mason from the Wells Fargo Bank.

Martin Mackey, executive director of the association, announced that the next meeting will be at 8 p.m. March 17 at St. Isabella's Parish Center in Terra Linda.

The Marin Ecumenical Association for Housing will establish a $100,000 revolving fund to provide "seed money" for sponsors of low and moderate income housing.

The "seed money" plan was presented by Eugene Bowman, senior escrow officer of Wells Fargo Bank, at the ecumenical association meeting Wednesday night at St. Isabella's Parish Center in Terra Linda.

Bowman and Douglas P. Ferguson, counsel for the association, worked out this plan:

Citizens interested in providing more low and moderate income housing will be asked to advance the $100,000. This will be held by Wells Fargo Bank and Administered by the ecumenical association.

Robberies, Assaults Up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The number of robberies and cases of aggravated assault in San Francisco increased during January compared to the same month a year ago, a Police Department survey showed Wednesday.

There were 685 robberies reported last month, compared to 503 for the same month a year ago. Aggravated assaults increased from 226 to 284.

Other major categories of crime decreased. Homicide was down 11 per cent, forcible rape 33 per cent, burglary 20 per cent and auto theft 11 per cent.

Juvenile Panel Fails To Convene Quorum

Marin's Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission could not meet Wednesday because of a lack of quorum.

The Rev. James C. Upshaw, chairman, said the commission will meet next Thursday at 4 p.m. in Room 254 at the Marin Hall of Justice.

Move To Preserve Animals

The 12 Marin guilds of the Louise A. Boyd Museum of Science have adopted a resolution to support efforts to preserve endangered animal species.

Patricia Arrigoni, secretary of the museum's board of trustees, said the guild members at their annual meeting felt the need to take a stand to preserve what is left of the 861 species on the endangered list.

The guilds resolved to oppose the taking of endangered species for commercial exploitation or recreation, such as for their hides, fur, feathers, meat, horns or trophies, or the pet trade and laboratory use.

They also made a pledge not to buy fur coats or other items made from animals on the endangered species list, Mrs. Arrigoni said.

Road Toll

SINGAPORE (UPI)—There were 31,108 road accidents in Singapore in the first 11 months of 1970, an increase of 5,894 over the corresponding period of 1969, police report. The mishaps killed 269 and seriously injured 2,486.

JIM GILMARTIN

A Fish Story About A Duck

I hate to "scoop" our fine fish and game columnist, Al Giddings, but I've got a super scooper that I, and not he, should write.

I know a fine young lad who went fishing at Paradise Park the other day and caught a duck, by quacky.

I kid you not. He is 10-year-old Garth James Gilmartin — um-hmm, my heir apparent — and he had the unusual experience while angling with his grandpa, Frank Kelly, the former San Rafael chief of police. Master Gilmartin was sitting there with his line in the water, minding his own business, when this quazy quacker dived down and fought for the bait. Mr. Duck missed the bait, but did foolishly get his wing caught on Master Gilmartin's hook which prompted my son to start reeling in like mad. Fortunately, the duck managed to fight loose and, when last seen, was flying like mad in a northerly direction, probably vowing never again to tangle with my little tiger.

The event drew cheers from other fishermen in the area, because that same duck had been bothering their bait all day.

Sorry to scoop you, Mr. Giddings, but I couldn't resist telling both of my readers that at least there is one champion in the family.

HAMILTON AIR FORCE BASE, always a top contender for team and individual titles in amateur boxing, will be capably represented in the Feb. 23-26 Golden Gloves tournament at San Francisco's Civic Auditorium.

Hamilton has a team of nine preparing for the tourney. Joe Rivera, a Puerto Rican from New York who won the Golden Gloves title there, is one of Hamilton's big guns. He was on the U.S. team that fought the Russians recently in Las Vegas.

Although Hamilton has lost the services of Jesse Valdez, the champeen 156-pounder, Coach George Cooper boasts: "We have a lot of other good fighters, so we aren't worried about winning our share of championships."

It looks like the card will be a sellout and Marin's airmen can be expected to provide their share of the fast and furious action always prevalent in Golden Gloves tournaments.

CLEM McMARTIN, my good pale who owns "The Escrow" in San Anselmo — it's an emporium that dispenses giggly liquids — sends a note reminding me and all you red hot hockey fans that he is sponsoring a bus trip to Oakland for a California Seals game on Sunday, Feb. 28.

So, if you want to relax, avoid fighting the traffic, and have a blast at the ice arena, give Clem a call. Heck, I might even tag along for the fun.

WHEN THE University of California defeated an Alumni team in their annual season opening baseball game last Saturday, two Marin Countians had a hand in it — Greg Tellis and Rocky Shone.

Tellis was the starting pitcher and blanked the old grads in the first inning, a token appearance, and Shone was one of the Bear catchers.

A note from Bob Steiner at Cal says Tellis, who led the Cal team with a 7-2 won-lost record last year, is being counted on heavily in Cal's plans this year.

Also, I imagine the rugged Shone will continue to help the Bears with his heavy bat.

GOALIE OR OUTFIELDER

Detroit Red Wings goalie Roy Edwards kept his eye on a high flying puck while guarding the net against the Minnesota North Stars last night in a National Hockey League game in Detroit. Down in front of Edwards was teammate Arnie Brown. The Red Wings won, 5-3, with Gordie Howe scoring his 850th goal. Story on page 34.

Bowie Begins His Assault On Drugs

Baseball's Education Program

NEW YORK (UPI) —Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has inaugurated his war on drugs and the game's top-ranking officials will be going back to school in an effort to make the program a success.

In announcing a drug education and prevention program for baseball Thursday, Kuhn said that although he had "no specific" knowledge that any players or baseball personnel had used hard drugs like heroin, it was necessary to prevent the spread of what he called "limited use of nild drugs in baseball."

Kuhn then said that regional seminars would be held on the subject in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., March 2, Tampa, Fla., March 3 and Phoenix, Ariz., March 18. He announced that the seminars would be attended by league presidents Joe Cronin and Charles Feeney, National Association president Phil Piton, minor league presidents, team physicians, players and other personnel connected with baseball.

"There has been a limited use of drugs in baseball and I hope to stop it," Kuhn said. "While the program recommended by the physicians will emphasize education and prevention, it will also deal with disciplinary procedures felt necessary to assure its success."

Kuhn announced that 24 club physicians took a stand in Los Angeles Dec. 2 and agreed that there should be no place in baseball for pills that might stimulate a player's performance.

The physicians agreed to study a number of subjects during the year including (1) responsibilities and limitations of club trainers' activities, (2) the use and abuse of drugs, and (3) preventive medical programs for all 24 clubs according to Kuhn.

"We have young people constantly coming into baseball," said Kuhn, "and we therefore need a program to prevent drug abuses. It is necessary that we take the stand that there is no place for stimulants as barbiturates and amphetamines in baseball."

GALS GOLF

Shirley Votes For Womanhood

PORT ST. LUCIE, Fla. (UPI)—Golfer Shirley Englehorn said Thursday she hopes the women's liberation movement stays away from professional golf.

"There's no way I would ever want to play on a mixed tour—women competing against men in golf," said Miss Englehorn, the only four-time winner last year on the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) tour.

Miss Englehorn is one of the favorites to win the $60,000 Sears women's world classic of St. Lucie, the richest event in ladies golf history.

The 54-hole tournament begins today over the par 73 Port St. Lucie Country Club sinners course. A total of 74 golfers will be vying for the $10,000 first prize.

Miss Englehorn shocked the golf world last year when she sought admittance to the Los Angeles Open, strictly a men's event.

"That was a public relations man for the tournament speaking," said Miss Englehorn. "The sponsor said he would give me an exempt berth and I went along with it."

The men's Professional Golf Association refused to allow her to play, touching off a furor in which Miss Englehorn was pictured as an unyielding woman golfer who thought she could beat the men.

Miss Englehorn laughed at the idea.

"Men's golf is a different game, and that's the way we women want it," she said. "I personally like to play golf with men because it's fun—but not for a living."

Washout In Tucson Pro Golf

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—The Tucson National Golf Club course sank in a rainstorm Thursday—or at least it seemed that way—and the first round of the 72-hole $110,000 Tucson Open was washed out literally.

The field of 144 gets a fresh start today, weather permitting, in the first 18-hole round, will play 18 more holes on Saturday and 36 on Sunday to make up the standard 72.

About one-third of the field finished 18 holes Thursday but all scores were cancelled as is the rule with the Professional Golfers Association.

Low score among the Thursday finishers was a two-under-par 70 by Cesar Sanudo, 26-year-old San Diego, Calif., pro, who understandably thought the course was okay.

"The fairways were pretty dry and the greens putted well, I thought," said Sanudo. He had an up-and-down round with six birds and four bogeys for 36-34.

Defending champion Lee Trevino matched par 36-36—72 and laughingly recited how he lost his ball on the fifth green when it sank under water.

Trevino almost had a hole-in-one on the fourth, a par-three 165-yard hole when his tee shot hit the cup.

"My ball hit the cup on the fly," he said. "I used a five iron and I'm telling you it hit the cup on the fly and tore out the left side of it. The ball rattled around and wound up 15 feet away But I sank it for a bird."

This is the seventh event of the year on the PGA tour and drew most of the big money-winners to date except Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper.

Tom Shaw, winner of the Crosby Clambake and the Hawaiian Open and tops in money with $70,000, was a late scratch. He had to withdraw because of the illness of his 5-year-old son.

STOCKTON TOURNEY

Young San Anselmo Netter In Semis

Jerry Suyderhoud of San Anselmo, who knocked the Bay Area tennis world on its ear last weekend with three startling upsets in the San Joaquin Challenge Cup Championships at Stockton, rates as one of the favorites to capture the boys' 18-and-under title when the tourney concludes this weekend.

Suyderhoud, 16, ranked No. 12 among Northern California players in his age group, rose to defeat Tom Muench, Jack Tesch and Willie Oropez with astonishing ease in the opening rounds of the men's competition, before former Ivy League champion Charles Hoever finally eliminated him. He had beaten Muench, 6-1, 6-2 and Tesch, 6-2, 6-1. Hoever, who subsequently was also eliminated, won 6-3, 6-1 over the Drake High School star.

Not one to let his disappointment show, Suyderhoud recovered from his loss to come back with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Doug Balbalab Monday in the boys 18 quarterfinals. The win earned him a spot in the semi-finals tomorrow; he will meet Bill Maze of Orinda when the competition starts at 9 a.m.

'I See No Problems,' Says Reggie Jackson

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland A's have signed their 34th player, catcher Frank Fernandez. The 26-year-old receiver hit .214 and hit 15 homers in 94 games last season.

The only unsigned A's now are pitcher Diego Segui, shortstop Campy Campaneris and outfielder Reggie Jackson.

Jackson said Thursday "I don't anticipate any problems" about signing a contract.

The outfield sensation of 1969, who flopped in 1970, said that manager Dick Williams had told him he would play regularly in 1971.

Jackson, who hit 20 homers in 60 Puerto Rican winter league games, said he felt he was ready to return to his 1969 form.

"I feel I got rid of my bad habits," he said, "but we'll find out when the regular season starts. I'm very anxious to get going."

Jackson praised Baltimore outfielder Frank Robinson, who managed Jackson's team in the winter league.

"He told me I'd hit bottom and there was only one way to go—up. After that, every time I got down, I talked to him and he brought me out of it.

"I have more respect for him as a person than anyone I've ever known. I never saw him make any mistake handling people. He's a man's man."

UOP Quint Appears To Be WCAC King

University of Pacific still looks like the king of the West Coast Athletic Conference, but Loyola and Santa Clara refuse to give up.

The three contenders all won tough tests Thursday night to turn things from a six-team race to just a three-team joust.

UOP performed the near-impossible task of winning on the Nevada Las Vegas court, and the Tigers did it with ease in a 98-77 romp. John Gianelli and Bob Thomason hit 28 apiece while Booker Washington had 22 for the losers, who absorbed their first defeat at home in two seasons.

UOP is now 8-2 in the conference and its 17-5 mark is the league's classiest.

Loyola and Santa Clara are both 7-3 after their big wins.

The Lions got 30 points from big Jim Haderlein on the way to a 63-54 win at USF while Pepperdine took Santa Clara into overtime, but the Broncs still took the 82-75 verdict. Santa Clara hit 10 of 10 overtime free throws to turn the tide.

St. Mary's took Nevada Reno 93-87 in a battle of cellar-dwellers.

Oregon calls on Southern California and Oregon State goes at UCLA in Pacific Eight action tonight. The Oregon teams came close, but could not defeat the powerhouses from Southern California at home last weekend, so they don't figure to do it on the road this weekend.

In other Thursday action, Weber State rolled on toward the Big Sky title with a 65-41 win at Idaho, which tried to stall and flopped.

LAST SECOND SHOT WINS FOR WEST

Art Wilmore, former USF star, made a circus shot from halfcourt with one second left to play last night to give the West a 99-98 victory over the East in an All-Army intersquad basketball game at San Rafael Military Academy.

The victory gave the West a 2-1 win in the three-game series played this month in Marin County by the service team, which embarks next week for Phoenix, Ariz., and the start of a nationwide tour. The series' purpose was to help coach Hal Fischer decide who will make the Army's 1971 AAU team, which begins competition next month.

Dickson Joins Oilers' Staff

HOUSTON (UPI) — George Dickson, a paratrooper during World War II and a member of Vince Lombardi's coaching staff at Washington, was named today as an assistant coach of the Houston Oilers.

Dickson, 47, a former quarterback and halfback at Notre Dame, will be inicharge of special teams and will assist in coaching linebackers. His appointment brings to five the number of assistants on coach Ed Hughes' new staff and leaves only one spot open.

JOE DECKER SIGNS CUBS CONTRACT

Former Petaluma High School pitching star Joe Decker of San Rafael has signed his 1971 contract with the Chicago Cubs.

Decker was one of three more pitchers signed by manager Leo Durocher last week, bringing the total number of Chicago players under contract to 33. Jim Colborn, 24, of Santa Paula, Calif., and Larry Gura, 23, of Joliet, Ill., were the other pitchers signed.

Decker, a 23-year-old righthander, was 2-7 with the National League team last year, with a 4.62 earned run average.

Only three Cubs players, pitchers Ferguson Jenkins and Ken Holtzman and outfielder Billy Williams, remain unsigned.

NBA Votes To Delay Realignment

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Basketball Association's Board of Governors decided Thursday to delay any realignment of the 17-team setup until the 1972-73 season.

In a one-day session, the board appointed a four-man committee to study the situation and report back at the league's annual meeting in June.

One division that has been spotlighted as having the bulk of the power in the NBA is the Midwest, where Milwaukee, Detroit, Chicago and Phoenix all have better than .500 records.

In another matter, the league elected to have the first place finishers in all four divisions gain the home court advantage in the best-of-seven playoffs. This year's playoffs call for thek first place team to play the second place club in the conference's other division.

In the division finals and the playoff championships, the team with the best won-lost record will get the home court advantage.

It's A Seals' Sellout In Game With Bruins

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Sals actually beat mighty Boston on the Bruins' ice last November, but it may be hard to believe after tonight's rematch at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

Boston has only lost 9 all season and the Seals have won only 16.

But one of the three Seals' road victories was a 2-1 at Boston.

Coach Fred Glover recalled that "they kept Boston off balance for 2 1-2 periods and then Smitty (goalie Gary Smith) came up strong in the final 10 minutes."

Owner Charles Finley was so happy over that one, he bought a $200 suit for each of his players.

The Seals are sure to be winners tonight in one respect. Their first unquestioned sellout of the season is a certainty. The last ticket disappeared early Thursday.

Smith may not be in the goal tonight. Glover says Chris Worthy played well in a heartbreaking 3-2 loss at Minnesota Wednesday.

Steelers Sign Arizona St. QB

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI)—Joe Spagnola, quarterback for the unbeaten Arizona State University football team, has signed a three-year contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The 190-pound Spagnola was mysteriously ignored in the draft but said he was contacted by the Steeler organization a few hours later.

Spagnola was born in Italy and did not starting playing football until junior high school at Paterson, N.J. He clicked on 144 of 265 passes for 2,146 yards and 19 touchdowns last season.

Knicks Theory Really Works

By United Press International

The New York Knicks operated on the theory that five good big men can stop one good little man and it won them a ball game.

San Diego's Calvin Murphy had been giving the Knicks fits as he rallied the Rockets in the last quarter of their National Basketball Association game Thursday night. But in the end it was Murphy, the league's smallest player at 5-foot-9, who had fits as the Knicks held on for a 116-115 victory.

The Knicks led 116-11 with two minutes left when Murphy, who finished with 28 points, hit four consecutive free throws to cut the lead to 116-115 with 26 seconds left. The Knicks froze the ball for 21 seconds until Bill Bradley was fouled with five seconds remaining.

Bradley, New York's best foul shooter, missed both shots, however, giving San Diego the ball. After a time out, New York Coach Red Holzman inserted five of his tallest players, anticpating that the ball would go to Murphy.

The former Niagara All America took the inbounds pass at midcourt but was unable to get a shot off as the clock ticked off the final five seconds.

Walt Frazier had 36 points and Dick Barnett added 27 to highlight the New York attack while Elvin Hayes led San Diego with 33.

In the only other NBA action, Los Angeles romped past Portland 136-114.

The Lakers hit 17 of their first 20 shots in the second quarter to break open a close game. Gail Goodrich, one of the deadliest of the Lakers with 12-for-18, led Los Angeles with 28 points while Happy Hairston and Keith Erickson added 22 each.

Rookie Geoff Petrie of the Blazers was high man in the game with 36 points.

Gordie Howe Scores Goal Number 850

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

It was typical Gordie Howe — taking two pucks for a friend.

The all-time National Hockey League star scored his 850th goal in combined regular season and playoff action Thursday night in a 5-3 Detroit Red Wings victory over the Minnesota North Stars.

But just before he slipped out the clubhouse door Howe filched a couple of pucks — because a friend had asked him to.

"Don't let Lefty (Wilson, the Red Wings' trainer) see me," Howe laughed in his impish manner. Later he explained: "They're for a football friend."

Buffalo tied Pittsburgh 6-6 in the only other NHL game played.

Howe's power play goal, the 783rd of his career in regular season games, put him at 20 goals for the season —a figure he has hit 22 of his 25 years in the league. It finished a rally that saw Detroit come from a 2-1 deficit to a 4-2 lead in a 4:03 span of the second period.

"I'm glad I got it because it was a game winner," the 43-year-old right wing said.

Red Berenson collected his 17th goal of the season and first as a Red Wing since coming to Detroit from St. Louis five games ago while Alex Delvecchio began the Detroit scoring in the first period with his 14th, a power play score which was only his second goal in the last 30 games.

Don Marshall's 15-foot slap shot with 9:47 left in the game, his second score and 16th of the season, capped a Buffalo comeback which erased a 4-1 lead the Penguins had built up early in the second period.

Austrian Teen-Ager Takes Early Lead In Ski Event

KINGFIELD, Maine (UPI)— Austrian teen-ager Anne Marie Proell, shooting for a unique double downhill victory in two days, grabbed the early lead today in the Tall Timber Classic downhill test of World Cup competition at Sugarloaf Mountain.

The 17-year-old resident of Kleinarl, Salzburg, already the runaway leader in the world cup series, whipped down the 6850 foot narrow gauge trail in 1:23.04. On Thursday, she won the postponed Arlberg Kandahar downhill on the same course in 1:20.27.

Miss Proell, seventh in the final World Cup standings a year ago, held a narrow edge on Jacqueline Rouvier of France who was timed in 1:23.24.

Other leaders, with less than half the 46-woman field in, included French stars Annie Famose in 1:23.44, Isabelle Mir in :23.73 and Francoise Macchi in 1:23.24

Karen Budge of Jackson Hole, Wyo. was the leading U.S. finisher among the seeded early starters in 1:24.29 Other front runners were 1970 Ladies cup winner Michele Jacot of France in 1:24.56, Marilyn Cochran of Richmond, Vt. in 1:24.61; Margarete Hafen of Germany in 1:24.76 Judy Crawford of Canada in 1:25.43 and Barbara Cochran of Richmond, Vt., in 1:25.99.

The opening event of the Tall Timber Classic was being run over a clear, fast 27-gate course with a 1,347 foot vertical drop. The course received only a light dusting of snow during the night after a predicted fall of up to four inches failed to materialize.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Spring's First Phenom

By United Press International

"That kid has major leaguer written all over him."

The speaker was Ted Williams and the subject was Bill Fahey, the first spring phenom of baseball's Grapefruit League season.

Fahey, a 20-year old catcher who signed a $40,000 bonus with the Washington Senators last February, caught Williams' eye Thursday with his slugging during practice.

"He can catch in the big leagues right now," Williams said. "But he'll need more hitting experience in the minors."

Then Williams went out on a limb. "Fahey will be the American League All Star catcher in 1975."

"Of course, I won't be here then," added Williams. "I'll be out in the Atlantic catching salmon."

Elsewhere around the Grapefruit circuit, the list of unsigned players continued to dwindle. Cleveland signed catcher Ray Fosse and pitcher Alan Foster while outfielder Ollie Brown signed with San Diego and outfielders Leron Lee and Bob Burda agreed to terms with the St. Louis Cardinals.

However, Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar, the ace left-handers of the world champion Baltimore Orioles' pitching staff, remained among the missing Thursday. McNally has placed his contract negotiations in the hands of an agency, but Cuellar is reported to be close to signing.

The Chicago Cubs also are experiencing some difficulty signing their ace pitchers. Ken Hotlzman and Ferguson Jenkins and outfielder Billy Williams remained unsigned, but backup pitchers Jim Colborn, Joe Decker and Larry Gura signed Cub pacts Thursday.

The Kansas City Royals got their first look at outfielder Joe Keough since last June 28. Keough, who was batting .322 at the time, fractured his right leg in a slide. After taking practice Keough reported that he experienced no after effects or difficulty as a result of the injury.

BOWLING TIPS

The reverse hook. . .a ball that hooks from left to right for a right-hander. . .can be an effective delivery. It comes naturally to some people, so why fight it? It is produced by a deliberate clockwise lift of the fingers at release.

Patriots In Name Change

BOSTON (UPI)—The teams in the American Football Conference's Eastern Division will look like this in the fall: Baltimore, New York, Bay State, Buffalo and Miami.

Bay State? That's the Boston Patriots' new name.

"Because the club no longer operates in Boston and is really representative of the entire area, the board of directors felt it should be named after the entire state," jclub President Billy Sullivan said Thursday in announcing the change.

"Most of us felt that Bay State Patriots had a nice ring to it and it would have more of an identification with fans throughout the state and New England than it would be just having it associated with Boston," he said.

Patriots' officials said thousands of residents of Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts had helped buy the record 33,000 season tickets already sold for games in $6.2 million Schaefer Stadium in Foxboro, next to Bay State Raceway.

The team's directors said the club made a profit of $500,000 last year, not bad for a 2-12 team. Sullivan, elected president for the 10th consecutive year, said a dividend will not be declared because there is still a deficit left over from previous years and heavy expenses are expected because of the stadium and, "signing of new talent."

A hefty chunk of that $500,000 is expected to go to Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett of Stanford, the team's No. 1 draft pick, who is expected to ask for a sizeable contract.

Turnover Prone Warriors Host San Diego

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco Warriors have turned the ball over 88 times in losing their last four games.

They hope to settle down tonight when they host San Diego at the Cow Palace.

The Warriors started their woeful week when they lost to the same San Diego club 119-111. That game produced 21 Warriors turnovers and a 26-point burst by tiny Calvin Murphy.

Prior to that disaster, the Warriors beat San Diego four times in a row.

The Warriors still have a hefty lead over Seattle and San Diego in the battle for the second Pacific Division playoff spot. But if they continue to produce turnovers by the dozen, they might wind up by turning over second place to someone else.

Academies Charged With Wrong Doings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — West Point and Annapolis, military academies renowned for their honor systems, are illegally recruiting athletes, a U.S. Congressman charged yesterday.

According to Rep. Otis Pike (Dem.-N.Y.) more than 50 per cent of the members of the football squad at one service academy are not constituents of the Congressman who nominated them.

Such a practice is in violation of a Federal law which states that "each candidate (for enrollment) must be domiciled in the State or territory or in the congressional district from which he is nominated."

Nevertheless, Army and Navy spokesman denied that the law had not been violated.

"I can assure you there's nothing wrong with establishing a residence in another district," said Navy Captain William S. Busik, a Pentagon public affairs officer who from 1962 to 1965 was the Athletic Director of the Naval Academy.

Louisville Coach Remains Sidelined

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)— John Dromo, stricken with a heart attack on Jan. 2, said Thursday he would remain away from his job as head basektball coach at the University of Louisville for the balance of the season.

Dromo, restricted to three or four hours of office work a day, plans to resume active coaching next season.

FISH AND GAME

The Sad Disappearance Of A Popular Fishery

By AL GIBBINGS

I passed by the tidewaters of Papermill Creek (known as the White House Pool area) near Pt. Reyes Station Tuesday and there wasn't a steelhead fisherman in sight!

The good old days of this area being a top steelhead and silver salmon fishing hot spot seem to be gone. It's a shame!

I remember the years not long ago when all of the good fishermen averaged close to 30 salmon or steelhead each season. The waters were quick to clear after a rain, access was good, and all of us lived close by, considering it takes only 30 to 40 minutes to get there even from San Rafael.

It was a place where one could use bait, lures or wet flies. You were a cinch to see a fish roll or jump, or, better still, a fish hooked by someone nearby. The building of the two dams, Nicasio and Kent, had caused the loss of much of the spawning beds above the dams. There are still runs of both salmon and steelhead, but the runs are now small ones. Fishing may be "hot" for a week or so while the small run goes through, but it's over just too quickly!

It will take plants of both silvers and steelhead even though it might be on a "put and take" basis to bring back these runs in the quantities needed to keep fishing good throughout the season. By "put and take", I mean plants of year-old fish ready for sea, these to be taken the following year as grilse, or two years later as mature fish.

It is somewhat estimated by fingerling counts of Papermill and its tributaries that the summer flows now support approximately 150,000 fingerlings. Five percent of these, or only 7,500, reach yearling size and go to sea! Perhaps 3 pct. return which might be 250 fish. This then is approximately our run of today! A plant of 30,000 yearling then should give a return of 900 adults! This might cost about $7,000. Money is the crux of the fishery! What shall we do? Let's hope the new hatcheries planned help do the job!

In looking for steelhead this past week, I tried Tomales Bay off Inverness with Marty Medin. He used flies, I used a daredevil lure. We figured some fish to be in the bay because of this dry month. Without enough water in Papermill Creek from the rains, the steelhead standby in the bay for the rains to freshen the streams. Don Zumino and a friend were also there trolling by rowing (a motor in the shallow water simply scares the fish too much). Marty hooked two steelheads and one large striper, but lost all three! He caught about ten perch; I also caught about ten. I caught one fifteen inch bass which I released. Zumino lost two steelheads — one was a monster, and he, too, had to settle for about ten perch, mostly all silver perch. We caught an occasional red-tail, and a few of the large, 3 pound pogies. Don's friend hooked and landed a twelve-pound striper trolling a wet fly.

Anyway, we all had lots of action. You can get a boat at the Golden Hinde Boatel at Inverness, with or without a motor, or bring your own as they also have a launching ramp there. It's possible to row to the fishing areas as they are close by. It should stay good at least through March, though a rain will move the steelheads up Papermill.

THE OCEAN salmon fishery out of Sausalito has gotten off to a fine start. If the weather holds it's worth going!

STRIPED BASS fishing is due right now to pick up in San Pablo Bay. It has been slow. Jeff Gaberall and Leo Lowery of Tamalpais Valley this past week landed a 100 pound sturgeon with Jeff doing the hooking and Leo the gaffing. It took 55 minutes to subdue the critter. It was taken on a bullhead near the Richmond Bridge.

THIS WEEKEND there are some good minus tides in the afternoons. Cockles in Tomales Bay are prime, and a family outing at Dillon's Beach for gaper clams, along with an occasional Washington clam or even a giant geoduck clam, may be just your bag. This is the time of year when shellfish are all safe for eating!

CASE OF THE FIRED COACH

Allen's Jury Still Out

By JIM MURRAY

I guess I'm old-fashioned, but I keep wishing the bill of particulars against George Allen included something like throwing games, stealing towels, betting on the other team, bribing enemy tackles or buying off the waterboy.

Couldn't they at least catch him selling secrets to Russia, eating with a knife, teaching kids to smoke or drawing moustaches on statues?

Shucks, couldn't they at least catch him LOSING?!

I don't always stick up for the owner in management disputes but I did stick up for Dan Reeves the FIRST time he fired George Allen. After all, Dan had put up $7 million for the Rams, a team he already owned but had to buy back from guys he gave two-thirds of the club to for $1, and a promise to share in losses.

There were only two years of losses after that or a little more than $400,000, which meant that Dan gave away 66 percent of a $7 million ball club for $266,000.

Dan resolved never to give up his ball club so cheaply again without a fight, and when he thought George Allen was trying to take the team away from him without even putting up the $1, in fact, while being PAID by the Rams, I thought Dan was entitled to fire, sue or otherwide publicly chastise his employe.

But, when Dan took him back, I thought, "Well, thank heavens, we're out of THAT!" and he could get on with the Super Bowl or whatever.

But then, dark hints kept popping up. I began to suspect George Allen of starting the Johnstown flood, or of keeping secret the whereabouts of Judge Crater, or perhaps he held up armored cars in his offhours or kidnapped heiresses for ransom.

It puzzled me, because, while I wouldn't want to be on a desert island with him as I can get my fill of "Xs" and "Os" and football film run backward pretty quickly, I always found George to be a kind of over intense, tortured individual (on TV, he always looked as if he was being interrogated under spotlights, "All right, George, tell us what you did with the body") but, as near as I could tell, his main fault was, he was abstemious.

Now, Lord knows, this is serious enough, and we all called George "The Green Arrow." A few of us felt we should get him an ax and let him bus up saloons once because he tried to get a radioman fired because he caught him having a beer for breakfast or some such misdemeanor — which is pretty high-handed behavior for a football coach, in fact, even for a bishop.

But, none of us could say George Allen's puritanism was hypocrisy. Novody ever caught him Dick Smith-ing it (Dick Smith was a guy who used to sneak drinks in the pantry whenever the vicar called) and George's idea of a dirty movie was a game played in the mud.

Still, I thought, when all the figures are in, and the white paper issued, we would find that George did it, whatever it was. His fingerprints would be on the safe, the bullet would be traced to his gun, the canary feathers would be hanging out of his mouth sort of thing.

You can imagine the let-down when my colleague, Mal Florence, finally got the deposition from Dan Reeves.

Why, I could think of a dozen better reasons for firing George Allen than the ones given. His haircut, for example. The fact he likes pistachio ice cream. As an indictment, it makes Jim Garrison look like he had an airtight case.

No, as an old hanging judge by nature, I'm disappointed. Dan should just have kept a knowing smile. Or, at least, refuse to testify — on the grounds of what he might say would tend to incriminate no one.

Cal Meets Proved Tough On Russians

By CONNIE RYAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nine Russian track athletes, who took four firsts, four seconds and two thirds in their first two indoor meets in the U.S. last week, said Thursday they will do better Friday night in the U.S. Olympic Invitational at Madison Square Garden.

"Those meets in California were very difficult for us, because we had to start competition very soon after a 24-hour flight to America," said coach Yuri Kolesov, Russia's national decathlon coach who is in charge of the seven men and two women from the USSR who are competing in a series of U.S. indoor meets.

"I think we will do better in New York, because we have had time to prepare a bit."

The Russian team includes world and Olympic triple-jump champion Viktor Saneyev, high-jumper Kestutis Sapka, 800-meter man Yevgeny Arzhanov, sprinter Aleksandr Kornelyuk, 1500-meter runner Mikhail Zhelobovsky, distanceman Rashid Sharedtinov and the two tall, slim girls, Ludmila Bragina and Hazezhda Kolesnokova, both of whom will run in the 800 meters.

The ninth athlete is Vladimir Skibyenko, who won't see action tonight because the longjump has been relegated to Columbia University Saturday morning, although it is part of the track meet, which is sponsored by the U.S. Olympic Committee.

"The weather here is better for us, too," said Zhelobovsky, who will run against Marty Liquori and Keith Colburn in the featured 1500 meters. "It is just right."

It was sunny and the temperature was in the high 40's.

"I'll try for 56 feet in the triple jump," said Saneyev. "I want to be the first to do that distance indoors."

The triple jump is not a regular events in U.S. track meets, and Saneyev admitted it was only a little better at home.

"It isn't the most popular event," he said. "They know me in my home town, but that's about all." He has lost only two competitions in the past three years, and is clearly No. 1 in the world in his specialty.

Sapka, who will draw much attention because he uses the backward-jumping style made famous by Dick Fosbury in the 1968 Olympics (the "Fosbury Flop"), said the style has made him a world-class jumper.

Lassiter Is Leader In Straight Pool

Early Polls Favor Dodgers For Pennant

Consensus pick to win the 1971 National league baseball pennant probably will be the Dodgers. Informal polls of the nation's baseball writers already have indicated this. And spring training hasn't started yet.

CINCINNATI'S "Big Red Machine" is running behind the Dodgers in virtually all of the early sample ballots except, of course, in the home precinct of the Reds who were powered to the 1970 pennant by the home run punch of Johnny Bench, Tony Perez and Lee May, plus consistent .300 hitting by Pete Rose and Bobby Tolan.

The fact that Tolan, who led the National League in stolen bases (57) last season, ripped a right ankle tendon Jan. 6 during a Reds' basketball game in Frankfort, Ky., has influenced the early opinion polls. Tolan will not be streaking along the basepaths until June 1 at the earliest.

THE FACT that the Dodgers during the winter picked up a couple of potent home run bats also has had its influence on the balloting. The Dodgers expect big things this year from Rich Allen and Duke Sims. Together they hit 57 homers last year, Allen 34 for St. Louis, Sims 23 for Cleveland. The team total of homers for the Dodgers last season was 87.

Although the Dodgers finished last in 1970 major league home run production, they were first in hits (1515). Yes, they actually finished with 17 more than Cincinnati's total — and in one less game. But Cincinnati won the team batting championship of the National League by .0001 percentage point over the Dodgers, .2703 to .2702. The Reds' league leading team total of 191 homers, however, was more than double the Dodger total.

NOT SINCE 1962 have the Dodgers had a home run hitter to belt more than 30 in a season. Frank Howard hit 31 in 1962. It has been 14 years since the Dodgers had a player to surpass 34 homers, Allen's total last year for the Cardinals. Duke Snider hit 40 in 1957 while the Dodgers still were in Brooklyn.

"We think we have solved our home run problems with the acquisition of Allen and Sims," said Al Campanis, Dodger vice president.

THE DODGERS never have had speed handicaps to go with their hits. Their team total of 138 stolen bases last year led the majors. Wes Parker's 47 doubles led the National League. Willie Davis' 16 triples were tops, too.

The Dodger pitching staff, despite loss of its ace Bill Singer for more than half of the season, compiled 17 shutouts, also a 1970 National League high. Don Sutton led the staff with four shutouts.

CLAUDE OSTEEN won 16 games last season, Sutton 15. Singer, a 20-game winner in 1969, won only eight last year because of a long bout with hepatitis early in the season and a fractured right index finger in August. Still, Singer managed a no-hitter against the Phillies in July.

Singer, Osteen and Sutton give the Dodgers three solid starters this year with a couple of promising young pitchers coming on. Sandy Vance was 7-7 last year and Mike Strahler, called up from Spokane late in the season, was 1-1 in six games with a smart 1.48 ERA.

Quarter-Final Showdowns In Men's Indoor Tennis

SALISBURY, Md. (UPI) — Rumanian Champion Ilie Nastase and Clark Graebner of the United States will be grying tonight to set up a semi-finals showdown match for the second weekend in a row, as the $50,000 U.S. Men's Indoor Open Tennis Tournament completes its quarter finals.

Last Saturday, Graebner, who has never lost to Nastase in five matches, edged the defending champion of the Salisbury tourney in the clean air open in New York.

In tonight's play, Nastase goes against Tom Gorman of Seattle, the third seeded American, and Graebner faces Jaime Fillol of Chile.

One of Saturday's semi-final pairings was set last night. The top seeded American, Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Texas, polished off Thomas Koch of Brazil, the fourth foreign seed, 6-2, 6-2, to gain a semi-final spot. Big Vladimir Zednik, an auto-mechanic from Czechoslovakia, won the other berth with a 7-6, 6-2 win over Peter Curtis of England.

Second Mile Of Ryun's Comeback

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—It's hard to know whether the mile or the two-mile will cause more excitement in tonight's San Diego games.

The mile will feature world record holder Jim Ryun in his second comeback race. The lean Kansan returned to the boards in San Francisco last month and breezed to a 4:04.4 victory.

But the two mile field is led by Kerry Pearce of Australia, who set the world indoor two-mile mark of 8:27.2 in 1968, and George Young, who tied it here in 1969.

Other top competition should come in the 1,000 meter race, where Olympic gold medalist Ralph Doubell of Australia and U.S. record holder Juris Luzins match strides, and the shot put, where indoor record holder Al Feuerbach and outdoor holder Randy Matson will continue their rivalry.
